George Wood on Monday traded his old mule and dilapidated delivery wagon to a couple of negroes for a large collection of old and valuable coins. When questioned as to where they obtained the coins the negroes told the following story: "While out hunting last Sunday afternoon at Split Rock, Ky., their dogs chased a 'possum into a hole that led in the side of a small hill. They were determined to make a meal of the animal, and while one stood guard the other went home and soon returned with a pick and shovel. After several hours digging they put a charge of powder into the hole and ignited it. The explosion caused a portion of the bank to give way and exposed a tomb in which were the skeletons of two Indians. These soon crumbled to dust. By the side of them were the coins, together with a large number of flints, stone cooking utensils, arrow heads and large pieces of brass, which they carried home with them. After Mr. Wood had convinced himself as to the truth of their story, and as they had offered all of their money for the mule and wagon, the deal was soon made."

Pith of the Press.

If words were blows what a warrior Weyler would be.—Pittsburg News.

Mr. Roosevelt is all right, but his chin seems to be showing signs of overwork.—Pittsburg News.

The new convivial invitation in St. Louis is: "Let us go in and hold up our hands."—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

'Tis said that John Sherman actually splits his coat tails and backs up to the stove whenever he thinks of Mark Hanna's predicament.

We have a pleasing suspicion that Mary Ellen Lease may have joined the David B. Hill party and indorse the keep still platform.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Senator Chandler insists that Cuba shall be free if it calls for a fight. The New Hampshire statesman maintains his very emotions on a war footing.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

So far Mr. Dingley has generously refrained from pointing to the increased receipts of the train robbers as evidence of wisdom in the formation of the present tariff law. —N. Y. Journal.

Senator Teller, too, remarks that there will be no reform of the currency at the coming session of Congress. Probably it would save trouble to make this conclusion unanimous.—Boston Herald.

Secretary Gage seems to be trying to argue himself out of a job. If the plan to turn the money management over to the banks prevails, the Secretary of the Treasury will be a minor officer.—Enquirer.

David B. Hill could appropriately reply to the suggestions of his political demise in the works of Mark Twain in answer to a cable dispatch: Report of my death greatly exagerated."—N. Y. World.

This proposition to have a statue of President McKinley in pure gold at the Paris Exposition won't do. The St. Louis platform stands in the way. The statue must contain at least 50 per cent of silver.—Chicago Chronicle.

What a strange thing it would be were the Republicans of Ohio to consider the question of returning John Sherman to the United States Senate. Yet stranger things than this have happened in the game of politics.—Buffalo Times.

Mr. Croker's repudiation of Mr. David B. Hill's leadership is the penalty which the ex-Senator pays for his moral cowardice and pettifogging politics in the last national campaign. Mr. Hill had an opportunity at that time such as will probably never come to him again to show that he was a real leader of men, and he blindly threw it away. —N. Y. Commercial Advertiser,

[Enquirer]

A convivial coterie of gentlemen gathered Thanksgiving night at the Burlington Hotel, on East Third street, in response to invitations from the genial manager of that hostelry, Mr. Henley Smith, to participate in a pleasant testimonial stag dinner tendered to Major Phil Kussel. The party met in the hotel parlors, and, after exchanging greetings, adjourned to the dining hall, where an elegant spread awaited the pleasure of the guests. Just as the party was seated the Chamber of Commerce Band marched into the hotel and honored Mr. Kussel with a splendid serenade. A run of speeches, story telling and anecdotes enlivened the affair. After the dinner the party repaired to the parlors to enjoy a delightful musical programme prepared for the occasion.

MR. WHITNEY, of New York, has been inhaling pure, Kentucky air, the past week. His coming to Kentucky on a pleasure trip is a testimonial of his good judgment when on the hunt of pleasure. When an attempt was made to interview him on the political questions of the day, he refused to talk, declaring he had retired from active politics.

THE gold seekers who have congregated at Dawson City, Alaska, are getting short on provisions, and a famine threatens them. Many will return to the States as soon as they can, none the richer but a greatdeal wiser because of their trip.

Gov Buckner is out in a card advocating the continuance of the organization of the National Democratic party in Kentucky, and the question arises, where is the party?

FROM GALLATIN COUNTY.

Independent

Warsaw has the proud distinction of having a boat named after her. The new gasoline boat, built by Sol Long and George Crouch, at this place was registered at Cincinnati at the Inspector's office under the name of the City of Warsaw and came here Sunday. She has a fifteen-horse power gasoline engine and its said she can make about ten miles an hour up stream. The owners contemplate using the boat here-abouts, towing barges, etc.

Two of the good citizens of Napoleon neighborhood met with painful accidents during the past month. Last Friday, a mule kicked Elijah Hogan, jr., on the leg as he was riding on a horse, breaking the bones [illegible] repart of the leg. Recently, John Violett while riding [illegible] by the [illegible] in apoc- [illegible] ures optim- [illegible] ought to be [illegible] old all minis- [illegible] itors have [illegible] their liver [illegible] trouble [illegible] the an [illegible] Reven- [illegible] distributo[illegible] ge of the office at Coving[illegible],000 amon[illegible] government authorities to[illegible] as an occasion to most highly compliment Hon. E. E. Abbett, the Chief Deputy under the retiring Collector Alex Davezac, but who really was the Collector in the management of the office. The Government Agents said it was the best kept office in the United States, and that is saying a great deal. It is generally understood that Mr. Abbett will be continued as the Chief Deputy under the new Collector, though Mr. Abbett is a Democrat, and the administration is now Republican, but it is merely a recognition of merit and high gentlemanly qualifications, such as few men possess. Mr. Abbett is as greatly admired in his adopted home, Covington, as here at the home of his boyhood days. George Lieberth, whom it was generally reported was to be Chief Deputy under Collector Comingore, will retain his present place of Division Deputy.

FROM CARROLL COUNTY.

[News]

Mr. J. W. Kennedy, of Boone county, was the guest of his daughter, Mrs. O. M. Huey, Sunday and Monday.

R. H. Hicks, who livcs on the Blackwell farm, near English, has one of the finest crops of tobacco in the county, and he says it has to bring up in the "teens."

Jesse Hall, little grandson of Wes Day, fell from a tree last Sunday, a distance of about 20 feet to the ground, breaking his left arm below the elbow and otherwise bruising him considerably.

Thos. Whitehead, one of the nicest and most popular young men of the Ghent precinct, died last Saturday evening after a short illness of typhoid fever, aged 28 years, and after services by Rev. O. M. Huey Monday at ten o'clock his remains were interred in the cemetery at that place.

A suit was brought in the circuit court last week by J. J. Pyles, administrator of D. R. Southard, to recover $10,000 from the L. & N. R. R. for an accident to the deceased, which his attorneys set forth in their pleadings, caused his death.

[Democrat.]

Wheat is looking real well for late sowing.

Tobacco is going to put more money into the country than for a long time before.

We are sorry to chronicle the death of Thomas Whitehead, son of Joseph and Mary J. Whitehead, deceased.

Perry Gaines, wife and little son, Logan, went to Boone county Thursday.

Mr. Barker says that while the tobacco crop is short it is a good and useful article. He thinks that when his buyers report this week it will show that he has purchased 400,000 pounds.

Mrs. Mollie Haines' large stock barn was burned to the ground last Saturday afternoon. Charley Cox, who lives on the place, was, with his family, away from home, but the neighbors, seeing the light hastened to the scene and got out the live stock and some few things. Much was destroyed, hay, wheat harness, saddles, 50 bushels of coal, etc., on which was no insurance. The structure was also uninsured. It was probably set on fire accidentally by some passing tramp.

THOSE who want to be on the salary list during the session of the next legislature, are letting no grass grow under their brogans.

COUNTY DIRECTORY.

County Judge—Benjamin Stephens.
County Clerk—B. W. Adams.
County Attorney—J. M. Lassing.
Sheriff—C. C. Roberts.
Jailer—C. L. Crisler.
Assessor—R. A. Brady.
Coroner—A. A. Murat.
Superintendent Schools—L. H. Voshell.
Surveyor—W. E. Vest.

Fiscal Court meets Tuesday after first Monday in January, April, July and October.

RAILROAD COMMISSION:

John C. Wood, Chairman; I. F. Dempsey, H. S. Irwin. Secretary—Samuel Brown.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Judge—John W. Green.
Clerk—J. W. Duncan.
Commonwealth's Attorney—M. D. Gray.
Master Commissioner—J. H. Berkshire.

JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.

Courts are held in the months of March, June, September and December, as follows:

District No 1.—O. W. Gaines, fourth Saturday; J. B. Crigler, Constable.

District No. 2.—M. B. Green, first Saturday; Jake Cook, Constable.

District No. 3.—R. L. Roberts, wednesday after third Monday; T. M. Rich, Constable.

District No. 4.—H. Bannister, Thursday after second Monday; Add Riddell, Constable.

District No. 5.—T. E. Roberts, fourth Monday; J. H. watson, Constable.

District No. 6.—Joseph Wagstaff, third Saturday; Simeon Tanner, Constable.

STATE DIRECTORY.

Governor—W. O. Bradley.
Lieutenant Governor—W. J. Worthington.
Secretary of State—Charles Finley.
Assistant Secretary of State—E. D. Guffy.
Attorney General—W. S. Taylor.
Auditor—Samuel H. Stone.
Assistant Auditor—Frank Johnson.
Treasurer—George W. Long.
Sup't of Public Instruction—Geo. M. Davidson.
Register Land Office—Charles O. Reynolds.
Deputies—Stanley D. Brown, Sam S. Shepherd.
Insurance Commissioner—D. M. Comingore.
Adjutant General—D. R. Collier.
Assistant—Walter Forrester.
Supt. Arsenal—Capt. David O'Connell.
State Inspector—C. W. Lester.
Commissioner Agriculture—Lucas Moore.

COURT OF APPEALS.

Chief Justice—Joseph Lewis. Judges—Geo. Du-relle, J. R. Grace, T. H. Paynter, B. L. D. Guffy, J. H. Hazelrigg, J. H. Lewis.
Reporter—E. W. Hines. Clerk—A. Addams.
Sergeant—W. S. B. Hill. Tipstaff—C. C. Turner.
Librarian—Mrs. Mary Brown Day.
Inspector of Mines—C. J. Norwood.

STATE PRISON OFFICIALS:

Frankfort Prison—Warden, Henry George; Deputy Warden, M. A. Rooney.
Eddyville Prison—Warden, L. C. Curry; Deputy Warden, Ward Linn.

JOHN C. TANNER
SPECIAL AGENT,
ERLANGER, - - KY.
Representing Reliable Companies Manufacturing
Musical Instruments, Sewing Machines, Bicycles, Buggies, Farming Implements
—ALSO—
Coal and Lumber, Granite & Marble Work, Life & Fire Insurance.
☞Prompt Attention and Satisfaction Guaranteed.
Aug 25 3m.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
— DRUGGIST, —
Rising Sun, - Indiana.
Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the ✣Corner Drug Store.✣

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF BOONE COUNTY,
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.
E. H. BLANKENBECKER, - President, Florence, Ky.
D. E. LAWELL, - Vice-President.
OSCAR GAINES, Secretary, Burlington.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
EXECUTIVE BOARD—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
J. E. SMITH, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky.
W. M. ROGERS, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

FOR SALE--This Fall.
—OF—
STRAWBERRY PLANTS.
Bubach No. 5. P. Greenville P.
Parker Earl, Haverlan,
And other Varieties.
LIGHT BRAHMA FOWLS.
Blackberry & Raspberry Sprouts.
For further information write to
WM. C. ROUSE, Limaburg, Ky.

D. E. CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone Kenton, Grant and Gallatin. Collections pushed energetically.

G. G. HUGHES,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to me.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY,
Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given t Collections entrusted to him. mch22-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by mail promptly attended to.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL
LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Prompt Attention Given to Collections

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections. Office—In residence near post-office.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,
DENTIST,
Will be in Lawrenceburg, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.
At Aurora, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Practiced for 30 years.
No Poisonous Gasses Used.

S. W. ADAMS,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
ERLANGER, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the courts of Boone and Kenton counties. Collections and general law practice.

W. E. VEST. B. L. RICE.
VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.
Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged, Money to Loan on Real Estate, Notes bought, sold & Negotiated.
☞All communications addressed to W. E. VEST, Burlington, Ky.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1886.)
CAPITAL, ... $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 19,000
—)o(—
Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK.
(INCORPORATED 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY
CAPITAL PAID IN..... $50,000
SURPLUS,..... $ 3,000
Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

Dr. J. L. Adams,
DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.
All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession.
Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

W. N. HIND & CO.,
—DEALERS IN—
Furniture, Carpets, Stoves,
And all Kinds of
Household Goods,
243 W. Fifth St. 1 Doors W. of Elm, Cincinnati, O.
Telephone No. 1284.

JOHN L. VEST,
SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of work south of Burlington, Ky. Prompt attention given to all mail orders.

THE RECORDER

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : : KY

While the yellow fever epidemic might have been far more deadly, the prostration of business in some points of the south was almost complete.

An expert says that getting shot does not hurt any more than having a tooth pulled. The dissemination of this knowledge will not lessen the rush to get out of the way when bullets are flying around.

How necessary it is that the quarantine against the West Indian islands be strictly enforced is demonstrated by the news that yellow fever is raging with unparalleled violence in Jamaica.

Colorado's gold production has increased from $8,000,000 in 1893 to $22,000,000 in 1897, putting it ahead of California in gold mining. Colorado has also mined this year nearly $20,000,000 in silver, lead, copper and iron.

Senator Morgan, recently returned from Hawaii, says the 31,000 natives will make good citizens, and that few are opposed to annexation. He thinks the island, which we can have for the acceptance, would be cheap at $100,000,000.

A recently patented nickel-in-the-slot machine polishes shoes, perfumes the clothing, opens a mirror and gives the user a stick of gum in one operation. If the machine would only chew the gum as well it would be a great relief to the public at large.

Bismarck is breaking physically, and Gladstone is far from well. Great men are not exempt from the ordinary ills of humanity, and in octogenarians the springs of corporeity have necessarily become corroded by rust. Perpetual motion is an unrealizable dream.

A mob of white men in North Dakota recently lynched two Indians and a half-breed who were charged with murder, and now it has been discovered that the half-breed was innocent of any participation in the crime. Great is the civilization of the white man! Is it not strange that the Indian does not embrace it more readily?

The Canadian government is considering the question of making the starting of forest fires a criminal offense and providing a heavy penalty for violators of the law. Canadians are as much interested in forest protection as Americans, but the same laxity and carelessness have been displayed in the dominion as upon this side of the border.

An American consul in Argentine makes the prediction that the production of wool in that country has reached the maximum and that American wool growers have no reason to fear increasing competition. At the same time comes the report from Australia that the demand for American sheep in Australia for breeding purposes is constantly and rapidly growing.

The custom that has become so popular among bandits in Chicago of holding up men in saloons is evidence that they have been impressed by this progressive and labor-saving age. It is much easier and more satisfactory in every way to hold up six or seven men in a saloon than it is to take the same number one at a time on the street. And, besides, they are likely to have more money in the saloon than they will have when they come out of it.

The beet sugar factories in southern California have this year produced 30,000,000 pounds of sugar, and there is every prospect of this output being doubled next year. Such figures ought to remove all doubts as to the possibilities of the beet sugar industry in this country. With that industry once placed upon its feet, the United States should produce all the sugar needed for its own consumption, instead of continuing to import the great bulk of it.

Miss Grace G. Niles, of the Orange (N. J.) training school for nurses, claims that she has been refused a diploma because she writes poetry. If it is only because she writes it we are prepared to sympathize with her, but before wasting any tears we would like to have some assurance that she doesn't read it aloud. It is difficult to imagine anything more fiendish or horrible than a poetess in the guise of a nurse trying her influence on a helpless invalid.

The Belgian government, observing that advertisements are being placed on rocks and other public places, has notified the municipalities that "the nuisance must stop." Belgium is a thrifty land. More thrifty still is Switzerland. Yet when the St. Gothard rocks were covered with advertisements the government ordered them cleared off, saying: "We would as soon have them on the white cross of our flag." But here, in the United States—just look at some of the rocks up the Hudson river!

A test of an electric locomotive was made in France the other day and it proved so successful that it will probably be adopted as the standard type, replacing the steam locomotive. The world has to thank Yankee ingenuity for bringing electric motive power to such a high degree of perfection. Europeans were the first to experiment with the power for traction purposes, but it remained for Americans to make it thoroughly practical. That the French have now come to realize its advantages and merits is really a great victory for the American investigators and inventors.

SCHOOL TEACHER,

In a Letter to a Legal Firm in Meridian, Says He Murdered

Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams—The Letter Was Written a Few Hours Before His Suicide and Placed in the Pocket of a Fellow Prisoner.

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 24.—A special to the Post from Morgan, Tex., says: In March last in the columns of the Post was noted the death of Joseph E. Blanther alias Forbes, who suicided in the Meridian jail in this county on March 2. Though escaping the keen vigilance of the most famous detectives of the country, Bosque county was the scene of the ending of his eventful career. But developments of the past few days bring to light even a more startling crime, of which he is self-confessed, than was the murder of Mrs. Langfeldt, for which he was hunted.

While Blanther was incarcerated in the Meridian jail there was also a fellow prisoner named Pitts who was arrested on some minor charge and occupied the cell adjoining that of Blanther. Pitts is a farmer, who now lives near Iredell, in this county and is known to have conversed with Blanther during his two or three days confinement. In a letter to Word, Dillar & Word, attorneys of Meridian under date of November 23, Mr. Pitts encloses a letter from Blanther and says:

"I have been looking through some paper that I had on file in jail at Meridian and I find the enclosed sheet which speaks for itself. The papers alluded to here worked through a hole in my pocket, hence the delay in not discovering them sooner. I well remember that Forbes or Blanther asked me the evening he took the poison at night which coat was mine of several that were hanging in the cell he occupied. I never thought further of the question he asked until I found the letter he wrote. I send it to you for the reason you best know who to notify in California. I hope that may be worth something to you in the way of saving Durrant, of California, who, I understand, is sentenced to death for killing Miss Lamont."

"Meridian Jail—To Mr. Pitts: As this is my last day on earth, I wish to say that I can not die without telling the truth. I murdered Mrs. Langfeldt, also Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams. I put this in your coat pocket and hope you will find it in time to save the life of Durrant. It may also be of service to Mr. Womack in securing his reward money. I wish you to have my watch for your kindness to me. You have my best wishes, and I hope your troubles will end, but not as mine.

"BLANTHER FORBES."

The letter written by Blanther was compared with a letter written by him to County Treasurer Randle, while he (Blanther) was teaching school at Kopperl, this county, and the identification is pronounced to be beyond doubt. Cashier Rudasill, of the First national bank of Meridian, says it compares favorably with Blanther's handwriting while others have a hesitancy in pronouncing the last written by Blanther. The original written confession is now in possession of Word, Dillar & Word, of Meridian, who will at once notify the San Francisco officials.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24.—No credence is placed by the authorities here in the alleged confession of Blanther or Forbes, made in the Meridian, Tex., jail that he murdered Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams in addition to Mrs. Langfelt. It is recalled, however, that at the time of the killing of Mrs. Langfelt, about 18 months ago, the suggestion was advanced that Blanther had murdered all three. It being claimed that there were certain points of similarity in the three murders.

J. C. DUNHAM,

The Alleged Murderer of Six Persons, and for Whom a Reward of $11,000 Is Offered, Thought to Be Under Arrest.

VAN BUREN, Ark., Nov. 24.—City Marshal Charles Wells, of Mulberry, Ark., made what is thought to be an important capture Tuesday when he captured J. C. Dunham alias James Buford, wanted in Santa Clara county, California, for the murder of Col. and Mrs. R. P. McGilney, Mrs. Hattie Dunham, Miss Minnie Schessler, J. K. Wells and R. A. Briscoe on May 26, 1896. The crime was committed for the purpose of robbery, and owing to the prominence of the families a reward of $11,000 has been offered for the arrest and conviction of Dunham and his pals. J. H. Linton, sheriff of Santa Clara county, was notified and wired instructions to Marshal Wells to hold Dunham till complete identification papers could be forwarded from California.

Gen. Weyler in Barcelona.

BARCELONA, Nov. 24.—The Spanish steamer Montserrat, with Gen. Weyler on board, arrived here Tuesday morning, and the former captain general of Cuba immediately debarked. The demonstration in his honor, which had been agitated by the friends of the general for some days past did not assume the proportions anticipated and as he traversed the streets the public appeared to be indifferent.

Murder in the Second Degree.

VINTON, Ia., Nov. 24.—The jury in the case of Frank Novak, charged with killing his roommate, Murray, and afterward setting fire to the house in which they lived, Tuesday night returned a verdict of murder in the second degree. Novak disappeared after the crime was committed and eluded capture for several years. Last summer he was traced to the Klondike gold fields, arrested and brought home.

St. Louis Distillery Warehouse Burned.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 24.—The most disastrous fire that has occurred in North St. Louis in a number of years broke out shortly before 5 o'clock Tuesday evening in the warehouse of the Ravenswood Distillery Co. The loss will amount to $100,000, with insurance of about 75 per cent. Superintendent Murphy said: "The warehouse building was built some years ago at a cost of $10,000 and was entirely filled with stock, valued at $72,000. The damage to the distillery proper I estimate at about $9,000. I think about 75 per cent. was covered with insurance."

CAME TO BLOWS.

Pitched Battle With Fists Between Members of the Reichrath on the Floor.

Showers of Billingsgate and Other Insults Were Exchanged on All Sides—House Resembled an Inferno—Spectators Cried Shame—Duels Probable.

VIENNA, Nov. 26.—The members of the lower house of the reichsrath excelled themselves in producing the most disgraceful scene yet witnessed in that branch of parliament. The turbulence resulted from a motion that only one of a number of similar petitions against the ordinance making the Czech language co-ordinate with the German in Bohemia should be read and reprinted.

The members of the Left party protested uproariously against the motion referred to, stigmatizing it as "oppressive and illegal." Finally the members of the lower house became so disorderly that the president of that body, Dr. Abrahamovich, was once more compelled to suspend the sitting, and he soon afterward left the house.

The departure of President Abrahamovich was the signal for a scene of the wildest disorder.

While this incident was in progress challenges to fight duels and showers of billingsgate and other insults were exchanged on all sides, until the interior of the house in every way resembled an inferno.

A number of young Czechs made a fine [illegible] and attempted to [illegible] from the [illegible] and they [illegible] number [illegible] scrimmage [illegible] only the [illegible] During the [illegible] of the young [illegible] and this caused [illegible] regular pitched [illegible] fisticuffs followed, lasting 15 minutes.

By this time the disorder was of such a nature that even the public in the galleries cried shame upon the fighting, swearing and insult exchanging deputies. A Polish member, Herr Pelanze, rushed upon another member, Herr Pfereche, and was nearly strangling him when Pfereche, on the impulse of the moment, drew a penknife from his pocket and opened it, but he was disarmed by a colleague before any further harm was done.

Herr Pfereche was by that time so exhausted by the choking he had received at the hands of Herr Polacz, and was so overcome with excitement that he fainted, still further adding to the sensation. At this moment President Abrahamovich returned to the house, but, after repeated and vain efforts to quell the disorder prevailing, declared the sitting of the house, in so doing he said:

"In view of the facts of violence which have occurred in the house Wednesday, I consider it my duty to close this sitting. Will those members who are willing to give me the names of the violent members please come to my office?"

Several members of the house accepted the invitation of the president, and as a result it is believed that Herren Schoenerer, Wolff and Pfereche will be arrested on the charge of fighting the public.

REBEL BULLETS

Sought the Palace in Havana—They Came From Casa Blanca Across the Entrance to the Harbor.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—On Sunday morning, for the first time in the history of the Cuban war, rebel bullets sought the palace in Havana, says a dispatch to the Herald from Havana. The shots came from Casa Blanca, 600 yards across the entrance to the harbor, and while nobody was hurt the palace, with its electric lights, was a shining mark and must have been hit. The Spanish authorities attempt to make light of the affair, but at the same time a reporter for La Lucha who wrote up and attempted to publish the facts in the case was arrested and is still incommunicado.

The attack on Casa Blanca was made by Brig. Gen. Rafael Decardenas and 50 rebels. They entered the town shortly before midnight on horseback, and at the end of four hours each man led out of town a horse with one extra he had appropriated, laden with clothing, provisions, silver plate and considerable money. Before they left they fired two volleys across the narrow harbor entrance at the palace, then coolly retired to a friend's house inside the Spanish lines and took supper, previously ordered. All this was under the guns of Cubana and Morro.

Secretary Gage on Wall Street.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Secretary of the Treasury Lyman J. Gage, who came to town Tuesday to attend the dinner of the chamber of commerce, visited Wall street Wednesday. He had a brief chat with Assistant Treasurer Conrad N. Jordan at the sub-treasury and dropped in to see several of the bank presidents. The secretary said he would eat his Thanksgiving turkey in Washington.

Unknown Negro Killed by a Mob.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 26.—An unknown Negro was killed by lynchers near Blackshear Thursday afternoon, his body being literally riddled by bullets. The Negro outraged Miss Rebie Davis, the 17-year-old daughter of Eli Davis, a farmer, seven miles north of Blackshear, while she was alone in her home.

Cricketers Roughly Handled.

BRISBANE, Queensland, Nov. 26.—On the arrival of the English cricket team here Wednesday a disorderly mob rushed to the railway carriage and insulted and roughly handled the cricketers. Mr. Stoddart's presentation watch and chain were stolen.

McKinley's Turkey.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—At the white house Thursday the president and his guests dined on a 34 pound turkey, sent as a gift from a Connecticut man who has been supplying the Thanksgiving bird for the chief magistrate ever since Cleveland's first term.

INSTRUCTIONS ISSUED

To Collectors of Customs by the Treasury Department—Naval Trial Boards' Report Upon the Trial of the Battleship Iowa.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—The secretary of the treasury has issued instructions to collectors of customs to the effect that the affidavits required under section 4 of the new tariff act in regard to the importation of teas, shall be taken only from importers or consignees, and not from agents or brokers, and further, that in case of doubt as to the genuineness of the sample or truth of the affidavit, the examiner should himself obtain proper samples of the importation to be compared with the official standards.

Assistant Secretary Vanderlip Friday signed what is known as a pay warrant, directing the treasurer of the United States to deposit in the treasury the sum of $18,194,618, representing the proceeds of the sale of the Union Pacific sinking fund bonds and the uninvested cash in that fund which have been transferred to the treasury as part payment of the settlement of the reorganization committee of the Union Pacific road. This operation is merely a book transaction in the treasury, and while it does not of itself result in formally taking up the amount as a treasury receipt, it is an important step, which leads to placing the sum in the treasury cash, where it is beyond recall and [illegible] e 4 yr be withdrawn, except in connection with [illegible] Bass' [illegible] of an appropriation made by [illegible] son's bi[illegible] ful transaction will not appear in the [illegible] 48 statement of treasury receipts [illegible] 137 accrual the close of the present [illegible] Tract [illegible]

[illegible] gar trecuey General Judson Harmon [illegible] ide of [illegible] as counsel Friday before the [illegible] mouth [illegible] of the treasury in an importa[illegible] with [illegible] Read) revenue suit involving the [illegible] classification under the tariff law of [illegible] cherries preserved in spirits. The matter [illegible] is now before the board of general appraisers and no action will be taken by the department until the board has rendered its decision.

The naval trial board has made a report upon the recent two days' trial of the big battle ship Iowa at sea that thoroughly sustains Commodore Dewey's comment that the ship was as fine a type of a ship of her class as there is in the world. The board says in part:

The vessel under all circumstances behaved well, being very steady and rolling and pitching but a few degrees. Her high free board forward adds greatly, not only to the comfort of the men, but to her sea going efficiency and the power in firing her guns under all circumstances. Altogether her sea going qualities appear to be excellent. The board was particularly impressed by the personnel of the Iowa and attributes much of the fine appearance of the ship and her crew to the excellent management of her captain, Sampson, and his staff of officers. The speed made was 13:45 knots, but this was under natural draught and with a poor quality of coal. The machinery worked well in every particular. Some fault was found with the priming of the six-pounder shells and attention is called to an unduly large port hole which might prove a danger to the ship by admitting shot and shell, but on the whole, the report is as favorable as any report on any of our ships.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—The annual report of the secretary of the treasury according to the present plans will be sent to congress either on the first or second day of the coming session. As to the secretary's plans for the reform of the currency enough has been learned to give confidence that the president is in full accord with his views and recommendations, although in his official utterances as expressed in his forthcoming message to congress he may not give a complete and specific endorsement to all the propositions covered by the secretary's report. There will however, be no difference between the president and secretary.

HORRIBLE DEATH

Of Mrs. Antonio Milagno at Erie, Pa.—Her Husband Arrested.

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 27.—The wife of Antonio Milagno died Friday a most horrible death. Thursday night Antonio became drunk and went to the cellar to get more liquor. He fell and his wife came to his assistance with a lamp, but he threw a hammer at her head and missed the mark. He then came upstairs with a can of oil and tar, which he threw in his wife's face. In an instant the mixture caught fire from the lamp and she was enveloped in flames. Help arrived in time to prevent her from burning up where she stood. The woman was laid on her bed, and when the officers arrived they found Antonio standing over his wife plucking the cooked flesh from her breast and arms in fiendish glee and cursing like a demon. When he was arrested, he raved and had to be subjected to rough treatment before he could be taken to the police station.

Steamer Gogebic Stranded.

GREEN HAVEN, Mich., Nov. 27.—Friday afternoon a yawl containing the mate and a portion of the crew of the steamer Gogebic arrived here. The men related the story of the stranding of their steamer on North Manitou island Friday night during the snow storm and the mate sent messages to vessel owners and the underwriters asking for assistance. The wrecker Favorite has been dispatched from Cheboygan, and unless fine weather sets in it is thought she will be too late to render aid.

Miners' Strike Broken.

COAL CITY, Ill., Nov. 27.—The strike in the Wilmington coal field is broken. The mines of the Star Coal Co., Big Four Coal Co. and Wilmington Coal Mining and Manufacturing Co. resumed work Friday at the 77½ cent scale. Over 5,000 miners are employed in these mines.

The Report Discredited.

PARIS, Nov. 27.—M. Leton, the minister of the colonies, has received no information of a collision between the British and French troops at Nikki, in the Niger region, and discredits the report.

NEW TRUNK LINE

Eastern Capitalists to Weld Short Lines into a Through Route

Between Chicago and New York—Another Giant Link in the Vanderbilt Trunk Line System, Having for Its Purpose an Invasion of Pennsylvania Roads.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—The Tribune Monday says: John Jacob Astor and a number of eastern capitalists arrived in Chicago Sunday afternoon from New York to take steps for welding several short lines of western roads into a new trunk line from Chicago to New York. The new route is to find its terminals over the Nickel Plate, the Illinois Central. It is but [illegible] link in the Vanderbilt trunk [illegible] tem, having for its special purpose an invasion of the Pennsylvania [illegible] in Ohio and Indiana territory and to provide more adequate terminal facilities in this city for the Nickel Plate road, as well as the practical construction of a double track for that road from Cleveland to this city.

Those in the party were Mr. Astor, A. B. Ely, George Chapman and G. F. Hawkins, of New York, and W. T. Rainey, of Philadelphia. With the exception of Mr. Hawkins, who is Mr. Astor's private secretary, they are all directors of the Findlay, Fort Wayne and Western railroad, a short line of only 80 miles, extending from Fort Wayne, Ind., to Findlay, O.

The railway men arrived in an ordinary sleeper and left at 11:30 at night for Findlay in two private cars, together with Vice President Hanrahan, of the Illinois Central, and Traffic Manager T. J. Hudson and Chief Engineer David Sloan, of the same line. In Findlay they will meet Dr. Seward Webb and James R. Roosevelt, of New York, and C. M. Bissell, of Findlay, also directors of the Findlay, Ft. Wayne & Western road, and it will be at this meeting of the directors that the line of action proposed will be decided upon.

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE

Of Mrs. Pauline Merry, of Chicago, Solved by the Confession of Thomas Hickey.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Mrs. Pauline Merry from her home at No. 50 Hope street was solved Sunday afternoon by the confession of Thomas Hickey, who was arrested on suspicion. Hickey told a revolting story of how Christopher Merry choked and beat his wife a week ago last Friday. Then finding it impossible to restore his wife to consciousness Hickey says that Merry decided to put her "out of her misery" by beating out her brains with a poker.

The horrible story told by Hickey was extorted from him after hours of questioning in the "sweat box." Late Sunday afternoon he led a party of police to an uninhabited portion of the city near Eighty-seventh street and Western avenue, where Mrs. Merry's body was found buried beneath a few inches of loose dirt by the roadside.

The disappearance of Mrs. Merry excited almost as much interest as that of Mrs. Luetgert. A week ago the police learned that she had been made away with by her husband at his cottage in Hope street. Merry was a peddler and owned several horses. When the police began their investigation a three-year-old son of Merry's told them that his father had killed his mother and had lowered her body through a trap door into the cellar. Following this clew it was found that Merry had driven away from his place Saturday morning with a covered wagon but no further trace of him has been discovered.

Thomas Hickey, an employe of the stable where Merry kept his horses, Sunday confessed that he and James Smith had been present when Merry beat and choked his wife. The three men sat up Friday night and tried to restore Mrs. Merry. On Saturday Merry, he says, decided to kill his wife, which he did with a poker. The body was carted away and Merry, although still in the city, has successfully eluded the police.

United States Embassy Attended the Funeral.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The entire staff of the United States embassy attended the funeral services Saturday over the remains of the countess of Lathom, who was killed on Tuesday last while returning from a shooting party, by being thrown out of a trap near Wigan, Lancaster. The United States officials were also present at the services over the remains of Mr. Walter Burns, late manager of the banking house of J. S. Morgan & Co., who died at his country seat near Hatfield on Tuesday.

Clubbed to Death by Policeman.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—James Kennedy, a young man, died Sunday night at a hospital from the effects of a clubbing which he had received early in the day from Policeman Henry Woodly. The latter admits the clubbing of Kennedy, but says he had been attacked by the young man and three of his friends and was forced to defend himself.

Post Office Clerks Organize.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 29.—Delegates representing the first and second-class post office clerks of the country, met in convention here Sunday and formed a permanent organization with the object in view of bettering the condition of postal employes. A bill was framed looking to this end which will be submitted to congress at the coming session.

More Pittsburgh Coal Coming.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 29.—Over 1,000,000 bushels of coal left this port Sunday for southern markets. There are in the neighborhood of 8,000,000 bushels loaded, awaiting shipment, and it is expected between five and six million bushels will get out on the present rise.

An Officer Shoots a Negro.

GREENCASTLE, Ind., Nov. 29.—Frank Taylor, colored, was shot and seriously wounded here in running from Sheriff Buntin, who had him under arrest. Taylor refused to halt and the officer brought him down with a bullet.

His Sinister Intention.

Oklahoma Landlord—If thar is a shootin' star or two along toward midnight don't git scared, Mr. Eastman. You won't be in no danger yourself.

Eastern Tourist—Certainly not! I have seen such sights before, but I was not aware that there was to be a meteoric display at this time.

"Well, I don't know for certain that thar is goin' to be any, but I've got it figgered out that them three members of a busted Uncle Tom's Cabin company that have been hoardin' on me for the last two weeks while they waited for remittances from home are goin' to try to vamose to-night an' leave me holdin' the bag, an' I am goin' to say that they hain't goin' to git away without settlin' in full, not if my old revolver works with its usual neatness an' promptness. That's the kind of a—by gosh—landlord I am!—N. Y. World.

Had Lost His Faith in Them.

A theatrical manager told a story against himself the other day. An actor came to him and applied for an engagement. There did not seem to be much need of bringing his demands in the way of salary were very modest, and the manager said to him:

"Well, you may consider yourself engaged. I fancy I can find something for you to do. Come round on Tuesday and I'll try you."

The newly-engaged man looked at the manager questioningly.

"How about a contract?" he asked.

"Oh, never mind a contract. We'll have a verbal contract."

There was a look of mild reproach in the eyes of the man, as he answered, sorrowfully:

"Sir, the last time I made a verbal contract I drew a verbal salary."—Spare Moments.

Reindeer in Alaska.

Dr. Sheldon Jackson, for 20 years a traveler in Alaska, says the government's experiment of importing reindeer from Siberia is a success, and that the problem of winter traveling in the interior is practically solved. Three hundred miles per day can be made over the snow with relays at reasonable intervals and best of all the reindeer will rustle his own food.

The best map of the Yukon-Klondike mining country has been printed in folder form by the Northern Pacific Ry. Send a 2-cent postage stamp to Chas. S. Fee, G. P. A., St. Paul, Minn. The folder is full of up-to-date information regarding rates and routes to Alaska.

Studying a Doubtful Problem.

"H," the idle wanderer heard the man say to his companion, "will run about 1,200 to the ton."

Then the idle wanderer, after the manner of his kind, speculated in his mind.

"I wonder," said he to himself, "whether he was talking about a gold mine or his winter supply of coal?"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Reputations Made in a Day

Are precious scarce. Time tries the worth of a man or medicine. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a forty-five years' growth, and like those hardy hebens that germinate the crevices of Alaska's rocks, it flourishes perennially, and its reputation has as firm a base as the rocks themselves. No medicine is more highly regarded as a remedy for fever and ague, bilious remittent, constipation, liver and kidney disorders, nervousness and rheumatism.

Usually the Way.

Kenna—I understand you've bought a dog to keep burglars away?

Henna—Yes.

"You are not troubled any more at night, then, I suppose?"

"Only by the dog."—Up-to-Date.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the city of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of One Hundred Dollars for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. A. W. GLEASON,
[Seal] Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

A Simple Programme.

The Missionary—My friend, what would you do if you expected the end of the world in ten days?

The Tramp—Wait for it.—Puck.

There Is a Class of People.

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over ¼ as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

Why?

Patron—Why do they call it impressionist art, anyway?

Artist—Oh, because the fellows who do it keep under the impression that it sells, I suppose.—Somerville Journal.

Not yourself? Use St. Jacobs Oil for Soreness and stiffness. It will cure.

No man is ever justified in borrowing money to buy a dog.—Chicago News.

Why suffer with an ache or pain
When St. Jacobs Oil will cure. Why?

Chairs are cheaper than backbones.—N. Y. Independent.

Frost-bites are like burns, and both
Are cured by St. Jacobs Oil promptly.

The young gentleman who seeks a situation isn't as likely to succeed as the young man who hustles for a job.—Chicago News.

Great Distress

A Combination of Troubles Caused Much Suffering.

BIRD ISLAND, MINN.—"I was troubled with my stomach. Nearly everything I ate would sour and I would belch it up. At times my stomach gave me great distress. My back was lame on account of kidney difficulty. I bought six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla; when I had taken four bottles I was cured." NORMAN HICKOK.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier.

Hood's Pills are the favorite cathartic. 25c.

If you ever want to sell or exchange your Organ, remember it will be twice as valuable if the name on the front is

ESTEY

Write for Illustrated Catalogue with prices, to Estey Organ Company, Brattleboro, Vt.

RELIGIOUS NEWSPAPERS.

Flying Rolls Which Carry Messages Human and Divine.

Each One Has Great Power to Do Good—Rev. Dr. T. DeWitt Talmage Discusses Journalism as Related to the Spread of the Gospel.

Sunday Dr. Talmage took the following for his text: "Then I turned, and lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and behold a flying roll."—(Zachariah v., 1.)

In a dream the prophet saw something rolled up advancing through the heavens. It contained a divine message. It moved swiftly, as on wings. It had much to do with the destiny of nations. But if you will look up you will see many flying rolls. They come with great speed and have messages for all the earth. The flying rolls of this century are the newspapers. They carry messages human and divine. They will decide the destiny of the hemispheres.

There are in the United States about 20,000 newspapers. The religious newspaper of which I am the editor was born 19 years ago, but born again seven years ago. In this brief time it has grown to about 200,000 circulation, and, by the ordinary rule of circulating the readers of a paper, it has about 1,000,000 readers. Our country was blessed with many religious journals, edited by consecrated men, while their contributors were the ablest and best of all professions and occupations. Some of those journals for half a century had been dropping their benedictions upon the nation, and they live on, and will continue to live on until there will be no more use for their mission, the world itself having become a flying roll on the tempests of the last day, going out of existence. There will be no more use for such agencies when the world ceases, because, in the spiritual state, we shall have such velocity that we can gather for ourselves all the news of Heaven, or, seeing some world in conflagration, may go ourselves in an instant to examine personally the scene of disaster.

Was there room for another religious journal in the land, already favored with the highest style of religious journalism? Oh, yes, if undenominational, plenty of room. Nothing can ever take the place of the denominational newspaper. When the millennium comes in it will find as many denominations as there are now. People, according to their temperaments, will always prefer this or that form of church government, this or that style of worship. You might as well ask us all to live in one house as to ask us all to worship in one denomination, or to abolish the regiments of an army in order to make them one great host.

Each denomination must have its own journal, set apart especially to present the charities, explain the work and forward the interests of that particular sect. The death of one denominational journal is a calamity to all other denominations. I would almost feel that a great misfortune has happened to me if the Christian Intelligencer, of the Reformed church (my mother church) did not come to my house every week, for I was brought up on it, and it has become a household necessity. Such a denominational journal had better be edited by some one who, rocked in the cradle of that church and ordained at her altars, having become venerable in her service, sits spectacled and wise, and with heart full of sacred memories, addresses the living of to-day. In the most sacred crypt of our memory stands the statue of the religious editors, Abel Stevens and Joshua Leavitt, and the royal family of the Primes—Irenæus and Eusebius—while others linger on the banks of the Jordan, where they will not have long to wait for Elijah's chariot; and when they go up, if we still be sitting at our editorial desks, we will cry out in the memorable words: "My Father! My Father! the chariot of Israel and the horsemen thereof!"

But, then, there are great movements in which all denominations wish to join, and we want more undenominational newspapers to marshal and advance and inspire such movements. Yet such journals have a difficult task, because all Christian men, if they have behaved well in their denominations, for some reason prefer the one of their natural and spiritual nativity, and even looking off upon the general field and attempting wider work, will be apt to look at things through denominational preference and to treat them with a denominational twist. In the issuing of the religious journal whose seventh anniversary I preach that difficulty has been met and overcome by the fact that its publisher is a Methodist and in its editorial rooms there are a Presbyterian, an Episcopalian, and a Congregationalist, and a line of denominational prejudice in editorial or reportorial column would run against immediate protest. Against John Wesley's Free Grace, or Calvin's Eternal Decrees, or Bishop Mellvaine's Canonicals, or Dr. Dowling's Baptistery, from year's end to year's end not a word is written or printed. On all these subjects we have convictions, but undenominational journalism is not the place to state them. He who tells all he knows and expresses all he thinks on all occasions and in all places, without reference to the proprieties, is a boor or a crank, and of no practical service either to church or state.

Undenominational journalism is absolutely necessary to demonstrate the unity of the Christian world. Wide and desperate attempt is made to show that the religion of Jesus Christ is only a battleground of sects, and the cry has been "If you want us to accept your religion, agree, gentlemen, as to what the Christian religion really is. This denomination says a few drops of water dripping from the end of the fingers is baptism, and another demands the submergence of the entire body. This one prays with book, and that one makes extemporaneous utterance. The rector of one delivers his sermon in a gown, while the backwoods preacher of another sect addresses the people in his shirt sleeves. Some of your denominations have the majestic dominant in the service, and others spontaneity.

Some of you think that from all eternity some were predestined to be saved, and that from all eternity others were doomed. Now, it is the business of Young Men's Christian associations, and tract societies, and Sundayschool unions, and pronounced undenominational journals, to show the falsity of the charge that we are fighting among ourselves, by gathering all Christian denominations on one platform or launching the united sentiment of all Christendom from one style of religious printing press.

Unity! Complete unity! Never was any other army on earth so thoroughly united under one flag, and inspired by one sentiment, and led by one commander, as is the church militant. Christ commands all the troops of all denominations of Christians, and they are going to shout together in the final victory when the whole world is redeemed.

But we have in all our denominations got tired of trying to make other people think as we do on all points. The heresy-hunters in all denominations are nearly all dead, thank God, and we are learning that what men get wrong in their faith, instead of martyrizing them by arraignment, we do better to wait for the natural roll of years to remove them. Men die, but the truth lives on. We may not all agree as to the number of teeth in the jawbone with which Samson slew the Philistines, or agree as to what was the exact color of the foxes which he set on fire to burn up the cornstocks; but on the vitals of religion we all agree.

If we could call into one great convention the 645,566 Episcopalians, the 1,430,903 Lutherans, the 1,460,346 Presbyterians, the 4,133,857 Baptists, the 5,653,289 Methodists, putting unto them the following questions, we would get unanimous answer in the affirmative: Do you believe in a God, good, holy, just, omnipotent? Do you believe in Jesus Christ as a Saviour? Do you believe in the convicting, converting and sanctifying power of the Holy Ghost? Do you believe that the Gospel is going to conquer all nations? If you should put these questions to those assembled millions on millions, while there would not be a solitary negative, there would be an aye! aye! aye! loud enough to make the foundations of the earth tremble and the arches of the heavens resound. Let there be platforms, let there be great occasions, let there be undenominational printing presses to thunder forth the unity of all Christendom. One Lord. One faith. One Baptism. One God and Father. One Jesus Christ. One cross. One Heaven.

So also there is room for a religious journal that stands for liberty as against all oppression. No authority, political or ecclesiastical, must be permitted to make us believe this or that. Liberty of the Armenian to worship God independent of the Turkish government. Liberty of Cuba as against Spanish domination. Liberty of Hawaii as against all monarchial authority which it has thrown off. Civil liberty. Polical liberty. Religious liberty.

The religious journal on whose seventh anniversary I preach has had for its owner and publisher one who, in his ancestry, experienced just the opposite. His father, an exile from his native land because of his opinions, his property confiscated, his life imperilled, landed on American soil bereft of everything that foreign oppressions could rob him of. Naturally his son knows right well how to appreciate liberty; the men of us are descended from those who imperiled all to gain their natural and religious rights. Let the type and the printing presses and the editorial chairs be overthrown which dare to surrender to any attempt again to put on the shackles. The movement has started for the demolition of all the tyrannies of church and state. Religious newspapers must stand shoulder to shoulder in this mighty march for God and the world's rescue.

Again, on this seventh anniversary, I say there is room for a religions paper charged with old-fashioned evangelism. Other styles of religious newspaper may do for advertising purposes, or for the presentation of able essays on elaborate themes, but if this world is ever brought to God it will be through unqualified, unadulterated, unmixed, unmistakable evangelism. It was astounding that the Lord Almighty should have gone into great bereavement, submitting to the loss of his only Son, that Son stepping off the doorsill of Heaven into a darkness and an abysm that no plummet has ever yet been able to fathom; and through that funeral of the Heavens life is offered to our world; but how to get the tidings to all people, and in such an attractive way that they will take hold of them is the absorbing question. The human voice can travel only a few feet away, and the world wants something further and wider-reaching, and that is the newspaper press; and as the secular press must necessarily give itself chiefly to religious affairs, let the religious newspapers give itself to the present and everlasting salvation of all who can read, or, if not able to read, have ears to hear others read. If there be an opportunity higher, deeper, grander than that offered to newspaper evangelism, name it and guide us to it, that we may see its altars, its pillars, its domes, its infinitude.

Again, on this seventh anniversary of the Christian Herald, I notice there is room for a religious paper thoroughly humanitarian. The simple fact is the majority of the human race have not enough to eat or wear. The majority of the human race are in trouble. How to multiply loaves of bread and increase the fuel and heal the wounds and shelter the homeless are questions that Christ met equally as soon as he did spiritual necessities. The first heart to respond to the cry of sufferers from drought, or flood or earthquake, or cruelty, should be the Christian heart. Therefore let the pages of religious journalism spread out the story of all such woes and collect relief and disburse alms all around our suffering world. Religious journalism ought to become the aqueduct through which the Christian charities of the world should pour until there should be no more hunger to be fed, no more ignorance to be educated and no more nakedness to be clothed, and no more suffering to assuage. In trying to do that practical thing the religious paper whose anniversary I celebrate has, during the past seven years, raised and distributed over $400,000 for the relief of physical distresses.

Again, on this seventh anniversary of a religious publication, I notice that there is an especial mission for a religious journal truthfully optimistic. The most optimistic book I know of is the Bible, and its most impressive authors were all optimists. David an optimist. Paul an optimist. St. John an optimist. Our blessed Lord an optimist. I can not look upon a desert but I am by the Old Book reminded that it will "blossom like as the rose." I can not in a menagerie look upon a lion and a leopard but I am reminded that "a little child shall lead them." I can not see a collection of gems in a jeweler's window without thinking of Heaven afiash and ablaze and incarnadine and empurpled with all manner of precious stones. I can not hear a trumpet but I think of that one which shall wake the dead. All the ages of time, bounded on one side by the paradise in which Adam and Eve walked, and on the other side by the paradise which St. John saw in apocalyptic vision. The Scriptures optimistic and their authors optimistic, all religious newspapers ought to be optomistic. Not only should all ministers and all religious editors have their hearts right, but their liver right. The world has enough trouble of its own, without our giving them an extra dose in the shape of religion. This world is going to be saved, and if you do not believe it you are an infidel. None of us wants to get on board a train, which, instead of reaching the depot, is surely going down the embankment. All aboard for the millennium! For the most part, in a religious journal, let the editorials be cheerful, and the pictures cheerful. If in one column there be a ghastly wood cut of the famine-stricken in India, in the next column have a list of contributions for alleviation of the suffering, or a picture of a ship carrying breadstuffs. If in one column there be the death of an old minister of the Gospel whom we can not spare, in the next put the name of some young Elisha who can wear the mantle of Elijah. If some evil of society is depicted in one column, in the next show the Gospel machinery that is to drive it back into the perdition from which it ascended. More and more sunshine let there be in religious journalism. Publish in it more sermons, on texts like "O give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good," and fewer on text like "Out of depths of hell have I cried unto Thee, O Lord." If any one has anything gloomy to say, let him say it to himself. If he must write it, let him not send it to editorial rooms, but put it in the pigeon-hole of his own desk for his heirs, and assign or read it further on, for they probably can stand it better than we. I gave $7 to hear Jenny Lind sing; I never will give a cent to hear a man grown. Up with the blinds and throw back the shutters, and let the morning light come in! There is not so much religion in the dampness of a cellar as in the breath of an apple orchard in blossom week. What a victory David got over himself when he closed the Psalm with six chapters of "Praise ye the Lord," saying it over and over again, until, in any other book, it would have become monotonous. If in our diaries, and our family records, we our religious newspapers we would write two honest catalogues, the one a catalogue of blessings and the other a catalogue of troubles, the former would be five times larger than the latter.

Pray for the religious papers of America, because of the fact that if they have the right spirit each one does as much good as five, or fifty or two hundred churches. What are the 500 or 5,000 people making up a Sabbath audience compared with the 10,000, or 50,000, or 300,000 that the religious journal addresses? Such journals are pulpits that preach day and night. They reach weekly those who, through invalidism, or through indifference, never enter churches. They reach people in their quietude, when their attention is not distracted, as in church, by the fine millinery that appeals to the eye, or the rustle of attire that attracts the ear. Let us always be our duty and our privilege not to forsake the assembling of ourselves together, but believe the consecrated printing press is the chief agency under God to save the world.

Pray also for the religious newspapers of America, that they may resist the temptation to become acerb, harsh and damnatory of those who think differently from themselves.

THE maids of honor of the queen are all young women of good family, and are selected by her majesty herself. They are in constant attendance on the sovereign, two at a time, and reside at the court during their turn of waiting. On being appointed they receive and enjoy for life the courtesy title of "honorable," and if a maid, after having held her appointment for a certain number of years marries, she receives a wedding gift of $5,000.

DURING the existence of the British parliament it has passed about 20,000 statutes, of which about 5,000 are still in force. Of these, 3,300 were passed in Queen Victoria's reign, 151 date from Henry III., the first three Edwards, and Richard II., 26 from the house of Lancaster, only 3 from that of York, 170 come from the Tudors, 99 from the Stuarts, 92 from William III., and Anne, and 1,132 from the four Georges and William IV.

CONSULATE GUARDED.

Daily Distribution of Rations to the Reconcentrados in Matanzas.

Pardons Extended to 69 Prisoners Guilty of Forcible Resistance—Rear Admiral Vicente Manterola Arrives in Havana and Takes Charge of Admiralty.

HAVANA, Nov. 26.—The tube reported to have contained dynamite which was found by a man subsequently arrested by the private watchman of the American consulate building Wednesday afternoon, near the door of the consulate, is classed in official circles as being nothing more than a joke. The man arrested is believed to be the individual who placed the tube where it was found. But, in order to guard against any possibilities, the Spanish officials are taking precautions to guard the United States consulate and to protect the United States consul general, Gen. Fitzhugh Lee.

Rr. Adm. Vicente Manterola arrived Thursday from Spain and took charge of the admiralty office. With him came also 300 soldiers and 270 seamen.

Gen. Blanco has authorized the transfer of the bodies of Gustavo Ariza and Fernandez Galvez Posada to the private burial ground of the Ariza family.

Senor Barrera, former chief of police, now in Spain, has been summoned by the governor general to attend the inquiry into the circumstances under which Senhor Galves, the Portuguese consul and his son, met their death on the Santo Venia road while going to join the insurgents.

El Diario de La Marina says there is no ground for the rumor that Senhor Guzman and Senor Jose Congosta, the secretary general of Cuba, have had a serious quarrel as to policy; the Union Constitutional, on the other hand, declares that they have had a serious difference of opinion.

From Thursday there will be a daily distribution of 2,000 rations instead of 1,000 among the reconcentrados at Matanzas and Friday an infirmary battalion will be organized. Several sugar estates near San Fernandino and in the natividad district of Sancti Spiritus have been recovered by the Spanish from the insurgents. The latter lost several men and had several taken prisoners.

Pardons have been extended to 69 prisoners, "guilty of forcible resistance," in various localities of the island. Among these are ten women, and also 36 subjects of foreign governments. The list includes Mrs. Clemincia Arando, Matilde Ferrer, Maria Teresa, Rosalia Garcia, Emilla Cordoba, Pantaleona Catillo and Inocencia Araujo.

A BIZZARD

Of No Mean Proportions Raging in the Northwest—Below Freezing Weather in Dakota.

OMAHA, Nov. 26.—A snowstorm of great severity swept over Nebraska Thursday night.

The weather was mild all day, with a drizzling rain. Toward evening the mercury dropped to almost zero and a gale from the northwest swept the fine particles of snow in every direction.

Not a great quantity of snow has fallen, but what there is is piling in huge drifts in the streets of the city, impeding all kinds of traffic.

Out in the state the situation is worse. In the extreme western part of the state a regular blizzard exists and more damage is threatened to stock interests than at any time this winter. The storm covers the entire state. Railroad traffic is being interfered with.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 26.—A blizzard of no mean proportion is raging in the northwest. Dispatches from points in Minnesota Iowa, Montana and the two Dakotas, state that a heavy snowstorm, accompanied by a medium wind, but a much lower temperature, has prevailed most of the day.

At Helena the highest point reached Thursday was 30 above, while at 8 p. m. it had dropped to 12. The lowest temperature was at Battleford, where at 8 o'clock Thursday night the thermometer registered 10 degrees below zero.

Illinois Regimental Monument Dedicated.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 26.—The Nineteenth Illinois regimental monument erected on Missionary Ridge was formally dedicated Thursday, there being present at the ceremony about twenty-five survivors, all from Chicago. The monument is erected on the spot on which the regiment first rallied and reached the crest of the ridge in the memorable engagement. Thursday was the thirty-fourth anniversary of the battle. The address was made by Col. W. W. Young, of Chicago, president of the Regimental association.

Jerry Johnson Lynched.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Nov. 26.—Jerry Johnson, a Negro, was lynched Thursday evening by a mob near Screven. He was in charge of officers and was being taken to jail at Jessup. A crowd of armed men rode up to the officers and demanded the prisoner. The Negro was made the target for a number of rifles and his body was perforated with leaden balls. The Negro had been arrested for stealing a mule.

Thanksgiving in Vienna.

VIENNA, Nov. 26.—Charlemagne Tower, the United States minister to Austria-Hungary, and Mrs. Tower, held a Thanksgiving day reception at the American legation Thursday afternoon which was largely attended.

Capt. Lovering Guilty.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—The verdict in the Lovering court-martial was forwarded to the secretary of war. The court held a short secret session Thursday at which the verdict was made and dispatched to Washington. It is the general belief that Capt. Lovering will meet with nothing worse than a reprimand. The finding is always a secret one, being forwarded to the commanding officer of the department. From Gen. Brooke it will be sent to Washington, where it is discretionary with the military authorities to give it out for publication.

ROYAL DECREES

Granting Autonomy to Cuba and Porto Rico—The Governments to Be Composed of an Insular Parliament.

MADRID, Nov. 27.—The Official Gazette published Saturday morning the royal decrees granting autonomy to Cuba and Porto Rico, thus removing the anxiety that had begun to be expressed on all sides as the result of the government's reticence and unexplained delay.

The scheme of autonomy is as follows:

Article 1 explains the principles of the future governments of the two islands.

Article 2 decrees that the government of each island shall be composed of an insular parliament, divided into two chambers, while a governor general representing the home government shall exercise in its name the supreme authority.

Article 3 declares that the faculty of making laws of colonial affairs rests with the insular chambers and the governor general.

Article 4 directs that the insular representation shall be composed of two corporations of equal powers: A chamber of representatives and a council of administration.

Article 5 provides that the council of administration shall consist of 35 members, of whom 18 shall be elected and 17 nominated by the home government.

Article 6 provides that the members of the council of administration must be Spaniards, 35 years of age, who were born in the island or who have resided there continuously for four years. It specifies numerous officials, such as senators, presidents of courts and of chambers of commerce and other bodies as eligible to election to the council.

Articles 7 to 14 inclusive, deal with nominations and conditions of election to councils.

Article 15 empowers the throne or the governor general to convoke, suspend or dissolve the chambers with an obligation to reassemble them within three months.

THE ROTHSCHILDS

Are Preparing to Enter the Alaska Trade—A Line of Steamers to Be Built.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 27.—The Rothschilds, through the San Francisco house of Liebes & Co., are about to enter the Alaska trade.

Four steamers are being built in sections by W. H. Brick & Co., the owners of the California machine works. When this contract is fulfilled the machinery and timbers will be sent to Dutch Harbor, near Unalaska, to be set up. The firm will then build nine barges in sections to follow the material for steamboat building, and the barges will likewise be put together at Dutch Harbor.

All of this work is being done for the Alaska Exploration Co., which was incorporated about two months ago with a capital of $1,000,000.

Isaac Litch, in speaking of this project, said that it is proposed to have the steamers and barges ready for business when the ice breaks in the Yukon in June. He said that the Rothschilds are interested in the venture, which was arranged in London five months ago, and there is practically unlimited capital behind it. Besides doing a general transportation business the company will establish trading stations and thoroughly explore the country.

POLITICAL PRISONERS,

Released From the Spanish Penal Settlement, Cheer for Free America.

HAVANA, Nov. 27.—Advices just received from Porto Rico say that a riot occurred there. It appears that a steamer, having on board a number of political prisoners recently released from the Spanish penal settlements on the African coast, in accordance with the amnesty decree, arrived there, and the liberated men were allowed to land. They soon found their way to a drinking saloon, partook of stimulants and began cheering for the United States, crying "Hurrah for free America." The demonstration was resented by the crowds about the place, and rioting followed.

The police were called upon to interfere and compel the liberated men to re-embark. During the disturbance the police captured the insurgent, Col. Alipo Sanchez, who is described as being incognito in Porto Rico.

Prof. Schraag Fatally Injured.

NEWPORT, Ky., Nov. 27.—Prof. Louis Schraag, a pioneer citizen, was fatally injured by an electric car at Third and Columbia streets Friday morning. Prof. Schraag attempted to cross the street in front of a rapidly moving car. The motorman rang his gong, but the old gentleman could not get out of the way in time. He was knocked down. Prof. Schraag was picked up in an unconscious condition and carried into the residence of Dr. Anna Sedan. It was found that his skull was fractured and that his injury is fatal. Prof. Schraag is 85 years old and is probably the oldest music teacher in this vicinity. He is also a veteran of the Mexican war.

To Ask Pardons Board.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 27.—Word comes from Akron that Senator J. Park Alexander has prepared a bill to abolish the state board of pardons. In place of the state board, Senator Alexander's bill establishes local boards in each county, each board to have jurisdiction over all applications made for pardons of convicts sent to the penitentiary from its county.

Trotting Meet in Louisville in 1898.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 27.—The event of the trotting meet to be given by the Louisville Driving and Fair association in 1898, will be the Kentucky maturn stakes of $10,000, for foals of 1896. This stake has been divided and will be contested both next year and the year following. Of the money offered $2,000 will go to the two-year-olds that trot and $1,000 to the two-year-olds that pace, while the remaining $7,000 will go to the three-year-olds that trot in 1899. The entries have been remarkably good, and this stake next year will be one of the best fevored of the season.

HORRIBLE STORY

Of Murder and Mutilation of Missionaries in the Congo Free States.

The Fiends Hacked the Dead Bodies to Pieces and Distributed Them Among the Attacking Party—Hearts of the Victims Cut Out and Burned.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—A startling and horrible story of the killing of two Washingtonians and the mutilation of their bodies by the natives of the Congo Free state has just been received here in a letter to Mr. Leo Harmon, of 1733 Ninth street, Northwest. The men were members of a party who, during November and December, 1894, and January, 1895, went from this city to enlist in the Belgian army for service in the Congo state. Those enlisting included Edward Thornton, a commissioned officer of the national fencibles, employed in the war department; Lindsay G. Burke, Frank Batchelor, Harry R. Andrews, Barry Sparlin and a Mr. Mellin or Mellen, who was at one time a non-commissioned officer of the United States army. All except Thornton and Mellin were members of the national guard of the district.

The information received by Mr. Harmon is that Burke and a party of 50 natives who were sent out to dislodge a band of dwarfs who had revolted, were ambushed and killed. An Arab who was with the command, but who was some distance off at the time of the ambuscade, states that he knows Burke was dead before the natives reached him, and that the most hideous-looking little man he ever saw walked up and cut Burke's head off with one blow of a knife. The chief then began to slice pieces off his legs and arms and to distribute them among his followers.

There were so many of the fiends that the pieces were very small, and before they had concluded there was a free fight to see who could get the little remaining. In some manner the dwarfs became alarmed and left the place, one fellow carrying off Burke's arm. The Arab saw the cause of their alarm as Windeey, a New Yorker who had command of another detachment, sent out on the same errand, arrived a few hours after the natives departed. Windeey gathered up the remains of Burke and buried them. When Windeey heard the strength of the rebels he hurried back to Leopoldstan and notified the commandant of the post.

The other Washingtonian who lost his life was killed on March 1, when the troops under the command of Baron Dhanis revolted near Kabanbarre and assassinated a number of officers of their regiments, among them being Mellin. The body of Mellin was butchered almost beyond recognition, his heart having been cut out and buried so that his courage could not again be used against the rebels by the whites. It is their belief that unless the heart is burned and the ashes scattered to the four winds the spirit of the man descends to his brethren.

Thornton is said to be in a very precarious situation at Basaka but a relief expedition has been sent to his rescue. Gage, another American, is very sick with the fever at Nyangine.

The killing of Burke and Mellin occurred in December, 1896.

MAIL ROBBERS.

Post Office Inspectors Make What They Believe Important Arrests in Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 29.—Inspectors Gorman and Owings made an arrest Sunday night which they believe will lead to the unearthing of a gang of mail robbers. John C. Hutchinson, who has been a letter carrier in the Pittsburgh post office since 1889, was detected in the act of taking a letter containing $13 from the street box at Smithfield and Diamonds streets. He was allowed to go to the office one block distant with his trip, and was arrested when leaving the office, a very short time later. The letter and money were on his person. The decoy letter had been sealed with sealing wax before being deposited in the box. When taken from Hutchinson the seal was apparently intact, yet the money was in his hand tightly rolled into a wad. Hntchinson broke down and confessed his guilt. He implicates no accomplices, but the officials feel certain there are others who have been working with Hutchinson in a systematic rifling of letters and more arrests are expected.

Reduction of Letter Postage in Canada.

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—At a political meeting held in this city Saturday night, William Patterson, minister of customs, stated that he had been authorized by the postmaster general of Canada, to announce that on and after the 1st of January next the rate of postage on letters from Canada to all parts of the British empire, would be three cents for one ounce. At present the rate on letters to Great Britain is five cents per half-ounce and correspondingly higher to other and more distant parts of the empire.

Killed With an Ax.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 29.—Amos Haveland, a farmer, living near Allentown, was killed Sunday afternoon by Clarence Doyle, a farm hand. The men were visiting Haveland's son, who is a farmer at Windsor, about ten miles from here. They had been drinking hard cider and got into a quarrel over Haveland's wife. Doyle struck Haveland in the head with an ax and he died two hours later. Doyle is at large.

Austrian Ministry Resigns.

VIENNA, Nov. 29.—The members of the Austrian ministry Sunday tendered their resignations to Emperor Francis Joseph, who accepted them and entrusted Baron Gautsch, who holds the portfolio of public instruction of the retiring ministry, with the task of forming a new cabinet.

Austrian-Lloyd Steamer Sinks in Collision.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 29.—The Austrian-Lloyd steamer Diana has been in a collision off Galata with the British steamer Antonio. The Diana sunk. The 150 passengers and 40 members of the crew of the Diana were saved.

THE RECORDER

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON. : : : KY

While the yellow fever epidemic might have been far more deadly, the prostration of business in some points of the south was almost complete.

An expert says that getting shot does not hurt any more than having a tooth pulled. The dissemination of this knowledge will not lessen the rush to get out of the way when bullets are flying around.

How necessary it is that the quarantine against the West Indian islands be strictly enforced is demonstrated by the news that yellow fever is raging with unparalleled violence in Jamaica.

Colorado's gold production has increased from $8,000,000 in 1893 to $22,000,000 in 1897, putting it ahead of California in gold mining. Colorado has also mined this year nearly $20,000,000 in silver, lead, copper and iron.

Senator Morgan, recently returned from Hawaii, says the 31,000 natives will make good citizens, and that few are opposed to annexation. He thinks the island, which we can have for the acceptance, would be cheap at $100,000,000.

A recently patented nickel-in-the-slot machine polishes shoes, perfumes the clothing, opens a mirror and gives the user a stick of gum in one operation. If the machine would only chew the gum as well it would be a great relief to the public at large.

Bismarck is breaking physically, and Gladstone is far from well. Great men are not exempt from the ordinary ills of humanity, and in octogenarians the springs of corporeity have necessarily become corroded by rust. Perpetual motion is an unrealizable dream.

A mob of white men in North Dakota recently lynched two Indians and a half-breed who were charged with murder, and now it has been discovered that the half-breed was innocent of any participation in the crime. Great is the civilization of the white man! Is it not strange that the Indian does not embrace it more readily?

The Canadian government is considering the question of making the starting of forest fires a criminal offense and providing a heavy penalty for violators of the law. Canadians are as much interested in forest protection as Americans, but the same laxity and carelessness have been displayed in the dominion as upon this side of the border.

An American consul in Argentine makes the prediction that the production of wool in that country has reached the maximum and that American wool growers have no reason to fear increasing competition. At the same time comes the report from Australia that the demand for American sheep in Australia for breeding purposes is constantly and rapidly growing.

The custom that has become so popular among bandits in Chicago of holding up men in saloons is evidence that they have been impressed by this progressive and labor-saving age. It is much easier and more satisfactory in every way to hold up six or seven men in a saloon than it is to take the same number one at a time on the street. And, besides, they are likely to have more money in the saloon than they will have when they come out of it.

The beet sugar factories in southern California have this year produced 30,000,000 pounds of sugar, and there is every prospect of this output being doubled next year. Such figures ought to remove all doubts as to the possibilities of the beet sugar industry in this country. With that industry once placed upon its feet, the United States should produce all the sugar needed for its own consumption, instead of continuing to import the great bulk of it.

Miss Grace G. Niles, of the Orange (N. J.) training school for nurses, claims that she has been refused a diploma because she writes poetry. If it is only because she writes it we are prepared to sympathize with her, but before wasting any tears we would like to have some assurance that she doesn't read it aloud. It is difficult to imagine anything more fiendish or horrible than a poetess in the guise of a nurse trying her influence on a helpless invalid.

The Belgian government, observing that advertisements are being placed on rocks and other public places, has notified the municipalities that "the nuisance must stop." Belgium is a thrifty land. More thrifty still is Switzerland. Yet when the St. Gothard rocks were covered with advertisements the government ordered them cleared off, saying: "We would as soon have them on the white cross of our flag." But here, in the United States—just look at some of the rocks up the Hudson river!

A test of an electric locomotive was made in France the other day and it proved so successful that it will probably be adopted as the standard type, replacing the steam locomotive. The world has to thank Yankee ingenuity for bringing electric motive power to such a high degree of perfection. Europeans were the first to experiment with the power for traction purposes, but it remained for Americans to make it thoroughly practical. That the French have now come to realize its advantages and merits is really a great victory for the American investigators and inventors.

SCHOOL TEACHER,

In a Letter to a Legal Firm in Meridian, Says He Murdered

Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams—The Letter Was Written a Few Hours Before His Suicide and Placed in the Pocket of a Fellow Prisoner.

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 24.—A special to the Post from Morgan, Tex., says: In March last in the columns of the Post was noted the death of Joseph E. Blunther alias Forbes, who suicided in the Meridian jail in this county on March 2. Though escaping the keen vigilance of the most famous detectives of the country, Bosque county was the scene of the ending of his eventful career. But developments of the past few days bring to light even a more startling crime, of which he is self-confessed, than was the murder of Mrs. Langfeldt, for which he was hunted.

While Blanther was incarcerated in the Meridian jail there was also a fellow prisoner named Pitts who was arrested on the same minor charge and occupied the cell adjoining that of Blanther. Pitts is a farmer, who now lives near Iredell, in this county and is known to have conversed with Blanther during his two or three days confinement. In a letter to Word, Dillar & Word, attorneys of Meridian under date of November 22, Mr. Pitts encloses a letter from Blanther and says:

"I have been looking through some paper that I had on file in jail at Meridian and I find the enclosed sheet which speaks for itself. The papers alluded to here worked through a hole in my pocket, hence the delay in not discovering them sooner. I well remember that Forbes or Blanther asked me the evening he took the poison at night which coat was mine of several that were hanging in the cell he occupied. I never thought further of the question he asked until I found the letter he wrote. I send it to you for the reason you best know who to notify in California. I hope that may be worth something to you in the way of saving Durrant, of California, who, I understand, is sentenced to death for killing Miss Lamont."

"Meridian Jail—To Mr. Pitts: As this is my last day on earth, I wish to say that I can not die without telling the truth. I murdered Mrs. Williams. I put this in your coat pocket and hope you will find it in time to save the life of Durrant. It may also be of service to Mr. Womack in getting his reward money. I want you to have my watch for your kindness to me. You have my best wishes, and I hope your troubles will end, but not as mine.

"BLANTHER FORBES."

The letter written by Blanther was compared with a letter written by him to County Treasurer Randle, while he (Blanther) was teaching school at Kopperl, this county, and the identification is pronounced to be beyond doubt. Cashier Rudasill, of the First national bank of Meridian, says it compares favorably with Blanther's handwriting while others have a hesitancy in pronouncing the last written by Blanther. The original written confession is now in possession of Word, Dillar & Word, of Meridian, who will at once notify the San Francisco officials.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24.—No credence is placed by the authorities here in the alleged confession of Blanther or Forbes, made in the Meridian, Tex., jail that he murdered Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams in addition to Mrs. Langfelt. It is recalled, however, that at the time of the killing of Mrs. Langfelt, about 18 months ago, the suggestion was advanced that Blanther had murdered all three. It being claimed that there were certain points of similarity in the three murders.

J. C. DUNHAM,

The Alleged Murderer of Six Persons, and for Whom a Reward of $11,000 is Offered, Thought to Be Under Arrest.

VAN BUREN, Ark., Nov. 24.—City Marshal Charles Wells, of Mulberry, Ark., made what is thought to be an important capture Tuesday when he captured J. C. Dunham alias James Buford, wanted in Santa Clara county, California, for the murder of Col. and Mrs. R. P. McElliney, Mrs. Hattie Dunham, Miss Minnie Schessler, J. K. Wells and R. A. Briscoe on May 26, 1896. The crime was committed for the purpose of robbery, and owing to the prominence of the families a reward of $11,000 has been offered for the arrest and conviction of Dunham and his pals. J. H. Linton, sheriff of Santa Clara county, was notified and wired instructions to Marshal Wells to hold Dunham till complete identification papers could be forwarded from California.

Gen. Weyler in Barcelona.

BARCELONA, Nov. 24.—The Spanish steamer Montserrat, with Gen. Weyler on board, arrived here Tuesday morning, and the former captain general of Cuba immediately debarked. The demonstration in his honor, which had been agitated by the friends of the general for some days past did not assume the proportions anticipated and as he traversed the streets the public appeared to be indifferent.

Murder in the Second Degree.

VINTON, Ia., Nov. 24.—The jury in the case of Frank Novak, charged with killing his roommate, Murray, and afterward setting fire to the house in which they lived, Tuesday night returned a verdict of murder in the second degree. Novak disappeared after the crime was committed and eluded capture for several years. Last summer he was traced to the Klondike gold fields, arrested and brought home.

St. Louis Distillery Warehouse Burned.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 24.—The most disastrous fire that has occurred in North St. Louis in a number of years broke out shortly before 6 o'clock Tuesday evening in the warehouse of the Ravenswood Distillery Co. The loss will amount to $100,000, with insurance of about 75 per cent. Superintendent Murphy said: "The warehouse building was built some years ago at a cost of $10,000 and was entirely filled with stock, valued at $72,000. The damage to the distillery proper I estimate at about $9,000. I think about 75 per cent. was covered with insurance."

CAME TO BLOWS.

Pitched Battle With Fists Between Members of the Reichrath on the Floor.

Showers of Billingsgate and Other Insults Were Exchanged on All Sides—House Resembled an Inferno—Spectators Cried Shame—Duels Probable.

VIENNA, Nov. 26.—The members of the lower house of the reichsrath excelled themselves in producing the most disgraceful scene yet witnessed in that branch of parliament. The turbulence resulted from a motion that only one of a number of similar petitions against the ordinance making the Czech language co-ordinate with the German in Bohemia should be read and reprinted.

The members of the Left party protested uproariously against the motion referred to, stigmatizing it as "oppressive and illegal." Finally the members of the lower house became so disorderly that the president of that body, Dr. Abrahamovich, was once more compelled to suspend the sitting, and he soon afterward left the house.

The departure of President Abrahamovich was the signal for a scene of the wildest disorder.

While this incident was in progress challenges to fight duels and showers of billingsgate and other insults were exchanged on all sides, until the interior of the house in every way Court sembled an inferno.

A number of young Czechs [illegible] own and made a rush for the presid[illegible] were cousing and attempted to tear Dr. [illegible] d the Deane from the position which [illegible]ently sue- and they in turn were at [illegible] triumph of a number of leftists, and [illegible] were flaky, scrimmage was the result [illegible]erry a chef only the beginning of [illegible] the cake. During the preliminary s[illegible] light-off, and this caused such an up[illegible]rmat as regular pitched battle with [illegible]sticuffs followed, lusting 15 minutes.

By this time the disorder was of such a nature that even the public in the galleries cried shame upon the fighting, swearing and insult exchanging deputies. A Polish member, Herr Polaze, rushed upon another member, Herr Pfereche, and was nearly strangling him when Pfereche, on the impulse of the moment, drew a penknife from his pocket and opened it, but he was disarmed by a colleague before any further harm was done.

Herr Pfereche was by that time so exhausted by the choking he had received at the hands of Herr Polaez, and was so overcome with excitement that, he fainted, still further adding to the sensation. At this moment President Abrahamovich returned to the house, but, after repeated and vain efforts to quell the disorder prevailing, he closed the sitting of the house, in so doing he said:

"In view of the facts of violence which have occurred in the house Wednesday, I consider it my duty to close this sitting. Will those members who are willing to give me the names of the violent members please come to my office?"

Several members of the house accepted the invitation of the president, and as a result it is believed that Herren Schoenerer, Wolff and Pfereche will be arrested on the charge of fighting the public.

REBEL BULLETS

Sought the Palace in Havana—They Come From Casa Blanca Across the Entrance to the Harbor.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—On Sunday morning, for the first time in the history of the Cuban war, rebel bullets sought the palace in Havana, says a dispatch to the Herald from Havana. The shots came from Casa Blanca, 600 yards across the entrance to the harbor, and while nobody was hurt, the palace, with its electric lights, was a shining mark and must have been hit. The Spanish authorities attempt to make light of the affair, but at the same time a reporter for La Lucha who wrote up and attempted to publish the facts in the case was arrested and is still incommunicado.

The attack on Casa Blanca was made by Brig. Gen. Rafael Decardenas and 50 rebels. They entered the town shortly before midnight on horseback, and at the end of four hours each man led out of town a horse with one extra he had appropriated, laden with clothing, provisions, silver plate and considerable money. Before they left they fired two volleys across the narrow harbor entrance at the palace, then coolly retired to a friend's house inside the Spanish lines and took supper, previously ordered. All this was under the guns of Cubana and Morro.

Secretary Gage on Wall Street.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Secretary of the Treasury Lyman J. Gage, who came to town Tuesday to attend the dinner of the chamber of commerce, visited Wall street Wednesday. He had a brief chat with Assistant Treasurer Conrad N. Jordan at the sub-treasury and dropped in to see several of the bank presidents. The secretary said he would eat his Thanksgiving turkey in Washington.

Unknown Negro Killed by a Mob.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 26.—An unknown Negro was killed by lynchers near Blackshear Thursday afternoon, his body being literally riddled by bullets. The Negro outraged Miss. Rebie Davis, the 17-year-old daughter of Eli Davis, a farmer, seven miles north of Blackshear, while she was alone in her home.

Cricketers Roughly Handled.

BRISBANE, Queensland, Nov. 26.—On the arrival of the English cricket team here Wednesday a disorderly mob rushed to the railway carriage and insulted and roughly handled the cricketers. Mr. Stoddart's presentation watch and chain were stolen.

McKinley's Turkey.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—At the white house Thursday the president and his guests dined on a 24 pound turkey, sent as a gift from a Connecticut man who has been supplying the Thanksgiving bird for the chief magistrate for three Cleveland's first term

INSTRUCTIONS ISSUED

To Collectors of Customs by the Treasury Department—Naval Trial Boards' Report Upon the Trial of the Battleship Iowa.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—The secretary of the treasury has issued instructions to collectors of customs to the effect that the affidavits required under section 4 of the new tariff act in regard to the importation of teas, shall be taken only from importers or consignees, and not from agents or brokers, and further, that in case of doubt as to the genuineness of the sample or truth of the affidavit, the examiner should himself obtain proper samples of the importation to be compared with the official standards.

Assistant Secretary Vanderlip Friday signed what is known as a pay warrant, directing the treasurer of the United States to deposit in the treasury the sum of $18,194,618, representing the proceeds of the sale of the Union Pacific sinking fund bonds and the uninvested cash in that fund which have been transferred to the treasury as part payment of the settlement of the reorganization committee of the Union Pacific road. This operation is merely a book transaction in the treasury, and while it does not of itself result in formally taking up the amount as a treasury receipt, it is an important step, which leads to placing the sum in the treasury cash, where it is beyond recall and [illegible] be withdrawn, except [illegible] Bass' of an appropriation made by [illegible]son's final transaction will not appear [illegible]48 public statement of treasury re[illegible]137 acreage at the close of the present [illegible]

Tract [illegible]

[illegible]gar tree[illegible] acy General Judson Harmon [illegible]olde of his counsel Friday before the [illegible]month of the treasury in an importa[illegible]ority and revenue suit involving the [illegible]sification under the tariff law of [illegible] cherries preserved in spirits. The matter [illegible]is now before the board of general appraisers and no action will be taken by the department until the board has rendered its decision.

The naval trial board has made a report upon the recent two days' trial of the big battle ship Iowa at sea that thoroughly sustains Commodore Dewey's comment that the ship was as fine a type of a ship of her class as there is in the world. The board says in part:

The vessel under all circumstances behaved well, being very steady and rolling and pitching but a few degrees. Her high free board forward adds greatly, not only to the comfort of the men, but to her sea going efficiency and the power of firing her guns under all circumstances. Altogether her sea going qualities appear to be excellent. The board was particularly impressed by the personnel of the Iowa and attribute much of the fine appearance of the ship and her crew to the excellent management of her captain, Sampson, and his staff of officers. The speed made was 1345 knots, but this was under natural draught and with a poor quality of coal. The machinery worked well in every particular. Some fault was found with the priming of the six-pounder shells and attention is called to an unduly large port hole which might prove a danger to the ship by admitting shot and shell, but on the whole, the report is as favorable as any report on any of our ships.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—The annual report of the secretary of the treasury according to the present plans will be sent to congress either on the first or second day of the coming session. As to the secretary's plans for the reform of the currency enough has been learned to give confidence that the president is in full accord with his views and recommendations, although in his official utterances as expressed in his forthcoming message to congress he may not give a complete and specific endorsement to all the propositions covered by the secretary's report. There will, however, be no difference between the president and secretary.

HORRIBLE DEATH

Of Mrs. Antonio Milagno at Erie, Pa.—Her Husband Arrested.

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 27.—The wife of Antonio Milagno died Friday a most horrible death. Thanksgiving day Antonio became drunk and went to the cellar to get more liquor. He fell and his wife came to his assistance with a lamp, but he threw a hammer at her head and missed the mark. He then came upstairs with a can of oil and tar, which he threw in his wife's face. In an instant the mixture caught fire from the lamp and she was enveloped in flames. Help arrived in time to prevent her from burning up where she stood. The woman was laid on her bed, and when the officers arrived they found Antonio standing over his wife plucking the cooked flesh from her breast and arms in fiendish glee and cursing like a demon. When he was arrested, he raved and had to be subjected to rough treatment before he could be taken to the police station.

Steamer Gogebic Stranded.

GREEN HAVEN, Mich., Nov. 27.—Friday afternoon a yawl containing the mate and a portion of the crew of the steamer Gogebic arrived here. The men related the story of the stranding of their steamer on North Manitou Island Friday night during the snow storm and the mate sent messages to vessel owners and the underwriters asking for assistance. The wrecker Favorite has been dispatched from Cheboygan, and unless fine weather sets in it is thought she will be too late to render aid.

Miners' Strike Broken.

COAL CITY, Ill., Nov. 27.—The strike in the Wilmington coal field is broken. The mines of the Star Coal Co., Big Four Coal Co. and Wilmington Coal Mining and Manufacturing Co. resumed work Friday at the 77½ cent scale. Over 3,000 miners are employed in these mines.

The Report Discredited.

PARIS, Nov. 27.—M. Lebon, the minister of the colonies, has received no information of a collision between the British and French troops at Nikki, in the Niger region, and discredits the report.

NEW TRUNK LINE

Eastern Capitalists to Weld Short Lines into a Through Route

Between Chicago and New York—Another Giant Link in the Vanderbilt Trunk Line System, Having for Its Purpose an Invasion of Pennsylvania Roads.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—The Tribune Monday says: John Jacob Astor and a number of eastern capitalists arrived in Chicago Sunday afternoon from New York to take steps for welding several short lines of western roads into a new trunk line from Chicago to New York. The new route is to find its terminals over the Nickel Plate and the Illinois Central. It is but [illegible] link in the Vanderbilt trunk li[illegible] tem, having for its special purp[illegible] an invasion of the Pennsylvania [illegible] in Ohio and Indiana territory and [illegible] provide more adequate terminal facilities in this city for the Nickel Plate road, as well as the practical construction of a double track for that road from Cleveland to this city.

Those in the party were Mr. Astor, A. R. Ely, George Chapman and G. F. Hawkins, of New York, and W. T. Rainey, of Philadelphia. With the exception of Mr. Hawkins, who is Mr. Astor's private secretary, they are all directors of the Findlay, Fort Wayne and Western railroad, a short line of only 80 miles, extending from Fort Wayne, Ind., to Findlay, O.

The railway men arrived in an ordinary sleeper and left at 11:30 at night for Findlay in two private cars, together with Vice President Hanrahan of the Illinois Central, and Traffic Manager T. J. Hudson and Chief Engineer David Sloan, of the same line. In Findlay they will meet Dr. Seward Webb and James R. Roosevelt, of New York, and C. M. Bissell, of Findlay, also directors of the Findlay, Ft. Wayne & Western road, and it will be at this meeting of the directors that the line of action proposed will be decided upon.

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE

Of Mrs. Pauline Merry, of Chicago, Solved by the Confession of Thomas Hickey.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Mrs. Pauline Merry from her home at No. 50 Hope street was solved Sunday afternoon by the confession of Thomas Hickey, who was arrested on suspicion. Hickey told a revolting story of how Christopher Merry choked and beat his wife a week ago last Friday. Then finding it impossible to restore his wife to consciousness Hickey says that Merry decided to put her "out of her misery" by beating out her brains with a poker.

The horrible story told by Hickey was extorted from him after hours of questioning in the "sweat box." Late Sunday afternoon he led a party of police to an uninhabited portion of the city near Eighty-seventh street and Western avenue, where Mrs. Merry's body was found buried beneath a few inches of loose dirt by the roadside.

"The disappearance of Mrs. Merry excited almost as much interest as that of Mrs. Luetgert. A week ago the police learned that she had been made away with by her husband at his cottage in Hope street. Merry was a peddler and owned several horses. When the police began their investigation a three-year-old son of Merry's told them that his father had killed his mother and had lowered her body through a trap door into the cellar. Following this clew it was found that Merry had driven away from his place Saturday morning with a covered wagon but no further trace of him has been discovered.

Thomas Hickey, an employe of the stable where Merry kept his horses, Sunday confessed that he and James Smith had been present when Merry beat and choked his wife. The three men sat up Friday night and tried to restore Mrs. Merry. On Saturday Merry, he says, decided to kill his wife, which he did with a poker. The body was carted away and Merry, although still in the city, has successfully eluded the police.

United States Embassy Attended the Funeral.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The entire staff of the United States embassy attended the funeral services Saturday over the remains of the countess of Lathom, who was killed on Tuesday last while returning from a shooting party, by being thrown out of a trap near Wigan, Lancaster. The United States officials were also present at the services over the remains of Mr. Walter Burns, late manager of the banking house of J. S. Morgan & Co., who died at his country seat near Hatfield on Tuesday.

Clubbed to Death by Policeman.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—James Kennedy, a young man, died Sunday night at a hospital from the effects of a clubbing which he had received early in the day from Policeman Henry Woodly. The latter admits the clubbing of Kennedy, but says he had been attacked by the young man and three of his friends and was forced to defend himself.

Post Office Clerks Organize.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 29.—Delegates representing the first and second-class post office clerks of the country, met in convention here Sunday and formed a permanent organization with the object in view of bettering the condition of postal employes. A bill was framed looking to this and which will be submitted to congress at the coming session.

More Pittsburgh Coal Coming.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 29.—Over 1,000,000 bushels of coal left this port Sunday for southern markets. There are in the neighborhood of 8,000,000 bushels loaded, awaiting shipment, and it is expected between five and six million bushels will get out on the present rise.

An Officer Shoots a Negro.

BRKENCASTLE, Ind., Nov. 29.—Frank Taylor, colored, was shot and seriously wounded here in running from Sheriff Buntin, who had him under arrest. Taylor refused to halt and the officer brought him down with a bullet.

His Sinister Intention.

Oklahoma Landlord—If thar is a shootin' star or two along toward midnight don't git scared, Mr. Eastman. You won't be in no danger yourself.

Eastern Tourist—Certainly not! I have seen such sights before, but I was not aware that there was to be a meteoric display at this time.

"Well, I don't know for certain that thar is goin' to be any, but I've got it figgered out that them three members of a busted Uncle Tom's Cabin company that have been boardin' on me for the last two weeks while they waited for remittances from home are goin' to try to vamoose to-night an' leave me holdin' the bag, an' I am very free to say that they hain't goin' to git away with out settlin' in full, not if my old revolver works with its usual readiness an' dispatch. That's the kind of a—by gosh—landlord I am!"—N. Y. World.

Had Lost His Faith in Them.

A theatrical manager told a story against himself the other day. An actor came to him and applied for an engagement. There did not seem to be much need of him, but his demands in the way of salary were very modest, and the manager said to him:

"Well, you may consider yourself engaged. I fancy I can find something for you to do. Come round on Tuesday and I'll try you."

The newly-engaged man looked at the manager questioningly.

"How about a contract?" he asked.

"Oh, never mind a contract. We'll have a verbal contract."

There was a look of mild reproach in the eyes of the man, as he answered, sorrowfully:

"Sir, the last time I made a verbal contract I drew a verbal salary."—Spare Moments.

Reindeer in Alaska.

Dr. Sheldon Jackson, for 20 years a traveler in Alaska, says the government's experiment of importing reindeer from Siberia is a success, and that the problem of winter traveling in the interior is practically solved. Three hundred miles per day can be made over the snow with relays at reasonable intervals and best of all the reindeer will rustle his own food.

The best map of the Yukon-Klondike mining country has been printed in folder form by the Northern Pacific Ry. Send a 2-cent postage stamp to Chas. S. Fee, G. P. A., St. Paul, Minn. The folder is full of up-to-date information regarding rates and routes to Alaska.

Studying a Doubtful Problem.

"It," the idle wanderer heard the man say to his companion, "will run about 1,200 to the ton."

Then the idle wanderer, after the manner of his kind, speculated in his mind.

"I wonder," said he to himself, "whether he was talking about a gold mine or his winter supply of coal?"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Reputations Made in a Day

Are precious scarce. Time tries the worth of a man—and medicine. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a forty-five years' growth, and like those hardy lichens that garnish the crevices of Alaska's rocks, it flourishes perennially, and its reputation has as firm a base as the rocks themselves. No medicine is more highly regarded as a remedy for fever and ague, bilious remittent, constipation, liver and kidney disorders, nervousness and rheumatism.

Usually the Way.

Kenna—I understand you've bought a dog to keep burglars away?

Henna—Yes.

"You are not troubled any more at night, then, I suppose?"

"Only by the dog."—Up-to-Date.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the city of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of One Hundred Dollars for each and every case of catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. A. W. GLEASON,
[Seal] Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

A Simple Programme.

The Missionary—My friend, what would you do if you expected the end of the world in ten days?

The Tramp—Wait for it.—Puck.

There Is a Class of People.

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grain, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over ¼ as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

Why?

Patron—Why do they call it impressionist art, anyway?

Artist—Oh, because the fellows who do it leave under the impression that it is art, I suppose.—Somerville Journal.

Not yourself? Use St. Jacobs Oil for Soreness and stiffness. It will cure.

No man is ever justified in borrowing money to buy a dog.—Chicago News.

Why suffer with an ache or pain
When St. Jacobs Oil will cure. Why?

Chairs are cheaper than backbones.—N. Y. Independent.

Frost-bites are like burns, and both Are cured by St. Jacobs Oil promptly.

The young gentleman who seeks a situation isn't as likely to succeed as the young man who hustles for a job.—Chicago News.

Great Distress

A Combination of Troubles Causes Much Suffering.

BIRD ISLAND, MINN.—"I was troubled with my stomach. Nearly everything I ate would sour and I would belch it up. At times my stomach gave me great distress. My back was lame on account of kidney difficulty. I bought six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla; when I had taken four bottles I was cured." NORMAN HICKOK.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier.

Hood's Pills are the favorite cathartic. 25c.

If you ever want to sell or exchange your Organ, remember it will be twice as valuable if the name on the front is

ESTEY

Write for Illustrated Catalogue with prices, to Estey Organ Company, Brattleboro, Vt.

RELIGIOUS NEWSPAPERS.

Flying Rolls Which Carry Messages Human and Divine.

Each One Has Great Power to Do Good—Rev. Dr. T. DeWitt Talmage Discusses Journalism as Related to the Spread of the Gospel.

Sunday Dr. Talmage took the following for his text: "Then I turned, and lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and behold a flying roll."—(Zachariah v., 1.)

In a dream the prophet saw something rolled up advancing through the heavens. It contained a divine message. It moved swiftly, as on wings. It had much to do with the destiny of nations. But if you will look up you will see many flying rolls. They come with great speed and have messages for all the earth. The flying rolls of this century are the newspapers. They carry messages human and divine. They will decide the destiny of the hemispheres.

There are in the United States about 20,000 newspapers. The religious newspaper of which I am the editor was born 19 years ago, but born again seven years ago. In this brief time it has grown to about 200,000 circulation, and, by the ordinary rule of circulating the readers of a paper, it has about 1,000,000 readers. Our country was blessed with many religious journals, edited by consecrated men, while their contributors were the ablest and best of all professions and occupations. Some of those journals for half a century had been dropping their benedictions upon the nation, and they live on, and will continue to live on until there will be no more use for their mission, the world itself having become a flying roll on the tempests of the last day, going out of existence. There will be no more use for such agencies when the world ceases, because, in the spiritual state, we shall have such velocity that we can gather for ourselves all the news of Heaven, or, seeing some world in conflagration, may go ourselves in an instant to examine personally the scene of disaster.

Was there room for another religious journal in the land, already favored with the highest style of religious journalism? Oh, yes, if undenominational, plenty of room. Nothing can ever take the place of the denominational newspaper. When the millennium comes in it will find as many denominations as there are now. People, according to their temperaments, will always prefer this or that form of church government, this or that style of worship. You might as well ask all to live in one house as to ask us all to worship in one denomination, or to abolish the regiments of an army in order to make them one great host.

Each denomination must have its own journal, set apart especially to present the charities, explain the work and forward the interests of that particular sect. The death of one denominational journal is a calamity to all other denominations. I would almost feel that a great misfortune has happened to me if the Christian Intelligencer, of the Reformed church (my mother church) did not come to my house every week, for I was brought up on it, and it has become a household necessity. Such a denominational journal had better be edited by some one who, rocked in the cradle of that church and ordained at her altars, having become venerable in her service, sits spectacled and wise, and with heart full of sacred memories, addresses the living of to-day. In the most sacred crypt of our memory stands the statue of the religious editors, Abel Stevens and Joshua Leavitt, and the royal family of the Primes—Irenæus and Eusebius—while others linger on the banks of the Jordan, where they will not have long to wait for Elijah's chariot; and when they go up, if we still be sitting at our editorial desks, we will cry out in the memorable words: "My Father! My Father! the chariot of Israel and the horsemen thereof!"

But, then, there are great movements in which all denominations wish to join, and we want more undenominational newspapers to marshal and advance and inspire such movements. Yet such journals have a difficult task, because all Christian men, if they have behaved well in their denominations, for some reason prefer the one of their natural and spiritual nativity, and even looking off upon the general field and attempting wider work, will be apt to look at things through denominational preference and to treat them with a denominational twist. In the issuing of the religious journal whose seventh anniversary I preach that difficulty has been met and overcome by the fact that its publisher is a Methodist and in its editorial rooms there are a Presbyterian, an Episcopalian, and a Congregationalist, and a line of denominational prejudice in editorial or reportorial column would run against immediate protest. Against John Wesley's Free Grace, or Calvin's Eternal Decrees, or Bishop McIlvaine's Canonicals, or Dr. Dowling's Baptistry, from year's end to year's end not a word is written or printed. On all these subjects we have convictions, but undenominational journalism is not the place to state them. He who tells all he knows and expresses all he thinks on all occasions and in all places, without reference to the proprieties, is a boor or a crank, and of no practical service either to church or state.

Undenominational journalism is absolutely necessary to demonstrate the unity of the Christian world. Wide and desperate attempt is made to show that the religion of Jesus Christ is only a battleground of sects, and the cry has been "If you want us to accept your religion, agree, gentlemen, as to what the Christian religion really is. This denomination says a few drops of water dripping from the end of the fingers is baptism, and another demands the submergence of the entire body. This one prays with book, and that one makes extemporaneous utterance. The rector of one delivers his sermon in a gown, while the backwoods preacher of another sect addresses the people in his shirt sleeves. Some of your denominations have the majestic dominant in the service, and others spontaneity.

Some of you think that from all eternity some were predestined to be saved, and that from all eternity others were doomed. Now, it is the business of Young Men's Christian associations, and tract societies, and Sundayschool unions, and pronounced undenominational journals, to show the falsity of the charge that we are fighting among ourselves, by gathering all Christian denominations on one platform or launching the united sentiment of all Christdom from one style of religious printing press.

Unity! Complete unity! Never was any other army on earth so thoroughly united under one flag, and inspired by one sentiment, and led by one commander, as is the church militant. He commands all the troops of all denominations of Christians, and they are going to shout together in the final victory when the whole world is redeemed.

But we have in all our denominations got tired of trying to make other people think as we do on all points. The heresy-hunters in all denominations are nearly all dead, thank God, and we are learning that what men get wrong in their faith, instead of martyrizing them by arraignment, we do better to wait for the natural roll of years to remove them. Men die, but the truth lives on. We may not all agree as to the number of teeth in the jawbone with which Samson slew the Philistines, or agree as to what was the exact color of the foxes which he set on fire to burn up the cornstocks; but on the vitals of religion we all agree.

If we could call into one great convention the 645,566 Episcopalians, the 1,420,905 Lutherans, the 1,460,246 Presbyterians, the 4,153,857 Baptists, the 5,653,280 Methodists, putting unto them the following questions, we would get unanimous answer in the affirmative: Do you believe in a God, good, holy, just, omnipotent? Do you believe in Jesus Christ as a Saviour? Do you believe in the convicting, converting and sanctifying power of the Holy Ghost? Do you believe that the Gospel is going to conquer all nations? If you should put those questions to those assembled millions on millions, while there would not be a solitary negative, there would be an aye! aye! aye! loud enough to make the foundations of the earth tremble and the arches of the heavens resound. Let there be platforms, let there be great occasions, let there be undenominational printing presses to thunder forth the unity of all Christendom. One Lord. One faith. One Baptism. One God and Father. One Jesus Christ. One cross. One Heaven.

So also there is room for a religious journal that stands for liberty as against all oppression. No authority, political or ecclesiastical, must be permitted to make us believe this or that. Liberty of the Armenian to worship God independent of the Turkish government. Liberty of Cuba as against Spanish domination. Liberty of Hawaii as against all monarchial authority which it has thrown off. Civil liberty. Polical liberty. Religious liberty.

The religious journal on whose seventh anniversary I preach has had for its owner and publisher one who, in his ancestry, experienced just the opposite. His father, an exile from his native land because of his opinions, his property confiscated, his life imperiled, landed on American soil bereft of everything that foreign oppressions could rob him of. Naturally his son knows right well how to appreciate liberty; the most of us are descended from those who imperiled all to gain their natural and religious rights. Let the type and the printing presses and the editorial chairs be overthrown which dare to surrender to any attempt again to put on the shackles. The movement has started for the demolition of all the tyrannies of church and state. Religious newspapers must stand shoulder to shoulder in this mighty march for God and the world's rescue.

Again, on this seventh anniversary, I say there is room for a religious paper charged with old-fashioned evangelism. Other styles of religious newspaper may do for advertising purposes, or for the presentation of able essays on elaborate themes, but if this world is ever brought to God it will be through unqualified, unadulterated, unmixed, unmistakable evangelism. It was astounding that the Lord Almighty should have gone into great bereavement, submitting to the loss of his only Son, that Son stepping off the doorsill of Heaven into a darkness and an abysm that no plummet has ever yet been able to fathom and through that funeral of the Heavens life is offered to our world; but how to get the tidings to all people, and in such an attractive way that they will take hold of them is the absorbing question. The human voice can travel only a few feet away, and the world wants something further and wider-reaching, and that is the newspaper press; and as the secular press must necessarily give itself chiefly to religious affairs, let the religious newspapers give itself to the present and everlasting salvation of all who can read, or, if not able to read, have ears to hear others read. If there be an opportunity higher, deeper, grander than that offered to newspaper evangelism, name it and guide us to it, that we may see its altars, its pillars, its domes, its latitude.

Again, on this seventh anniversary of the Christian Herald, I notice there is room for a religious paper thoroughly humanitarian. The simple fact is the majority of the human race have not enough to eat or wear. The majority of the human race are in trouble. How to multiply loaves of bread and increase the fuel and heal the wounds and shelter the homeless are questions that Christ met equally as soon as he did spiritual necessities. The first heart to respond to the cry of sufferers from drought, or flood or earthquake, or cruelty, should be the Christian heart. Therefore let the pages of religious journalism spread out the story of all such woes and collect relief and disburse aims all around our suffering world. Religious journalism ought to become the aqueduct through which the Christian charities of the world should pour until there should be no more hunger to be fed, no more ignorance to be educated and no more nakedness to be clothed, and no more suffering to assuage. In trying to do that practical thing the religious paper whose anniversary I celebrate has, during the past seven years, raised and distributed over $400,000 for the relief of physical distresses.

Again, on this seventh anniversary of a religious publication, I notice that there is an especial mission for a religious journal truthfully optimistic. The most optimistic book I know of is the Bible, and its most impressive authors were all optimists. David an optimist, Paul an optimist. St. John an optimist. Our blessed Lord an optimist. I can not look upon a desert but I am by the Old Book reminded that it will "blossom like as the rose." I can not in a menagerie look upon a lion and a leopard but I am reminded that "a little child shall lead them." I can not see a collection of gems in a jeweler's window without thinking of Heaven aflash and ablaze and incarnadined and empurpled with all manner of precious stones. I can not hear a trumpet but I think of that one which shall wake the dead. All the ages of time bounded on one side by the paradise in which Adam and Eve walked, and on the other side by the paradise which St. John saw in apocalyptic vision. The Scriptures optimistic and their authors optimistic, all religious newspapers ought to be optomistic. Not only should all ministers and all religious editors have their hearts right, but their liver right. The world has enough trouble of its own, without our giving them an extra dose in the shape of religion. This world is going to be saved, and if you do not believe it you are an infidel. None of us wants to get on board a train, which, instead of reaching the depot, is surely going down the embankment. All aboard for the millennium! For the most part, in a religious journal, let the editorials be cheerful, and the pictures cheerful. If in one column there be a ghastly wood cut of the famine-stricken in India, in the next column have a list of contributions for alleviation of the suffering, or a picture of a ship carrying breadstuffs. If in one column there be the death of an old minister of the Gospel whom we can not spare, in the next put the name of some young Elisha who can wear the mantle of Elijah. If some evil of society is depicted in one column, in the next show the Gospel machinery that is to drive it back into the perdition from which it ascended. More and more sunshine let there be in religious journalism. Publish in it more sermons on texts like "O give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good," and fewer on text like "Out of depths of hell have I cried unto Thee, O Lord." If any one has anything gloomy to say, let him say it to himself. If he must write it, let him not send it to editorial rooms, but put it in the pigeon-hole of his own desk for his heirs, and assign or read it further on, for they probably can stand it better than we. I gave $7 to hear Jenny Lind sing; I never will give a cent to hear a man groan. Up with the blinds and throw back the shutters, and let the morning light come in! There is not so much religion in the dampness of a cellar as in the breath of an apple orchard in blossom week. What a victory David got over himself when he closed the Psalm with six chapters of "Praise ye the Lord," saying it over and over again, until, in any other book, it would have become monotonous. If in our diaries, and our family records, and our religious newspapers we would write two honest catalogues, the one a catalogue of blessings and the other a catalogue of troubles, the former would be five times larger than the latter.

Pray for the religious papers of America, because of the fact that if they have the right spirit each one does as much good as five, or fifty or two hundred churches. What are the 500 or 5,000 people making up a Sabbath audience compared with the 10,000, or 50,000 or 200,000 that the religious journal addresses? Such journals are pulpits that preach day and night. They reach weekly those who, through invalidism, or through indifference, never enter churches. They reach people in their quietude, when their attention is not distracted, as in church, by the fine millinery that appeals to the eye, or the rustle of attire that attracts the ear. It will always be our duty and our privilege not to forsake the assembling of ourselves together, but I believe the consecrated printing press is the chief agency under God to save the world.

Pray also for the religious newspapers of America, that they may resist the temptation to become neerb, harsh and damnatory of those who think differently from themselves.

The maids of honor of the queen are all young women of good family, and are selected by her majesty herself. They are in constant attendance on the sovereign, two at a time, and reside at the court during their turn of waiting. On being appointed they receive and enjoy for life the courtesy title of "honorable," and if a maid, after having held her appointment for a certain number of years marries, she receives a wedding gift of $5,000.

During the existence of the British parliament it has passed about 20,000 statutes, of which about 3,000 are still in force. Of these, 3,300 were passed in Queen Victoria's reign, 131 date from Henry III., the first three Edwards, and Richard II., 26 from the house of Lancaster, only 3 from that of York, 170 come from the Tudors, 69 from the Stuarts, 92 from William III. and Anne, and 1,182 from the four Georges and William IV.

CONSULATE GUARDED.

Daily Distribution of Rations to the Reconcentrados in Matanzas.

Parties Extended to 69 Prisoners Guilty of Forcible Resistance—Rear Admiral Vicente Manterola Arrives in Havana and Takes Charge of Admiralty.

Havana, Nov. 26.—The tube reported to have contained dynamite which was found by a man subsequently arrested by the private watchman of the American consulate building Wednesday afternoon, near the door of the consulate, is classed in official circles as being nothing more than a joke. The man arrested is believed to be the individual who placed the tube where it was found. But, in order to guard against any possibilities, the Spanish officials are taking precautions to guard the United States consulate and to protect the United States consul general, Gen. Fitzhugh Lee.

Rr. Adm. Vicente Manterola arrived Thursday from Spain and took charge of the admiralty office. With him came also 300 soldiers and 370 seamen.

Gen. Blanco has authorized the transfer of the bodies of Gustavo Ariza and Fernandez Galvez Posada to the private burial ground of the Ariza family.

Senor Barrera, former chief of police, now in Spain, has been summoned by the governor general to attend the inquiry into the circumstances under which Senhor Galves, the Portguese consul and his son, met their death on the Santo Venia road while going to join the insurgents.

El Diario de La Marina says there is no ground for the rumor that Senhor Guzman and Senor Jose Congosta, the secretary general of Cuba, have had a serious quarrel as to policy; the Union Constitutional, on the other hand, declares that they have had n serious difference of opinion.

From Thursday there will be a daily distribution of 2,000 rations instead of 1,000 among the reconcentrados at Matanzas and Friday au infirmary battalion will be organized. Several sugar estates near San Fernandino and in the natividad district of Sancti Spiritus have been recovered by the Spanish from the insurgents. The latter lost several men and had several taken prisoners.

Pardons have been extended to 69 prisoners, "guilty of forcible resistance," in various localities of the island. Among these are ten women, and also 26 subjects of foreign governments. The list includes Mrs. Clemincia Arando, Matilde Ferrer, Maria Teresa, Rosalia Garcia, Emilia Cordoba, Pantaleona Catillo and Inocencia Araujo.

A BIZZARD

Of No Mean Proportions Raging in the Northwest—Below Freezing Weather in Dakota.

Omaha, Nov. 26.—A snowstorm of great severity swept over Nebraska Thursday night.

The weather was mild all day, with a drizzling rain. Toward evening the mercury dropped to almost zero and a gale from the northwest swept the fine particles of snow in every direction.

Not a great quantity of snow has fallen, but what there is is piling in huge drifts in the streets of the city, impeding all kinds of traffic.

Out in the state the situation is worse. In the extreme western part of the state a regular blizzard exists and more damage is threatened to stock interests than at any time this winter. The storm covers the entire state. Railroad traffic is being interfered with.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 26.—A blizzard of no mean proportion is raging in the northwest. Dispatches from points in Minnesota Iowa, Montana and the two Dakotas, state that a heavy snowstorm, accompanied by a medium wind, but a much lower temperature, has prevailed most of the day.

At Helena the highest point reached Thursday was 30 above, while at 8 p. m. it had dropped to 12. The lowest temperature was at Battleford, where at 8 o'clock Thursday night the thermometer registered 10 degrees below zero.

Illinois Regimental Monument Dedicated.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 26.—The Nineteenth Illinois regimental monument erected on Missionary Ridge was formally dedicated Thursday, there being present at the ceremony about twenty-five survivors, all from Chicago. The monument is erected on the spot on which the regiment first rallied and reached the crest of the ridge in the memorable engagement. Thursday was the thirty-fourth anniversary of the battle. The address was made by Col. W. W. Young, of Chicago, president of the Regimental association.

Jerry Johnson Lynched.

Waycross, Ga., Nov. 26.—Jerry Johnson, a Negro, was lynched Thursday evening by a mob near Screven. He was in charge of officers and was being taken to jail at Jessup. A crowd of armed men rode up to the officers and demanded the prisoner. The Negro was made the target for a number of rifles and his body was perforated with leaden balls. The Negro had been arrested for stealing a mule.

Thanksgiving in Vienna.

Vienna, Nov. 26.—Charlemagne Tower, the United States minister to Austro-Hungary, and Mrs. Tower, held a Thanksgiving day reception at the American legation Thursday afternoon which was largely attended.

Capt. Lovering Guilty.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—The verdict in the Lovering court-martial was forwarded to the secretary of war. The court held a short secret session Thursday at which the verdict was made and dispatched to Washington. It is the general belief that Capt. Lovering will meet with nothing worse than a reprimand. The finding is always a secret one, being forwarded to the commanding officer of the department. From Gen. Brooke it will be sent to Washington, where it is discretionary with the military authorities to give it out for publication.

ROYAL DECREES

Granting Autonomy to Cuba and Porto Rico—The Governments to Be Composed of an Insular Parliament.

Madrid, Nov. 27.—The Official Gazette published Saturday morning the royal decrees granting autonomy to Cuba and Porto Rico, thus removing the anxiety that had begun to be expressed on all sides as the result of the government's reticence and unexplained delay.

The scheme of autonomy is as follows:

Article 1 explains the principles of the future governments of the two islands.

Article 2 decrees that the government of each island shall be composed of an insular parliament, divided into two chambers, while a governor general representing the home government shall exercise in its name the supreme authority.

Article 3 declares that the faculty of making laws of colonial affairs rests with the insular chambers and the governor general.

Article 4 directs that the insular representation shall be composed of two corporations of equal powers: A chamber of representatives and a council of administration.

Article 5 provides that the council of administration shall consist of 35 members, of whom 18 shall be elected and 17 nominated by the home government.

Article 6 provides that the members of the council of administration must be Spaniards, 35 years of age, who were born in the island or who have resided there continuously for four years. It specifies numerous officials, such as senators, presidents of courts and of chambers of commerce and other bodies as eligible to election to the council.

Articles 7 to 14 inclusive, deal with nominations and conditions of election to councils.

Article 15 empowers the throne or the governor general to convoke, suspend or dissolve the chambers with an obligation to reassemble them within three months.

THE ROTHSCHILDS

Are Preparing to Enter the Alaska Trade—A Line of Steamers to Be Built.

San Francisco, Nov. 27.—The Rothschilds, through the San Francisco house of Liebes & Co., are about to enter the Alaska trade.

Four steamers are being built in sections by W. H. Brick & Co., the owners of the California machine works. When this contract is fulfilled the machinery and timbers will be sent to Dutch Harbor, near Unalaska, to be set up. The firm will then build nine barges in sections to follow the material for steamboat building, and the barges will likewise be put together at Dutch Harbor.

All of this work is being done for the Alaska Exploration Co., which was incorporated about two months ago with a capital of $1,000,000.

Isaac Litch, in speaking of this project, said that it is proposed to have the steamers and barges ready for business when the ice breaks in the Yukon in June. He said that the Rothschilds are interested in the venture, which was arranged in London five months ago, and there is practically unlimited capital behind it. Besides doing a general transportation business the company will establish trading stations and thoroughly explore the country.

POLITICAL PRISONERS.

Released From the Spanish Penal Settlement, Cheer for Free America.

Havana, Nov. 27.—Advices just received from Porto Rico say that a riot occurred there. It appears that a steamer, having on board a number of political prisoners recently released from the Spanish penal settlements on the African coast, in accord ance with the amnesty decree, arrived there, and the liberated men were allowed to land. They soon found their way to a drinking saloon; partook of stimulants and began cheering for the United States, crying "Hurrah for free America." The demonstration was resented by the crowds about the place, and rioting followed.

The police were called upon to interfere and compel the liberated men to re-embark. During the disturbance the police captured the insurgent, Col. Alipo Sanchez, who is described as being incognito in Porto Rico.

Prof. Schraag Fatally Injured.

Newport, Ky., Nov. 27.—Prof. Louis Schraag, a pioneer citizen, was fatally injured by an electric car at Third and Columbia streets Friday morning. Prof. Schraag attempted to cross the street in front of a rapidly moving car. The motorman rang his gong, but the old gentleman could not get out of the way in time. He was knocked down. Prof. Schraag was picked up in an unconscious condition and carried into the residence of Dr. Anna Sedan. It was found that his skull was fractured and that his injury is fatal. Prof. Schraag is 85 years old and is probably the oldest music teacher in this vicinity. He is also a veteran of the Mexican war.

To Kill Pardons Board.

Columbus, O., Nov. 27.—Word comes from Akron that Senator J. Park Alexander has prepared a bill to abolish the state board of pardons. In place of the state board, Senator Alexander's bill establishes local boards in each county, each board to have jurisdiction over all applications made for pardons of convicts sent to the penitentiary from its county.

Trotting Meet in Louisville in 1898.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 27.—The event of the trotting meet to be given by the Louisville Driving and Fair association in 1898, will be the Kentucky maiden stakes of $10,000, for foals of 1896. This stake has been divided and will be contested both next year and the year following. Of the money offered $2,000 will go to the two-year-olds that trot and $1,000 to the two-year-olds that pace, while the remaining $7,000 will go to the three-year-olds that trot in 1899. The entries have been remarkably good, and this stake next year will be one of the best favored of the season.

HORRIBLE STORY

Of Murder and Mutilation of Men in the Congo Free States.

The Fiends Hacked the Dead Bodies to Pieces and Distributed Them Among the Attacking Party—Hearts of the Victims Cut Out and Burned.

Washington, Nov. 29.—A startling and horrible story of the killing of two Washingtonians and the mutilation of their bodies by the natives of the Congo Free state has just been received here in a letter to Mr. Leo Harmon, of 1723 Ninth street, Northwest. The men were members of a party who, during November and December, 1894, and January, 1895, went from this city to enlist in the Belgian army for service in the Congo state. Those enlisting included Edward Thornton, a commissioned officer of the national fencibles, employed in the war department; Lindsay G. Burke, Frank Batchelor, Harry R. Andrews, Barry Sparlin and a Mr. Mellin or Mellen, who was at one time a non-commissioned officer of the United States army. All except Thornton and Mellin were members of the national guard of the district.

The information received by Mr. Harmon is that Burke and a party of 50 natives who were sent out to dislodge a band of dwarfs who had revolted, were ambushed and killed. An Arab who was with the command, but who was some distance off at the time of the ambuscade, states that he knows Burke was dead before the natives reached him, and that the most hideous-looking little man he ever saw walked up and cut Burke's head off with one blow of a knife. The fiend then began to slice pieces off his legs and arms and to distribute them among his followers.

There were so many of the fiends that the pieces were very small, and before they had concluded there was a free fight to see who could get the little remaining. In some manner the dwarfs became alarmed and left the place, one fiend carrying off Burke's arm. The Arab saw the cause of their alarm as Windeey, a New Yorker who had command of another detachment, sent out on the same errand, arrived a few hours after the natives departed. Windeey gathered up the remains of Burke and buried them. When Windeey learned the strength of the rebels he hurried back to Michau and notified the commandant of the post.

The other Washingtonian who lost his life was killed on March 1, when the troops under the command of Baron Dhanis revolted near Kabanbarre and assassinated a number of officers of their regiments, among them being Mellin. The body of Mellin was butchered almost beyond recognition, his heart having been cut out and burned so that his courage could not again be used against the rebels by the whites. It is their belief that unless the heart is burned and the ashes scattered to the four winds the spirit of the man descends to his brethren.

Thornton is said to be in a very precarious situation at Basaka but a relief expedition has been sent to his rescue. Gage, another American, is very sick with the fever at Nyangine.

The killing of Burke and Mellin occurred in December, 1890.

MAIL ROBBERS.

Post Office Inspectors Make What They Believe Important Arrests in Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 29.—Inspectors Gorman and Owings made an arrest Sunday night which they believe will lead to the unearthing of a gang of mail robbers. John C. Hutchinson, who has been a letter carrier in the Pittsburgh post office since 1889, was detected in the act of taking a letter containing $12 from the street box at Smithfield and Diamonds streets. He was allowed to go to the office, one block distant with his trip, and was arrested when leaving the office, a very short time later. The letter and money were on his person. The decoy letter had been sealed with sealing wax before being deposited in the box. When taken from Hutchinson the seal was apparently intact, yet the money was in his hand tightly rolled into a wad. Hutchinson broke down and confessed his guilt. He implicates no accomplices, but the officials feel certain there are others who have been working with Hutchinson in a systematic rifling of letters and more arrests are expected.

Reduction of Letter Postage in Canada.

Toronto, Nov. 29.—At a political meeting held in this city Saturday night, William Patterson, minister of customs, stated that he had been authorized by the postmaster general of Canada, to announce that on and after the 1st of January next the rate of postage on letters from Canada to all parts of the British empire, would be three cents for one ounce. At present the rate on letters to Great Britain is five cents per half ounce and correspondingly higher to other and more distant parts of the empire.

Killed With an Ax.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 29.—Amos Haveland, a farmer, living near Allentown, was killed Sunday afternoon by Clarence Doyle, a farm hand. The men were visiting Haveland's son, who is a farmer at Windsor, about ten miles from here. They had been drinking hard cider and got into a quarrel over Haveland's wife. Doyle struck Haveland in the head with an ax and he died two hours later. Doyle is at large.

Austrian Ministry Resigns.

Vienna, Nov. 29.—The members of the Austrian ministry Sunday tendered their resignations to Emperor Francis Joseph, who accepted them and entrusted Baron Gautsch, who holds the portfolio of public instruction of the retiring ministry, with the task of forming a new cabinet.

Austrian-Lloyd Steamer Sinks in Collision.

Constantinople, Nov. 29.—The Austrian-Lloyd steamer Diana has been in a collision off Galata with the British steamer Antonio. The Diana sunk. The 150 passengers and 40 members of the crew of the Diana were saved.

BOONE CO., RECORDER.

Wednesday, December 1, 1897.

Advertising Rates:

One inch, one time.....$1.00
Each additional time.....25
Obituaries, Tributes of Respects or notices of a like nature, per inch .50

W. L. RIDDELL. - - Publisher.

Neighborhood News.

Taylorsport.

Mrs. Laura Phelps is quite sick.

Corn is selling at 25c a bu. in the field.

Vinct. son of Capt. Pickelheimer and Miss Jo Grubbs, daughter of the late Hon. W. B. Grubbs, were married at the home of the bride, at high noon, Wednesday the 24th ult. Immediately after the ceremony the bride and groom left on the St. Buckeye State, for Memphis, with the congratulations and good wishes of their many friends.

Constance.

Mrs. L. Anderson is very sick.

John Klassner is building an addition to his house.

Fred Peno, of Gallatin county, is visiting his sister here.

Mrs. Brown had a valuable cow stolen, last Wednesday night.

The youngest child of Selleys Peno died of brain trouble, last week.

F. Bronner and daughter, of Cincinnati, visited friends here, last week.

Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Welch and daughter, of Ludlow, visited Mrs. Murat, one day last week.

Erlanger.

Miss Clara Morelli is the guest of Miss Hattie Mack, of Garvey Ave.

David Riggs is enjoying a splendid time among friends at Greencastle, Ind.

Mr. Wm. Sexton and wife have returned from a visit to friends at New Boston, Ohio.

Len Childress has gone to take charge of a store at Rushville, Indiana, for Kroeger & Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mussman gave a birthday party in honor of their son, George, Thanksgiving night, which was well attended.

Mr. Jerry Smith and bride, after the wedding, last Wednesday, went to Williamstown to spend their honeymoon among relatives.

Limaburg.

Farmers have been killing hogs.

Husking corn is the order of the day.

Everett Dixon is having his tobacco prized.

Thanksgiving is over and everybody is looking for Christmas.

Eddie Farrell has moved on Jacob Rouse's farm near Kidville.

Henry Clore and wife were visiting Legrand Utz and wife, Sunday.

The creeks were higher last Friday than they have been since last spring.

Mrs. Ezra Rouse and Miss Bessie Feldtmau spent Thanksgiving in Cincinnati.

Bud Baker, who has been suffering with an abscess in his head for several days, is able to be out again.

Florence

Uncle Milt Hamilton thinks living rather expensive in Florence.

Mrs. and Miss Fish, of Nicholasville, are the guest of relatives here.

Rev. Dennis will leave for Alabama, Dec. 6th to spend the holidays.

Miss Bess Crigler is the guest of friends in Louisville for the winter.

Mrs. P. C. Carpenter entertained a number of friends, Sunday, at dinner.

Miss Huey, of Union, was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Robt. Rice, last week.

Mrs. A. G. Fisk was the guest of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. H. C. Fisk, Saturday.

Irvin Kyle, one of the Turner Locker employes, had his hand badly mashed in the elevator wheel.

Mrs. Geo. W. Crouch will leave for Warsaw the last of the week, on a visit to Mr. Crouch's parents.

Hathaway.

T. L. Utz and family were visiting here last week.

The mud roads are not as dusty as they were a few weeks ago.

Mrs. A. J. Utz spent last Monday week with T. J. Stephens and family.

James Rice has a steam engine which he made, and which everyone says is perfection.

Every boy and man in these parts took Thanksgiving for hunting, notwithstanding the rain, and the game they killed was a plenty.

F. J. Rice and wife, B. F. Rue and wife, H. C. Presser and wife and Claud Ryle and wife spent the day with Duke Adams and wife, Sunday week.

The horse Miss Nannie Bristow was driving to school, one morniug last week, was frightened near L. J. Riley's and ran away, turned over the buggy and kicked itself loose, and broke the harness badly. Fortunately Miss Nannie escaped with only a few bruises.

Walton.

Mrs. Fannie Johnson, of Zion, is visiting relatives here.

Dr. A. N. Jones is confined to his room, having been ill for the past week.

F. E. Curley, of Indianapolis, Ind., returned to that place after a pleasant visit to his father, T. F. Curley.

Mrs. Eliza Buce is quite sick, and her recovery is doubtful. She was partially paralyzed a few days since.

Lun Metcalf, who has been to Colorado Springs, Colorado, for his health has returned home and is looking better.

Perry Rouse and family have moved down near the Snyder Co.'s canning factory, where he is engaged as night watchman. His dwelling house in Walton will be occupied by A. R. Hance.

The friends of Mr. John T. Johnson and wife gave them quite a surprise, Saturday night. They were served with an elegant supper, prepared by the ladies at the residence of Dr. S. H. Adams. After the supper the guest accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Johnson to their home and presented them with a beautiful Oxford Bible and lamp.

Bellevue.

Dan Lawell and wife were the guests of his father on the 26th ult.

Mrs. Sutton sold to Jack Walton 1,000 bushels of corn at 25 cents, Walton to do the hauling.

Dr. Horace Grant and some friends from Louisville, were up Thanksgiving, taking a hunt.

Fifteen of the I. O. O. F., members attended lodge at Aurora on Tuesday evening of last week.

Miss Della Wingate, of Rabbit Hash, has been the guest of friends and relatives here for several days.

John Presser has just completed a barn for John Lassing, on his land bordering on Woolper creek.

We notice from a clipping that our friend, F. T. Riley, is going to the Klondike. Success to you, Fletcher.

Geo. Bougiuer and one of his friends were down from Newport, Thanksgiving day, carrying rabbits for the boys.

Nicholas Swartz has sold his possessions in Indiana, and will soon leave for Washington State, to make his abode with a daughter who resides there.

Evan Acra, of McVille, is very low with typhoid fever. The father and mother in their old age, and the remainder of the family have our deepest sympathy in their sad affliction. May the Lord comfort them all.

Wm. Botts delivered to A. Corbin & Son, 13 hogs weighing 335 lbs.; Wm. T. Ryle to same firm, 8, weighing 267 lbs. each. Arnold Bros. to Huey & Co., 6, weight 260; Mike Clore, to same firm, 6, weight 310; Mrs. Sutton, 8, weight 235 each. Ruling price, $3.25 per cwt.

Married—At the residence of the bride's parents, at McVille, on the evening of the 24th ult., at 7 o'clock, Fred McAtee to Miss Annie Loudou, Rev. Utz officiating. Fred is making his home at Buffalo, in the Hoosier State. Accept congratulations, Fred. May your troubles through life be few, and your joys many. If you wish to increase your happiness, subscribe for the RECORDER, so you may hear from your friends on this side.

It was our privilege, not long since, to pass the site of our early school days, and we were forced by the change to become somewhat reminiscent. The brooks have changed their course, the spot where the house stood is grown up in maize, the old log tobacco pen which stood just across the creek, and around which we use to gambol (don't get the wrong word) is gone, and last but not least, the old Cottonwood from which hung the vine that afforded us a swing, is a thing of the past. Well do we remember our first school, when tutored by F. Riddell, of your town, and from whom we received the basic stone upon which our educational structure, though common it be, has been erected. Then there are other teachers, but space forbids our mentioning but one more, viz: D. C. Peck, who especially looked after the mathematical, by teaching us the "Double Rule of three," in having us carry rocks from the creek to make a walk, more boys less rock, etc. Our schoolmates are scattered in different professions, some have passed into the great beyond, notably George Hewitt, who died at his post, fighting for the "Lost Cause". How we did admire, although small as we were, the heroism, fortitude and true manliness of that boy. Would love to mention others for whom we have a fond remembrance, but space forbids.

Richwood.

Miss Harriet Bedinger spent Thanksgiving in Ohio.

Mr. Gaines Robinson has a nice herd of Shorthorn calves.

Clarence Tanner and sister attended the Meyers-Craven wedding at Verona, last Wednesday.

Miss Ella Tanner entertained Mr. Cash Wilson and Miss Lula Wilhoit, of Fiskburg, last Sunday.

Senator Conner entertained the Hon. South Trimble, of Franklin county, last Wednesday night. Mr. Trimble is a candidate for Speaker of the House of Representatives.

About twenty hunters got off the the train here Thanksgiving morning. The farmers are too indulgent to them, allowing them to kill all the game while the country boys are doing their fall work and when they get time to hunt they will not have anything to kill.

The following scholars took part in the Thanksgiving exercises at the school house in district No 36, (Frogtown:) Loyd Stephens, Earl Carpenter, Kenneth Stephens, Tom Carpeuter, Alfred Tanner, Nellie Tanner. Mattie Faney, Clara Tanner, Lillie Hammond, Faunie Cleck, Bessie Richards, May Aydlott, Grace Odenwald, Willie Clark, Hind Clark.

We suggest to the sportsmen of old Boone that we have an old fashioned fox-drive during the Christmas holidays. As the Union precinct is the nearest to the geographical center of the county, the men and boys from far and near, could form themselves into a circle surrounding the entire precinct and close up by degrees until within a few yards of each other, when the hounds, held by a number of men in the center in charge of the president, be turned loose on the foxes enclosed in the magic circle. The farmers would not object to a chase of this kind, as it would save them many chickens, lambs and pigs, besides furnishing some manly and innocent sport for the boys.

We would like to hear from the editor of the "Union Blade" on the subject and would like for him to call a meeting of some of the old sportsmen to perfect some kind of an organization. We mention the following as good presidents of such an association: L. B. Dickerson, J. Sleet Hume, J. J. Berkshire, David Houston, Sam. C. Johnson, Larry Farrell, N. B. Bristow and Tom Burkett.

Rabbit Hash.

Quite a number of the boys celebrated Thanksgiving by hunting the furry tribe.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather Thursday night, only a few attended the singing at Z. T. Stephens.

Last Sunday was the day appointed to receive the converts into the Baptist church, that joined last October. Rev. Lee Utz, the pastor, preached that day but forgot to receive them.

Last Monday was the 69th anniversary of Mrs. F. M. Stephens' birthday. Her children and friends surprised her with an oyster supper that evening. There were thirty-two present, and every one enjoyed themselves.

A few days ago Russ Stephens shot a crow between him and the house. He killed the crow, but the bullet, after passing through the crow, glanced and went through a window and struck his wife on the wrist, making a slight wound.

Died, on the 13inst, at Milton, Ind., after a lingering illness, Miss Lou Robinson. She was daughter of Morgan H. Robinson, who was, for many years, a resident of this neighborhood. She was a member of the East Bend Methodist church, and was buried in the Methodist cemetery here.

On last Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stephens gave the young folks a dance. It was a success and every one enjoyed themselves. Charles Wilson, of Lawrenceburg, Ind., was there and gave the guests a sample of Lawrenceburg dancing. He told anecdotes, delivered a lecture and closed the entertainment with the doxology. Come again, Charley.

Petersburg.

Dode Bailey was in town Sunday.

Hog killing has commenced in good earnest.

Wallace Grant is acting clerk of the Workuni.

Little Nanuie, daughter of the widow Terrill, is very sick

Wilbur Rice shipped 23 nice hogs on the Workum, Monday.

Major Stott is capable of relating anecdotes on any stump.

W. T. Crisler has gone to Chicago to clerk in a large store.

Wm. Evans mashed his foot with a heavy timber the other day.

Eugene Witham and family visited at Henry North's, last week.

Mr. Lemmons' condition doesn't improve, but rather the opposite.

Not so much hunting of late, as fresh pork and sausage are plentiful.

R. J. Akin shipped a nice bunch of hogs to the city, last Wednesday.

Mr. Shipman, who lives on Henry Terrill's place, is very low with consumption.

Mr. Arthur Terrill whose leg was broken about a month ago, is improving nicely.

Josie Jones and John Griffin, of Aurora, were married, last Thursday, in the Catholic church by Father Macky.

J. B. Tolin passed through town, last Saturday. He has been having a tough time with a sore hand. It is better now.

Born—Nov. 22, to Melward Cave and wife, a son. Mrs. Cave is in a very critical condition and their little girl has been quite sick.

Lewis Sullivan and Chas. Beemon delivered hogs and tobacco here, last week, for Wingate & Thompson; J. I. McWethy sold hogs to same firm; J. W. Sebree delivered hogs here for Utz & Gordon, of Hebron.

Union.

Miss Rose Stausifer, of Walton, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Voshell.

Mr. Dick Thompson has been in New Columbus, several weeks on business.

J. L. Frazier was initiated into the mysteries of the Grange Saturday eve.

B L. Norman and Peter Adams went hunting near Verona, recently, and killed 132 rabbits.

Messrs. Beal, Blyth and Lassing, of Burlington, were hunting in this section last Thursday.

Larry Farrell, of Verona, and Tom Burkett, of Union, were the promoters of a big fox-hunt Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Margaret Threlkil and Miss Alma Baker, of Covington, were visiting relatives and friends in here, last week.

Charley and Lee Cleek raised a large crop of corn on the Taliaferro place this year and it is good, solid corn.

A horse driven by Miss Nannie Bristow ran away, one day last week, seriously bruising Miss Nannie and breaking the buggy.

Reports were circulated here that Jacob Reib, of Covington, was fatally paralyzed, but later reports prove him to be much better and likely to get well. Mr. Rieb has many friends in this section

They tell us the shortest road to a man's heart is through his stomach. Well, your "cor" is certain that when a good woman feeds him on pumpkin pie time after time, she is getting mighty close to the heart.

"Babe" Conner is some relation to Job, perhaps. He is boiling to beat the Jew. S. A. House was trying to comfort him with the assurance that every boil was worth $5, but "Babe" was willing to sell out at 1 cent each.

Samuel Stephens, Esq., was thawing himself out by the store stove Friday, and talked of the warm weather. He thinks this has been the warmest November for 20 years and don't know but it will last until Christmas.

Friend Lon Utz, of Big Bone, was in Union, Saturday and seemed in perfect health and fine spirits. He thinks prosperous times cannot be expected until the farmer gets a fair and reasonable profit from the product of his farm.

In handling the screw in the tobacco warehouse, Saturday, Wm. Lunsford let the head, weighing 70 pounds, fall on his hand, cutting the little finger almost off. Dr. Crouch dressed it and hopes to have it growing back ok in a few days.

Spencer Smith lost a valuable horse Thanksgiving day. He was empaled on a picket fence and Mrs Smith worked heroically to release him, in a beating storm of rain, but could not do so. Two men passing along the road came to her assistance.

The meeting conducted by Rev. Clark, of Augusta, at the Presbyterian church has been attended by large congregations. Several persons united with the church by letter and confession Mr. Clark impressed the people as a man of polished education and high christian character. The meeting closed Sunday night. Your "cor." liked him very much as a minister, also because he came from the beautiful land of the magnolia and orange tree. Mr. Clark is a native Georgian and seems as solid as the marble taken from his native town —Marrietta.

The Musical and Literary entertainment given by the Ladies' Society of the Baptist Church, Thanksgiving evening was a success in every respect. The program, which was quite lengthy, had no flaw or hitch in its rendering. Miss Schuster was so realistic in her recitations as to have every lady in the house ready to write testimonials in her favor, even if she did make them see imaginary "mouse" running all over the stage. Well you may be certain the men were much pleased too. The Erlanger quartette was strictly gilt edge and received regular cyclones of applause. The appearance of the little Misses Reed and Beaui, of Covington, in quaint costumes designed especially for the occasion, brought down the house. The graceful and easy manner in which they acted and recited, not only reflected much credit upon themselves, but to Miss Schuster, their teacher. The fame of these little ladies had been heraled abroad by the daily papers and they fully sustained these honors in Union, last Thursday evening. Laugh, well, reckon we did laugh! If there was a man, woman or child in the audience that didn't laugh until the tears ran down his or her cheeks at those little tots it was because the wellsprings of good nature were as dry as a bone in them. The Mandolin Club, of Erlanger, was called back by the audience time and again. Mr. Winston Coffman, of Covington, upheld the fame of the celebrated quartette of that city, of which he is a member. There may be "other pebbles on the beach," but very few like Mr. Coffman, if the writer is a judge. Miss Annie Rice has won high honors at the Conservatory of Music in Cincinnati, and has a bright future before her in the musical world. The people of Union gave evidence, Thursday night they were proud of her. The supper was bountiful, consisting of turkey, oysters, &c. The profits were large considering the weather.

This weather is not so good for the growing wheat.

The mercury was down to 14 degrees above zero, yesterday morning.

There is one kind of a rush a sheriff enjoys—a rush of taxpayer for their receipts.

Judge Stephens has called a special session of the Fiscal Court for to-morrow, Thursday.

The Christmas holidays are so near that the juveniles can easily tell how many days intervene.

For Sale—Side-bar, top buggy—in good condition, will sell cheap.
G. C. Gaddy, Bullittsville, Ky.

We have made arrangements with Uncle Sam by which we expect the RECORDER to reach the offices in the southern part of the county hereafter on Wednesday

It is proposed to call a special session of the legislature to stop the waste of gas in Indiana. In Kentucky special sessions of the legislature always increase the waste of gas.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Notice to Trespassers.

We, the undersigned, hereby give notice that we have posted our farms according to law, against trespass of all kinds, and will enforce the law against those who trespass thereon by hunting or otherwise.

Reuben Hager, Mary Kirtley.
W. K. Leathers, P. Hager.
Filmore Ryle, Ben R. Stephens.
W. B. Ryle, O. H. Craig.
Charles Craig, Murry Ryle.

FARM FOR SALE.

65 acres of nice land in Boone county, Ky., on the road from Florence to the Ohio river, about 2½ miles southwest of Erlanger, Ky., known as the Harriet Wayland farm. This is a very desirable piece of land, with frame house and barn on it, and nicely located. Terms easy. Possession will be given March 1st 1898. Address me for particulars at Ghent, Ky.

R. O. WILLIAMS,
dec-15 Administrator.

Farm for Sale!

(o)

In Boone county, Ky., on the North Bend Road, 1½ miles from Burlington, 1 mile from Hebron and 5 miles from Anderson's Ferry, and contains seventy-eight acres, good cottage of 5 rooms and good barn, orchard of 200 trees select fruit. The farm is all under good state of cultivation. For terms apply to

LASSING & RIDDELL,
Burlington, Ky.

For Sale--Farm.

—of—

123 Acres of Good Land in Boone County, Ky., on the Union & Beaver Turnpike, 2 miles from Union, three miles from Richwood Station. Good house of seven rooms, hall, vestibule, porches, good cellar; large barn, outbuildings, two cisterns, orchard and never failing water.

Henry Tucker,
UNION, Boone Co., Ky.

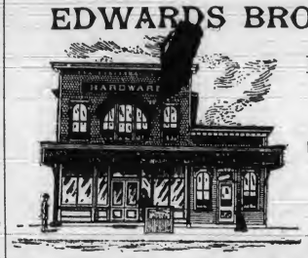
COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.
Sallie Powers, &c., Plffs.,
vs.
F. L. Gordon, &c., Defts.

The undersigned hereby gives notice that he will begin his sittings on the 24th day of Nov., 1897, at the Circuit clerk's office in Burlington, Ky., to hear proof in the above styled cause and will adjourn from day to day (Sunday excepted) to the 11 day of Dec., 1897. J. B. BERKSHIRE, M. C. B. C. C.

GO TO
HANKINS, DAVIS & CO., General Merchants,
HEBRON AND CONSTANCE,
A Good Supply of Feed always in Stock.

GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS.



Undertaking is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.

A good supply of Coal on hand at Constance at all times.

Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance

S. L. EDWARDS. A. M. EDWARDS.

EDWARDS BROTHERS,

DEALERS IN HARDWARE
—AND—
Agricultural Implements,

Furniture,
Stoves,
Tinware,
Saddlery,
Oils and Paints,
Wall Paper.

UNDERTAKING & EMBALMING A SPECIALTY.

We have added a first-class Tin Shop and are prepared to do Tin, Iron and Paper Roofing and guarantee all work done by us.

EDWARDS BROS., - - - Walton, Ky.

JOHN ALLISON,

UNDER-TAKER  EMBALMER,

—Corner Pike & Russell Streets,—
COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.

INDEPENDENT OF UNDERTAKERS' UNION.

THEY : MUST : GO.

Desiring to quit that branch of the business I am Closing OUT MY ENTIRE STOCK OF

MEN'S & BOYS' Ready-Made CLOTHING

At the greatest bargains ever offered in Covington.

MY TAILORING DEPARTMENT

Will be continued, and I have on hand the Finest Line of Suitings in the three cities. Give me a call.

H. F. BLASE, 540 Madison Avenue, COVINGTON, KY.

Jany 1-05

Many People When Buying Clothing

Never consider the WORKMANSHIP and TRIMMINGS—a matter of great importance. We pay particular attention to same and invite your inspection. Come in and examine our

All Wool Suits at $5.00.

Our Black and Blue Kersey Overcoats at $5, $6.50, $8 and $10, can not be equaled.

Our Men's Pants for $1.00 can not be beat.

Mr. L. Rice, of Independence, would be pleased to have his friends call upon him.

ROLFES & WACHS, RELIABLE CLOTHIERS

S. W. Cor. Pike & Madison Ave. Covington, Ky.

FOURTH YEAR.
OF WALTON ACADEMY,
—opens—
MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 6th, 1897
AT WALTON, KY.

Three Courses of Study to choose from: English, Scientific or Classical, Tuition per month, $2.50 and $3.00 Vocal and Instrumental Music at moderate rates.

We have a fine, new building with rooms for pupils, connected.—Board only $2.50 per week, or $2.00 for 5 days. Thorough, Substantial Work Guaranteed.

Teachers { Mrs. S. H. MYERS. CHAS. F. PRIOR. Rev. S. H. MYERS.

Further information gladly given by mail or interview.

Administrator's Notice.

I have this day been appointed administrator of the estate of James A. Botts, deceased, and all persons indebted to said estate must pay same at once and all persons having claims against said estate must present them to me or my attorney S. W. Tolin, at Burlington, Ky., proven as by law required.

EDWIN BOTTS, Adm'r.

Sept. 20th, 1897.

ELECTRIC HEADLIGHTS

are but one of the many modern appliances for the safe, rapid and comfortable transit of the traveler which the limited trains of the QUEEN & CRESCENT ROUTE afford.

Fast vestibuled trains to Lexington, Harriman, Chattanooga, Atlanta, Knoxville, Asheville, Columbia, Savannah, Jacksonville, Meridian, Birmingham, New Orleans, daily from Cincinnati, are provided with safety vestibules, heated by steam, lighted with gas, and have all modern improvements.

Write for information to
W. C. Rinearson,
General Passenger Agent,
Cincinnati, O.

Send 10 cents for fine Art colored Lithograph of Lookout Mountain and Chickamauga.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

Local News.

Delightful weather for killing hogs.

Dirt roads are in a terrible bad condition.

Hog killings are the popular gatherings now.

Thanksgiving afternoon was damp and gloomy.

The local bundle and hoop brigade has disbanded.

Miss Poland's school will give a Christmas entertainment.

A big husking bee at Uncle Yancy Clore's one night last week.

The schools and the bank observed last Thursday as a holiday.

Remember the matinee at the Arbron hall next Saturday at 2 p. m.

Sheriff Roberts makes his final settlement with the Auditor this week.

The pump on the Court House cistern is so badly broken as to render repairs out of the question.

Quiltman & Co., will be in Burlington again next Monday to buy horses. Bring in those you want to sell.

According to the Courier, about everything that is notnailed down in Williamstown is being carried off by thieves.

The accounts of the sinking of the Steamer Telegraph indicate very great carelessness on the part of the pilot at the wheel.

They did not do much to the turkeys in this part of the county on Thanksgiving day.

Frank Scales, colored, is a terror to turtles. He captured over 100 last summer, and they added largely to his table supplies.

Jailer-elect Adams is having considerable trouble in securing a residence within the distance of the prison prescribed by law.

Bro. Lentz requests us to announce that the Teachers' Association at Florence, next Saturday, will meet in the Baptist church.

Mrs. Evan Acra, of McVille, was moved to her father's, near here, one day last week, where she is very low of typhoid fever.

The hardest rain that has visited this part of the country for six months, fell last Friday just before noon. It came down by the bucket full.

Out of 20,000 clerks employed by the goverument in Washingtou more than 6,000 are women, with salaries ranging from $600 to $1,800 a year.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the mouey if it fails to cure. 25c

Mrs. David Hogan received news, a few days since, of the death of a rich brother in Missouri, and from whose estate she will get a considerable sum.

Protracted meeting began in Petersburg Methodist Church on last Monday night. Rev. M. S. Clark, of Nepton, Fleming county, is assisting the pastor.

Next Monday is County Court day and on the Monday following the Boone Circuit Court will convene, and there will be but little new business on the docket.

First Quarterly Conference for the Petersburg and Burlington circuit will be held at Petersburg December 4th & 5th. Preaching ooth Saturday and Sunday at 11 a. m., and 7 p. m.

The weather the past few weeks has been so decidedly favorable to the growth of the wheat that it may get a start that will make it less susceptible to the hard freezes this winter.

Some things brought good prices at Molloy's sale, last Wednesday afternoon, while other articles sold for a song. Milch cows brought from $28 to $36; one mare, $29; corn, 31 cents a bu.

Tony Beatler's team ran off up hill with a load of corn, one day last week. Very little damage was done to the wagon, but the corn was badly scattered and it required considerable time to load it the second time.

The floor at the north end of the Court House hall has given away by reason of the sleepers rotting. It will take considerable work to repair it, and an investigation might show others of the floors in need of the same kind of repairs.

Henry Quick intends embarking in the fruit tree business, provided he can secure Philip Fall as salesman. He is satisied that successful Klondiking would not be a circumstance compared to the proceeds of the sales Philip would be able to make.

A man and woman stopped at the Boone House, last Thursday, and soon after entering the house, the womau ordered a toddy, and upon being informed it could not be furnished, the man ordered the horse and buggy, and they left, saying they would go back to Florence where they could be accommodated.

The headless body of a man was found, last Thursday morning, near the first railroad trestle south of Ludlow. After some search the head was found in a mylne about 150 feet from the body. The body was supposed to be that of Frauk Wilson, of Chicago, and that he came to his death by being run over by a train.

A small audience greeted the Old Maids' Convention at the Court House, last Friday night. The ladies who took part had done a great deal of work, preparing for the entertaiument, and deserved a larger audience than that in attendance. The several parts were well taken. The Hoop Drill, with which the entertainment closed, was nicely executed and was the beautiful feature of the programme.

IN MEMORY.

Sister Matilda Gray (nee Percival,) after a brief illness, peacefully passed away at her nome near Walton, Boone county, Ky., Saturday evening, Nov., 13th, 1897. Sister Gray was born Sept., 26th, 1846, being 51 years, 1 month and 27 days old at the time of her death.

When quite young she professed faith in Christ and united with the Christian church and remained a member of that church until Oct., 1874, when she united with the Baptist church at Walton where she continued a faithful and consistent member until her death. February 20th, 1874, she was united in marriage with Bro. John H. Johnson (of blessed memory) who preceded her to the tomb 10 years ago. She remained a widow until May 26th, 1895, when she married Bro. John Gray, who survives her.

Sister Gray was a most estimable, christian lady, highly respected by all who knew her –she was kind and affable in her disposition and possessed a deep sympatiy for the distressed and afflicted and was always willing to administer to their wants; she was a devoted wife, a faithful and loving sister, a kind friend—but, if her beautiful life shone brighter in one place than another it was her untiring zeal and burning interest manifested for her church. She always esteemed her church and its prosperity her highest trust. For almost twenty years she was a faithful teacher of a class of young girls in one Sunday School, to whom she was wedded with an undying love, who in return manifested their high esteem and precious memory by a loving tribute of beautiful flowers gathered and arranged by their own willing hands, as a token of the high appreciation cherished for their fallen teacher. In addition to her efficient labors in our Suuday School, she was always ready and willing to discharge any obligation or perform any duty for the upbuilding and prosperity of her church. She was a faithful friend to her pastor. As a defender, comforter and helper she had few equals. But, this beautiful life has closed, and another dear, faithful soul has been lifted above the cares, the trials and afflictions of this life to that beautiful life where every want of the weary soul is faithfully supplied.

Her funeral sermon was preached by the writer in the Baptist church at Walton, Monday, Nov., 15th, 1897, at 11 o'clock a. m., from Mark 4 chapter, 5 verse, to a crowded house of sorrowing relatives and friends who had assembled to pay the last tribute of respect to one they loved. She leaves a devoted husband, three brothers—Orrin, Ira and Henry Percival, and a loving sister, Mrs. Hattie Stephens, and a host of other relatives and friends to mourn their loss, to whom we tender our deepest sympathy, assuring them that their loss is her eternal gain.

G. W. HILL,
Williamstown, Ky.

William Cloud, of the Limaburg neighborhood, received a letter, a few days since, informing him of the death of his brother, Pryor, at his home in Colorado, the first week in November. The letter stated Mr. Cloud and a near neighbor had gone to another neighbor's to get their horses, where they had been caught and put in a stable for trespassing. The man who went with Mr. Cloud and two of the other neighbor's boys engaged in an altercatiou, and Mr. Cloud undertook to separate the belligerants, when the father of the boys came up behiud and crushed his skull with a piece of heavy scantling. The unfortunate man lived about 40 hours after the blow was dealt. The murderer was arrested and languishes in jail.

J. M. Lassing, Hubert Brady, J. F. Blyth, Elmer Beall aud Harry Blyth, spent a couple of days, last week, down on Mudlick, shooting qualls and rabbits, of which they say there are a great many in the territory they covered. The hunters reached home Friday afternoon, having encountered a very rainy period, which prevented them from killing all the rabbits and quails that infest the prairies in the southern part of the county. This is the score made by each: Brady, 12 rabbits, 20 qualls; J. F. Blyth, 12 rabbits, 14 qualls; Beall, 3 rabbits, 2 qualls; Lassing, 2 rabbits, 5 qualls; Harry Blyth, 3 rabits, 2 qualls. This is the most satisfactory score it is possible to compile from the conflicting statements of the hunters.

Auton Schneider, Wm. Ritzman Charles Eberhart aud Charles Lommel spent two days this week in the wilds of Kentucky in pursuit of the festive cotton tail and other game—returuing home with 42 rabbits, 15 quails and one squirrel. The party were guests of that hospitable Kentuckian, Mr. Edward Gaines, who directed the hunting party. Steve and Jim Gaines, sons of the host, also joined in the hunt. The large amount of game bagged was due more to the skill of Charles Lommel than any one else; and although a novice in the business, yet he bids fair to become a famous marksman in the future. The party were so highly elated over the cordial treatment of Mr. Gaines and family that they are sorry that there are not two huntiug seasons in each year.—Lawreuceburg Register.

Entertainment—Minstrel and Dramatl, to be giveu at Hebron Hall, Dec. 4th, 1897. Two performances—matinee at 2 p. m; evening performance at 7:30 pm. First part—Overture-Interlocutor—Dr. H. H. Hays; Comedians, tambos—E. L. Riley, Louis Crisler; bones—Courtuey Walton, Garnett Riley, jr.; Vocalists—Misses Jo Grubbs, Zayda Gaines, Beulah Gaines, Grace Grant, Annabel Riley, Mrs. Frank Sayer, Mrs. E. L. Riley and Mr. Pericles Grubbs; Music under the direction of Miss Zayda Gaines; Recitation—"Marble Dream,"—Miss Bessie Cropper.

Second part—Drama—"My Turn Next." Characters:
Taraxicum Twitters—Elbert L. Riley.
Tim Bolus—Courtney Walton.
Tom Trap—Garnett C. Riley.
Farmer Wheatear—Louis Crisler.
Lydia (Twitter's wife)—Miss Bernice Duncan.
Cicely (her niece)—Miss Bertha Gaines.
Peggy (servant)—Mrs. E. L. Riley.
Admission, Adults, 25cts; Children under 12 years, 15cts. Will commence promptly at time advertised.

We desire thus publicly to thank our true and untiring friends of the Middle Creek, Bellevue and McVille neighborhoods for their kindness during the protracted illness of our sons and brothers, Andrew, Evan and Johnnie.

R. and P. J. ACRA & CHILDREN.

W. M. RACHAL & CO.,

PRICE POWER PULLS. PRICE POWER PULLS.

For Your Christmas Cakes

We will sell the following:

2½ Pounds of Granulated Sugar.....10 cents
1 Package of Seedless Raisins.....13 cents
1 Package of Clened Currants.....13 cents
¾ Pound of Citron.....14 cents

Package.....50 cents

We will put up in packages as above and will sell for 50cts.
We do this to save us and our customers trouble.

UNION, KENTUCKY

WE HAVE ALWAYS ON HAND FRESH BULK
OYSTERS,
CELERY,
CRANBERRIES, ETC.

The best place to buy yours.

Candies for Christmas.

W. M. RACHAL & CO.,
UNION, KENTUCKY.

DEATHS.

John Acra, son of Reuben Acra, who resides down on Middle Creek, died of typhoid fever last Wednesday evening, after an illness of about three weeks. He had assisted to nurse his twin brother, Andrew, through a long, hard spell of that disease, and about the time An drew began to recover, he was stricken with the fever, and owing to his exhausted condition from a loug watch at the bedside of Andrew, he continued to grow worse until death claimed him. He was about 43 years old, and was a quiet, unassuming, good citizen. The remains were interred in the family cemetery, last Thursday afteruoon.

Evan Acra, of McVille, brother of the above named and a son-in law of Asa Cason, who lives near Burlington, died of typhoid fever, last Sunday night. The deceased was sick several weeks, having been taken sick before his brother, who was buried only a few days since. He leaves a wife and a small child and many friends to mourn his death. The deceased was a pleasant gentleman aud a worthy citizen.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Rouse were in the city yesterday.

Circuit Clerk Duucau is confined to his room with a severe cold.

S. J. Ewalt, of Hamilton, was in town Monday and Tuesday.

Capt. Pickelheimer, of Taylorsport, was in town last Saturday.

Miss Katie Smtth is subbing for Mis Fanuie Finch this week.

P. E. Cason is in charge of the Circuit Clerks's office for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Tanner, of Guupowder, were in town Saturday.

Joseph Florence and G. B. Powers, of Veroua, were in town, Weduesday.

J. B. Berkshlse and wife were visitlug at Petersburg, last Saturday and Sunday.

James N. Pearson, of Florence, called at the temple of justice early Monday moruiug.

Atty. J. G. Tomlin, of Walton, was in towu a few hours last Friday, on official business.

"Hack" Tauner, the popular ringmaster of the Florence fair, was in town Monday.

Rev. James A. Kirtley, accompanied by Rev. Hayes, of Covington, was in town Monday.

Ranklu Revill and a friend, came out from Covington, Saturday, and spent a portion of the day.

Wade H. Ryle and daughter, of Waterloo, were guests of A. J. Barker and wife, last Thursday.

Miss Ella Duncan was visiting Rev. Hoover and wife, at Erlanger, two or three days last week.

W. C. Brown and Charles Westbay went to Cincinnati, Monday, to investigate the horse market.

David Beall, of Hebron, was smoking good cigars and eujoying the sunshine in Burlington, yesterday.

Judge Cram, of Williamstown, and Atty. J. G. Tomlin, of Walton, were here takiug depositions yesterday.

J. M. Utz, of Limaburg, was in town yesterday. The cool, crisp November air put an extra spring in his heel.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. E. Smith entertained quite a number of friends with a Thanksgiviug dinner, Thursday.

Assessor-elect Willis and John W. Gaines, of Utzinger, were transacting business in Burlingtou, Saturday.

Mrs. T. W. Finch fell on the cook stove, one morniug last week, and burnt one of her arms quite severely.

John H. Ryle and wife and Mrs. H. W. Ryle, of Erlanger, took Thanksgiving dinner with J. B. Berkshire and wife.

John M. Finch, of Florence, was in town Friday posting notices of application at next term of the County Court to renew his tavern license.

J. O. Huey, of Erlanger, was in town Friday, mingling with his old friends. His eyes will always be turned Boone county-ward, let him be where he will.

F. M. Adams, of the Gunpowder postoffice, is one of the few subscribers whose label ou his paper reads "Jan99." He was in town Saturday and paid his dues.

J. L. Frazier, of the Union country, was one of several visitors in town Saturday. His appearance here so soon after the adjournment of the Old Maids' Convention is significant.

Sam Sederberg, of Taylorsport, was in town Saturday. His voice had a tone very similar to that of an open air stumper who had just finished a contract of considerable length.

L. J. Riley, of the Union neighborhood, was in town the other day. He says his son, James, who is in Los Angeles, California, writes that he is well pleased with the country, aud that his health is greatly improved.

Henry Jarrell, one of the Woolper ploucers and a staid old bachelor, was in town Saturday replenishing his culinary supplies. He has the distinction of being one of the best old time cooks in his section of the couuty.

Rev. John C. Hays, will lecture at Petersburg next Saturday night. Subject: "Sunshine and Shadow." He has been totally blind from youth, and was educated at the Bapsist Seminary at Louisville. His lecture will interest anyone.

W. M. Rachal, of Union, was in town Monday, and went home square with the State for another year, he declared. While here he left a change for his advertisement, telling the public how cheap he will sell them articles for holiday dinings.

The friends of Prof. Collins, of Frogtown College, will be surprised to learn that he has purchased a bike, and is fast becoming a trick rider. It is said he is coming a trick rider. It is said he can jump over logs and gullies, and rlan jump over logs and gullies, aud rlan jump over logs and gullies, and clear up hill with the swiftness of a bird. Come up hill with the swiftness of a bird. Come up hill with the swiftness of a bird. Come

IN QUEST OF A SCOOP.

A REPORTER'S MIDNIGHT CHASE AFTER BIG NEWS.

IT WAS 12:30 o'clock one night last week. The local room of the office was shrouded in a semidarkness, lit up only by the soft glow of the incandescent lights that shone faintly through the green shades hanging over each typewriter. In front of each one sat a reporter in shirt-sleeves, some without collars or cuffs, and all turning out "copy" as fast as their fingers could fly over the keys of the machines.

"B-r-r-r, B-r-r-r," rings the bell in the telephone booth. No answer. "B-r-r-r, B-r-r-r-r," this time longer; still no answer. "B-r-r-r, B-r-r-r-r;" it does not stop until a young man rises and with a remark not at all complimentary to the person at the other end of the line takes down the receiver. "Hello—hello—hel—well, what is it?" Silence. "What's that? Where? What boats? Jerusalem!" and without the usual "—— by" he rushes into the city editor's room.

"Westcott's man just called up. He wants to know if we've heard anything about a collision at Smith's coal dock. Says he was towing by there when he heard two big fellows come together with a crash and there was lots of screaming. Fog was too thick to see anything."

The city editor looked up, half buried in copy. "Call up the dock and ask them."

"He says they have nothing to say, and won't tell even the names of the boats. It must be a big thing or they would be willing to tell something," he reported a minute later.

"Then ask the drydock if they have heard."

"They don't know anything about it yet," he said, when he had called them up.

"How far is it down there?"

"It's pretty nearly seven miles, I guess."

"Well, call up ——'s livery stable and ask them if they can send us a fast horse to go down there and back by three o'clock. Do you think you can find the way in the dark? If not, get somebody to go with you. I know it's past the Rouge, but that's all. You will have to find a telephone and call us up on it, or it will be too late for the city edition. I don't suppose that fellow at the dock will let you use the 'phone and you will probably have some fun waking people up at that time of night. If you think it's a scoop we will throw it up." Which in newspaper parlance meant that if the other papers did not get it the account would be given the most prominent place in the paper.

Ten minutes later the reporter and a friend who said he knew the way were going rapidly out Fort street on their cold ride to the coal dock. "By George," muttered the newspaper man, "if this fog doesn't clear away I see our finish in one of those Ecorse marshes. I wish I had worn my overcoat; I'm being slowly frozen to death. Say! I wonder how the C. E. expects me to find anything such a night as this? This infernal fog is getting so thick that if we want to change our positions we will have to cut a piece out with our knives. Keep a watch or we'll run down the fort."

A hail from a lonely sentinel at the fort told them when they passed it; otherwise they could not have told whether they were near or far from its frowning walls. Once a breath of wind for a moment lifted the thick veil of fog, and they saw, not three feet away, the waters of the Rouge river flowing silently and swiftly toward the larger stream farther on. The horse had strayed from the road, and another step or two would have taken them into the black waters. With a muttered adjuration the reporter climbed out of the buggy and led the horse back to the road. "Wish I had thought to put in a life preserver. It's half past one, and we have probably three miles to go yet," he said, as he lighted a match and looked at his watch.

Their horse stumbled on something and investigation showed that they had crossed the railroad track. Finally he trotted on some planks, and they were on the Rouge river bridge.

"We might just as well stop unless we can find somebody who knows the road perfectly," the newspaper man said. "If we try to go through that swamp the paper will have an extra death notice to-morrow, and I haven't always been good," he added, grimly.

"I will try and wake somebody in this cottage, if you like—"

"And get a dose of cold lead in your system as a result," was the cheerful rejoinder. "Well, you might as well sacrifice yourself for the good of the cause. If they shoot, tell them not to aim at me."

A window was raised in response to the pounding on the door. "What you want? 'Spose I'm goin' to be waked up at dees hour. Must think we ran wan all-night restaurant. I'm got wan gud mind for to give you some leetle duck-shot." He had no opportunity, however, for before he had finished there was no one to shoot at.

"Say, old man, there is no use of your being so grouchy," sang out the reporter. "I want a man to guide me to Smith's coal dock."

"You want me for to go de dack on night like dees. No, sair. I'll not get out dees house. Guess dees leetle man's too wise for to go foolin' round de mash in night time," he chuckled.

"Come, now, I'll give you a dollar to take us, and you can ride in the buggy. It won't take more than an hour."

"You don't get dees leetle man out and rob her. Who be you, anyway?"

"I'm a molder of public opinion on the ——. If you want that dollar, come along. If you don't, say so. We haven't much time to monkey with you."

"What's dat you say? You give me a dollar to go? Now dat makes beeg deefrence. Why didn't you say so 'fore?"

In a minute they were again started. Their guide took the reins. He knew the way perfectly, and drove at a rapid trot, turned several times, and finally said: "Now we are in de mash. We be dare dir'ctly."

"Say, are you not driving pretty fast around these turns?" one of them ventured as the horse was pulled on his haunches just in time to avoid running into the marsh, which is anywhere from seven to 16 feet deep. "Dat's all right. Can't fool dees leetle man—" But the sentence was not finished. Suddenly the wheels on the opposite side slipped over the bank and in another moment all would have been drowned in the marsh if the horse had not jumped squarely around, in his fright, and lurched forward, pulling the carriage onto firm ground just in time to save them.

"Dat was one leetle 'scape," observed the guide to the reporter.

"Altogether too 'leetle,'" and he reached for the reins. "I call. It's too early in the game for any more bluffs like that. I was in too much of a hurry to make arrangements with my undertaker, and I'm afraid that in their eagerness my relatives might bungle matters. There is one comfort, anyway, I will not be scooped. If the other paper sends a man out here, he'll never get out of this swamp until the coroner has viewed the body."

Presently in the distance could be heard the puffing of an engine. "Have they an engine at the coal dock?" asked the leader.

"I nevair heared of wan."

"Then that's the wrecker at work, sure as fate. I thought that sounded like a pump. Get up there," and the horse jumped as the whip came down upon him. "This is good for a two-column head this morning. Here, hold the lines," and he sprang out of the carriage. Twisting a newspaper into a wad he lighted it and quickly examined the road. "There hasn't been a soul along to-night. I've got them scooped sure. Won't they be sore, though, when they see a three-column account. I'm going to run the horse, marsh or no marsh."

His companions held their breaths as he drove at a gallop over the narrow road. Now and then the fog would suddenly lift for a minute, and they would see the dark water of the marsh perilously near. Then it would lower again and as they swung from side to side each instant it seemed that they must be dashed out of the buggy and into the mire, where there would be absolutely no escape from suffocation in the slimy ooze. The instinct of a newspaper man after news had gotten the better of his judgment, and his companions heaved a sigh of relief when the guide finally said they must stop and proceed on foot.

Quickly tying the horse and hiding the whip, they started over a foot bridge and along a narrow path toward the dock. The regular puffing of the wrecker could be plainly heard now, and in his impatience the reporter would have left the others far behind had not the warniag of the guide that he would be drowned brought him to a standstill. In a moment they were standing on the coal dock.

"Come on, if you want to see me land the biggest scoop of the year," he said, as he started toward the edge of the dock. "I'm going to make a killing, sure. I would give a 'V' to see the old man's face"—he referred to the managing editor of the other paper—"when he sees this thing. There will be woe in Israel sure! I will go over to the wrecker before I strike the clerk in the office, and after I have the details then I will walk in and make him let me use that 'phone 'willy nilly.' Say," he said, suddenly, as he came upon a coal heaver in the fog, "what about that wreck here to-night. How many were drowned?"

"What wreck?"

"Oh, so they fixed you, too, did they? Well, there's no use of your bluffing because I only wanted to get some minor particulars from you, anyway. What is the wrecker working on at present?"

"What are you talking about?"

"Oh, come, now. I've got this wreck, and anyway that steam pump would give you away."

"That ain't no steam pump. That's the engine in the boiler-room, I guess, or else it's the engine on the dredge."

He walked up to the office and knocked furiously. "Well, I've got here, and though that before I left I would drop in and hear your version of the affair. Pretty bad wreck, wasn't it? I felt sorry for the poor devils."

"Why! Where's the wreck? What boats were they? Was it a collision?" the clerk asked all in a breath. His astonishment was so evidently sincere that the newspaper man stood for a moment looking at him.

"Do you mean to say that there was not a wreck here to-night?" he finally asked.

"Why, certainly! I do."

"What's that boat out there in the river pumping, if it isn't the wrecker at work?"

"That's the dredge cutting away some rock. She has been here for a week."

"You can't fool me, for Westcott's man was towing by here and heard the crash and the screams when the boats came together."

"Why, he must have heard the Newago when she scraped the Lewiston's bow. I did hear some confusion for a minute, come to think of it. The Lewiston was lying at the dock when she came in, and as she swung around in front of the large her stern rubbed the paint off the other boat. A derrick cable on the dock gave way at the same time and one of the carriers smashed through the dock."

The "molder of public opinion" stood looking at him for a moment, and then turned on his heel.

"Well, I'll be—" but for once he was at a loss for words to express himself.—Detroit Free Press.

AS TO REVENUES.

Painful Delay in the Returns from the Dingley Tariff.

In his speech before the Home Market club in Boston the other day Chairman Dingley was long on prophecy as to what revenue his bill would produce—next year—and short on facts about the actual revenue producing power of his and other tariff bills. He said: "It is certainly surprising that the same men who looked on without criticism while the tariff which they had framed showed a chronic deficiency for years, amounting to nearly $200,000,000, should be so much disturbed because the new tariff has not produced adequate revenue in the first few months it has been in force."

If Mr. Dingley means that the deficits during the operation of the Wilson bill reached $200,000,000 he is sadly mistaken. The total deficit during the Wilson law amounted to $86,000,000. The deficit during the McKinley law was $72,000,000. The deficit of the Dingley bill to date is $42,000,000. The total deficit, since deficits began in 1892, amounts to $200,000,000, of which McKinley and Dingley laws are responsible for $114,000,000, and the Wilson tariff for $86,000,000. Mr. Dingley isn't candid in his statements, to say the least.

Retorting in kind, it might be said to Mr. Dingley that it is surprising that men who were so disturbed over the deficits under the Wilson law should not have framed a law to stop the deficit which was said by Mr. Dingley and his associates to be the cause of all our national ills.

"Stop the deficit," was the cry of our republican friends, and hard times will disappear and the currency question will settle itself. Our deficit-ridden friends were summoned by the president to Washington in extra session to frame a bill to provide adequate revenue "immediately." The answer was the Dingley bill, which has produced for months and a half a deficit half as great as the Wilson bill produced in the three years of its operation. Mr. Dingley resents criticism of the deficit producing quality of his bill. But will Mr. Dingley tell us what his bill was for if it was not to put an end to the deficit? Having failed to provide revenues equal to the expenditures, his bill fails to meet the purpose for which congress was convened. Not only is it a failure, but it is worse than a failure, because it makes matters far worse than before, by making the chasm between receipts and expenditures wider than ever.

But Mr. Dingley is not cast down. "At the beginning of the next fiscal year" we will get revenue. What statesmanship! Congress called together last March to provide greater revenue "immediately," passes a law of which the best its author can say of it is that it will begin to be effective a year from the time it became a law. But if Mr. Dingley's prophecies are no better on this subject than upon others upon which he has tried his powers the treasury will be enjoying deficits after next July. Mr. Dingley sees "improvement," but the officials in Washington do not. A dispatch from Washington relative to the revenues says:

"Two-fifths of the working days of the month have now passed, and have afforded total receipts of $3,585,146, of which $3,322,707 has been from customs, $4,932,648 from internal revenue, and $659,791 from miscellaneous sources. This indicates total receipts during November of about $24,000,000, which will not be an improvement over October.

"Both the customs receipts and internal revenue stand at about the average for October, and it will require an increase of about $6,000,000 per month to put the treasury upon a self-supporting basis."

With no improvement month after month, our friend from Maine continues to prophesy perfection in the sweet by and by. While waiting for the Dingley lay to produce adequate revenue, the McKinley administration may find itself under the painful necessity of issuing bonds.—Utica Observer.

OPINIONS AND POINTERS.

——The republican party is now in search of a competent surgeon to remove Senator Chandler from its vermiform appendix.—Omaha World-Herald.

——Although Mr. Hanna's inclination calls him to Washington, he hesitates to leave the susceptible Ohio legislature without a chaperon.—Chicago Chronicle.

——Mr. McKinley has not yet told us what he meant by saying that he is highly gratified with the result in Ohio. Such a remark is calculated to make Mr. Hanna feel uncomfortable.—Atlanta Constitution.

——James G. Blaine said in 1878 in congress: "It is impossible to strike silver out of existence as money without results which will prove distressing to millions and disastrous to tens of thousands."—Illinois State Register.

——That feature of the Ohio election laws which was designed to expedite the collection and publication of the returns, so as to reduce the opportunity for fraud, seems not to have worked like a charm in all parts of the state this year.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

——Certain large carpet factories in the east have suspended. What! with this prosperity and Dingleyism to boot? This reminds us that the increased tariff on carpet wools is given as one reason for the suspension of these mills. Thus does Dingleyism take care of American labor.—Wheeling Register.

——There should be a convention of Dingley tariff prophets and apologists to determine upon some uniformity of prediction as to when the Dingley deficit is to cease. After the failure of the first month the sanguine cried: "Wait for the returns of next month!" After two months of dismal failure we were told to wait several months, and now Secretary Sherman, in his most impressive manner, casts the fortunate day into the dim unknown. "It is unfortunate," says he, "that the beneficial promises of the latter net (the Dingley tariff) cannot be in full operation for a year or more." This is worthy the vagueness of a Delphic oracle. "A year or more!"—Philadelphia Record.

NOT VERY COMFORTING.

Figures Which Make It Look Blue for Republicans.

A republican newspaper, intending to furnish comfort and cheer to its party, produces a table of election returns from the several states which voted this year. The figures show that in ten states the republicans had a total majority over the democrats of 141,025.

It would be much fairer in computing election returns to compare the majorities this year with those of 1896. That would show the gains and losses—the growth or decline—of parties. For that purpose of instruction, as an object lesson, let this table, showing republican majorities in six states for the two years, be carefully studied:

	1896.	1897.
Pennsylvania	295,972	141,332
Massachusetts	173,408	85,977
Maryland	52,224	7,109
Ohio	47,482	28,127
Iowa	65,233	30,000
New Jersey	87,692	8,247
Total's	791,402	303,756
Republican loss in six states in one year		387,644

The total majority in the union in 1896 (McKinley over Bryan) was 651,016. Of this majority nearly 400,000 was lost in six states in 1897. This is almost two-thirds of the republican majority in 45 states.

But more is to be added. The following states show a change from 1896 to 1897 as follows:

	Rep. maj. in 1896.	Dem. maj. in 1897.
New York	268,460	18,649
Kentucky	284	11,726
Totals	268,750	30,375
Republican loss in two states		304,885
Add republican loss in six states, as above		387,644
Total republican loss in eight states from 1896 to 1897		692,529

This shows that in the eight states named all of McKinley's national majority was swept away, with 141,332 votes left for the democratic side. The states of Nebraska and Virginia were included in the figures of the republican organ. To include them in this table would show a greater republican loss.

With unity, good candidates, an acceptable platform and a vigorous campaign the democrats are certain of victory in the congressional elections of 1898, which will be an assurance of a democratic victory in the presidential election of 1900.—Chicago Chronicle.

DILEMMAS IN THE TARIFF.

Republicans in Trouble Over the Dingley Law.

The republicans will discover, if they have not yet reached that stage of enlightenment, that the Dingley tariff dilemma has two horns.

Just now the tariff tinkers are squirming on the horn of a deficit, but, with an optimism worthy of Mark Tapley, they laugh at the suggestion that they are hurt, and assert that after December the deficit of $60,000,000 will be made up by increased importations and prosperity will dawn.

Is that so?

For the sake of cheerful amenity let the assertion be accepted. What, then, have the republicans gained? To be sure, they have cured the deficit, but at what expense?

American manufacturers were promised a glorious dawn of prosperity after the Dingley bill had performed its perfect work. Will an increase of importations so enormous as to yield an extra revenue of $60,000,000 be considered a blessing by the manufacturers of this country?

W. S. Gilbert's paradox in "The Pirates of Penzance" is nothing compared with the delightful paradox perpetrated by Dingley, which promises a tremendous boom in the way of importations and a sunburst of prosperity to home manufacturers as coincidentally beneficial results.

Protection which does not protect is one horn of the dilemma. Protection which produces a deficit is another horn. If the republicans escape the one they will be pierced on the other.—Chicago Dispatch.

Dubious Mr. Dingley.

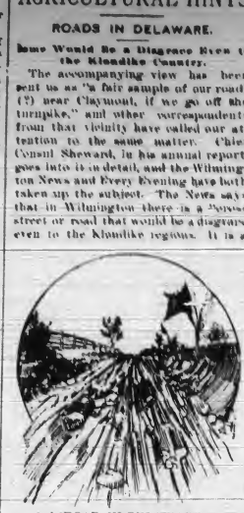
Congressman Dingley is not willing to accept the result of the recent elections as condemnatory of the McKinley administration or of his own tariff bill.

The friends of the president ought not to object to taking the result in Ohio as a test of his popularity. Are not the reduction of the republican majority to one-half the figure of last year and to one-third of that secured two years ago, and the almost entire loss of the majority of 87 in the legislature, something of a rebuke?

As to the Dingley tariff, the president said in his message to congress that the purpose of the law was to provide sufficient revenue "without delay, hindrance or postponement." Senator Aldrich said that if the law did not insure this the party would be condemned.

There has been a deficit every month since the bill was passed. The total deficiency to date is $41,719,000. The chief other effect of the tariff has been to increase the cost of a great number of the necessaries of the people.

What is there in such a law to satisfy the voters? How can Mr. Dingley be dubious as to the meaning of the elections?—N. Y. World.



——During all of Mr. Hanna's brief career as a political boss, and as senator, not a word has ever passed his lips which would subject him to the least suspicion of knowing anything about any public question, or of having the least conception of the duties of a private citizen or a public representative. He has simply earned and enjoys the reputation of an unscrupulous political boss. To place upon his shoulders the togn that has been worn by Wade and Sherman would be a ludicrous misfit. To set him up in the senate to be gazed at for six years as the flower and blossom of the business man in politics and in office would be a satire on the period and a severe object lesson for the future.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

AGRICULTURAL HINTS

ROADS IN DELAWARE.

Some Would Be a Disgrace Even to the Klondike Country.

The accompanying view has been sent us as "a fair sample of our roads (?) near Claymont, if we go off the turnpike," and other correspondents from that vicinity have called our attention to the same matter. Chief Consul Sheward, in his annual report, goes into it in detail, and the Wilmington News and Every Evening have both taken up the subject. The News says that in Wilmington there is a "worse street or road that would be a disgrace even to the Klondike regions. It is a mass of stones and dirt and almost impassable for man or beast;" also, that "outside of Wilmington there is scarcely a stretch of one mile of road that is as it should be. Gullies and ruts and holes and stones are the features of our roads, and riding is a burden instead of a pleasure. Even the turnpikes are only in a fair condition."

A ROAD IN DELAWARE.

Appeals to the legislature to provide for a system of road-making have been in vain. The state division, however, is now about to take up the matter and renew the agitation, and will present a bill to the legislature this winter. The hearty cooperation of every member of the division is a great assistance. The division has grown considerably during the year and ought to continue to increase. Numbers, which mean votes, are very effective arguments with our legislators.—L. A. W. Bulletin.

SELF-IMPOSED TAXES.

A Good Roads Tax, Once Paid, Would Remove Them All.

The Bill tax is produced by running roads in straight lines over hills and mountains with grades of 10 to 15 feet in 100, instead of following valleys, skirting hills and making gradual winding ascents, keeping as close as possible to a four per cent. grade.

The Square Corner tax is common on the prairies and in level districts. It consists in traveling, for instance, seven miles north, and then seven miles east to reach a point that is but ten miles northeast in a straight line. In such a case 40 per cent. of the actual distance is added. The average distance added in this way between any two points throughout the country is 20 per cent.

The Mud tax is due to having soft roads insufficiently drained, and generally "repaired" by having the sod, stones and earth from the gutters thrown on them once a year when road taxes are being worked out.

The Fence tax arises from the time, material and expense of erecting and maintaining unnecessary fences.

The Snowdrift tax follows on the heels of the fence tax, fences serving as obstructions to cause the formation of drifts.

The Waste Land tax comes from the loss of good, unused land left on the roadside outside the fences.

The Wagon Wheel tax is caused by the use of vehicles having narrow tires, with rear wheels following in the track of the front pair, and thereby always tending to cut up the road surface.

The Good Roads "tax" is the profit accruing to the farmers and all other persons using the roads from the removal of the above self-imposed taxes.—L. A. W. Bulletin.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES.

Select the potato seed when the crop is dug.

Wait until the weather gets cool before storing apples in the cellar.

Of the different varieties of fruit, the grape is the most difficult to graft.

Apples should be evenly sorted, uniform in size and quality throughout.

In fall planting it is best to make a little mound around the stem of a tree.

Pack apples tightly, so as to prevent damage from moving about in the barrel.

By planting in long rows strawberries can be grown as cheaply as potatoes.

Give trees plenty of room if you would have them thrifty, vigorous and good bearers.

Seeds of nut or forest trees should always be planted before they have had time to dry.

In setting out trees dig holes broad enough to stretch the roots out full length, and but little deeper than the tree is set in the hole.—St. Louis Republic.

To Keep Onions from Sprouting.

A correspondent of the Progressive Farmer gives the following as a sure method of keeping onions from sprouting: At any time after the onions have been drawn take a sharp knife and remove the hard projection on the bottom that contains the roots. It may be better to excavate this hard substance slightly below a level, but care should be taken not to injure the surrounding parts. Onions thus treated will not sprout and will keep in good condition long after onions not so treated have ruined from sprouting.

RENEWING OLD TREES.

Intelligent Pruning Will Produce Almost Wonderful Results.

Old trees are among the most cherished treasures of rural and suburban homes. They are the most costly, too, as every finished product is costly into which has entered those transforming and creative processes which only long reaches of time can furnish. An old house may fall down or be destroyed by fire, and while we mourn the loss of the visible sign of old associations, a better and more beautiful structure can be made to take its place. But when an old tree that has been the guardian of the home for generations, and stood there before the home was founded, surrenders to the blast, the loss is beyond repair, for a long time, at least. As there is no immediate remedy possible, the need of precaution becomes all the greater.

When one of these old sentinels begins to show signs of disease and decay, and year by year grows more attenuated in its branches and weaker in leaf growth and power, we watch it as we watch a friend attacked by a slow, but incurable malady. But remedies are now being discovered for almost every ill of the body, and successful tree surgery is or may be as common as the higher form of that science. A recent number of Garden and Forest discusses the rejuvenescence of old trees, and gives practical directions for effecting it. Directly to the point are two illustrations of the same tree, a venerable oak in the Arnold Arboretum. The first is of a tree with far-reaching branches, but marked by infallible signs of decrepitude, the leafage scanty and the general prospect of life discouraging.

The second illustration shows the same tree 12 years later, shorter of limb, it is true, but displaying vigor in every leaf and fiber, and exhibiting every characteristic of youth and strength and hopeful promise of longevity. No miracle, not even one of nature's, has been performed. The result is simply one of skillful tree surgery, of intelligent pruning according to the De Car system, which, instead of sending the tree blood long distances through collapsed and withered arteries, contracts the area and applies the nourishing forces in such a way that they can be assimilated and made to promote the growth of all the members.

The process is one which almost any intelligent farmer or tree owner should be able to apply. Vigor can be restored to a tree in this condition by shortening all its branches by one-third or one-half their entire length. The only care needed in this operation is to cut back each main branch to a healthy lateral branch, which will serve to attract and elaborate by means of its leaves a sufficient flow of sap to insure the growth of the branch." These directions must be carefully observed to prevent further decay, and care must also be taken to leave the lowest limbs the longest, so that the greatest possible leaf surface shall be exposed to the light. So if some old tree, near roadside or dwelling, that has been the landmark of a century, shows alarming symptoms, the owner should not despair before he has trented it according to the general plan here laid down.—Boston Transcript.

HANDY FARM CRATES.

Put in Your Winter Vacation Making a Goodly Supply.

Where one has access to a mill, and can procure an abundance of inch-square edgings, he can make a dozen or more crates very easily, after the manner shown in the sketch. A few wire nails secure the corners. Let these be 2½ inches long. The bottom may be of board or of slats, as preferred. A board cover can also be fitted to the top, if needed. Such a contrivance makes an exceedingly strong and convenient crate, well adapted for gathering the potato and apple crops. It is much better to pick the potatoes or apples into such a receptacle and load in wagon with some dozens of them, than to gather the crop and turn it loose into the wagon box, from which the fruit or tubers must be picked out or shoveled out, again. Crates thus save much handling and consequent bruising.—Orange Judd Farmer.

HANDY FARM CRATE.

IMPROVE THE ROADS.

It Is High Time for the Farmers to Act Energetically.

It's dust, dust, now; it will be mud, mud, after winter sets in. It is of the first importance to the farmers that the common roads are in good condition to haul the produce to market, and the formation of good roads has proved so successful that it is no longer an excuse for those beds of mire that the earlier settlers had to contend with. Gravel banks are to be found in nearly every county and it requires no skill to apply it. When the road is put in good shape by the ordinary road grader, the gravel can be put on the road at any time, even midwinter. We had an experiment of winter application. One of the principal approaches to the city was down a long hill, on the sides of the cut a number of springs kept the track always a bed of mire that rendered the track nearly impassable. At last the city undertook to cover it with gravel. This was done in midwinter when the road was frozen hard and some of the gravel was dumped in frozen lumps, yet that street is the best in the city to-day. It is full time for the farmers to act.—Farmers Union.

PITH AND POINT.

—(He has come for her in a buggy and she objects to the turnout.) "You are very particular; you put on more airs than a music box!" "Well, I don't go with a crank, anyway!"—Harlem Life.

—A Trust.—Miss Sears (an old rival) —"You must feel very sad when you think about your late husband." Mrs. Tears (with sarcasm)—"Yes, but any husband is better late than never."—Brooklyn Life.

—"I came to ask for your daughter in marriage, sir," said the young man. "Have you any money of your own?" asked the cnreful parent. "Oh, you misunderstand me, sir! I do not want to buy her!"—Yonkers Statesman.

—In the Collection.—"Religion," observed the layman, "costs a pretty penny." The clergyman who would rather be right than preach politics smiled wanly. "No," he replied, "a battered, ill-looking penny, as a usual thing."—Detroit Journal.

—An Expedient Amendment.—Mrs. Enpeck—"Another mysterious suicide —unknown man thrown himself from cliff." Mr. Enpeck (thoughtlessly)— "Bet his wife was at the bottom of it." Mrs. Enpeck—"Sir-r-r!" Mr. Enpeck (hurriedly)—"Of the cliff, my love; not the suicide."—Judge.

—Ethel—"Oh, dear me! I don't know what to think! Algy asked me last night if I wouldn't like to have something around the house that I could love, and that would love me." Edith—"Well?" Ethel—"Well, I don't know whether he means himself, or whether he is thinking of buying me a dog."—Tit-Bits.

—"Highest Authority."—"Where did you get your information?" asked the editor of the yellow journal. "From the butler," answered the reporter. "It would never do to quote the butler, would it?" mused the editor. "You'd better merely say that we have it on the highest authority."—Chicago Evening Post.

TWO NEWMANS.

The Brothers, Cardinal John Henry and Prof. Francis William.

A little more than seven years ago John Henry Newman, the English cardinal, died at the age of 89. The other day his younger brother, Prof. Francis William Newman, died at the age of 92. The two brothers, in their time, played no small part in the history of religious thought in England.

Both were educated at Oxford, and came under the influence of the religious awakening there, which later resulted in the Oxford movement, the Tractarian controversy, and the going over to Roman Catholicism of many of those engaged in the movement. That was the path John Henry Newman took, and in course of time he resigned his position in the Church of England, became a priest in the Catholic church, the founder of a monastic establishment, the Birmingham oratory, and subsequently a cardinal of the Roman church.

The younger brother, equally gifted and learned, took a different course. Both began by a strong antagonism to the Catholic church and to sacerdotalism in general. John Henry Newman was gradually drawn by his spiritual nature in the direction of the church, which he began by hating, and of which he died one of its brightest ornaments. Francis William, equally spiritual and conscientious, studied himself into a deeper distrust of sacerdotalism, and coincidently into doubt of the soundness of theological dogmas.

At the age of 23 he gave up the idea of taking holy orders, and resigned his fellowship in Balliol college from conscientious scruples on the subject of infant baptism. He went to Bagdad to assist in Christian missionary work, but conscientious doubts of his fitness for the work caused his speedy retirement, and he returned to England to engage in the work of classical teaching, in which he continued until 1863. During that period and since Prof. Newman continued his investigations and reflections on religious matters, and drifted as far away in the direction of freedom of religious thought from the common starting point of youth as his older brother had gone in the direction of absolute dogma. His numerous works show a steady progress from orthodox Trinitarianism to pure Theism. He long ago ceased to call himself a Christian, and his position, as stated by himself some years since, was that of "saving all that is spiritual, pure and merciful in Christianity amid the wreck which erudition has made of its mythology."

Prof. Newman has published a long list of works, covering a great variety of subjects, ranging from poetry to mathematics, the soul and its aspirations and sorrows, to dictionaries and vocabularies in ancient Greek and Latin and modern Arabic, Hebrew history and Greek dramas, and transmissions of Horace into English and of Longfellow into Latin.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Spain's Substitute for Telephones.

In Spain, where the telephone is largely used in place of the telegraph, an ingenious application of the phonograph to record the telephonic messages has been made. The receiving operator repeats the message into the phonograph, from which it can afterwards be transcribed at leisure. This saves the delay caused by writing the message during its reception and insures greater accuracy, because the repetition of the message for the phonograph is heard simultaneously by the original sender at the other end of the line.—Chicago Chronicle.

No Change.

She—Would you love me just the same if I were poor as you do when I'm rich?

He—Just the same. And there was a covert meaning in the tone that her confiding nature did not grasp.—Detroit Free Press.

TRADE WITH MEXICO INCREASES

Important Report Sent by Consul Canada at Vera Cruz.

William W. Canada, United States consul at Vera Cruz, Mexico, has made an important report to the secretary of state on our commerce with Mexico, in which he says that the commerce of this country with Vera Cruz is increasing rapidly. Imports into Mexico through the port of Vera Cruz from European countries have fallen off in the last two years about 14 per cent, while those from the United States have grown in about the same extent.

In 1895 the United States had about 15 per cent. of the total import trade of Vera Cruz city, and in 1897 it has risen to 19 per cent. Consul Canada says that the favor with which European goods are received in Mexico is not due to the superiority of the product, but to the fact that business firms in Europe pay more attention to the needs of the Mexican market.

The consul mentions the ignorance of some (United States) shippers in regard to the meaning of the term "legal weight," which includes not only the weight of the merchandise, but the weight of all inner packages and wrappers, only the extreme outside case being excluded. Fully 40 per cent. of the commodities specified in the Mexican tariff are dutiable on this basis, and in some cases, on account of the method of packing, 90 per cent. of the duty must be paid on the useless wood.

The consul speaks of the defective translations of manufacturers' catalogues sent from the United States to Mexico. Hundreds of thousands of dollars, he says, are actually thrown away in the United States in having translations made that are incomprehensible to the people they are supposed to enlighten.

OFFERED THE BED TO THE QUEEN

Story of an Englishman Who Bought Sales Knife Britannia.

From the comments heard in the London clubs it is not likely that Mr. John Lawson Johnstone, of Kingwood, Kent, the principal director of a well-known and largely advertised company, who turns out to be the purchaser of the prince of Wales' famous racing cutter Britannia, will be received with open arms in yachting circles. In fact, it is rumored that the prince sold the yacht on the express condition that the purchaser should not race her and that she is to be rigged as a cruiser.

Mr. Johnstone also told the interviewer how he had recently paid £750 ($3,750) for a bed upon which Prince Charles slept before the battle of Worcester. This he offered to present to Queen Victoria, who replied that only on one or two occasions had she accepted presents from a commoner, and she did not see her way to accept the bed. "However, it was a very pleasant letter; very pleasant," said Mr. Johnstone, who added that the duke of Argyll had promised to come and sleep in the bed as soon as the matter could be arranged. The newspapers jeer at the inappropriateness of the selection, as the Campbells, of which clan the duke of Argyle is the head, were the deadly enemies of the Stuarts.

X RAYS IN FOOTBALL.

Capt. Herschberger's Injured Foot Examined by Men of Science.

It is seldom that football men resort to the science of physics to help win games, but such is the case at the University of Chicago. In the game between Chicago and Illinois the other day Herschberger, full back, and captain of the Midway team, was thought to have had his left foot broken. At any rate it was so severely injured that the owner was forced to retire from the game.

Herschberger is the most valuable man on the team, and the idea of his being unable to play again for some time has caused Director Stagg to secure the best care for him. Recently it was decided that the injured member should be subjected to an X ray machine. Accordingly a picture of the foot was taken by Prof. C. R. Mann and S. W. Stratton, of the department of physics, assisted by Drs. C. P. Small and Hayard Holmes.

The experts, relying upon the reports of the doctors, fully expected to find two or three bones broken. But the negative showed no signs of fractures and the football men are inclined to think that the laugh is on the doctors who treated the player.

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 29.
LIVESTOCK—Cattle, common	$ 2 00	@	2 75
Select butchers	3 85	@	4 35
CALVES—Fair to good light	5 00	@	5 25
HOGS—Common	2 85	@	3 30
Mixed packers	3 35	@	3 45
Light shippers	3 35	@	3 45
SHEEP—Choice	3 75	@	4 15
LAMBS—Good to choice	5 00	@	5 50
FLOUR—Winter family	3 50	@	3 75
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@	91½
No. 3 red		@	88
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@	27½
Oats—No. 2		@	23½
Rye—No. 2		@	48
HAY—Prime to choice	8 25	@	9 50
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		@	8 50
Lard—Prime steam		@	4 15½
BUTTER—Choice dairy		@	14
Prime to choice creamery		@	22
APPLES—Per bbl	2 50	@	3 25
POTATOES—Per bbl	1 85	@	2 10
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—Winter patents	4 10	@	4 50
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	97½	@	98½
No. 2 Chicago spring	1 04	@	1 04
CORN—No. 2	30½	@	30½
OATS—No. 2	23½	@	23½
PORK—New mess	8 25	@	8 30
LARD—Western		@	4 30
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	4 10	@	4 65
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	99	@	99½
Southern Wheat	99	@	99½
Corn—Mixed	33	@	33½
Oats—No. 2 white	24	@	24½
Rye—No. 2 western		@	51
CATTLE—Best quality	4 30	@	4 60
HOGS—Western	4 15	@	4 30
INDIANAPOLIS.
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@	92½
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@	24½
Oats—No. 2 mixed		@	20¾
LOUISVILLE.
FLOUR—Winter patents	3 75	@	4 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@	95
Corn—Mixed		@	32
Oats—Mixed		@	27
PORK—Mess		@	9 50
LARD—Steam		@	4 45

FIRST WOMAN CITIZEN.

Her Sturdy Lads and Clever Lasses Become Prominent Citizens.

Known as the "Widow Ryan"—Was a Clever Business Woman—Short Sketch of Her Life and What Some of Her Children Accomplished.

From the News, Indianapolis, Ind.

Hundreds of thousands of men of foreign birth have taken out papers declaring their citizenship in Indiana since that State was admitted into the Union in 1816 without creating remark or comment. It was a different matter, however, when along in the forties the first woman of foreign birth applied for and received papers of citizenship after depositing in set form that she renounced all allegiance to every prince or potentate on earth.

This "first woman citizen" was an Irish widow who settled in southern Indiana with her progeny of sturdy lads and clever lasses upon a farm which she had bought. She had taken out naturalization papers in order to manage her property to better advantage, and for the further purpose of starting her family as true Americans with a full understanding of the advantages and responsibilities of American citizenship.

"The Widow Ryan" as she was known in Daviess County, Indiana, was a great woman with a clever business head and left behind her those who grew to be worthy men and worthy women, and who have left their impress upon the State.

One of these sons James H. Ryan became treasurer of the State of Indiana, and a son-in-law, M. L. Brett, also held that high and honorable position. Another son was the late Lieut. Col. Richard J. Ryan who was probably the most brilliant and gifted orator that Indiana ever produced, and who during the war for the Union served his country in the Thirty-fifth Indiana Volunteer Infantry, better known as "the Irish Regiment."

Another son is Thomas F. Ryan who is now 59 years old, and with a few intervals of absence has been a resident of Indianapolis for forty-two years. Mr. Ryan has been an active business man all his life and has seen more than one fortune come and go in the speculations in Oregon, Arizona and Montana. From May, 1885 until August, 1887 he was the government agent at the Seal Islands off the Alaska coast, a highly responsible position.

"For ten years or more," said Mr. Ryan in conversation with a group of gentlemen at the Indianapolis Board of Trade, "I have been extremely sensitive in my low back and to weather changes. If my legs had been filled with quick silver I do not think they could have responded more quickly or more disagreeably to atmospheric conditions.

"During the past two years this infirmity became much worse, and I began to be alarmed, fearing paralysis. My legs were cold and numb, mostly from my knees down to without sensation. I could walk only short distances and would even then experience great weariness. It became more and more thought. I naturally thought of paralysis or locomotor ataxia. The prospect was not a pleasing one.

"I happened to meet my old friend Capt. C. F. Shepard, of this city. He was chanting the praises of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and gave me his experience, telling me that he had been brought by using them from a bed where he lay helpless, his physicinn having declared him a hopeless victim of locomotor ataxia, and was now as active a man of his age, not even requiring the use of a cane. Upon his recommendation I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"I found positive relief, after taking a few doses. The numbness in my limbs disappeared as if by magic and I can walk as far as I like at a good rapid gait and without weariness. I thought I may understand is a great boon to a man who has been of an active habit of life and who still likes to depend to a great extent upon his legs to get around in the world.

"The pills also drove the rheumatism out of my hip for I have not been bothered with it since I began their use. I think I shall have to join Captain Shepard in his praises of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. These pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Had Some Motive, of Course.

Mrs. Bellows—I believe you married me for my money.

Bellows—Ahem! Well, I certainly didn't go to the altar for my health.—N. Y. Journal.

Why is it that a boy always insists upon raising pigeons or Bantum chickens, instead of something useful, like turkeys or pigs?—Atchison Globe.

BRIEF AND POINTED.

A Speaker Who Didn't Have Much to Say.

The pride of visitors to Washington who go to the senate chamber or house of representatives to see the congressman or senator from their district and hear him make a speech is often apparent at the national capitol.

One man had been observed as a frequent visitor in the gallery of the house. A friend took the seat beside him one day, and warm greetings were exchanged between the two.

"Have you seen him?" asked the newcomer.

"Yes," was the reply, "I've seen him."

"Have you had the luck to be here when he was talking?"

"I took care not to miss anything he might say. I've been here every day.

"I don't blame you. I only wish I had the time. The way he woke up those monopolists and ringsters out home was a caution, and then he was only nibbling at the questions of the day, just getting the flavor of the social situation previous to stepping in and biting out a chunk or two."

"That's the way I always looked at him."

"I suppose his voice has been ringing out in Marion tones."

"M' yes," was the doubtful rejoinder.

"What did he say?" exclaimed the questioner, eagerly. "I'll bet it was something brief and to the point."

"So far as I can judge I tried not to let any of his remarks get away from me, but I'm afraid that maybe I wasn't watchful enough. I've only heard him speak five times. Three of them he said 'aye' and the other two he said 'no.'"—Washington Star.

May Have Meant That.

"He told me to get off the earth. What do you suppose he meant?"

"He seemed to think that you needed a bath, evidently."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Good Bed.

Hostess—I hope you found the bed comfortable, Mr. Jenkins?

Jenkins—Excellent, madam! I nearly fell asleep in it.—Chicago Tribune.

It Makes Cold Feet Warm.

Shake into your under shoes Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. It gives rest and comfort, prevents that smarting sensation and keeps your feet from perspiring. Allen's Foot-Ease makes cold feet warm. Also, sore feet perspire, they usually feel so at this season. Ask your druggist or shoe dealer to-day for a 25c box of Allen's Foot-Ease and use it at once. Sample sent Free. Address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N.Y.

Not a Diplomat.

"You never tell me that I look young and sweet any more," pouted Mrs. Lovelace.

"No," her brute of a husband replied, "it seems of late to have lost my powers of imagination almost completely."—Cleveland Leader.

Take the Air Line

To St. Louis and the West, 53 miles the shortest from Louisville, makes the quickest time, Pullman Sleepers, Parlor and Dining Cars. For complete information address J. P. Maffett, Traveling Passenger Agent, Knoxville, Tenn. R. A. Campbell, General Passenger Agent, St. Louis, Mo.

Valuable Advice.

"Do you think that stimulants would hurt me, doctor?"

"Not if you leave them alone."—Detroit Free Press.

None So Good as Star Tobacco.

The consumption of Star plug tobacco is the largest in the world. No other tobacco is so good as Star plug in all respects.

There are but few people who know enough not to say "that is what I thought" when anybody tells them anything.—Washington Democrat.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

Not nearly all the funny things in this world are with a museum.—Washington Democrat.

Don't Neglect a Cough. Take Some Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar instanter. Pike's Toothache Drops Cure in one minute.

You can tell a good deal about people by the appearance of their back porch.—Washington Democrat.

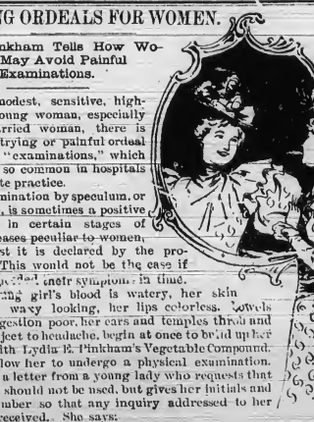
I have found Piso's Cure for Consumption an unfailing medicine.—F. R. Lotz, 1305 Scott St., Covington, Ky., Oct. 1, 1894.

In giving thanks for your blessings, don't forget the criticisms you have received.—N. Y. Independent.

Feel it pass away—when St. Jacobs Oil cures Neuralgia. Soothes at out.

The easiest way to catch a flirt is not to attempt it.—Chicago News.

Sprained last night. To-day you are Well if you use St. Jacobs Oil to cure.



You can't convince an editor that "no news is good news."—Chicago News.

Keep on and suffer if you think St. Jacobs Oil won't cure rheumatism.

There is a remedy for everything except some of the remedies.—Chicago News.

TRYING ORDEALS FOR WOMEN.

Mrs. Pinkham Tells How Women May Avoid Painful Examinations.

To a modest, sensitive, high-strung young woman, especially an unmarried woman, there is no more trying or painful ordeal than the "examinations," which are now so common in hospitals and private practice.

An examination by speculum, or otherwise, is sometimes a positive necessity in certain stages of many diseases peculiar to women, so at least it is declared by the profession. This would not be the case if patients looked after their symptoms in time.

If a young girl's blood is watery, her skin pale and waxy looking, her lips colorless, bowels torpid, digestion poor, her ears and temples throb and she is subject to headache, begin at once to build up her system with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Do not allow her to undergo a physical examination.

Here is a letter from a young lady who confesses that her name should not be used, but gives her initials and street number so that any inquiry addressed to her will be received. She says:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—It affords me great pleasure to be able to say a few words in regard to the merits of your Vegetable Compound. I was tempted to try it after seeing the effects of it upon my mother, and now I feel like a new person. I am a stenographer and was troubled with falling of the womb and female weakness in general. I continued to work until I was so weak I could no longer walk, and the last day I was forced to stop and rest.

"I was then so ill that I was compelled to stay in bed and so nervous that I could not hold anything in my hands. The least noise or surprise would cause my heart to beat so loudly, and I would become so weak that I could hardly stand. I suffered for almost a year. It is different now. I can go about my work with pleasure, while before, work was a drudge.

"Trusting that my words of praise may help some other afflicted person, and be of benefit to womankind in general, I remain, Yours in gratitude, L. H., 444 S. East St., Indianapolis, Ind."

DOCTORS DON'T DENY IT.

The frank testimony of a famous physician.

When Dr. Ayer announced his Sarsaparilla to the world, he at once found the physicians his friends. Such a remedy as what they had looked for, and they were prompt to appreciate its merits and prescribe it. Perhaps no medicine is known as a patent medicine—is so generally administered and prescribed by physicians as Dr. Ayer's sarsaparilla for blood diseases, and diseases of the skin that indicate a tainted condition of the blood. Experience has proved it to be a specific in such diseases, and sores of long standing, old ulcers, chronic rheumatism, and many other like forms of disease have yielded to the persevering use of Dr. Ayer's Sarsaparilla after other medicines had utterly failed. The testimonials received from physicians to the value of this remedy would fill a volume. Here is one leaf signed by Rich'd H. Lawrence, M. D., Baltimore, Md.

"It affords me pleasure to bear testimony to the success which your preparation of Sarsaparilla has had in the treatment of cutaneous and other diseases arising from a vitiated condition of the blood. Were it necessary, I might give you the names of at least fifty individuals who have been cured of long standing complaints simply by the administration of Dr. Ayer's Sarsaparilla. One remarkable instance was that of a quite old woman who had lived at Catonsville, near this city. She had been afflicted with the rheumatism for three years, and had taken as she had informed me, more than one hundred dollars' worth of medicine to obtain relief, yet without any beneficial result. I advised her to try a bottle of Dr. Ayer's Sarsaparilla and told her that it it failed to do her good, I would refund the money. A short time afterward, I learned that it had cured her, and a neighbor of hers similarly afflicted was also entirely relieved of his complaint by its use. This is the universal result of the administration of your Sarsaparilla. It is without exception, the best blood purifier with which I am acquainted."

There is no other similar medicine can show a similar record. Others have imitated the remedy. They can't imitate the record. Dr. Ayer's Sarsaparilla has the friendship of the physician and the favor of the family, because it cures. It fulfills all promises made for it. It has healed thousands of people of the most malignant diseases that can mutilate mankind. Nothing has ever supe reeded it and nothing ever will until a medicine is made that can show a record of cures greater in number and equal in wonder to those wrought by Dr. Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Dr. Ayer's Curebook, a story of cures told by the cured, is sent free on request by the J. C. Ayer Company, Lowell, Mass. Write for it.

$1.00 A YEAR FOR .... DEMOREST'S FAMILY MAGAZINE.

The subscription price of DEMOREST'S is reduced to $1.00 a Year.

Demorest's Family Magazine is more than a Fashion Magazine, although it gives the very latest home and foreign fashions each month; this is only one of the many valuable features it has something for each member of the family, for every department of the household, and its varied contents are of the highest grade, making it, pre-eminently, The Family Magazine of the World. It furnishes the best thoughts of the most interesting and most progressive writers of the day, and is abreast of the times in everything—Art, Literature, Science, Society Affairs, Fiction, Household Matters, Sports, etc.—a single number frequently containing 300 to 500 fine engravings, making it the MOST POPULAR AND MOST PROFUSELY ILLUSTRATED of the GREAT MONTHLIES.

Demorest's Magazine Fashion Department is in every way far ahead of that contained in any other publication.

Subscribers are entitled each month to patterns of the latest fashions in woman's attire, at no cost to them other than that necessary for postage and wrapping.

NO BETTER CHRISTMAS GIFT

By subscribing AT ONCE you can get the magazine from the present time to January, 1899, and will also receive the handsome 25-cent Xmas Number free, and a beautiful panel picture supplement.

Remit $1.00 by money order, registered letter or check to the

DEMOREST PUBLISHING CO., 110 Fifth Ave., New York City.

Great Special Clubbing Offer for Prompt Subscriptions.

If you will send us your subscription before December 25th, 1897, you can have your choice of any of the offers below. Please state number of offer you select. In some cases, you will note, we furnish the two publications at the regular price of the first-named one alone. The offer includes, of course, each publication for a full year.

Publishers' price	and	Demorest's Magazine,	Offer No.	You to you	Price save
Harper's Magazine			1	$4.00	$1.00
The Christian Herald, New York			2	1.90	.85
Women's Home Companion			3	1.25	.75
McClure's Magazine			4	1.75	.25
Cosmopolitan Magazine			5	1.75	.25
Munsey's Magazine			6	1.75	.25
Housewife			7	1.25	.75
Ladies' Home Journal			8	1.00	.50

Address DEMOREST PUBLISHING COMPANY, 110 Fifth Avenue, New York.

"DON'T PUT OFF TILL TO-MORROW THE DUTIES OF TO-DAY."
BUY A CAKE OF SAPOLIO

GEORGIA TO THE FRONT FOR TRUTH.

Mrs. E. A. Horton

Ranger, Ga., writes: Twelve years ago I had Heartburn, Kidney Disease, Complicated Bowels, Glimmering Before my Eyes, Belched up Gas, and other troubles. Was completely run down and a wreck most of the time. Had a Doctor attending me, but nothing did me any good until I quit everything else and used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine, which completely cured me. I have tried "Black Draught," but think Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine is ahead of that or any other medicine.

Palpitation of the Heart.

Whenever one becomes sensible of the beating of their own heart, they are liable to be frightened and imagine they have some form of heart disease. If they really have palpitation, Dr. Simmons Sqnar Wine is a certain cure for it, but in the majority of such cases the trouble arises from some form of gastric difficulty. The stomach, disorded with food and gases, will derange the heart in some persons, while indigestion with its many variations is responsible for very many so-called heart troubles. The digestive organs need to be stimulated by the use of Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine, when the general health will improve and the heart renew its normal action.

J. E. Evans

Athens, Ga., writes: In 1872 I had suffered for years from Bilious Headache, Dizzy Spells, with Black Spots before my eyes. Had Taste in mouth, very little appetite. Two Packages Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine cured me, and for 10 years I never had an annoying symptom. From living on river I contracted Malaria, which it is now curing. I have used Zeilin's "Red D" and Thedford's "Black Draught" and found such a difference between them and Dr. M. A. S. Liv. Med. that I do not like them at all.

Spread the News. Tell it far and wide that a medicine composed of cheap material and improperly compounded in a dangerous thing to fool with: the old proprietary of the article now called "Black Draught," and by J. E. Zeilin & Co., of Augusta, Ga., and sold by [illegible] called "Simmons Liver Medicine," both have injunctions against them, enjoining them from using the wrin coming of their trade name, but we learn those articles have been sold as "just the same" as ours, while neither of the proprietors or liberal advertisements claim theirs to be the same as ours.

What do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing and takes the place of coffee.

The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems.

Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee but costs about ¼ as much. All grocers sell it. 15c. and 25c.

Try Grain-O!

Insist that your grocer gives you GRAIN-O Accept no imitation.

WINCHESTER GUN CATALOGUE FREE

SEND YOUR NAME ON A POSTAL CARD AND WE WILL SEND YOU OUR 136 PAGE ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE

WINCHESTER REPEATING ARMS CO. 180 WINCHESTER AVE., NEW HAVEN, CONN.

A PERFECT TALKING MACHINE for $10

WRITE FOR CATALOGUE "K"
SPEAR & CO.,
INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

A HOT TIME

THE FIRESIDE SUPPLY CO., of Zanesville, Ohio, has decided to make AN UNPARALLELED OFFER as a means of advertising and extending its business.

OUR NO. 11 OAK! AN AIR-TIGHT ... HEATING ... STOVE... $6.25!

Will be sold for 90 Days at the unheard-of price of.

We do not ask you to buy a "pig in a poke." Send postal for our free book containing full information and buy later when convinced that WE MEAN BUSINESS.

FIRESIDE SUPPLY CO., ZANESVILLE, OHIO.

Write us NOW. If you don't, next time you think of it the paper containing this advertisement will have disappeared.

DROPSY NEW DISCOVERY gives quick relief and cures worst cases. Send for book of testimonials and 10 days' treatment Free. Dr. H. H. GREEN'S SONS, Atlanta, Ga.

FITS STOPPED FREE. PERMANENTLY CURED. Insanity Prevented by DR. KLINE'S GREAT NERVE RESTORER

Publisher cure for all Nervous Diseases. Fits, St. Vitus' Dance, Nervousness after first day's use. Treatise and $2 trial bottle Free to Patients. Send name, post office and express address of patient. Send to DR. KLINE, Ltd., Infallible Institute of Medicine, 931 Arch Street, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please state that you saw the advertisement in this paper

BOONE : COUNTY : RECORDER

Wednesday, Dec., 1, 1897.

Rates of Subscription:

One year..... $1 50.
Six months..... 75.
Three months..... 40.

☞Payable invariably in advance.

THE RECORDER

SOLICITS YOUR

Job Work,

NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND EVERY BILLS,

Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.

Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

STATE NEWS.

Wickliffe has a female band.

Lexington is maintaining a home for negro orphans.

Eighteen divorce suits are pending in the Mason Circuit Court.

The President has pardoned ex-postmaster Heitch, of Newport.

A Henderson preacher says the world will come to an end next year.

G. S. Sparks, a Vanceburg lawyer, is charged with receiving stolen goods.

After two years' sojourn in Alaska a Louisville man returned with $15,000 in gold.

An ex-convict has made ugly charges against a guard of the Frankfort penitentiary.

Notices warning gate-keepers to stop collecting toll are being posted in Wolfe county.

Nineteen divorce suits have been filed in the Mason circuit court since its last term.

Some persons removed the new organ from Bethel church, near Falmouth, and burned it.

Harlow Spencer, 76, of Versailles, has not cast a ballot since he voted for Clay 53 years ago.

The Governor has notified the Jessamine county officials that he will help them protect the pikes.

The chinese laundrymen will be required to move their places from the center of the city of Covington.

The farmers of Marion county will probably have a free mail delivery in at least two or more neighborhoods.

Wm. H. Smither, aged 89, and the oldest tailor in the United States in point of service, is dead at Versailles.

For the first time in the past six years wild pigeons have again made their appearance in the bottoms near Paducah.

The Secretary of State has refused to allow the Wholesale and Retail Coal Dealers Association of Lexington to incorporate.

A negro woman is holding religious services in the Court-house at Tompkinsville, and large crowds are flocking to hear her.

William Todd, one of the most prominent farmers, merchant and stock raisers of Garrard county, has assigned. Liabilities, $12,000.

Miss Christine Bradley, daughter of the Governor, will christen the battleship, Kentucky, which will be launched some time in January.

A swindler duped several Frankfort people who wanted to loan money on their real estate. The amount he generally captured was $10.

Rose Anderson committed suicide at Pineville by shooting herself through the heart. The suicide was caused by disappointment in love.

The Montgomery County Fiscal Court has purchased four of the turnpikes leading into Mt. Sterling, an aggregate of twenty-five miles for $14,093.

Three of the assailants of Mrs. Gleason, of Covington, have each been given a 20 years' term in the penitentiary, by the circuit court at Newport.

Near Hubble, Boyle county, Mrs. James Wilmot shot through a hole in the door and seriously wounded a negro burglar trying to effect an entrance.

Carlton Parks, a five-year-old son of Wiley Parks, of Marshall county was instantly killed by being thrown from a horse, his feet becoming entangled in the trace chains.

At Broadhead, Rockcastle county Willie Hamm, son of Jas. Hamm, was roasted to death, and Johnnie Gilpin, son of Tilman Gilpin, was seriously burned by falling into the fire.

The Auditor is making out bills against the Kentucky Circuit Court Clerks to recover about $30,000 collected by them in fees to which the Appellate Court says they are not entitled.

Two new cob-pipe factories have been started in Kentucky. Wm. Wilcox has opened a factory at Paint Lick, and Robert Potts is running a similar factory at White's Station.

W. W. Pigg has sued Madison county for $8,250 for the purchase price of a turnpike, the bond issue, on which the Fiscal Court relied to pay for the road, failing to carry at the election.

Thos. Perkins attempted to ford the Kentucky river at Sanders' ferry, when his horse turned the wagon over, fracturing Perkin's knee cap, breaking his leg and otherwise seriously injuring him.

The Grant County, Fiscal Court has cut the salaries of county officers: Judge from $700 to $600: Attorney from $500 to $450; School Superintendent from $900 to $750, to effect the newly elected officers.

As compared with the vote of November, 1896, the vote in Kentucky this year fell short as follows: Democrats, 31,424; Republicans, 40,413. The gold bug ticket polled 9,563 votes; the Prohibitionists, 1,732; Populists, 7,271.

Gen. Cassius M. Clay's child wife has deserted him. She says she no longer loves him; that he won't let her go to parties nor visit her neighbors. The old General is 87 years of age. His wife, whom he married three years ago, is now 16.

County Judge Lee has decided that the four banks in the county must pay county taxes for 1896 and 1897, amounting to $6,000. They will appeal to the Circuit Court for 1896, but will probably pay for 1897 without further litigation.

Frank Meiner, one of the assailants of Mrs. Gleason, convicted and given 20 years, asked the Governor for a pardon. In promptly rejecting the petitions the Governor wrote: "The punishment is not as severe as it should have been."

The heavy artillery discharged in the House of Representatives' Hall at Frankfort, last winter, loosened the plastering on the celing so that a large portion of it came down with a crash, one day last week, and it may be that repairs will not be completed in time for the meeting of the legislature in January.

The gas well on the Risk farm near Oxford is still flowing freely. An appliance will be put in by which the gas can be turned on and off at will, and it will be used for light about the barn and so forth. Mr. Renfro says enough gas has already escaped to supply a large family for five years.—Georgetown Times.

The jail at Owenton came near burning on Tuesday of last week. Fourteen drunk and disorderly prisoners left over from court day were in jail. At the hour stated, Jailer Snelson discovered that the house was full of smoke, and upon investigation found that some of the inmates had set the building on fire But for his timely interference the building and possibly half of the men would have burned.

A channel cat fish was caught one morning last week, opposite Carrolton by some Madison fishermen, which weighed even one hundred pounds. It was six feet long and measured a foot across the head. When it was disembowled a small pocket-book with several pieces of silver money was found in its stomach. The monster was cut up in steaks and retailed in the Madison market.—Milton Press.

Two of the youngest cornet players in the world are to be found at Sulphur, Henry county, Ky. They are the children of W. B. Tague, Mary, three years old, and Lawrence aged five. Among the numbers they play are "Old Kentucky Home," "Suwanee River," "Yankee Doodle," Sousa's "High School Cadets" march and others. Each does remarkably clever solo work, and they play nicely together.

A young lady in Muhlenberg county, says the Banner, by the name of Miss Helen Hunt, found a purse in church one Sunday morning recently and reported her find to the pastor, with the request that he report the finding of the purse and contents, and that it would be returned to its owner by applying to her. So the following Sunday the pastor made this announcement from the pulpit: "Somebody lost a purse here last Sunday evening, and if the owner wants the property he can go to Helen Hunt for it."

The friends of the proposed constitutional amendment that was defeated at the recent election have not lost hope of another vote next year. The constitution prohibits the submission of the same proposed amendment oftener than once in five years, but it is claimed that the recent vote is not in reality "a submission to the people," as contemplated by the constitution, because several counties failed to vote on it at all, and the whole affair, being so irregular that it was practically not a submission, therefore the five-year rule does not obtain.

The grand jury of Barren county returned an indictment against J. B. Depp, the recently elected Representative in the Legislature from that county, charging him with false swearing. When it became generally known it caused something of a sensation. The charge is that Depp swore falsely in a law suit last February between James P. Depp and John Depp. There is now pending in the Circuit Court a suit brought by John Depp against James Depp for $5,000 damages because of the charge made by James Depp that John Depp swore falsely in the suit mentioned and it may be tried this court.

Emboldened by the success of recent toll-gate raiders, who follow their unlawful calling unmolested in Bath county, bands of armed men have begun other devilties. One night last week ten or a dozen men went to the house of George Moxley, near Sharpsburg, and calling that gentleman to his door, began cursing and abusing him and threatened to shoot him if he resented their conduct. Satisfying themselves with cursing Moxley, they fired a number of shots through his house, in which were his wife and children, by way of a parting salute. A short time after a similar party went to a house occupied by a tenant on Enoch Rall's farm, in the neighborhood, and subjected the occupants to the same kind of treatment. The county authorities seem powerless to stop these things.

Friday night about 10 o'clock we were aroused from our sleep by a terrible racket which came from the second story of our dwelling and upon the roof. The soot came down the chimney, covering the floor and furniture in the lower rooms. We secured a light and hastened upstairs where we found the floors covered with soot. In one of the fire places lay kicking a huge fowl which we picked up and found to be a wild goose. What induced it to come down the chimney we have no idea, it was there all the same. Our daughter dressed it and when cooked it was as tender as a spring chicken. When it hit the top of the chimney it knocked off a dozen or more bricks, some falling in the yard while others came down the chimney into the rooms below.—Morgan County Messenger.

CROP AND STOCK.

A hogshead of new Bourbon county tobacco sold at Louisville, last week, at $20 per 100.

Corn is selling in Lexington at $1 50 a barrel, in Georgetown at $1 25 and a few miles north of Georgetown at $1 75.

The wheat that was sown just prior to the recent rains is coming up in fine shape, but that which was put in the ground at the beginning of the drouth is spotted and gives evidence of a poor yield.—Bluegrass Clipper.

A large number of Mexican silver dollars are in circulation in Barren county.

The Kentucky lawmakers-elect are arranging their wardrobes for transferring to Frankfort.

There is going to be a complete new deal in the make up in the list of State officers in Kentucky. New men from Governor to Register of Lands will go on the ticket. None of the old set will be seriously considered.—Owensboro Messenger.

John D. McIntyre, Superintendent of Public Schools in Bath county, and also editor of the Bath county Democrat, has shied his castor in the ring as an aspirant for the position of Sergeant-at-arms of the House at the coming session of the Legislature.—Flemingsburg Times-Democrat.

A very handsome historical lithographic colored bird's-eye view of Chattanooga, Missionary Ridge and portions of Chickamauga field as seen from the summit of Lookout mountain, has been issued recently by the General Passenger Department of the Queen & Crescent Route. It is in the highest style of the lithographer's art, on fine eggshell paper. The color plate is 10x24 inches, with extra wide margins of paper on all sides. The lithograph is a somewhat expensive one, and in view of that fact, a charge of ten cents is made per copy. Address with stamps, W. C. Rinearson, G. P. A., Cincinnati, O.

Lots of good reading on the inside pages.

Commissioner's Sale.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

L. Dwyer's Adm'r., &c. Plffs.
vs
L. Dwyer's creditors, &c., Defts.

By virtue of a Judgment and order of Sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the August term thereof, 1897, in the above cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court House door in Burlington, Boone County, Ky., to the highest bidder, at Public Sale on Monday the 6th day of Dec., 1897, at one o'clock p. m. or there about, being County Court day, on a credit of 6 and 12 months, the following described property to wit:

A tract of land lying and being in Boone county, Ky., consisting of two tracts and bounded thus:

First tract—Beginning at two Sassafras trees corner to C. B. McPherson; thence with his line s 64¼ e 104 5 poles to a stone near two white oak trees a corner with Rebecca Florence; thence with her line n 29¼ e 89½ poles to a sugar tree and leaning white oak a corner with Thos. Young; thence with his line n 43 w 108 poles to a white oak tree and poplar stump; thence s 65½ w 30½ poles to Thos. Dwyer's corner, on the south side of a large branch; thence s 64 w 191 poles to a stone on the south west side of a large branch, another corner of Thos. Dwyer; thence with Jackson Bass' line up said branch s 53 e 27½ poles to an elm tree; thence s 87 e 15½ poles to two white oak trees and rose elder; thence s 58 e 29 3-5 to a white oak tree; theuce n 84½ e 13½ poles to a fallen hickory stump; thence s 36 e 4 1-5 poles to a stone near said branch Bass' upper corner in C. B. McPherson's line; thence with said line n 23½ e 48 poles to the beginning containing 137 acres

Tract two—Beginning at a double sugar tree and white oak on the south side of little South Fork creek near the mouth of Wolf Pen branch a corner with Elijah Northcutt; thence with his line s 19½ e 84½ poles to a red oak tree; thence s 1 w 29 poles to a stone and dogwood on Wolf Pen branch; thence s 19 e 16½ poles to a stone on the west side of said branch in Northcutt's line, a corner between a mulberry and dogwood; thence n 16½ e 181 poles to a stone, the south west side of a large branch of little South Fork creek; thence down the meanders of said branch and said creek, leaving them out to water mark, n 51 w 30 poles, n 42 w 31 poles, s 87 w 63 poles, n 45 w 34 poles, n 87 w 10 poles, s 62½ w 71½ to the beginning containing 100¼ acres.

There is excepted from and reserved out of this description, lands conveyed to Patrick McCormick which contains about 102 acres. There is also excepted out of all the lands of decedent at the time of his death the following tract of land which was set apart to the widow as her homestead:

Beginning at a stone, Wm. Farrell's corner at the south corner of a grave yard; thence with said Farrell's line n 65 w 14 65 chs to a stone; thence s 79¾ w 2.25 chs to a stone; thence running with the lines of the remaining tract belonging to Larry Dwyer, n 9¼ e 4.66 chs to a stone; thence n 80¼ w 2.87 chs to a stone; thence n 53¼ w 16.76 chs to a stone; thence n 66¼ e 6.33 chs to a stone; thence 3¼ e 6.25 chs to a stone on the south side of little South Fork creek; thence up said creek leaving it out, n 83¼ e 3.33 chs, n 89¾ e 3.81 chs, s 86¼ e 6.16 chs to a stone near the mouth of a branch; thence up said branch leaving it out, s 2¼ e 1.1 chs, s 40¾ e 1.05 chs, s 66¼ e 1.12 chs, s 24¼ e 1.91, s 45¼ e 5.17 chs, s 45¼ e 5.6 chs, s 45 e 3.97 chs to Wm. Farrell's corner; thence with his line 39¼ w 16.17 chs to the beginning, containing 44a, 3r, 8p. There is reserved for this lot a passway 20 feet wide passing over Dwyer's remaining tract along the present passway to the county road.

I will first offer all the remaining lands except the homestead, in case it does not bring enough money to pay the debt, interest and cost of the Walton Perpetual Building and Loan Association which is $1,918 46, I will then offer the homestead.

Or sufficient thereof to produce the sums of money so ordered to be made for said Building and Loan Association. For the purchase price the purchaser, with approved security or securities, must execute bond, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid, and having the force and effect of a Judgment, with a lien retained therein until all the purchase money is paid. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms

J. B. BERKSHIRE, M. C. B. C.

Order of Reference.

Boone Circuit Court.

Jordan Beemon's Admr. Plff.
vs
Jordan Beemon's heirs &c. Defts.

This cause is now referred to J. B. Berkshire, Master Commissioner of this court, under Section 431 Civil Code of practice, with the following instructions:

1. He will audit and settle the accounts of the administrator.

2. He will hear proof on and report the debts against the estate and how secured if at all.

3. He will hear proof, ascertain and determine what real estate decedent owned at the time of his death, where located and the probable value thereof.

4. He will give due notice of the time and place of his sittings by written or printed notices posted up at the Court House door in Burlington, Ky., five days preceeding his sittings and also publish said notices in the Boone Co., Recorder. He will report at the next term of this court.

Given under my hand as clerk of said court, this October 8th, 1897.

J. W. DUNCAN, Clerk.

The undersigned hereby gives notice that he will begin his sittings on the 1st day of November, 1897, at the Circuit Clerk's office in Burlington, Ky., to hear proof in the above styled cause and will adjourn from day to day (Sunday excepted) to the 1st day of Dec., 1897. All persons having claims against Jordan Beemon's estate will present them to me properly proven as by law required.

J. B. BERKSHIRE, Master Com.

Notice.

Having attained an age, and condition of health, that I am no longer able to attend to my business, I appoint Geo. W. Roberts to take charge of it, and enforce settlement and reinvest the money to the best advantage.

NAT HIND, Verona, Ky.

AYLOR'S AYLOR'S AYLOR'S AYLOR'S

YOU WILL FIND US

Very much alive in all that means business—and business that will be your business is what we are going to talk right along. Our business is to sell good, pure and fresh GROCERIES and PROVISIONS, and to point out to people the wisdom of patronizing our establishment.

IRA AYLOR, - - Erlanger, Ky.

AYLOR'S AYLOR'S AYLOR'S AYLOR'S

C. W. ROBINSON,
—DEALER IN—
Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots and Shoes,
ALL KIND OF FEED AND FLOUR IN STOCK,
Agent for Weidler's Germ Food; Also agent for the Jones Fertilizers.
GOOD STABLE IN CONNECTION WITH STORE.
Constance, Ky.

METROPOLITAN COUPE & LIVERY COMPANY.
62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,
E. H. BAKER, Proprietor
Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.
Horses and Second-Hand Buggies for Sale.
Horses Sold on Commission.
Telephone 580.

CHAS. C. FRY. JACOB REIB.
FRY & REIB,
Manufacturers of and Dealers in all kinds of
Marble & Granite Monuments,
HEADSTONES, CORNER POSTS, ETC.,
109 Pike Sreet, - - - COVINGTON, K
Near C. & O. R. R. Crossing. Designs Furnished Upon Application.

Commissioner's Sale.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

J. R. Clutterbuck's Assignee, Plff.
vs
J. R. Clutterbuck, &c., Defts.

By virtue of a Judgment and order of Sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1897, in the above cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court-House door in Burlington, Boone County, Ky., to the highest bidder, at Public Sale on Monday the 6th day of December 1897, at one o'clock p m., or thereabout, being County Court day, for cash, the following described property, to-wit:

Consisting of some notes, judgments and delinquent tax lists held by J. R. Clutterbuck at time of assignment, from 1885 to 1888. I will sell the tax list by districts as follows: Bellevue district, $74; Petersburg dist, $126,10; Verona dist., $230,25; Carlton district, $169,05; Hamilton dist. $283,80; Burlington dist., $24,90; Walton district, $211,20; Beaver Lick dist., $92,50; Florence dist., $255,20; Taylorsport district, $147,20; Union district, $115,20. Persons wishing to see said claims can do so by calling at Circuit Clerk's office.

Also the following judgments in favor of J. R. Clutterbuck rendered in magistrates court at Walton, Ky.,—S. L. Boyer, $15; Wm. Ingram, $7,50; Calvin Rice (col.) $11,60; John Soden, $6,25; Albertus Boyer, $15; Lewis Crutchfield, $5; T. F. Chambers, $6,75; John Poston (col.) $5; Frank Smith, $7,50; Thos. Hoard, $12,50; J. O. Stone, $15; John Maning, $10,50.

Also note on Geo. J. Clutterbuck, for $140,00, dated June 2d, 1891, payable sixty days thereafter—credit Aug. 28, 1891, $39,50.

Note on T. J. Coyle for $16,25, dated April 25th, 1891, due in four months thereafter.

J. B. BERKSHIRE,
Master Commissioner.

What it Will Do.

FALMOUTH, KY. July 7, 1896.

Dr. J. T. Boulton, Cincinnati, O.

Dear Sir—I was taken with a severe cough the first of May; for two weeks I could not lie on my left side nor breathe through my left lung. I also had hemorrhage and my friends said I had consumption. I began taking Boulton's Cough Remedy and began to improve with the first dose, and within three weeks was entirely well. I can not say enough in favor of Boulton's Cough Remedy. Respectfully,

MRS. R. J. MARSHALL.

For sale by all druggists. Price, 25c. and $1 per bottle.

For Sale or Rent.

Good Stock Farm of 170 acres. Money rent in cash, if rented.
Wm. C. HENSLEY.

Take the Recorder, $1.50 a year.

Frankfort & Cincinnati Railway.

Ask for tickets via this line. Schedule of trains in effect March 1, 1897.

East Bound.
Lve. Frankfort..... 6:30 a. m, 3:00 p. m
Arr. Georgetown...7:20 a. m. 4:15 p. m
West Bound
Lve. Georgetown...10:40 a m 6:30 p. m
Arr. Frankfort.....11:55 a. m 7:20 p. m
C. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.
Geo. B. Harper, Gen. Supt.
Frankfort, Ky.

H. S. STEVENSON,
Satisfaction Guaranteed.
DENTIST,
Prices Consistent with Good Services Only.
OFFICE:— Rising Sun, Indiana.

R. A. STEELE,
RISING SUN, IND.,
UNDERTAKING.
My Stock and accouterments are unsurpassed, having adult's black hearses and child's white hearse.
Independent of Undertakers' Union.
My prices are reasonable and my friends will tell you I give satisfaction.

FURNITURE
Large Stock of Latest Styles at Lowest Prices.
GIVE ME A CALL.

BOOTS & SHOES
MADE TO ORDER.
Work Strictly First-Class.
Prices to Suit the Times.
Harness, Boots and Shoes Neatly Repaired. Give me a trial.
CHRISTIAN BECKER,
29apt2m Union, Ky.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U.S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U.S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C.A.SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXIII. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1897. NO. 7

MR. REED is in session at Washington.

THE President has Congress on his hands again.

THE Treasury deficit for the month of November was $8,500,000.

THE green goods men have been flooding the Louisville postoffice with literature.

THE Frankfort Lottery Co., must shut up shop, says the Supreme Court of the United States.

SINCE 1885 the Government has spent over $50,000 improving the Ohio river at Rising Sun, Ind.

IN reading the President's message a person is reminded of a boy crossing deep water on thin ice.

GAINES, the colored politician of Covington. is furious becaue of his turndown, and charges that Hanna sold him out.

THE pots and skillets in the Frankfort boarding houses are being overhauled for service during the session of the legislature.

IF Hawaii is annexed a very large block of leprosy will be acquired, as one in every ten of the inhabitants is a leper, say those who have investigated.

IT is to be hoped that Gov. Bradley will not have to order out the State troops to protect his daughter, Miss Christine, while she christens the battle ship Kentucky.

WHEN the legislature convenes at Frankfort on the 4th of next January, a full force of officeseekers will be in camp there, awaiting the coming of the lawmakers.

IT seems that Green R. Keller will be given his old job by the next legislature. Without Keller at the Clerk's desk it would not look like the Democrats have a majority.

THE Democaats and a portion of the Republicans are endorsing Gov. Bradley's efforts to give the State a good administration, the opposition to him coming from his own party.

THE Covington Republicans could not land W. A. Gaines, colored, in the office he so much desired —Register of the Treasury. Gaines is a swift fellow, but ex-Register Bruce beat him to the prize.

SOME of Atty. L. J. Crawford's friends are grooming him for the next Republican nomination for Governor. He is looked upon as the man upon whom all the Republican factions in the State can unite.

This country will congratulate Chairman Dingley on his new tariff law when Congress meets. Neither he nor Congress will have occasion to be ashamed of its record.—Rising Sun Recorder.

Exactly so. It is filling its mission to a nicety, and the trusts are well pleased with it.

TYPHOID fever seems to be increasing year by year in this State, and if something is not done to check it, it will soon rival the yellow fever in the South. The State Board of Health should give the dreadful disease more attention, and enforce measures calculated to prevent it as far as possible.

THE citizens of Covington are afraid to wake up during the night for fear of finding a burglar in their room. One fellow returned to consciousness one night last week, and he and a burglar engaged in a mill during the progress of which the intruder was knocked through a window onto the pavement, when he skedaddled.

THE Treasury officials acknowledge that the receipts from the Dingley tarift law have, thus far, been disappointing, but they claim that in a few months it will afford all the revenue necessary to operate the goverament. The same claim was made for the Wilson bill, but it was never realized. The trusts have no fault to find with the present tariff law. It is just what they want.

IN regard to Secretary Sherman's health a dispatch from Washington says:

"It is notorious that for many months foreign diplomats have had nothing to do with Sherman save the usual calls of courtesy. His memory has absolutely failed, and he does not recognize his oldest friends until the names are mentioned. The State Department is nearly at a standstill on this account, and all the work is transacted by subordinates."

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, December 4th, 1897.

It the business of Congress to ough[illegible]'s pleasde for the interests of the [illegible] people, or only to do what Mr. McKinley thinks will be beneficial to him and to the Republican party? Such a question would seem to admit of but one answer. Yet, Mr. McKinley is seeking the aid of Czar Reed and Mr. Cannon, chairman of the House committee on Appropriations, to prevent the House legislating for the whole people. Because the Dingley tariff law has failed to provide the money need to properly carry on the government, and because he does not dare to tell Congress so and ask for additional tariff legislation to furnish more revenue, Mr. McKinley wants to deprive the people who pay the heavy taxes called for by the Dingley tariff of privileges to which they are clearly entitled. If Reed enters the deal—Cannon has already done so—no public building bill, no matter how urgent the need, will be allowed to go through the House; no bill providing for the payment of any private claims against the goverment, no matter how just it is nor how much those to whom the money is due may be suffering, will be allowed to pass, and no river and harbar appropriation will be passed. Czar Reed may bite off more than he can chew, if he attempts to carry out these ideas. Neither he nor Mr. McKinley will be as strong at this session as they were at the extra session; their favors have mostly been distributed. It is well known that failure to get through a public building bill for his district has cost many Representatives their seats, and next year the Representatives will all be passed on by their constituents. There has been much talk which came to nothing about a revolt against Reed by the House, but in this case there is likely to be a sure enough revolt, if he isn't careful, and a successful one, too.

A scrapping match between two prominent W. Va. Republicans, Mr. F. A. Scott, who is a member of the Republican National Committee, and who expects to become Commissioner of Internal Revenue about the first of January, and Judge Nathan Goff, who was once in the Cabinet and who has just declined a Cabinet portfolio, is indicated by the announced aspirations of both of them—a desire to succeed Senator Faulkner, whose term will expire March 3, 1899. W. Va., Democrats laugh at the expectations of Messrs. Goff and Scott, and say that they have no doubt of a Democratic majority in the next Legislature. Meanwhile Goff and Scott are preparing to fight each other. They were both in Washington this week and both saw Mr. McKinley. Having already more factional party fights than he knew what to do with, Mr. McKinley tried to nip this one in the bud by asking Goff to become Attorney General when Mr. McKenna is nominated for the Supreme Court, but that gentleman declined and said that nothing but a seat in the Senate would tempt him to give up his present lifetime judicial position, but he may chang his mind. Senator Elkins is at present posing as a friend of both Scott and Goff, but it is believed it will be found when there is a show of hands that he is on the side of Scott.

Senator Mallory, of Florida, has pronounced views on Cuba which he doesn't hesitate in announcing. He said: "Spain's apparent willingness to grant autonomy is but a pretext of delay against positive action by our government. It ought not to deceive any one familiar with the record of Spain's oft-broken pledge to the people of that oppressed island. I do not know what action Congress will take, and I am not in the confidence of the administration. As far back as 1858, a U. S. Senator from my State advocated the independence of Cuba, and the arguments then made are absolutely applicable to-day. He gave a detailed account of the perfidy of the Spanish government, which would serve without modification at the present time. The autonomy farce has been tried before." Senator Mallory thinks there can be only one right settlement of the Cuban question, and that is the independence of the island, and he regards it as the duty of this country to aid in bringing it about, forcibly if necessary.

It looks now as though no attempt will be made to pass a bill providing for the retirement of the greenbacks, even in the House. The reason is the Republican opposition, which is outspoken, especially among representatives from the west and middle west. The only way a bill providing for the retirement of the greenbacks could be put through the House would be to get it endorsed by a caucus of the Republicans, and then it would not be certain, as there would probably be enough Republicans who would refuse to attend or be bound by the caucus, in addition to the solid vote of the Democrats and Populists, to defeat the bill.

A COMMITTEE of native Hawaiians have come to this country to protest against the annexation of their islands. The natives are opposed to annexation, while a strong element of American carpet-baggers favor the scheme, a fact that gives the annexation proposition very much the appearance of large stealings of real estate. If those Americans receive very anxious to have the government rule over them they can better come home and attend to business.

MORGAN CHINN, the Mercer[illegible] ty Representative in the House of the General Assembly, is preparing a bill, which, if it passes, will provide for the publication of school books by the State. There is now a monopoly in the school book business, but the State will take great chances of being imposed on should it decide to embark in the publishing business. It is to be hoped that Mr. Chinn may provide some relief along the line he proposes pursuing.

THE United States Supreme Court sustained the decision of the Court of Appeals of Kentucky in the celebrated Frankfort Lottery case. The opinion in the case was handed down by Justice Harlan, who holds that the charter of the lottery company was not an inviolate contract within the meaning of the Federal Constitution, but in the nature of a license, which might under the Constitution be revoked by the State at any time. It is asserted that suit will be brought to recover the $97,750 paid the Frankfort schools under the lottery charter, which by the decision of the courts has been revoked.

"The refusal of candidate Bryan to deny the report that he prefers Wat Hardin to Senator Goebel for the next Democratic candidate for Governor is causing no end of trouble in the Popocratic ranks: Joe Blackburn favors Goebel and there is liable to some very interesting developments when Bryan seeks the support of the Kentucky delegation when he again wants the Presidential nomination."

The above is a sample installment of the slush that some papers in this State are imposing upon their patrons. They would like to make Mr. Bryan appear in the attitude of a boss, trying to control everything from State legislatures to the National Congress, but they have made a miserable failure every time the attempt has been made.

Mr. Porter, Secretary to the President is going to try his hand in making the functions at the White House more exclusive affairs than they have been herctofore, and if he succeeds the public should be duly grateful. In the past the receptions of the President have been more like a butchers' picnic than state affairs, with some advantage to the picnic, for one has to give a card to enter the former.—Ex.

(The God Yuzzo.)

The evil we do, not only lives after us, but plagues us mightily before we go.

Alimony is the fine a man pays for having made an unsuccessful experiment.

Credit is a false friend, who only stays with you until you are in trouble.

There are people who will never get into the heavenly orchestra because they refuse to play anything but first fiddle.

It's very easy to judge how much smoking and drinking other people should do.

A light heart goes easily with a heavy purse.

It's not the loudest amens that get the Lord's ear the quickest.

Some people imagine that they are religious when the pleasures and excitement they get from it is the real attraction.

Time will fly for everyone but for him who waits.

THE increase in taxes is causing a tremendous kick all over the State, and any move to add another five cents to the rate would precipitate a riot, which Gov. Bradley could not suppress with his entire army, and there will be no levy made by the legislature for erecting a State House.

Pith of the Press.

Whatever you do Mr. McKinley, don't "wobble."—Boston Globe.

It may be that this big row among the Austro-Hungarian legislators was got up by Mark Twain's advertising agant.—Boston Herald.

In a short time now Hon. Thos. Brackett Reed will be once more at work making laws for the guidance of his fellow countrymen.—Boston Globe.

Mr. Reed is ripening for the Presidential nomination some time in the future, but he is still a young man with a future.—Minneapolis Journal.

As Senator Thurston was in [illegible] when last heard from, this [illegible] in Indiana about the waste [illegible]rest ad[illegible] is inexplicable.—Chicago [illegible]

Under the provi[illegible] toll-gate fiend, who approved March 2, [illegible] international agreem[illegible]op him, has per[illegible]lem I appointed thr[illegible]ught to the one [illegible] It is to be earnestl[illegible]olds the keys.—may result in an [illegible] which will bring abo[illegible] and silver as money.

A [illegible] safeguards as[illegible]on foot to send a relief is upon a basi[illegible]at intrepid old explorer, Pr[illegible] classes of [illegible]rable [illegible]e Hill, who is jammed in thorec. At Wolfert's Roost.—Chicago News.

About the most interesting exhibition scheduled for the near future is the annual football game between Mr. Reed, of Maine, and Mr. Simpson, of Kansas.—Minneapolis Journal.

Now that Governor Pingree is said to have struck asphalt in Venezuela, some evil-minded folks are predicting that he will soon soften on plutocrats and monopolists.—Boston Globe.

Mr. Gage has opinions. Mr. McKinley has none. Mr. McKinley transmits Mr. Gage's opinions to Congress and "earnestly commends" them to "the careful consideration" of the lawmakers.—N. Y. Journal.

Mr. Robert P. Porter declares the taking of the next census should be placed in the hands of competent persons. This is the first intimation the public has had that Mr. Porter is not after his old job.—N. Y Journal.

It is again denied that the President intends to retire Secretary Sherman. Being an Ohio man himself, Mr. McKinley knows the difficulties in the way of separating one of them from office.—Detroit Tribune.

One of the churches, of Trenton, N. J., has made a successful trial of pretty girls for ushers. Some of the New York churches might try the same experiment, but where could they get the pretty girls.—Boston Globe.

First Assistant Postmaster-General Heath says that women have proved to be a success in the postal service. Since the time of Adam women always have been pretty successful in handling the males.—Ohio State Journal.

The Queen of Holland has been forbidden by her Privy Councillors to ride a wheel. If the Queen is like other women the Councillors have undoubtedly taken this course because they want her to ride.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Italian Minister of Finance shows a surplus of 34,000,000 lires for the financial year of 1896-97. If it was only spelt liars our Republican Minister of Finance should show a surplus even larger than that of Italy.—Louisville Post.

The Indianapolis newspapers are having a great deal of trouble in convincing the people to stop the waste of natural gas. And yet these same news papers go on provoking W. D. Bynum into extensive interviews.—Louisville Commercial.

Some people do not see why ex-Secretary Whitney is purchasing Kentucky thoroughbreds and are asking why. Easy: for the same reason that Mr. Cleveland's good taste leads him to have a Kentucky brand blown into his pottle of bait. The way to get the best is to go where it is kept.—Louisville Commercial.

A committee of native Hawaiians has reached San Francisco en route to Washington to protest against the annexation of the islands. These native Hawaians ought to know that the natives have nothing to do with the case, and that the annexation scheme will be settled strictly on the basis of the greatest good to the fewest number.—Louisville Post.

THERE is no encouragement for Cuba in the President's message.

COUNTY DIRECTORY.

County Judge—Benjamin Stephens.
County Clerk—R. W. Adams.
County Attorney—J. M. Lassing.
Sheriff—C. C. Roberts.
Jailer—C. L. Crisler.
Assessor—R. A. Brady.
Coroner—A. A. Murat.
Superintendent Schools—L. H. Voshell.
Surveyor—W. E. Vest.

Fiscal Court meets Tuesday after first Monday in January, April, July and October.

RAILROAD COMMISSIONER:
John C. Wood, Chairman; I. F. Dempsey, H. S. Irwin, Secretary-Samuel Brown.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Judge—John W. Green.
Clerk—J. W. Duncan.
Commonwealth's Attorney—M. D. Gray.
Master Commissioner—J. B. Berkshire.

JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.

Courts are held in the months of March, June, September and December, as follows:
District No 1.—O. W. Gaines, fourth Saturday;
J. B. Crigler, Constable.
District No. 2.—M. B. Green, first Saturday;
Jake Cook, Constable.
District No. 3.—R. L. Roberts, wednesday after third Monday; T. M. Rich, Constable.
District No. 4.—T. Bannister, Thursday after second Monday; Add Riddell, Constable.
District No. 5.—T. E. Roberts, fourth Monday;
J. H. Watson, Constable.
District No. 6.—Joseph Wagstaff, third Saturday; Simeon Tanner, Constable.

STATE DIRECTORY.

Governor—W. O. Bradley.
Lieutenant Governor—W. J. Worthington.
Secretary of State—Charles Finley.
Assistant Secretary of State—E. D. Gully.
Attorney General—W. S. Taylor.
Auditor—Samuel H. Stone.
Assistant Auditor—Frank Johnson.
Treasurer—George W. Long.
Supt of Public Instruction—Geo. M. Davidson.
Register Land Office—Charles O. Reynolds.
Deputies—Stanley D. Brown, Sam S. Shepherd.
Insurance Commissioner—D M Comingore.
Adjutant General—D. R. Collier.
Assistant—Walter Forrester.
Supt. Arsenal—Capt. David O'Connell.
State Inspector—C. W. Lester.
Commissioner Agriculture—Lucas Moore.

COURT OF APPEALS.

Chief Justice—Joseph Lewis. Judges—Geo. Du[illegible]relle, J. K. Grace, T. H. Paynter, B. L. D. Guffy, J. H. Hazelrigg, J. H. Lewis.
Reporter—E. W. Hines. Clerk—A. Adams.
Sergeant—W. S. B. Hill. Tipstaff—C. C. Turner.
Librarian—Mrs. Mary Brown Day.
Inspector of Mines—C. J. Norwood.

STATE PRISON OFFICIALS:

Frankfort Prison—Warden, Henry George; Deputy Warden, M. A. Rooney.
Eddyville Prison—Warden, L. C. Curry; Deputy Warden, Ward Linn.

JOHN C. TANNER
SPECIAL AGENT,
ERLANGER, - - KY.
Representing Reliable Companies Manufacturing
Musical Instruments, Sewing Machines, Bicycles, Buggies, Farming Implements
—ALSO—
Coal and Lumber, Granite & Marble Work, Life & Fire Insurance.
Prompt Attention and Satisfaction Guaranteed.
Aug 25 3m.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
— DRUGGIST, —
Rising Sun, - Indiana.
Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the Corner Drug Store.

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF BOONE COUNTY,
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.
E. H. BLANKENBECKER, - President, Florence, Ky.
D. E. LAWELL, - Vice-President.
OSCAR GAINES, Secretary, Burlington.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
EXECUTIVE BOARD—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
J. E. SMITH, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky.
W. M. ROGERS, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

FOR SALE--This Fall.
STRAWBERRY PLANTS.
Bubach No. 5. P. Greenville P.
Parker Earl, Haverlan,
And other Varieties.
LIGHT BRAHMA FOWLS.
Blackberry & Raspberry Sprouts.
For further information write to
WM. C. ROUSE, Limaburg, Ky.

D. E. CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone Kenton, Grant and Gallatin. Collections pushed energetically.

G. G. HUGHES,
ATTORNEY AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to me.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY,
Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given t Collections entrusted to him. mch22-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by mail promptly attended to.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL.
LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Prompt Attention Given to Collections

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections. Office—In residence near post-office.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,
DENTIST,
Will be in Lawrenceburg, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.
At Aurora, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Practiced for 30 years.
No Poisonous Gasses Used.

S. W. ADAMS,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
ERLANGER, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the courts of Boone and Kenton counties. Collections and general law practice.

W. E. VEST. B. L. RICE.
VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.
Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged, Money to Loan on Real Estate, Notes bought, sold & Negotiated.
All communications addressed to W. E. VEST, Burlington, Ky.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1886.)
CAPITAL, ... $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 19,000
Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK.
(INCORPORATED 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY
CAPITAL PAID IN..... $50,000
SURPLUS..... $ 8,000
Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

Dr. J. L. Adams,
DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.
All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession.
Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

W. N. HIND & CO.,
—DEALERS IN—
Furniture, Carpets, Stoves,
And all Kinds of
Household Goods,
213 W. Fifth St. 4 Doors W. of Elm, Cincinnati, O.
Telephone No. 1284.

JOHN L. VEST,
SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of work south of Burlington, Ky. Prompt attention given to all mail orders.

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : KENTUCKY.

DECEMBER—1897.

Sun.	Mon.	Tue.	Wed.	Thur.	Fri.	Sat.
....	....	....	1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	9	10	11
12	13	14	15	16	17	18
19	20	21	22	23	24	25
26	27	28	29	30	31	....

MRS. FANNIE M. MCKOON owns and manages one of the largest ranches in California. It covers 10,000 acres, about 15 miles from San Diego. Since her husband's death three years ago, Mrs. McKoon, although entirely without experience at that time, has operated it so well that it is now one of the most successful ranches in the country.

WALTER DARLINGTON, mayor of Concordia, Kan., is the largest cattle feeder in north central Kansas this fall and winter. He has 1,700 head in the vicinity of Big Bend, Phillips county, 600 head near Harlan, Smith county, and 400 head in the vicinity of Concordia, Cloudy county. He expects to feed over 100,000 bushels of corn this winter.

JUST as naval topedoes will fight our battles on the high seas, torpedoes will now be weapons of defense on land as well. Mr. G. W. Glinby, of Brooklyn, has prodneed an electric torpedo for use in battles on land. The torpedoes are long, cigar-shaped projectiles, mounted on rolling trucks. The machinery to propel them is operated by electricity, furnished by means of a wire connecting with the central station.

SNOW statues are the latest form of artistic freak and their creator is M. Pierre Roche, a French sculptor of repute. The statue is made of copper, and in the base is a reservoir of liquefied carbonic acid used to generate the cold, and the moisture which is abstracted from the atmosphere forms on the surface of the metal as a coating of snow in the course of a few moments, and is prevented from thawing by the freezing mixture.

AN old-time swindle seems to have been revived in a letter from a pretended officer in the Spanish army, now in a supposititious prison in Spain, who claims to have buried a large sum of money near Brnzil, Ind. He will give one-third of the entire amount to any person who will remit to him by mail the trivial sum necessary to pay his beloved daughter's passage from Spain to the United states and the necessary expenses of unearthing the treasure. Who speaks first.

ON the approach of a thunder storm French peasants often make up a very smoky fire in the belief that safety from lightning is thus assured. By some this is deemed a superstition, but Schuster shows that the custom is based on reason, inasmuch as the smoke acts as a good conductor for carrying away the electricity slowly and safely. He points out that in 1,000 cases of damage by lightning 6.3 churches and 8.5 mills have been struck, whilst the number of factory chimneys has only been 0.3.

NEW YORK papers mention a rare case of personal integrity and business honor which has come to light in that city. In 1861 Mr. Amos F. Eno was a member of a firm which failed shortly after the war began. The stock was sold, the debts paid pro rata and releases were signed by the creditors. Now, after 35 years, Mr. Eno is paying off the balance of all claims, with four per cent. interest since 1861, amounting in the aggregate to about $500,000. Snch cases as this tend to strengthen commercial integrity everywhere.

The French have a decidedly practical way of looking at new methods of locomotion. No sooner was the bicycle established than a large revenue-producing tax was imposed on it, and now it has been decided by the French authorities to impose a tax on motor cars, the tax apparently varying in different parts, according to the density of the population. In the large centers of population the tax will be a somewhat serious item, and in Paris it amounts to $12 on vehicles for two passengers, and $20 on larger vehicles.

THE signal corps of the United States army now operates about 802 miles of military telegraphs. The most notable advance of the year in its system has been the adoption of a combination telegraph and telephone apparatus which only weighs 16 pounds, and consequently can easily be carried by one soldier. With this apparatus one soldier can telegraph a message to another, while a telephonic conversation with another station can be simultaneously carried on, the distant operators only receiving the messages intended for each.

OUR national post office shows a deficit of between $15,000,000 and $16,000,000 this year, while the English government has a surplus of about $20,000,000 annually. The cause of deficit does not rest with letter postage That has always paid its way and substantially supported the whole service. The discrepancy between receipts and expenditures arises from another source. The loss to the government by second-class mail matter is scarcely less than $40,000,000 a year, the established rate for this class being only one-fifteenth of the actual cost of transmission and handling.

THE PRAGUE RIOTS.

Many German Business Places in the Suburbs Marked for Destruction.

Shrewd Jewish Shopkeepers Escape by Placing Illuminated Crucifixes in Their Windows—Patrol Fires Upon a Body of Rioters—The Deadlock.

VIENNA, Dec. 3.—It is evident that the standrecht was not proclaimed a moment too soon at Prague. Well-dressed men, it is said, rode on bicycles through the city and suburbs making lists of the German places marked for attack, and the work of the rioters being one in accordance with these lists, and in many places simultaneously, prevention was almost impossible.

Goldsmiths' and jewelers' show cases were emptied in a few minutes. Women carried baskets to take home the contents of grocery and provision stores; while furniture and other articles too heavy to carry, were wantonly destroyed. If the troops had not used their swords and bayonets freely Prague might have been burned from end to end.

In several cases Jewish shopkeepers escaped by the device of placing an illumed crucifix in the shop windows. The pillaging was so systematic that in one street alone Thursday 15 Jewish shops were ransacked. An ambulance corps was attacked savagely because the doctors were recognized as Germans.

The parliamentary deadlock continues. Baron Gautsch, the new premier, has made no progress toward a compromise satisfactory to the rival factions, and it begins to be feared that the present reichsrath will never reassemble. Certain it is that if the reichsrath meets with Dr. Von Abrahamovichs in the chair the same disorderly scenes will occur as before.

Riots, more or less serious, are reported from Innsbruk, Brnnn, Linz and Sanz. In some cases it is alleged that the disturbances have been encouraged by the municipal authorities. Generally the Bohemian Jews have suffered most.

A report was current Thursday night, though as yet unconfirmed, that a mob at Prague attacked the soldiers and a sanguinary encounter ensued. According to this rumor the troops fired four volleys, killing 25 rioters outright and wounding many.

PRAGUE, Dec. 3.—Some of the persons arrested at Smichow will be court-martialed for having received with jeers and groans the proclamation declaring the city under martial law.

The military patrol fired upon a body of rioters who were trying to demolish a Jewish synagogue at Smichow. Nobody was hit and the mob fled in confusion.

During the day, 18 persons have been wounded, including two soldiers. At the time this dispatch was sent 11 o'clock p.m., the suburbs are peaceful and the most of the troops are being withdrawn. The factory employes took no part in the day's disorders and there has been no arrests in their districts.

Two Suicides in New York.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Frank M. Genin, 38 years old, and son of John R. Genin, the famous hatter, from whom he inherited $100,000, shot and killed himself at his home in this city Thursday. He had lost his fortune by bad investments. Charles W. Plyer, 59 years old, insurance manager of the National Wallpaper Co., shot and killed himself at his home in this city Thursday. Business affairs were prosperous, but he was heartbroken over the recent death of his wife.

William Kern Makes a Confession.

WATERLOO, Ia., Dec. 3. — William Kern has made a confession implicating his sweetheart, Delilah Fales, in the murder of Jerome Kern, and has confessed himself to have been her willing dupe and accomplice. He says he loved her. He had no particular enmity against his father. Save that his father objected to his attachment to Miss Fales, they had no disagreement and lived in harmony beneath the same roof.

Kansas City's Population Increased.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 3.—A suburban population of fully 20,000 will be added to Kansas City as a result of a special election held here Thursday. By a majority of over two to one the voters of Kansas City decided to take in the historic town of Westport, which was a bustling town on the old Santa Fe trail in the days when Kansas City was known as Westport Landing. Westport voted in favor of annexation several months since.

Killed Her Two Children and Attempted Suicide.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—Anna Niggl, a young married woman, Thursday night murdered her two younger children by illuminating gas, and at the same time attempted suicide by the same means. The murdered children were Frank, aged two years, and Harvey, aged six months. There seems to be no reason for the woman's action.

Senator Hanna Much Better.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 3.—The condition of Senator Hanna has much improved and he will depart for Washington Saturday or Sunday. The Hanna household has been inclose telegraphic communication all day with the members of the McKinley family at Canton regarding the illness of the president's mother.

China Defies Germany.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—A special from Shanghai announces that the emperor of China has declared that he would rather forfeit his crown than agree to the conditions demanded by Germany as redress for the murder of two German missionaries, Nies and Henale, at Shan-Tung.

Colored Home Burned.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Fire destroyed the home for aged and infirm colored women on Indiana avenue Thursday. Several of the almost helpless inmates were nearly suffocated by smoke before rescued by the police.

NEEDY MINERS.

Secretary Alger Receives a Telegram From Portland in Regard to the Destitute Gold Seekers in the Klondike.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Secretary Alger received a telegram Friday morning in regard to the destitute miners in the Klondike country from M. S. Mason and H. R. Lewis, representing the Portland chamber of commerce, and the Klondike relief committee of that chamber. It reads as follows:

"It has been most gratifying to the citizens of this great country that the president and yourself have enlisted in the cause of our threatened citizens in the far north and that your responses to our efforts to obtain government aid for the relief expedition which we prayed for, has been prompt and full of encouragement. Situated as we are at the terminus of one of the great Alaskan lines of steamers and having many of our fellow citizens in all the northern ports, our facilities for obtaining reliable reports as to the condition of the people on the banks of the Yukon could not be surpassed, and we foresaw the terrible condition of affairs which has been made manifest to the world since the arrival of the handful of miners who have escaped from the icy prisons of the far north. Our people are united and thoroughly in earnest and Portland has undertaken to gather the food products necessary for the relief of the destitute gold seekers at our wharves. We will assemble a store of food as great as the government's store of transport and the largest vessel ...ested they may have at their disposal armed filled, if necessary, unless we ...ilitrize the spirits or a dozen of the northwest. In ...house of George is the railroad center ...burg, and call- and that the carriage to his door, be to the relief com- ...abusing him and rounding country ... him if he ... teed, we desire tha... parture of the relief ... Satisfac- ... be from this city, and ... Moxi so soon as you may be au...thots to undertake the expedition ... ore leav you will promulgate orders ... this effect. With the utmost consider...on and respect we have the honor, ...etc.

Consul General Lee has informed the state department that the insurgents in Cuba elected and installed at Yaza Porto Principe, on October 20, the following officers:

President, Bartolo Masso, vice president, Domingo Mendez Capote; secretary of war, Jose B. Aleman; secretary of the treasury, Earnisto Fonte-rring; secretary of foreign affairs, Andreas Moreno De La Torre; secretary of the interior, Manuel R. Silva; general-in-chief, Maximo Gomez; lieutent general Calixto Garcia.

It is said at the state department that Gen. Lee merely communicates this list to the department as a matter of news gossip in Havana, and that it is by no means official.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—From sources, the authority of which should not be doubted, it is learned that the position of the attorney general to succeed Mr. McKenna, who will be nominated to the United States supreme bench to succeed Justice Field, has been offered to Gov. Griggs, of New Jersey, and that he has consented to accept. It is understood that his appointment was urged by Vice President Hobart. Owing to the absence of President McKinley it is impossible to confirm this statement absolutely.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—In his annual report to the secretary of the treas ry, Mr. Forman, commissioner of the internal revenue, estimates that the receipts from all sources for the current fiscal year will aggregate at least $155,000,000, an increase over 1897 of about $8,300,000.

The cost of the collection of the revenue during the last fiscal year was $3,848,469.

During the year 2,241 illicit stills were destroyed and 32 were removed; 824 persons were arrested, one killed and three wounded. Of the stills seized and destroyed 228 were located in Alabama, 47 in Georgia, 403 in North Carolina, 190 in South Carolina and 245 in the Sixth Virginia district.

Extra Session of the Illinois Legislature.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 4.—Gov. Tanner issued a proclamation calling a special session of the general assembly to meet here December 7. The session is called to consider amendments to the laws for the assessment of property for taxation, and regulating the manner of conducting primary elections, and to pass a reapportionment bill. The governor will also ask for an appropriation to defray the expenses of testing the constitutionality of the inheritance tax law and its enforcement.

The German Government Refuses.

BERLIN, Dec. 4.—The Hamburgische correspondent says that the German government has emphatically refused to entertain the proposal of England that Germany should cede to Great Britain her protectorate over the German portion of New Guina, which is the northern section of Southeats Papua, established in 1884 under the name of Kaiser Wilhelm's land. It is supposed here that England is casting envious eyes upon the newly discovered gold fields.

Welcome Rains in Missouri.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 4.—A special to the Star from Sedalia, Mo., says: It began raining here at noon Friday, following the first heavy snow of the season. Indications are that central Missouri is to receive the first downpour of rain in three months. It will do immense good.

Smuggled Diamonds.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Emanuel J. Lusar, a saloon-keeper of this city, and his wife were each held in $5,000 bail by U. S. Commissioner Shields Friday on the charge of having smuggled int this country $100,000 worth of diamonds. They pleaded not guilty.

The French Vintage.

PARIS, Dec. 4.—According to the official returns the last vintage amounts to 32,000,000 hectolitres. This is a falling off of 9,000,000 hectolitres from the vintage of 1896 and about 120,000 hectolitres under the average of the previous ten years.

EL LIBERAL

Believes the United States Will Not Recognize Cubans as Belligerents.

The Spanish Government is Studying Means of Mobilizing the Volunteers in the Island of Cuba—Premier Sagasta Indisposed and Confined to Room.

MADRID, Dec. 6.—El Liberal, the official organ, contends Sunday there is no ground to fear that the United States will recognize the insurgents as belligerents, or otherwise interfere in the settlement of the Cuban difficulty "inasmuch as Spain has accorded the colonies in the Antilles the maximum of liberty that other powers accord to their colonies."

"Therefore," concludes El Liberal, "the United States ought to be grateful to Spain. But if America's good will is hampered by offensive or restrictive conditions, we must ignore them and act in accordance with our interests, our honor and sovereignty."

A member of the cabinet, in the course of an interview Sunday, declared that according to the communications received by the government from Senor De Lome, the Spanish minister at Washington, President McKinley's attitude toward Spain is "very gratifying."

The government, continued the cabinet minister, does not believe that ... Mc... to a fallen ...cKinley will demand the e 4 1-5 poles ... of the war in Cuba within ... Hass' upper ... time, "for President Mc... son's lines, ... that Spain's first desire e 48 poles ... to ... of the war and that she ... 137 acres ... orth every effort to end it."

Tract two-... government, he further... gar tree and ... now studying means of ... side of little ... the volunteers in Cuba, ... mouth ... for Paigeerver, the minister of ... finance, is considering proposals to raise money, which will be submitted to the cortes.

Senor Sagasta, the premier, was indisposed Sunday and confined to his room.

PRAIRIE FIRE.

Serious Property Loss Entailed Near Guthrie, O. T.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Dec. 6.—Saturday night a disastrous prairie fire raged in the county, where it fed on the high and dry grass and was fanned by a strong south wind. The fire started near Ruth post office near the county line and swept with lightning speed. It was an exciting night among the farmers, who fought like demons to preserve their crops, the women and children assisting. The canyons running east and west along Trail creek finally stopped the fire, but only after serious property loss had been entailed. Many tales of narrow escapes are told.

STEAMER BURNS.

Her Crew of Thirteen Men Got to Shore Without Difficulty.

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—The steamer Geo. W. Morley, of Cleveland, was burned to the water's edge on the beach at Evanston Sunday night. Her crew of 13 men got ashore without difficulty. The Morley was bound from Milwaukee to Chicago, without cargo and when off Evnnston a lamp exploded in the engine room, scattering the burning oil in all directions. Before the pumps could be started the fire was beyond control and the boat was headed at Greenwood boulevard, the crew wading ashore. The Morley was a wooden steamer valued at $35,000.

The Atlas Steamship Company.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, via Galveston, Tex., Dec. 6.—I. Wichmann, representing the English corporation known as the Atlas Steamship Co., limited, has deposited with the treasury of Nicaragua $5,000 in gold as the company's guarantee under its contracts with the Nicaraguan government, by terms of which the company receives the exclusive right of steam navigation for 30 years on the Silico lagoon, Lake Nicaragua, and the river San Juan del Norte, with the exclusive right also for the same time of constructing trainways and railroads along the line, and at the best places to avoid the obstacles in the river San Juan.

Italian Cabinet May Resign.

ROME, Dec. 6.—Gen. Pellius, minister of war, maintains the attitude he has taken up, in consequence of the action of parliament in amending the bill dealing with army promotions against his advice and persists in his resignation. King Humbert, the Marquis Di Rudini, premier and the other members of the cabinet urge Gen. Pellius to reconsider his action, but he refuses to do so. In view of this it is expected that the entire cabinet will resign and that the Marquis Di Rudini will reconstruct the ministry.

Aged Man Murdered.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Dec. 6. — The body of James Bradshaw, an aged half-witted man, was found in a field south of this city Sunday with the skull crushed in and bearing other signs of foul play. Suspicion points strongly to certain parties as instigators of the crime, though all efforts to track the murderer have so far failed.

Virgil Staley Located.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Dec. 6.—Virgil Staley, the murderer who broke jail at Wayne Saturday morning, is believed to be at the home of a relative on White's creek, that county. Sheriff Booth and deputy are en route to the scene and will make an effort to effect a capture.

Three Killed and Three Injured.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 6.—Two cars on the Detroit, Birmingham & Pontiac suburban electric railway collided Saturday afternoon at the foot of the Trowbridge hill grade, about midway between Birmingham and Pontiac, killing three persons and seriously injuring as many others.

Gas Wrecks a Room.

ELWOOD, Ind., Dec. 6.—A natural gas explosion in the home of John Knoth, Sunday morning, blew the stove into pieces, hurled the table across the room and then badly wrecked the furniture in the house.

MOTHER M'KINLEY

Hovering Between Life and Death—Her Children at Her Bedside.

CANTON, O., Dec. 4.—Friday morning Mrs. Nancy Allison McKinley was reported sinking rapidly and the end appeared near.

At 8:35 the president reached Canton. His mother was still alive. Upon his arrival at the home of his mother President McKinley entered the sick room and knelt by the bedside. She was unconscious. The little family group was complete. Now all that remained was to wait for death and hope that before it came the mother would be able, once more, to recognize her loving children.

As the day wore on Mrs. Nancy Allison McKinley remained apparently in the same condition as at early morning. She was unconscious and ... no signs of suffering and seemed ... passing quietly into the sleep of ... The president and other members of the family were at her bedside, intent on doing everything possible to contribute to her comfort and hoping almost without faith for a rally and for a sign of recognition. There was no encouragement given them by the attending physician.

Late Friday afternoon members of the family at Mother McKiuley's bedside felt that she was steadily growing weaker and could not last much longer. Mrs. Duncan, of Cleveland, who was summoned from Chicago, was the last of the children to arrive. She reached the sick room at 1:30. No effort was made to arouse the patient to see if she would recognize her daughter as it was felt that it would be useless, the mother being then entirely unconscious.

CANTON, O., Dec. 4.—Dr. Phillips and Mr. Abner McKinley were seen at ten o'clock Friday night just after they left the bedside of Mother McKinley. Mr. McKinley thinks his mother is sinking very fast and fears that the end is not far off.

He says she barely recognizes the members of the family and seems to be growing weak rapidly.

Dr. Phillips said: Mrs. McKinley is barely conscious and is sinking very fast. She may not last longer than morning, but the indications at this time are to the contrary.

At 2:30 Saturday morning there was no perceptible change in Mother McKinley's condition.

President McKinley will be in Washington for the opening of congress next Monday, whatever may be the issue of his mother's illness. Although there has never been in the history of the government a case exactly similar, it is generally understood by those best informed on such matters that it is necessary for the president to be at the capital in person for the opening of a session of congress to receive the joint committee from the two houses and that until this committee has waited on the president and received his communication the regular business of congress can not proceed.

THE ABOLITION

Of Corporal Punishment Discussed in the Prison Congress—Texas Delegates Were the Only Ones Who Favored the System.

AUSTIN, Tex., Dec. 4.—The most important subject discussed in the prison congress Friday, judging from the interest manifested was "the abolition of corporal punishment." This subject excited so much interest that the chaplains at their afternoon session almost forgot the object of their meeting and drifted into the matter again and it was on at the time of adjournment. The only two men who came to the rescue of the corporal punishment system was superintendent Whatley, of the Texas penitentiary, and Superintendent Hoyt, of the colored reformatory. Both these gentlemen said that demerits and dungeons might work in the east, but the Texas and Colorado horse thieves and robbers had to be dealt with more severely. Mr. Whatley was in favor of the lash, and Mr. Hoyt advocated a "spanking paddle." Quite a number of wardens, including J. W. French, of Fort Leavenworth, were opposed to corporal punishment.

At the afternoon session of the congress the chaplains held their meeting. News was received of the death of Geo. H. Hickox, of Jackson, Miss., and the association drafted suitable resolutions of respect. Inasmuch as the ... left a vacancy in the presidency, the first vice president, Rev. Wm. J. Batt, of Junction, Mass., was elected as his successor.

The night session was devoted to general debate by the wardens on corporal punishment and the reading of papers. The committee having charge of the selection of a place of meeting for the next year, have invitations from Philadelphia, Omaha, Indianapolis and Columbus, O.

To Raise a Volunteer Corps.

MADRID, Dec. 4.—The newspapers publish the following, which is much commented upon: "Capt.-Gen. Blanco has cabled the government, that knowing that Gen. Correau, miuister of war, is opposed to sending further reinforcements, he has studied the means of creating a voulnteer corps of whites and Negroes who would reply to the guerrilla tactics of the rebels by similar warfare; but he would need for this undertaking 4,000,000 pesetas monthly. He is convinced that by making such a pecuniary effort, Cuba, except in the eastern part, would be pacified by June next, when the local government could finish the war."

Verdict Against the Water Company.

STEVENS POINT, Wis., Dec. 4.—The jury in the case of Julia L. Green, as administrator against the Ashland Water Co., brought in a special verdict in favor of the plaintiff in the sum of $5,000 in the circuit court Friday. The grounds of recovery were the alleged negligence of the Ashland Water Co. in furnishing impure and unwholesome water containing typhoid fever germs to the plaintiff's husband, Lars G. Green, from the effects of which he died. The verdict answered all the questions in favor of the plaintiff. The case will be carried to the supreme court.

Tourist Sleeping Cars.

Commencing with the excursion of Dec. 7th, the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Ry. has inaugurated a system of Tourist Sleepers on their excursion dates between St. Louis or Kansas City and South Texas points. For information address H. F. Bowsher, 435 Walnut St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Infantile Wisdom.

"Mamma, I dess you'll have to turn the hose on me."

"Why, dear?"

"'Cause I dot my 'tockings on wrong side out."—Chicago Tribune.

None So Good as Star Tobacco.

The consumption of Star plug tobacco is the largest in the world. No other tobacco is so good as Star plug in all respects.

The number of things that men novelists and critics don't know about women is exceeded only by the number of things that they think they know.—N. Y. Independent.

For Homeseeker's Excursion dates via the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Ry. and information of their tourist sleeper arrangement, address H. F. Bowsher, 435 Walnut St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

The worst thing about Sunday is getting one's belongings back into one's pockets on Monday morning.—Washington Democrat.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

The man with a swelled head doesn't usually suffer as much as those who are compelled to associate with him.—Chicago News.

We think Piso's Cure for Consumption is the only medicine for Coughs.—Jennie Pinckard, Springfield,, Ill., Oct. 1, 1894.

It is better to say a little worse than you mean than to mean a little worse than you say.—N. Y. Independent.

If he was a cripple from rheumatism, he isn't now. St. Jacobs Oil cured him.

The only ingenuity some folks have is to refuse to do what everybody else does.—Washington Democrat.

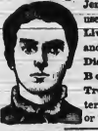
Don't bend. Wait a little. St. Jacobs Oil will cure your lame back.

Nothing takes as well as advice that coincides with our views.—Washington Democrat.

Weak Stomach

Feels Perfectly Well Since Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I have been troubled for over two years with a weak stomach. I concluded to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. After taking a few bottles I felt perfectly well, and I cannot speak too highly of Hood's." MRS. M. H. WRIGHT, Akron, Ohio.



Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier.

Hood's Pills are the favorite cathartic. 25c.

ALABAMA'S BRAVE WOMEN.

S. J. Leslie

Jenifer, Ala., says: I have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 20 years, and know it will cure Liver Disease, Nervousness, Bowel and Stomach Troubles. I like it better than "Black Draught" or "Zeilin's" medicine.

Parenthood.

Children bind husband and wife more closely than the wedding ceremony itself. One-half of married misery is due to the growing physical weakness of women, which makes child-bearing a dreaded burden and prevents those close relations between husband and wife, without which happiness cannot exist. How important then it is that the woman be brought to as perfect a condition of health, of which she is capable, so that she can give to her offspring one of her abundance of life and spirits. Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine will do this; it will purify her blood, tone up her nervous system and give her courage and assurance of safety to go through the ordeal of childbirth.

W. A. Collier

Ashland, Ala., writes: Have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 10 years for Colds, Diarrhoea, Summer Complaint with children. It gives better satisfaction than "Thedford's Black Draught," or "St. Joseph's Regulator," or anything we can get.

Dimness of Vision.

In cases of weak and imperfect vision, the causes of disease should, if possible, be correctly ascertained, so that they may be as far as possible obviated and guarded against. Where the trouble is functional and arises from some constitutional derangement or debility, such as torpid liver or inactive kidneys, producing a morbid condition in the organism, constitutional treatment with Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine will produce the quickest results. When caused by prolonged nursing, excessive sexual indulgences, abuse of stimulants, the excessive use of the eyes on too bright or too minute objects, too much sicep or other circumstances which produce determination of blood to the head, Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine quickly cures.

Look for the name

ESTEY

on the front of an Organ. That is the quickest way to tell whether it is a good organ or not.

Write for Illustrated Catalogue with prices, to Estey Organ Company, Brattleboro, Vt.

HARTSHORNS SELF-ACTING SHADE ROLLERS

NOTICE NAME THUS ON LABEL AND OUT

Stewart Hartshorn

THE GENUINE HARTSHORN

Weeks Scale Works, STOCK, COAL, HAY, GRAIN, COTTON SCALES. BUFFALO, N.Y.

OPIUM and Whiskey Habit cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D., Atlanta, Ga.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

SENATE URGED

To Confirm the Hawaiian Annexation Treaty.

The Time is Not Ripe for the Recognition of Cubans as Belligerents.

Spain Relied Upon to Keep Her Promised Reforms—International Complaint on the Bimetallic Question Favored—Our Merchant Marine—Other Matters.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Following is a condensed report of President McKinley's message read at the opening of the regular session of the Fifty-fifth congress, Monday:

To the Senate and House of Representatives: It gives me pleasure to extend greeting to the Fifty-fifth congress assembled in regular session at the seat of government with many of whose senators and representatives I have been associated in the legislative service.

Their meeting occurs under felicitous conditions, justifying sincere congratulations and calling for ever grateful acknowledgement to a beneficial Providence which has so signally blessed and prospered us as a nation. Peace and good will with all the nations of the earth continue unbroken.

A most gratifying satisfaction is the growing feeling of fraternal regard and unification of all sections of our country. The incompleteness of which has too long delayed realization of the highest blessings of our national life. The spirit of patriotism is universal and is ever increasing in fervor.

The public questions which now most engross us are lifted far above either party ship prejudice or former sectional differences. They affect every part of our common country alike and permit of no division on ancient lines.

Questions of foreign policy, the soundness of the currency the inviolability of national obligations, the improvement of the public service, appeal to the individual conscience of every earnest citizen, to whatever party he belongs or in whatever section of the country he may reside.

The extra session of congress, which closed during July last, enacted important legislation, and, while its full effect has not yet been realized, what it has already accomplished assures us of its timeliness and wisdom.

To test its permanent value further time will be required and the people satisfied with its operation and results, so far, are in no mind to withhold from it a fair trial. Tariff legislation having been settled, the question next pressing for consideration is that of the currency.

The work of putting finances upon a sound basis, difficult as it may seem, will appear much wiser when we recall the financial operations of the government since 1860. On the 30th day of June of that year the public debt, all outstanding demand liabilities in the sum of $2,845,937,171.11.

On the first day of January, 1893, these had been reduced to $1,222,401,367. Our interest-bearing obligations the figures are even more striking. On July 1, 1865, the principal was $2,332,331,208. On the first day of July, 1893, this sum had been reduced to $585,037,100. The increase of the public debt of the United States on the first day of December, 1897, was $1,265,039,167.11.

With the great resources of the government and with the honorable example of the past before us, we ought not to hesitate to enter upon a currency revision, which will make our demand obligations less onerous, and relieve our financial laws of ambiguity and doubt.

The brief review of what has been accomplished from the close of the war to 1893 must be reasonable the distrust of our financial ability and soundness while the situation from 1893 to 1897 must admonish congress of the imperative necessity of legislating to make the return of the conditions then prevailing impossible.

There are many plans proposed as a remedy for the evil. Before we can make the true remedy we must appreciate the true evil. It is not that our currency of every kind is not good, for every dollar is good, good because the government as a pledge is taken to keep it so, and that pledge will not be broken.

The evil of the present system is found in the great cost of maintaining the parity of our different forms of money. That is, keeping all of them at a par with gold. It is manifest we must devise some plan to protect the government against bond issues for repeated redemptions.

We must either curtail the opportunity for speculation made easy by the multiplied redemption of our obligations, or increase the gold reserve. We have now $100,000,000 currency which the government, by solemn enactment, has undertaken to keep at par. Nobody is obliged to redeem in gold but the government. The holder can get gold from the treasury in gold.

The government is obliged to keep equal with gold all its outstanding currency, while its receipts are not required to be paid in gold. They get it in every kind of money but gold, and the only means by which the government can get gold is by borrowing.

This is especially so in times of business panic, as during the administrations of my predecessor, when the proceeds of $262,315,400 of bonds were used to pay the expenses of the government in excess of the revenue and gain in the gold reserve.

With the revenues equal to our expenses there would be no deficit requiring the issue of bonds, but if the gold reserve falls below $100,000,000 now will it be replenished, except by selling more bonds?

If no further legislation is had, and the policy of selling bonds continued, then congress should give the secretary of the treasury authority to sell bonds bearing a less rate of interest than now authorized.

I earnestly recommend, as soon as the receipts of the government are sufficient to pay expenses, that when any United States notes are redeemed in gold, such notes shall be kept apart and only paid out in exchange for gold. This is an honest duty.

If they are put out in any other way they, may return again to be followed by another bond issue to redeem them—another interest-bearing debt, to redeem a noninterest bearing debt.

If we are to have an era of prosperity we may feel no embarrassment from our present currency, but the danger still exists and will be ever present, meaning as so long as the existing system continues.

I concur with the secretary of the treasury that the national banks ought to issue notes to the face value of the bonds they may deposit, and that the tax on circulating notes secured by such deposits be reduced to one-half of one per cent. per annum. Also that the authority be given for establishment of national banks with minimum capital of $25,000 to enable agricultural regions to be supplied with currency to meet their needs.

I recommend that the issue of national bank notes be restricted to the denominations of $10 and upward. If the suggestion as I have made shall have the approval of congress, then I would recommend that national banks be required to redeem their notes in gold.

The most important problem with which this government is now called upon to deal pertaining to its foreign relations concerns the duty towards Spain and the Cuban insurrection. Problems and conditions more or less in common with those now existing have confronted this government at various times in the past; the story of Cuba for many years has been one of unrest; growing discontent, effort toward a larger enjoyment of liberty and self-control; of organized resistance to the mother country; of depression after distress and warfare, and of resettlement, to be followed by continued revolt.

For no enduring period since the rafratification of the continental possessions of Spain in the western continent has the condition of Cuba or the policy of Spain toward Cuba not caused concern to the United States.

The prospect from time to time that the weakness of Spain's hold upon the island and the political conditions and administrative methods of the home government might lead to the transfer of Cuba to the continental power called forth, between 1823 and 1860, various emphatic declarations of the policy of the United States to permit no disturbance of Cuba's connection with Spain, unless in the direction of independence or acquisition by us through purchase; nor has human history any better established policy since upon the part of the government.

The revolution which began in 1868 lasted for ten years, despite the strenuous efforts of the successive peninsular governments to suppress it.

Then, as now, the United States testified its grave concern and offered its aid to put an end to bloodshed in Cuba. The overtures made by General Grant were refused, and the war dragged on, entailing great loss of life and treasure, and increased injury to American interests, besides throwing enhanced burdens of neutrality upon this government.

The present insurrection broke out in February, 1895. It is not my purpose at this time to recall its remarkable increase, or to characterize its tenacious resistance against the enormous forces massed against it by Spain.

The revolt and the efforts to subdue it carried destruction to every quarter of the island, developing wide proportions and defying the efforts of Spain for its suppression. The civilized code of war has been disregarded no less by the Spaniards than by the Cubans.

The present conditions can not but fill this government and the American people with the gravest apprehension. There is no desire to punish the misfortunes of Spain. We have called to desire to see the Cubans prosperous and contented, enjoying that measure of self-control which is the inalienable right of man, protected in their rights to reap the benefit of their exceptional treasures of this country.

The offer made by the president-elect in April, 1896, tendering the friendly offices of this government, failed. Any meditation on our part was not accepted. In brief, the answer read: "There is no effectual way to pacify Cuba unless it begins with the actual submission of the rebels to the mother country."

Thereupon Spain set in the promised direction of her own motion and after her own plans.

The cruel policy of concentration was initiated February 16, for the pacification of Cuba districts controlled by the Spanish army were depopulated, the agricultural inhabitants were herded in and about garrison towns, their lands laid waste and the buildings destroyed.

This policy the late cabinet of Spain justified as a necessary measure of war, in that a means of cutting off supplies from the insurgents. It has utterly failed as a war measure. It was not civilized warfare. It was extermination.

Against the abuse of the rights of war I have felt constrained on repeated occasions to urge the firm and earnest protest of this government.

There was much of public condemnation of the treatment of American citizens by alleged illegal arrests and imprisonment awaiting trial. I felt it my first duty to make instant demand for the release of American citizens under arrest. Before the change of the Spanish ministry in October last 22 prisoners, citizens of the United States, had been given their freedom.

The instructions of the government to our new minister to Spain upon his departure to his post directed him to impress upon that government the sincere wish of the United States to lend our aid toward ending the war in Cuba by means honorable, just and humane, result, just and honorable alike to Spain and to the Cuban people.

These instructions recited the character and duration of the contest, the widespread losses it entailed, the burdens and restraints it imposes upon us, in its constant disturbance of national progress, and the injury resulting from an indefinite continuance of things.

It was stated that at this juncture our government was constrained to seriously inquire whether the time was not ripe, when Spain, of her own volition, should put an end to hostilities, and every sentiment of humanity, should put a end to this destructive war and make proposals of settlement honorable to herself and just to her Cuban colony.

It was urged that as a neighboring nation, with large interests in Cuba, we could be excused if we did wait only a reasonable time for the mother country to establish its authority and restore peace and order within the borders of the island; that we could not contemplate an indefinite period for the accomplishment of this result.

No solution was proposed to which the slightest idea of humiliation to Spain could attach, and indeed, precise proposals are withheld to avoid embarrassment to that government.

All that was asked or expressed was that some definite way might be speedily provided and permanent peace restored. It so obviously met the consideration of this offer, addressed to the same Spanish administration which has declined the tenders of my predecessor, and which for more than two years has poured men and treasure into Cuba in the fruitless efforts to suppress the revolt, fell to the ground.

Between the departure of Gen. Woodford and his arrival in Spain, the statesman who had shaped the policy of his country fell by the hand of an assassin and although that patriot received from our envoy the proposals it may be fairly said that by a new administration under the leadership of Sagasta.

The reply to our note was received October 28. It is to the direction of a better understanding. It appreciates our friendly purposes. It admits that our country is deeply affected by the war and that its desires for peace are just.

It declares that the present Spanish government is bound by every consideration to a change of policy that should satisfy the United States and pacify Cuba within a reasonable time.

To this end Spain has decided to put into effect the political reforms heretofore advocated by the present premier, without halting for any consideration in the path which in its judgment leads to peace.

The military operations, it is said, will continue, but will be humane and conducted with all regard for private rights, being accompanied by political action leading to the autonomy of Cuba while guarding Spain's sovereignty.

In the absence of a declaration of the measures which the government proposes to take in carrying out its profter for the good offices it suggests that Spain be left free to conduct military operations and grant political reforms, while the United States, for its part, shall enforce its neutral obligations and cut off the assistance which it is asserted the insurgents receive from this country.

The solution of an indefinite prolongation of the war is denied. It is asserted that the western provinces are already well nigh reconquered, that the planting of cane and tobacco therein has been resumed, and that by force of arms and new and unlimited expenditure very early and complete pacification is hoped for.

The immediate amelioration of existing conditions under the new administration of Cuban affairs is predicted, and hereupon all the calm, turbulence, and all occasion for any change of attitude on the part of the United States. Disclosure of the extension of international duties and responsibilities of the United States. Spain undoubtedly thus is presented with an apparent disposition to charge us with failure in the prospect.

This charge is without any basis in fact. It could not have been made if Spain had been cognizant of the constant efforts this government had made at the cost of millions, and by the employment of administrative machinery at the national command to perform its full duty to the law of nations.

That it has successfully prevented the departure of a single military expedition or armed vessel from our shores in violation of our laws would seem to be a sufficient answer. But of the scope of the Spanish note it is not necessary to speak further now.

Firm in the conviction of a wholly performed obligation, due response to fals charge has been made by diplomatic course.

Throughout all these horrors and dangers to our own peace, this government has never in any way abrogated its sovereign prerogative of reserving to itself the determination of its policy and course, according to its own high views of right, and in consonance with the dearest interests and convictions of our own people. Should the prolongation of the strife so demand.

Of the untried measures there remain only: Recognition of the patriots as belligerents; recognition of the independence of Cuba; neutral intervention to end the war by imposing a national compromise between the contestants and intervention in favor of one or the other party. Each basic not of foreign annexation, for that I am not be thought of. That by our code of morality would be criminal aggression.

Recognition of the Cuban insurgents has often been canvassed, and possible, it not inevitable step, both in regard to the precious lives of strangers and during the present war.

I am not unmindful that the two houses of congress, during the spring of 1896, expressed the opinion by concurrent resolution that a condition of public war existed, requiring or justifying the formal recognition of belligerency in Cuba, and during the extra session the senate voted a joint resolution of like import, which, however, was not brought to vote in the house of representatives.

In the presence of these significant expressions of sentiment of the legislative branch, it behooves the executive to solely consider the conditions under which so important a measure must needs rest for justification.

It is to be seriously considered whether the Cuban insurrection possessed beyond dispute the attributes of statehood, which alone can demand the recognition of belligerency in its favor. Possession in short, of the essential qualifications of sovereignty by the insurgents and the existence of the war by these accounts to the received code of war are no less important factors toward the determination of the question than are the influences and consequences of the struggle upon the internal policy of the recognizing state.

The wise utterances of President Grant in his memorable message of December 7, 1875, are signally relevant to the present situation in Cuba, and it may be wholesome now to recall them. At that time a ruinous conflict had for seven years wasted the neighboring island.

During all these years an utter disregard of the laws of civilized warfare and of the just demands of humanity, which called for expressions of reprobation from the nations of christendom continued unabated.

Desolation and ruin pervaded that productive region, enormously affecting the commerce of all nations, and particularly that of the United States more than any other by reason of its larger and more intercourse. At that juncture General Grant uttered these words, which now, in turn, impress the friends of the problem:

"A recognition of the independence of Cuba being, in my opinion unpracticable and indefensible, the question that next presents itself is that of recognition of belligerents. Right to the parties to the contest. Such recognition entails difficult and complicated duties.

It confers the right of search upon the high seas; it subjects the carrying of arms and munitions in vessels of the United States to detention and possible seizure; it would give rise to countless vexatious questions; would relieve the parent government from responsibility for acts done by insurgents, and would invest Spain to exercise supervision over our commerce on the high seas.

Turning to the political aspects of a recognition of belligerency, and reviewing its inconveniences and no itive dangers, still further pertinent considerations appear. In the code of nations there is no middle ground between recognition of belligerency unaccompanied by the assumption of international neutrality.

Such recognition without more will not confer upon either party the international status. It therefore actually possessed. The act of recognition usually takes the form of a solemn proclamation of neutrality which recites the de facto condition of belligerency as a motive.

It assumes the international obligations of a neutral in the presence of a public state of war. It warns all citizens and subjects of the jurisdiction of the proclamant that they violate those rigorous obligations at their own peril, and can not expect to be shielded from the consequences.

The right of visit and search on the seas and seizure of vessels and cargoes and contraband of war under the law of nations. Such a course would be admitted as a legitimate consequence of the recognition of belligerency. While according equal belligerent rights defined by public law to each party in our ports, the commercial equality would work heavily in behalf of Spain herself.

Possessing a navy and controlling the ports of Cuba, the commercial rights could be asserted only for the military benefit of the island but up to the margin of our own territorial waters, and a condition would exist for which the duties within their own domain could not create a parallel, while for example through aid or sympathy from within our domain would be even more impossible than now, with the additional obligations of international neutrality we would perforce assume.

The enforcement of this enlarged and onerous code of neutrality would only be influential within our own jurisdiction by land and sea, and applicable to our own instrumentalities. It could impart to the United States no jurisdiction between Spain and the insurgents.

It would put the United States no rights of intervention to enforce the duties of Spain within the paramount authority of Spain, according to the international code of war.

For these reasons I regard the recognition of the belligerency of the Cuban patriots as now unwise, and therefore inadmissible. Should that step hereafter be deemed wise as a measure of right and duty, the executive will take it.

Intervention upon humanitarian grounds has frequently been suggested, and it has not failed to engage the most anxious and earnest consideration. But whatever circumstances may be taken when it is apparent that a hopeful change has supervened in the policy of Spain toward Cuba.

A new government has taken office in the mother country.

It is pledged in advance to the declaration that all the civilized world can not suffice to maintain peace in Cuba by the mere force of vague promises of reform after subjugation afford no solution of the insular problem; that with a submission of commanders, must come a change of the past system of warfare for one of harmony with a new policy, which shall no longer aim to drive the Cubans to the horrible alternative of taking to the thicket or succumbing to misery; that reforms must be instituted in accordance with the needs and circumstances of the time, and that these reforms, while designed to give full autonomy to the island in all matters of domestic polity and self-controlled administrations shall yet conserve and affirm the sovereignty of Spain by a just distribution of powers and burdens, upon the basis of mutual interest sustained by methods of selfish expectancy.

The first acts of the new government lie in these honorable paths. The policy of cruel rapine and extermination has been abandoned, the universal sentiment of humanity is reversed. Measures have already been set on foot to check the horrors of starvation. The power of the Spanish government is asserted, is to be used, not to spread ruin and desolation, but to protect the resumption of peaceful agricultural pursuits and productive industries.

Decrees in application of the promised reforms have already been promulgated. The full text of these decrees has not been received.

That the government of Sagasta has entered upon a course from which recession with honor is impossible can hardly be questioned: that in the execution of its new policy it has made earnest of the sincerity of its professions is undeniable. I shall not impugn its sincerity, nor should impatience be suffered to embarrass it in the task it has undertaken.

It is honestly due to Spain that she should be given a reasonable chance to realize her expectations and to prove the asserted efficiency of the new governing things to which she stands irrevocably committed.

She has recalled the commander whose brutal orders outraged the American mind and shocked the civilized world. She has modified the horrible order of concentration and has undertaken to care for the helpless and permit those who desire to resume cultivation of their fields to do so, and assures them of the protection of the Spanish government in their lawful occupations.

As to a single American citizen is now in durest confinement on account of whom this government has any knowledge. The near future will demonstrate whether the indispensable condition of a righteous peace, just, alike to the Cubans and to Spain as well as to all other interests, so intimately connected in the welfare of Cuba, is likely to be attained.

If not, the exigency of further and other action by the United States will remain to be taken. When that action will be, or what it may be determined in the line of obligation this government can only conjecture as the events of the future may develop.

Added cause might keeping free from all offenses ourselves, actuated only by unselfish and patriotic considerations, moved neither by passion nor selfishness, the government will continue its watchful care over the rights and property of American citizens and will leave no honorable effort to bring about by peaceful agencies a peace which shall be honorable and enduring.

If it shall hereafter appear to be a duty imposed by our obligations to ourselves, to civilization and humanity to intervene with force, it shall be without fault on our part, and only because the necessity for such action will be so clear as to command the support and approval of the civilized world.

By a special message, dated the 16th day of June last, I laid before the senate a treaty having for its purpose the incorporation of the Hawaiian islands as an integral part of the United States and under its sovereignty.

While consistently disavowing from a very early period any aggressive policy of absorption in regard to the Hawaiian group a long series of declarations through three-quarters of a century has proclaimed the vital interests of the United States in the independent life of the islands and their intimate commercial dependence upon this union.

At the same time it has been repeatedly asserted that in no event could the entity of Hawaiian statehood cease by the passage of the islands under the domination or influence of another power than the United States.

Under these circumstances the logic of events required that annexation should come about as the natural result of the strengthening ties that bind us to these islands and be realized by the free will of the Hawaiian state. If the treaty is confirmed, as every consideration of dignity and honor requires, the wisdom of Congress will see to it that, avoiding a corrupt assimilation of elements perhaps hardly fitted to be share in the highest franchise of citizenship, and having due regard to the geographical conditions, the most just provisions for self rule in the 1 matters, with the largest political liberties as an integral part of our union will be accorded to the Hawaiians.

The questions which have arisen between Japan and Hawaii by reason of the treatment of Japanese laborers emigrating to the islands are in a satisfactory stage of settlement by negotiation.

This government has sought no intervention in the matter, further than to evince the friendliest disposition toward such a speedy and direct adjustment by the two sovereign states in the interests as shall comport with equity and honor.

Under the provisions of the act of congress approved March 3, 1897, for the promotion of an international agreement respecting bimetallism I appointed three commissioners.

It is to be earnestly hoped that their labors may result in an international agreement, which will bring about a recognition of both gold and silver as money upon such terms and with such safeguards as will secure the use of both metals upon a basis which shall work no injustice to any class of our citizens.

Most desirable is the effort to extend our foreign commerce. To this end our merchant marine should be improved and enlarged. The inferiority of our merchant marine is justly humiliating to the national pride.

The efforts to secure better protection to the fur seals in Behring sea have been pursued by earnestness. Owing to my invitation, Japan and Russia sent delegates to Washington and an international conference was held, wherein it was unanimously agreed that this species of valuable animals was threatened with extinction, and that international agreement was necessary for their adequate protection.

The result of the conference was an agreement on important facts heretofore in dispute, of which should place beyond any controversy the duty of the government's concerned to adopt measures without delay for the preservation of the seal herds. Negot ot ons to this end are now in progress.

International arbitration can not be omitted from the list of subjects claiming our consideration. The best sentiment of the civilized world is moving toward the settlement of differences between nations without resorting to the horrors of war.

Immediate steps should be taken to provide three or four docks capable of docking our largest ships on the Atlantic coast, and at least one on the Pacific coast, and a floating dock in the gulf.

There should also be ample provision made for powder and projectiles and other munitions of war, and for an increased number of officers and enlisted men.

I concur with the recommendations of the secretary of the navy for an appropriation authorizing the construction of one battleship for the Pacific coast, and also that several torpedo boats be authorized.

The conditions now existing demand material changes in the laws relating to Alaska. The great influx of population will permit us no longer postpone the establishment of u more thorough government. I earnestly urge upon congress the establishment of a system of government with such flexibility as will enable it to adjust itself to the future area of greater population.

The important branch of our government known as the civil service has of late years received increased legislation and executive approval. During the past few months, the service has been placed upon a still firmer basis of business principles and efficiency. The system has the approval of the people and it will be my endeavor to uphold and extend it.

While the congressmen may not find it any easy task to realize the promises of the government it should not encourage their increase. These expenses will, in my judgment, admit of a decrease in many branches of the government, without injury to the service. It is a commanding duty to keep the appropriations within the receipts of the government, and thus avoid a deficit.

WILLIAM McKINLEY.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.

Burned By a Gasoline Explosion.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Dec. 6.—Mrs. Lu Dowell and Harry Yost, sweethearts, and eight others were burned Sunday evening by a gasoline explosion which occurred while some one was attempting to fill the tank while the fire was burning. Mrs. Dowell is frightfully if not fatally injured, and Yost's burns are very serious. The others are only slightly injured. The accident happened at Mrs. Dowell's home on west Fourth street.

Going to Klondike.

MUNCIE, Ind., Dec. 6.—W. F. Charbourne, of Seattle, who is making a tour through the gas belt getting members for a party that will leave for the Klondike soon after New Year's, has signed contracts with 33 men of this city who are willing to try their hand in the distant Eldorado. He will next visit Anderson and then touch at Elwood, Marion, Kokomo and Hartford City.

Mother McKinley Slightly Improved.

CANTON, O., Dec. 6.—As a result of the examination made by Dr. Phillips it was announced Monday that Mrs. McKinley was slightly improved. She took some nourishment Monday, the first for four days. The statement authorized by the doctor that the case has taken such a turn that she may survive the day or even until Tuesday.

Closed By the Sheriff.

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., Dec. 6.—The stock of goods of the wholesale grocery and commission house of J. B. Randall & Co., was levied upon Monday by the sheriff for the non payment of a judgment recovered against them by the Shelby bank, in the sum of $7,477.

Miss Bradley Asked to Act.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. — Secretary Long Monday addressed a letter to Miss Christine Bradley, asking her to do him the honor to christen the battleship Kentucky. This action was taken with the consent of Gov. Bradley.

Banker Stricken.

RUSHVILLE, Ind., Dec. 6.—Oliver Posey, the banker and capitalist, was stricken with apoplexy Monday morning and his condition is critical.

A COMBINATION.

Insurgents Enter the Town of Iomia and Plunder the Stores.

About Fifty Persons Were Machated—A Protest for the Non-Payment of Coupons on Municipal Bonds—Autonomists' Organ on Autonomy.

HAVANA, Dec. 3.—The central committee of the autonomists met Thursday night and agreed upon a union with the reformists, to constitute one party under the presidency of Senor Jose Galvez. It is believed that Senor Rabell, president of the reformists, will be appointed vice president of the combined organizations.

Senors Gonarely, Sengundo, Alvarez, Cerra, Morales, Golcochea and Vocales will constitute the central committee. El Pais will remain the official organ of the autonomists.

The insurgents entered the town of Sama, near Baracoa, on the north coast of the province of Santiago de Cuba, plundered the stores and matcheted about fifty persons.

Wednesday Juan Lassey, a notary public, representing himself as acting at the request of Senor Ganados, a lawyer retained by Senor Antonio Bustamente, began in the house of the latter and of several other holders of municipal bonds, a formal protest for the nonpayment of the coupons. He finished his work Thursday.

El Pais, the organ of the autonomists, commenting upon the decree establishing autonomy, says:

"The characteristic features of the decrees are completely autonomic, and the autonomists are satisfied to await the return to their homes of all honest insurgents, believing that those who do not return are moved by the inhuman, rancorous, brutal instinct of inferior races whose horrible creed is anarchy. It does not matter whether such accept or reject autonomy, which will bear fruit, for all honest and peaceful people, in the prosperity and progress of Cuba.

"Those who favor annexation to our neighbor republic display the covetousness inspired by that cynical personage, the diplomatist who had the honor to represent the United States at the Spanish court and who, when diplomatic resources and decency failed him, offended the politicians from whom he had received every courtesy by declaring that no Spanish government would be capable of conceiving and granting an autonomous regime. Meanwhile the conspirators in New York keep up the cry 'independence or death.'"

In conclusion the editorial says that autonomism is an "olive branch" and a "new arch of alliance between Cuba and Spain, whose sovereignty is indestructible."

A FEUD

Of Long Standing Terminates in the Death of One Man and the Fatal Wounding of Another.

NASHVILLE, Ark., Dec. 3.—Details of a terrible street duel at Horatio, in which one man was killed outright and another fatally wounded, reached here Thursday.

The dead man is Dr. Smith, a prominent practicing physician of that place, and the man fatally wounded is W. J. Smith, a prominent business man of Horatio, and a brother of the dead doctor.

The killing was done by W. W. Millwee, also of Horatio, one of the wealthiest men in the town and a man noted for his fearlessness and bravery.

The tragedy was the culmination of a feud of long standing and owing to the prominence of the parties it is believed that the feud will be continued by each of their numerous friends and adherents and that more blood will be shed before the affair is finally settled.

Millwee and Dr. Smith met in front of the Locke hotel. Both men promptly drew their weapons and opened fire almost simultaneously. Several shots were exchanged, Smith receiving a wound in the left arm at Millwee's first fire. He continued the battle, however, and only gave up the contest when he sank to the ground dead with a bullet through his heart.

J. B. Smith came to his brother's assistance just as the fatal bullet was fired and drew his own pistol to fire on Millwee. His weapon snapped, however, and Millwee, turning his attention to the brother, sent a bullet into his head.

Bank Official Sentenced.

BAY CITY, Mich., Dec. 3.—Charles B. McCloy, former bookkeeper of the Second national bank of this city, Thursday pleaded guilty to the charge of making false entries. He was sentenced to the Detroit house of correction for six years. McCloy, after his crime, fled to Australia, but later returned and surrendered himself at San Francisco.

Army Officer to Wed.

BATAVIA, O., Dec. 3.—Lieut. T. Q. Ashburn, U. S. A., of this place, and Miss Fannie Fee, of Louisville, Ky., will be married on January 12, 1898, at New Richmond. Ashburn graduated from West Point this year. He was appointed by Hon. John M. Pattison when he was congressman.

Tried to End His Troubles.

ASHLAND, O., Dec. 3.—John Deibler, a saloon-keeper, shot himself in the bowels Wednesday night, with suicidal intent, it is supposed, because of domestic troubles. He may not live.

The Garment Workers' Strike.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The number of unemployed garment workers in this city continues to increase and there are many applicants for relief and work. It is expected that before the new year twelve or fifteen thousand garment workers will be idle. Meyer Schoenfield, the leader of the operatives, will start in a few days on on a tour which will include Syracuse, Utica, Rochester, Buffalo, Montreal, Toronto, Baltimore, Philadelphia and other clothing centers, where he will endeavor to further the movement for the abolition of the contract system in 1899.

SOME SENATORS

Want the Debate on Hawaiian Treaty Open Instead of in Secret Session.

Gen. Henderson Will Introduce a Bankruptcy Bill in Congress Monday—Substantially the Same as Passed by the Last House—The Cuban Question.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The senate will have the appointments of about 738 presidential postmasters on its hands for confirmation during the present month—All but 100 of these have been made by the president since the close of the extraordinary session of congress. The postmaster at Detroit is among them. Of the remaining 100 cases 40 are ready to be sent by the president to the senate at the opening of congress, and 60 of these are expected during the month.

There is a disposition on the part of some senators to have the debate on the Hawaiian treaty open to the public, instead of in secret session as is usually the case when a treaty is being considered. It is understood also that the Hawaiian authorities here would look with favor on such a move, as they feel that the fullest publicity will be helpful to the treaty.

On Monday Gen. Henderson, of Iowa, chairman of the house committee on judiciary, will introduce a bankruptcy bill. It will be substantially identical with the one passed by the house of representatives in the last congress. There has also been referred to this committee the bill passed by the senate at the special session. There will be a meeting of the committee early in the week and they will exchange views on the subject and see what prospect there is of favorable committee action. Then a sub-committee will take the matter up and frame a measure, either a substitute for the senate bill or, taking that as a basis, propose amendments to it.

Democratic sentiment is strong in both houses of congress, but the disposition of many of the senators and representatives to delay action, pending the trial by Spain of the new policies of the Sagasta ministry and the influence of the administration, and of the conservative leaders in both houses, will be able to prevent any action.

These are the conclusions arrived at as the result of conversations with practically all of the senators and representatives who have arrived in Washington. Men talked with represent all parties and all shades of opinion, and their statements can be accepted as fairly indicating the feeling on the Cuban question. Out of 88 senators, 14 are against action of any kind by congress at this time. Six are in favor of action, but do not believe it is possible and eight are ascertained ly in favor of immediate action.

The speaker and Chairman Hitt, of the committee on foreign affairs, are opposed to action. The republican majority of that committee is in accord with Mr. Hitt, and the speaker, backed up by this committee, can hold any Cuban resolution back indefinitely unless the pressure for action should become stronger than it is at the present time.

The first day of congress will be devoted to listening to the message, which, being the first that President McKinley has sent to the national legislature, and being so full of information on momentous questions, will be one of the greatest interest not only to congress but to the whole world. As soon as the message is read it will be referred to the various committees and congress will adjourn for the day. It is hardly likely that Secretary Gage will send his report to congress on Monday, although it is possible he may do so, but it is generally reserved until the second day so that the committees can read and digest the president's message before the secretary of the treasury submits his financial report. That this session of congress is going to be an important as well as an interesting one, goes without saying. The great question of the session will be that of currency reform.

Even those who are most interested in Cuba and Hawaii now say that these questions will be overshadowed for the time being, at least, by the one of finance and reform in the currency. All questions in regard to the currency will go to the committee on banking and currency, of which Joseph H. Walker, of Massachusetts, is chairman. This committee is strongly in a sound money one, and even the democrats on it are opposed to the free silver idea, the only out and out silver man on the committee being Representative Newlands, from Nevada. While this committee will have charge of the proposed reforms in our banking and currency system, all questions of revenue will have to be referred to the ways and means committee, of which Nelson Dingley, jr., of Maine, is chairman.

Pinar Del Rio Province Not "Pacified."

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Senor Canulejas, the Madrid editor, statesman and close friend of Senor Sagasta, is satisfied now that Pinar del Rio province is not "pacified," says the Havana correspondent in a dispatch to the World. He went to Tunisias as the confidential agent of Spain's premier, it is understood, in order to ascertain the real disposition of the government at Washington and the true state of public opinion in America. Then he came to learn the actual state of affairs in Cuba.

Martin Thorn to Sing Sing.

SING SING, N. Y., Dec. 6.—Martin Thorn, the convicted murderer of Guldensupp, arrived at the penitentiary Saturday in charge of the sheriff of Queens county. He was immediately placed in a cell in the death house and there to remain in solitary confinement until the time set for his execution (the week of January 10), or until a new trial is granted.

Death of Prof. Zintgraff.

BERLIN, Dec. 6.—Prof. Eugen Zintgraff the well known African traveler died Saturday at the Island of Teneriffe, of malaria.

BOONE CO., RECORDER.
Wednesday, December 8, 1897.

Advertising Rates:
One inch, one time.....$1.00
Each additional time.....25
Obituaries, Tributes of Respects or notices of a like nature, per inch .50
W. L. RIDDELL, - Publisher.

Neighborhood News.

Limaburg.

J. E. Rouse has built an addition to his barn.

Geo. Darby killed two hogs that weighed 590 pounds.

W. R. Rouse had the misfortune to break his large circular saw last Saturday.

L. A. Popham's dance was not well attended on account of the bad weather, Friday night.

According to the hog melt sign, the thick part of the melt being in front, the coldest weather of the winter will be at the first part.

Hathaway.

Hog killing is about over in this vicinity.

Robert Adams is building a new meat house.

Robert Woods lost a valuable horse one night last week.

Mrs. T. J. Stephens was quite sick several days last week.

Mr. William Hyle and daughter, were the guests of T. J. Stephens and family, last week.

Rev. Hays, of Covington, preached to a large and attentive audience at Big Bone church, Sunday week.

Mrs. Cynthia Mason and Mrs. Nannie McElroy spent the day with Mrs. Emma Presser, last Monday.

Mrs. Vina Smith, Mrs. Nannie Franks and Miss Edna M. McElroy spent last Monday with Mrs. Cynthia White.

Mrs. Inez Conley, I hear, is taiking of leaving our town. She will be greatly missed as she has been a resident here for many years.

Rabbit Hash.

Ask Jerome Wilson how the sick pig is getting along.

Jo Riggs shipped two hogsheads of tobacco to Louisville this week,

Some one stole about a half barrel of flour from Bob Wilson, last week.

Cal Riddell is on the sick list. Wonder if his girl has gone back on him.

One day or night, last week, some one or more helped themselves to Mike Baily's tobacco. They took about one hundred pounds.

The other day Wallace Stephens' dog caught a fox. He has about the best dogs in the county, and if they have a fox drive at Union he will be in it.

Last Sunday was a gala day at the home of E. L. Stephens, whose friends and relatives met there and spent the day as pleasantly as ever a day was spent. At noon all partook of a splendid dinner.

Last Saturday evening the Knights of Phythias lodge here elected the following officers B. C. Ryle, C. C., S. N. Riggs, V. C.; Dr. L. Cowen, Prelate; Ben Wilson, M. of F.; R. M. Wilson, M. of Exqr.; R. T. Stephens, K. S. R.; Sid Clements M. of H.

Verona.

Mack Watson and daughter are visiting at Crab Orchard.

John E. Roberts is attending school at the Waltou academy.

Our boys are setting snares and catching a great many rabbits.

Edgar Powers has moved into his new dwelling, recently completed.

A. B. Myers and wife have returned from their weddiug tour, and will probably live with her mother.

Now is the time to renew and subscribe for the Recorder for 1898. Give your subscription to A. C. Roberts and it will be promptly attended to.

According to the sign in the moon, we will not have many snows this winter, as the moon was only a few days old at the falling of the first snow.

Quite a number of car loads of coal have been delivered here in the past two weeks. Judging from this the people here are buying coal—at least a majority of them.

Chas. Craven and wife, of Covington, formely of this place, were the guests of his mother, a few days since. Mr. Craven is a mortorman on a street car. He recently married Miss Cropper and they came home to surprise his mother and friends.

Florence

Geo. W. Cronch is here for a few days from Warsaw.

Mrs. W. P. Carpenter has gone to Glencoe on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Castleman.

Mrs. Ella Tanner, of Richwood, was the guest of Mrs. Sue Wilhoit, Saturday and Sunday.

Harry Latham has returned from Ft. Rieley, Kansas, after nearly three years' service in the army.

The receipts of "The Empire Theater Co" were attached Saturday evening to satisfy a claim by Mrs. Davis, of Hebron.

Supt. Voshell, on account of previous dissatisfaction, requested the teachers to vote on the town of their choice for the next institute, and the vote stood, Walton, 20; Florence, 12; Burlington, 10; Union, 1. The Southern School, a teachers' journal, was distributed among the teachers by Prof. Craven. The Journal would be a great benefit to every teacher, as an aid.

The Teachers' Association, which met at the Baptist church, Saturday, was well attended. The program was varied and interesting. Among the most important subjects discused were Physiology, by Miss Roberts. Rev. Lentz spoke in favor of only elementary Physiology. Prof. Hann spoke in favor of thoroughness in all studies. Miss Mary Etta Riley dellvered a very pleasing recitation. Prof. Collins read a paper on the teaching of American History. Prof. Craveu discussed Teachers' Associations. Miss Russell and Prof. Nelson, Orem and Gaines discussed Primary Arithmetic. The Miss Latham sang a beautiful solo and the Hopeful choir favored us with some beautiful music.

Richwood.

M. KnaNy, of Union, was here, Saturday.

Prof. J. H. Craven, of Verona, was the guesto of A. C. Collius, last Saturday night.

Miss Ella Tanner attended the meeting of the Teachers' Association at Florence, last Saturday.

In the list of names of the children who took part in the Thanksgiving exercises at the Frogtown school house, the name of Miss Maude Cleek was unintentionally omitted. MissMaud recited an excellent piece entitled "November"

Master Tom Carpenter has the oldest slate in Boone county. It was bought by his uncle, Mr. Jasper Booth 35 years ago and has been in use by some one every school since. This old slate is very heavy, having round corners and a white oak frame.

We wish to give Bro. Lentz the desired information concerning the where abouts of D. B. Dobbins, as far as we are able. Upon good authority we are informed that the old bachelors of the Union precinct held a district convention to select delegates to the "Old Maids' Convention" at Burlington. After several ballots were cast J. L. Frazier defeated Daniel, upon which he (Daniel) complained of unfair treatment and bolted the convention, determined to defeat Lynn at the State Convention of old maids in Covington, to be held in the near future.

Petersburg.

Some weddings are expected here during the holidays.

To name the sick people about here would require too much space.

Miss Louisa Houz, at the Aurora ferry, has beeu very sick for several days.

The cooper shops began operations Monday. It is their first work for eighteen months.

Presiding Elder Deming preached some good semous here duriug the Quarterly Meeting.

Dr. Tilly dined the Ministers, Friday. The doctor has been having serious trouble with his lungs.

Mr. Robert Smock, a silversmith, of Webster City, Iowa, is visiting at Ben Akins' and Charles Schree's, their wives beiug his relatives. The thermometer registered 16 degrees below zero, when he left home on the 28th ult.

The grim reaper was busy in our midst, last week. The first victim was Mrs. Mildred Cave. Mrs. Cave was a daughter of Ben Davis. She was 22 yrs. old. She leaves a child only one week old. Mr. Cave has the sympathy of all in this his hour of deep grief.

America Walton, who must have been 100 years old, died on Monday of last week. In slave time she was the property of Hon. N. S. Walton's father, Uncle Jack Waitou.

Levi Lemon, head engineer on the Workum, departed this life last Wednesday. He was a member of Morning Star Lodge, I. O. O. F., and of Workum Lodge K. of P., and his funeral was conducted by these two orders, last Saturday, and his body placed in the vault. Bro. Lemon was a man that was liked by all. He was a faithful member in his lodges, and was always careful of his employer's interest. He will be missed in this community. The remauins were taken to Newport, Monday, and consigned to their last resting place.

Bellevue.

Chas. Acra and wife were visiting his father, last Sunday.

W. W. Grant is visiting his sister, Mrs. Susan Bush, of Missouri.

Mrs. James Rogers, returned Sunday last, after a visit to her father, near Erlanger.

Napoleon Walton was down visiting his brother-in-law, Jas. Rogers, several days last week.

Lewis Clore, of Waterloo, was down on the 30th ult., assisting his brother, Perry, butcher his hogs.

Mr. Lancaster, of Louisville, was canvassing here for several days in the interest of some tobacco house of that city.

John Scott and son, Xen, delivered to Huey & Co., 24 hogs, weighing 305 lbs. each; Joe Riddell, to Corbin & Son, 5 hogs, weighing 1,900 pounds.

Mrs. Evaline Rice has given up house keeping for the present, and moved in with her daughter-in law, Mrs. Anna Rice, living on the Waterloo road.

Hen Clore, one of our local butchers, was found violating a town ordinance of Aurora, by peddling meat without a license. The authorities made Pete take out license, and, as a result, he shook off the very dust of his feet for a testimony against that city.

Prosperity, the piece of swine, mentioned in these columns some time since, has found something more agreeable and wholesome to him than the civil service plank is to our Republican friends, and as a result he is no more the diminuutive creature of mouths ago, but is thriving well.

The remains of the wife of Walter Loniker were buried here Saturday. Walter moved from this vicinity, last spring, to Sedamsville. While here his wife took typhoid fever, and they came back by way of the river on a shanty boat on the 2d, and on the following day she died. He has our sympathy.

Our representative in the Fiscal Court failed to get notice of the called meeting until the day appointed, and, as a result was not present. He was the only one of the old board reelected, and has been a faithful servaut, and will have some very important matter to preseut to the Court at its January meetiug for its consideration.

The following was found near here floating in the river in a bottle: "Will Fenton and Wallace Grant drowned, Nov. 25, 1897. Who ever finds this notify our people at Petersburg, Ky." The next we heard of Wallace was at Vevay, Ind., where he was tryiug to get a live rabbit out of a box of dead ones, for shipment. Wallace will have to study up on ventriloquism.

Utzinger.

The big coal fleet is coming.

The large acreage of wheat looks well.

Clyde Berkshire and wife visited at T. E. Raudall's Sunday.

Joe Vinson has rented J. F. Cason's farm near here for another year.

The fox hunters put a fox in the ground after a nice chase, Saturday.

Dogs killed and mangled 6 fine sheep for A. E. Chambers a few nights since.

Al Berry Nixon and Daisy Dell Moreland, will be married duriug the holidays.

In January next Mr. and Mrs. L. Nichols will have been married 51 years.

Miss Aleen Chambers will spend the winter visiting relatives in and around Covington.

It is a settled fact that dogs belonging to coon-hunters from Indiana are killing the sheep in this vicinity.

Quite a number of Hon. T. B. Mathews' friends gathered at his residence, Thanksgiving and spent a pleasant day.

Handsome ladies and gallant gents gathered at the residence of Wm. Hall, last Saturday night, and tripped the light fantastic.

Not since the war have the Democrats had a majority of the election officers in the Petersburg precinct. Why this discrimination?

Uncle Field Crisler, of Redbud, is in poor health; but when greens come early in the spring, he will be the first ou the hunt for them.

Fletcher Clore, Hubert Walton, Jas. W. and Nes Gaines, W. B. Shotwell and Fred Pfalzgraf, are members of the Utzinger Board of Trade.

Hunters from the city, last week, shot a horse for each Bud Acra, Lystra Smith, Doc Grant and Harry Passons and killed a shoat for Lystra Smith.

Herbert, son of Homer Grant, has been selected by Congressman Berry as a cadet to the Military School at Annapolis. He passed the examination.

Buford Terrill is home from Livingston county, Mo. His brother, George, who is in the Plumbing business in Louisville, is at home for a short time.

Owing to the disability of our good, strong arm this column has not been represented in the Recorder for several weeks. Guess the editor and the readers are just as well off, any way.

We heartily accept your congratulations, Bro. D. M. Snyder. Coming from an old resident of our native clime, the breezy heights of Woolper, makes us feel like there is more goodness in the world thau humanity gives it credit for.

The Lancent, a St. Louis Medical Journal, of a recent issue, contained an excellent picture of Dr. Horace Grant, son of Dr. E. L. Grant, of Petersburg. He was Chairman of the Mississippi Valley Medical Association, lately held in Louisville.

Elijah Parker, of Gasburg, has been requested to organize a Confederate Camp at Petersburg. He was one of the young men, who, when the war broke out, shouldered his musket and went to the thickest of the fray, where he remained until the last shot was fired at Appomattox. He was wounded three times.

Pt. Pleasant.

Miss Eva Riggs, of Kenton Road, is sufferiug from a severe cold.

Mrs. Kittie Dye, of Rushville, Ind., is visiting relatives in this county.

Mr. Bird Clore leaves to-day for a hunting trip up in the mountains.

Mrs. Conrad, mother of Mrs. C. W. Robinsou, lies at the point of death at Mrs. Robiuson's home in Coustance.

The Ladie's Auxilliary to the C. W. B. M., will give an entertainment, Saturday evening, Dec. 11th, 1897, at the Pt. Pleasant Christian Church. Performance to begin at 7 p. m.

Union.

Robert Newman has moved to the Gatsou farm.

Prof. Voshell is having a large ice-house built.

Whooping cough is prevaleut in and about our village.

Lan Norman is the most expert butcher about Union.

Robt. Dickerson don't make much fuss about it, but he raises lots of Ferrets and game chickens to sell and sells them too.

Reports go to show that the dirt roads have been unusually good since the late heavy rains have fallen, beating them dowu hard and solid.

Jas. Bristow and Charley Cleek can consume more chicken soup in 1 hour than any two men in Boone county. That is, if Geo. Burkett knows soup eaters when he see 'em. Well, he does.

Mr. Ed., is it true that Uncle Cy Crisler loves pig tails and kraut? Is it a fact that he burns wood that is 100 yrs. old? Can you tell us what day we would likely find him hauling lime, sand and lumber, if we were to come over to Burlington? Did he pay $150.00 for six turkeys?

Wm. Taliaferro and Master Philip were visiting relatives here, last week. Billy says, if they don't draw a 6 foot anti-civil service reform club on his future expectations and knock about five corners off of his preseut prospect, he is likely to keep on gauging and store-keeping for Uncle Sam until he gets it in the neck four years hence.

Mr. Daiy Rusk, of Risiug Sun, Ind., put a steam heater in the warehouse for Mr. Keunedy. Mr. Rusk is employed as engineer and when tobacco gets too dry he turns on steam and soon has it in case. He is also an expert in sorting tobacco. It strikes us that in Messrs. Haris and Rusk, Mr. Kennedy has two reliable and competent tobacco workers.

Lee Busby, of "Sugartit" is a man who enjoys life as he finds it. If Old Daddy Time himself was to come along with a big scythe on his shoulders and take a few swipes at Lee with the purpose of harvesting him into the "Beautiful Beyoud," he would want a stay of proceedings for teu days, so he could get a chauce to take one more rabbit and quail hunt.

When the entertainment was being gotten up Mrs. John Garrison worked incessantly for its success—getting ads. for program, seeing parties and getting them to take part, &c. Mrs. G. also played the organ during the entertainment. For this reason our correspondent deems it just to say Mrs. G. deserves especial notice and regrets having forgotten to mention her name.

Letters received by friends of B. L. Corbin, who is spending the winter in Kansas City, Mo., go to show that he is having a fine time. Mr. Corbin writes that he never saw such abundant crops of every kind in his life—fifteen tons of grapes is one item he speaks of as a leader. Here's hoping "Uncle Lewis" may not forget, entirely, the quiet, peaceful village on the banks of Fowler's Fork and "Tiger" as he goes whirling along with the tide of Western enterprise—hustle and bustle, but will cherish a lingering fondness for same and return in time to plant a good garden and divide with us as he did the past season.

Constance.

Mrs. L. Anderson is no better.

Assessor Brady was here Tuesday.

Mr. Wm. Owens fell and injured one of his knees.

Madam Rumor says there will be a wedding in town soon.

The Sunday School will give their entertainment Thursday before Christmas.

The boys are working on half time at the factory on account of the scarcity of orders.

Charles Reeves was bitten on the finger by a hog, producing a very painful wouud.

A coal car broke loose from Jones & Co.'s Desicating Factory and came nigh striking Lewis Teetes.

Mrs. Armstrong, who has charge of the Constance Mission, will give a bible reading during Christmas week.

J. S. Anderson, formerly of this place, but now of Ono, Keutou county, has been elected Justice of the Peace in his district.

Mrs. Mall's Sunday School will give a Christmas entertainment at the school house, Friday before Christmas. All are invited to attend.

Erlanger.

Eli Summers is very sick of typhoid fever.

Miss Eugene Bracht, of Sherman, is the guest of Mrs. Sexton, of Home street.

Lewis Kahles has been brought home from the hospital. His condition is serious.

The Pratt family have moved from Newport, to the Bedinger homestead at Woodside.

The Mandolin Club gave several selections in honor of Mrs. Wm. Sexton, at her residence, last week.

David Riggs has returned from a delightful visit to his relatives in Indiana, and he looks fresh enough to run for Congress.

Lafayette Lodge, K. of P., elected the following officers for the ensuing term: C. C., J. A. Myers; V. C., Dr. C. W. McCullum; Prelate, Herm Plack; M. of W., Hy Myers; M. of Ex., Edward Riggs; M. of F., Jacob Fickel; K. of R. and S., L. Morelli; M. at A., Charles W. Zumbiel; Trustee, Jno. S. Zumbiel. Good Faith Lodge, F. and A. M. will elect officers on the 27th inst., at 8 p. m.

For Holiday Goods be sure to call at B. F. Buchanan's "Corner Drugstore" when in Rising Sun.

A man and his family passed through town yesterday, on their way to Johnson co., this State. They were six weeks out from Northern Wisconsin, and had good wagons and teams.

The President's message will be found on an inside page. In many respects it is a sore disappointment to his party, and especially to those who expected him to sound the death knell to civil service, and when one of "the boys in the trenches" ask for an office they'll be told to read the President's message.

FARM FOR SALE.

65 acres of nice land in Boone county, Ky., on the road from Florence to the Ohio river, about 2½ miles southwest of Erlanger, Ky., known as the Harriet Wayland farm. This is a very desirable piece of land, with frame house and barn on it, and nicely located. Terms easy. Possession will be given March 1st 1898. Address me for particulars at Ghent, Ky.

R. O. WILLIAMS,
dec-15 Administrator.

Farm for Sale!

In Boone county, Ky., on the North Bend Road, 1½ miles from Burlington, 1 mile from Hebron and 5 miles from Anderson's Ferry, and contains seventy-eight acres, good cottage of 5 rooms and good barn, orchard of 200 trees select fruit. The farm is all under good state of cultivation. For terms apply to

LASSING & RIDDELL,
Burlington, Ky.

For Sale--Farm.

123 Acres of Good Land in Boone County, Ky., on the Union & Beaver Turnpike, 2 miles from Union, three miles from Richwood Station. Good house of seven rooms, hall, vestibule, porches, good cellar; large barn, outbuildings, two cisterns, orchard and never falling water.

Henry Tucker,
UNION, Boone Co., KY.

FOURTH YEAR
OF WALTON ACADEMY,

—opens—
MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 6th, 1897
AT WALTON, KY.

Three Courses of Study to choose from:
English, Scientific or Classical,
Tuition per month,...$2.50 and $3.00
Vocal and Instrumental Music at moderate rates.

We have a fine, new building with rooms for pupils, connected.—Board only $2.50 per week, or $2.00 for 5 days.

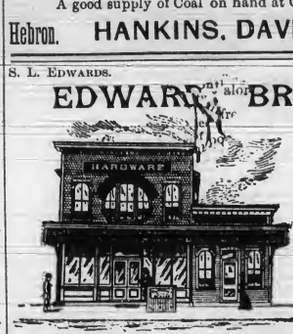
Thorough, Substantial Work
Guaranteed.

Teachers { Mrs. S. H. MYERS. CHAS. F. PRIOR. Rev. S. H. MYERS.

Further information gladly given by mail or interview.

GO TO
HANKINS, DAVIS & CO., General Merchants,
HEBRON AND CONSTANCE,
A Good Supply of Feed always in Stock.

GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS.



Undertaking is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.

A good supply of Coal on hand at Constance at all times.

Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance

S. L. EDWARDS. A. M. EDWARDS.

EDWARDS BROTHERS,
DEALERS IN HARDWARE
—AND—
Agricultural Implements,

Furniture,
Stoves,
Tinware,
Saddlery,
Oils and Paints,
Wall Paper.

UNDERTAKING & EMBALMING A SPECIALTY.
We have added a first-class Tin Shop and are prepared to do Tin, Iron and Paper Roofing and guarantee all work done by us.
EDWARDS BROS., - - Walton, Ky.

JOHN ALLISON,

UNDERTAKER EMBALMER,
Corner Pike & Russell Streets,
COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.
INDEPENDENT OF UNDERTAKERS' UNION.

THEY : MUST : GO.

Desiring to quit that branch of the business I am Closing OUT MY ENTIRE STOCK OF
MEN'S & BOYS'
Ready-Made CLOTHING
At the greatest bargains ever offered in Covington.

MY TAILORING DEPARTMENT
Will be continued, and I have on hand the Finest Line of Suitings in the three cities. Give me a call.

H. F. BLASE, 540 Madison Avenue, COVINGTON, KY.
jany 1-98

Its Your MONEY CLOTHING?

Of course, but what's the use of wasting it by paying double price for your.....

Our Clothing is well Made, Perfect Fitting and we guarantee our Prices the Lowest. We ask you to kindly call on us and inspect our MENS' OVERCOATS at $5, $6.50, $8, $10 and upwards; our $10 Kersey Coat in blue and black, is all wool, Skinner Satin sleeve lining. We guarantee this to be the best garment in the city at this price.

MENS' All-Wool SUITS, $5 and up. MENS' ODD PANTS, $1.00 up. } The Finest Line of CHILDREN'S SUITS, OVERCOATS and REEFERS in the city—all prices.

ROLFES & WACHS, RELIABLE CLOTHIERS
S. W. Cor. Pike & Madison Ave. Covington, Ky.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.,
Sallie Powers, &c., Plffs.,
vs.
F. L. Gordon, &c., Defts.

The undersigned hereby gives notice that he will begin his sittings on the 24th day of Nov., 1897, at the Circuit clerk's office in Burlington, Ky., to hear proof in the aboved styled cause and will adjourn from day to day (Sunday excepted) to the 11 day of Dec., 1897. J. B. BERKSHIRE, M. C. B. C. C.

ELECTRIC HEADLIGHTS

are but one of the many modern appliances for the safe, rapid and comfortable transit of the traveler which the limited trains of the QUEEN & CRESCENT ROUTE afford.

Fast vestibuled trains to Lexington, Harriman, Chattanooga, Atlanta, Knoxville, Asheville, Columbia, Savannah, Jacksonville, Meridian, Birmingham, New Orleans, daily from Cincinnati, are provided with safety vestibules, heated by steam, lighted with gas, and have all modern improvements.

Write for information to
W. C. Rinearson,
General Passenger Agent,
Cincinnati, O.

Send 10 cents for fine Art colored Lithograph of Lookout Mountain and Chickamauga.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

Local News.

Christmas will soon be here.

The grand jury will be in session all next week.

We have had some first class christmas weather.

Some of the county officers-elect qualified Monday.

The first sleet of the season arrived Thursday evening.

Get your ice houses ready to fill at the first opportunity.

Turkey merchants are closing contracts for the holidays.

The Sheriff is summoning the jurors for next term of court.

The Cincinnati horse buyers were on hand early Monday morning.

The patent gate was the principal attraction on the street Monday,

All county officers, except county attorney, are required to give bond.

The Bullittsville minstrels struck a very bad night for their entertainment.

The country butchers have been getting in their bloody work the past week.

Elmer Beall executed his several bonds and qualified as sheriff, Monday.

James Clore killed hogs one night last week. The shooting was done by lamp light.

This part of the country got the feather edge of the great snow storm that visited the west.

The Odd Fellows' Lodge at Bellevue will have work in the third degree, to-morrow, Thursday night.

For Sale—Side-bar, top buggy—in good condition; will sell cheap.
G. C. Graddy, Bullittsville, Ky.

It now looks very much like the dirt roads will be in very bad condition at an earlier date than usual this winter.

The United States Court convened in Covington, Monday, with a very large docket, there being about 100 criminal and 40 civil cases.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.
Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c

Wesley Adams killed eight pigs that came on the 15th day of last April, and they averaged 182 pounds net. He says they can not be beaten.

Col. L. N. Crigler is entitled to the everlasting gratitude of the people of Burlington, for the manner in which he has repaired the Boone house.

Our young farmer friend, Jack Sandford, keeps his premises as a game reserve, and woe unto the hunter who interferes with his rabbits and birds.

Walter Gordon of Hebron, and William Tanner, of Constance, have each signed to play ball with the Waterbery, Connecticut club at $125 per month.

A. J. Barker leaves to-day (Wednesday) for Nashville, Tenn., where a friend has secured employment for him. His wife and daughter will go in the near future.

Mount Pleasant Grange will hold its annual election on the 3d Saturday in this month in the Bullittsville school house at 2 p. m.—All the members are requested to be present.

The vote to determine where the next session of the teachers' institute will be held has been taken and was as follows: Walton, 28; Burlington, 10; Florence, 12; Union, 1.

Marce Riddell has invented a goose-fattening pen. The Judge has made a thorough investigation of the structure, and he pronounces it as perfect a structure as he ever saw. Patent applied for.

An entertainment will by the Ladies Auxiliary at Pt. Pleasant Church in the interest of Educational day, on Saturday evening, Dec., 11th, 1897, beginning promptly at 7 o'clock.

A detachment of tramps called at the residence of Ed Hunt, just above Bellevue, on the Indiana side of the river, and attempted to hold Mr. Hunt up, but he and his son routed them.

LOST—A pocketbook, between Bank Lick school house and Erlanger, containing $19 and notes payable to S. H. Huff. $10 reward will be paid for any information that will lead to recovery of same.

The Epworth League elected the following officers last Saturday: Mrs. Laura Riddell, president; Robert Wilson, first vice-president; Mrs. Addie Westbay, second-vice president; Mrs. Geo. Craven, third vice-president; Miss Therese Runyan, treasurer.

Mrs. Robert Sullivan, living on Riddell's Run, broke her arm just above the wrist, last Friday morning. She carried a pan of ashes out and emptied them, and when she turned to go back to the house her feet slipped from under her with the above result.

Rev. Keller, many years ago pastor of the Hopeful and Hebron Lutheran churches, died at his home near Brookline, Mo., on last Thanksgiving day, aged 67. Rev. Keller had an extensive acquaintance in this county, and was admired by all for his sterling qualities.

The farmers in East Bend have been very much annoyed with hunters this fall. There are one or two fellows who are leaders, and when driven off of a farm they return as soon as the proprietor is out of sight. Occasionally a farmer goes after them with his gun.

Last Thanksgiving day Mr. J. A. Gaines lost a suit of new cloths out of his buggy somewhere on the road between his house and that of his son, O. W. Gaines. He thinks it was found by some strange hunters he met on the road, who forgot to make inquiries as to its owner.

Esq. O. W. Gaines, of Bullittsville, is a lover of all kinds of field sports, especially the shooting of Bob White and pursuing the innocent Mollie Cottons, and only a few days since he visited the Woolper plains to take an outing and a hunt. The 'Squire borrowed his son's handsome harness and saddle horse to ride on that occasion, and made the hospitable home of Col. J. J. Lillard his headquarters every night during his stay in the Colonel's neighborhood, but was so careful of his son's favorite steed that he would not permit the Colonel nor any of his employes to look after it at any time during the visit. Every night when the 'Squire came in from the field of sport he was careful to give the horse an abundance of food and then fill its stall full of nice straw for it to lie on during the night. In the morning he curried and brushed it thoroughly before going forth on the day's pleasure. After several days the 'Squire returned home, and put the horse in the barn, and shortly after his son visited the barn to see how his favorite had fared during its absence. but he soon hastened back to the house, when he interviewed his father thusly:

"Father, how much boot did you get?"

"What do you mean?" asked the 'Squire.

"I mean how much boot did you get when you traded horses," answered the son.

"I have not been trading horses," said the 'Squire.

"Yes you have, father," insisted the boy, "and if you did not get considerable boot you are badly cheated."

"I have not been trading horses," declared the Squire somewhat emphatically.

"Yes you have, father," declared the son equally as emphatically, "and if you will go to the barn, I will prove it to you."

The barn was visited and the horse was led out, when Ott looked it over carefully, from the tip of the nose to its heels, and said, "why, that is your horse."

This last declaration made the son somewhat apprehensive of his father's mental condition, and he said: "Why, father, don't you remember that my horse had four white feet, a blazed face, was in excellent condition as to flesh, could pace, rack and go the running walk in the fluest of style, besides its forefop was cut off close.

"Yes," said the 'Squire, "I believe you are right."

"And father," said the son, "this horse has none of those distinguishing marks; can not go any of the gaits better than I can, and looks like it had subsisted on stake hay all summer and fall. This is not my horse."

The young man's minute description of his horse satisfied his father that he had, at some time, during his sojourn on Woolper, unconsciously exchanged horses, but with whom or when he did not know.

The young man lost no time in mounting the strange horse, and retraced his father's steps until he discovered his own and made the exchange with Col. Lillard, who was only waiting to see how long it would take the 'Squire to discover the mistake he had made.

The 'Squire says if he ever indulged, this circumstance would be strong proof that he had had one too many.

FIELD NOTES.

It is said that J. J. Lillard enjoys a day in the field with dog and gun better than anybody, and that he is an excellent shot but a poor hitter.

Hubert Brady hunts like he plays ball—goes after everything in sight, and if there is any game in the country his sack is always full at quitting time.

Their good luck down on Mudlick so enthused Harry Blyth and John Lassiug that they are contemplating a trip to the wilds of Arkansas to kill bears, turkeys and deer to ship north this winter. John is looking for a gun that will go off whenever he takes aim.

Jerry Blyth hunts with a hammerless gun, and you can not tell when he is seriously in the notion of shooting until a stream of fire comes out of the muzzle of his gun. He kills a great many birds.

It is said that J. C. Revill and D. E. Castleman are two of the best hunters in the county, but they never find any thing large enough for them to hit.

Every Saturday the fields are full of boys—no school, and the "cotton tails" are kept on the jump.

Ben Vaughn says it is no trouble for him to kill a rabbit, but he has to shoot them so far away that they spoil before he can find them.

O. J. Ryle goes to Hathaway when he wants to take a hunt, but has never been known to kill anything—at least he never brought any game home.

Robert Wilson is an accomplished hunter, but has not had time this fall to show the boys how he turns the trick.

Charley Westbay puts in much time hunting—Kirb Tanner.

They say that when it comes to hunting—something to eat—that Edson Riddell is a dead-sure-shot.

Dr. J. F. Smith and Dr. J. G. Furnish are two of the most expert hunters in the county—for good leaf tobacco.

Hon. M. D. Gray is also said to have a good bird record—not as a slayer but as an eater. It is asserted that Grant county hunters have never succeeded in killing enough to satisfy his appetite at a single sitting.

In days gone by Atty. G. G. Hughes was a terror to the feathery tribe, but he has taken a back seat and depends on his son to provide, for him, quail on toast.

Ben Cason use to keep the Bob Whites killed off within a day's travel of his house, and enjoyed the sport, but he is not hunting much in latter years.

When Bert Rouse and Charly Craven go hunting they take a wagon with a hay bed, but a wheel barrow would answer their purpose as well.

W. M. RACHAL & CO.

PRICE POWER PULLS. PRICE POWER PULLS.

For Your Christmas Cakes

We will sell the following:

2½ Pounds of Granulated Sugar	10 cents
1 Package of Seedless Raisins	13 cents
1 Package of Cleaned Currants	18 cents
¾ Pound of Citron	14 cents
Package	50 cents

We will put up in packages as above and will sell for 50cts.
We do this to save us and our customers trouble.

UNION, KENTUCKY

WE HAVE ALWAYS ON HAND FRESH BULK
OYSTERS,
CELERY,
CRANBERRIES, ETC.

The best place to buy yours.

• • • • Candies for Christmas.

W. M. RACHAL & CO.,
UNION, KENTUCKY.

Are best and cheapest in the Great New South. The Northern farmers, artisan, merchant, manufacturer, are all hurrying into this rapidly developing country as pioneers. The open climate the low price of land, and its steady increase in value, the positive assurance of crops, with but little effort to raise them; all combine to turn all eyes southward. To assist in this movement low railroad rates have been inaugurated over The Queen & Crescent Route from northern towns and villages, both round trip and one way tickets being on sale on the first and third Tuesday of each month. Round trip tickets, one fare, plus $2.00. One way tickets, two cents per mile. Now is the time for you to go and see. Much has been said and written about the fruit, grains and grasses along the Queen & Crescent Route and about its climate—no blizzards and no sunstrokes. Summer nights are cool. Grass grows 10 months in the year. Less wear and tear in living than you've known in the North. A million acres at $3 to $5 an acre on easy terms. Now is the time for you to go and see for yourself. Write to W. C. Rinarson, G. P. A., Queen & Crescent Route, Cincinnati, O., for such information as you desire before starting.

Weekly Excursions to California.

Every Thursday evening—a one way excursion leaves Cincinnati via the Queen & Crescent Route for Los Angeleee, San Francisco, and other points in California, carrying tourists sleeping cars from Cincinnati to San Francisco without change, via New Orleans and the Southern Pacific Railway. Passengers holding either first or second-class tickets are permitted to occupy space in tourist sleeping cars on payment of a nominal rate charged for accommodations therein. ($6.50 sleepers to the Coast.) These cars are modern and comfortable; and are furnished with bedding, curtains and all necessary toilet articles. Passengers en route to Mexico via Santonio or El Paso, Texas, have only one change of cars by this route. For further information call on or address: Chas. W. Zell, D. P. A., Cincinnati, O.

At the special term of the Fiscal Court held, last Thursday, Judge Stephens, and Esquires H. Baunlster, O. W. Gaines and J. H. Walton, were present.

J. F. Blyth was allowed $22 for performing duties of Sheriff pertaining to the holding of the last November election.

Allowances were made as follows for rent of rooms in which the election was held: K. of P., at Rabbit Hash, $1.50; Lewis Jenkins, Verona, $1.50; R. T. Clements, Union, $1.50; John Lyon, Walton, $2.50; I. O. O. F., Florence, $1.50.

The County Infirmary was ordered insured with Simrall & Co., for $3,000—premium, $60.

J. M. Lassiug was appointed a committee to ascertain repairs necessary on Court House hall floor.

J. W. Adams was authorized to purchase Code of Practice for Esq. J. H. Walton.

COUNTY COURT.

The following business was transacted by the County Court Monday:

Finch & Nead, of Florence, granted tavern license with privilege to sell whisky.

J. M. Lassing qualified as County Attorney.

J. N. Dickerson qualified as Notary Public.

Frances M Collins' will probated. J. G. Tomlin qualified as executor. W. H. Metcalfe, J. R. Sanders and Sam Hind appointed appraisers.

James T. Grant qualified as constable in district No 1.

Elmer Beall qualified as Sheriff.

Report of division of Ezra Rouse's land filed and ordered to lie over for exceptions.

T. G. Willis qualified as Assessor.

The following is copied from President McKinley's message sent to Congress Monday. It is a bitter pill for the "boys in the trenches:"

"The important branch of our Government known as the civil service has of late years received increased legislation and executive approval. During the past few months, the service has been placed upon a still firmer basis of business methods and personal merit. The system has the approval of the people and it will be my endeavor to uphold and extend it."

The Boone House will be opened next Monday, having been thoroughly overhauled and remodeled. Miss host and hostess Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Crisler will be glad to again receive the patronage of those visiting the town, and feel assured that, with the new house and many additional conveniences, they will be able to entertain their guests in the most comfortable style. Their house is as convenient and well arranged hotel as is to be found in the country, and the table will be equal to the best.

Go to John Schmidt, the Shoemaker, to have your harness repaired. Boots and Shoes made to order. Repairing a specialty. All work guaranteed.

There was not a very large crowd in town Monday.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mrs. A. O. Hall has been very sick for several days.

Mr. J. W. Duncan is still confined to his room with a cold.

Mrs. H. W. Blyth entertained several friends, last Thursday.

Dr. E. W. Duncan and wife, of Walton, were visiting the Doctor's father Sunday.

Assessor Brady was in town a few days last week, pushing his official business.

O. J. Ryle spent a few days, last week, down in the country packing his next year's supply of pork.

C. C. Roberts and family were visiting at the W. M. Rogers' in the Walton neighborhood, last week.

C. W. Riddell and Miss Nancy Arnold, of Williamstown, came down last Saturday to visit Mrs. T. W. Finch.

A notice from the postmaster at Newport conveys the information that C. D. Finch has moved from that city to Erlanger.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Rice, of Burlington, Ky., were the guests of Robt. Killough and wife, this week.—Lawrenceburg Register.

Hon. W. W. Dickerson, of Williamstown, and A. M. Edwards, of Walton, were among those from a distance in town, last Saturday.

Perry Gaines and wife, of Carroll county, are visiting Mr. Gaines' relatives in this county. They were guests at W. C. Brown's Sunday.

A mine of 50 year old whisky has been discovered in Missouri, and the rush from Kentucky to the mine is expected to depopulate this State.

Mike Die and family, of Hebron, and A. J. Clayton and family, of Bullittsville, have returned home, after a few weeks' sojourn at Rushville, Ind.

Mrs. Hirschberger and Mrs. Lamb, of Newark, Ohio, returned home last week after a pleasant visit to Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Smith and other relatives here.

George and Charles Sleet and Mrs. Kate Noell, of Beaver, were in town, last Wednesday, on business pertaining to the approaching term of Circuit Court.

Mr. J. H. Lawell called in Monday and had his paper changed to Bellevue He is well pleased with his new location. but says it does not look like home to him.

W. J. Rice has found several copper colored ears of corn in his field this fall, and believes it is pure Indian corn, such as was raised in this country thousands of years ago.

Benjamin Crisler, of the Gunpowder neighborhood, was in town Friday. He said, "It's 2-40on the mud roads—snow in the mountains—you wont get warm any more this winter."

A Klondyke club is being organized at Limaburg. E. J. Utz and L. S. Beemon are to grub-stake the members of the club, which expects to take its departure about the first of March.

Hon. John S. Gaunt, of Carrollton, came up last Saturday to assist in the preparation of some suits in which he is interested, and which stand for trial at the next term of the Circuit Court.

Mr. H. L. Tanner, of Gunpowder, was in town Monday. He said it was a little early for presenting a Christmas present, but he brought the Recorder a jar of very fine honey, for which he has all the thanks the Recorder is capable of extending.

David Ryle, the Hathaway merchant, was in town Friday morning. The County Clerk greeted him with a broad smile, thinking he would not have showed up on such a bad morning for anything other than a marriage license, but Dave soon disabused his mind of that.

Rev. John C. Hays, the blind preacher of Covington, delivered an interesting lecture at the Baptist church here, one night last week. It was instructive and humorous, and at times pathetic. The unfortunate man does not remember ever to have seen light, having lost his sight at the age of two years. He charges no admission to the lecture, the members of his audiences contributing what they feel disposed, and only a person with a heart of flint would refuse after hearing the lecture.

Quarterly Court was in session yesterday.

FOR RENT—FOR SALE.

One cottage of three rooms, and a small garden, in Hebron. For sale, 12 barrels pure apple vinegar. Apply to HARRISON CLORE, Hebron, Ky.
Dec. 29,

Notice to Trespassers.

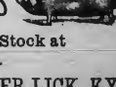
We, the undersigned, hereby give notice that we have posted our farms according to law, against trespass of all kinds, and will enforce the law against those who trespass thereon by hunting or otherwise.

Reuben Hager,	Mary Kirtley.
W. K. Leathers,	P. Hager.
Filmore Ryle,	Ben R. Stephens.
W. B. Ryle,	O. H. Craig.
Charles Craig,	Murry Ryle.

W. E. CHAMBERLAIN,
DEALER IN UP TO DATE
FURNITURE,
HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS, ETC.,
HIGH STREET,
Lawrenceburg, - Indiana.
—HAUCK BUILDING.—
Stylish and Durable Oak BED ROOM SUITS,
All-Oak SIDE BOARDS, As Handsome as the Finest.
INGRAIN CARPETS,
BRUSSELS CARPETS.

W. E. CHAMBERLAIN,
LAWRENCEBURG, INDIANA.

When in Burlington Call on
J. S. CLUTTERBUCK
DEALER IN
DRY GOODS
Notions, Boots and Shoes,
HAY, CORN AND MILL FEED,
At Prices to Suit the times.
FRESH - MEATS, - ALWAYS - ON - HAND.
J. S. CLUTTERBUCK, Burlington, Ky.



Buy COFFEE and TEA of the J. L. BILL COFFEE & TEA CO., a Ticket given with every 25c purchase and handsome presents given away.
The J. L. BILL
Coffee and Tea Co.
THE BEST BRANDS OF FLOUR.
12 W. Seventh & S. E. Cor. Sixth & Bakewell,
COVINGTON, KY.
WM. F. NEAD, Salesman.

FARMERS

Make the most of your crops, buy the best Wind-mill outfit made—The AERMOTOR—abundance of power wasting right over your heads, grasp the opportunity—Grind and Cut your own Feed and that of your neighbors—feed economically.
THE AERMOTOR
will bear close inspection and is guaranteed to work right. They are Cheap. Come and see it work and be convinced.

Also remember we are still in the ring with a complete line
OF GENERAL MERCHANDISE
and can sell Goods just as cheap as anyone. Highest market Prices paid for COUNTRY PRODUCE or anything salable. Come and see
OUR : STOCK,
It Speaks for Itself.

Don't forget that "LaBELLE" HERD
Of Chester White Hogs

Is ready to supply Choice Stock at Reasonaole Prices.
T. J. HUGHES, - BEAVER LICK, KY.

TAKE YOUR OWN COUNTY PAPER,

AFFAIRS OF THE CHURCH

Need More Common Sense in Their Management by the Leaders.

If Men Would Pray as They Seek the Almighty Dollar the World Would Soon Be Saved for Christ—Sermon by Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, D.D.

Dr. Talmage's text Sunday was Luke xvi., 8: "The children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light."

That is another way of saying that Christians are not so skillful in the manipulations of spiritual affairs as worldlings are skillful in the management of temporalities. I see all around me people who are alert, earnest, concentrated and skillful in monetary matters, who in the affairs of the soul are laggards, inane, inert. The great want of the world is more common sense in matters of religion. If one-half of the skill and forcefulness employed in financial affairs was employed in disseminating the truths of Christ, and trying to make the world better, within ten years the last Juggernaut would fall, the last thorne of oppression upset, the last iniquity tumble, and the anthem that was chanted over Bethlehem on Christmas night would be echoed and re-echoed from all nations and kindred and people: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will to men."

Some years ago, on a train going toward the southwest, as the porter of the sleeping car was making up the berths at the evening tide, I saw a man kneel down to pray. Worldly people looked on as much as to say: "What does this mean?" I suppose that the most of the people in the car thought that the man was either insane or that he was a fanatic; but he disturbed no one when he knelt, and he disturbed no one when he arose. In after conversation with him I found out that he was a member of a church in a northern city, that he was a seafaring man, and that he was on his way to New Orleans to take command of a vessel. I thought then, as I think now, that ten such men—men with such courage for God as that man had—ten such men would bring the whole city to Christ: a thousand such men would bring this whole land to God; 10,000 such men, in a short time, would bring the whole earth into the kingdom of Jesus. That he was successful in worldly affairs I found out. That he was skillful in spiritual affairs you are well persuaded. If men find the courage, the pluck, the alertness, the acumen, the industry, the common sense in matters of the soul, that they have in matters of the world, This would be a very different kind of earth in which to live.

In the first place, my friends, we want more common sense in the building and conduct of churches. The idea of adaptiveness is always paramount in any other kind of structure. If bankers meet together, and they resolve upon putting up a bank, the bank is especially adapted to banking purposes; if a manufacturing company puts up a building, it is to be adapted to manufacturing purposes; but adaptiveness is not always the question in the rearing of churches. In many of our churches we want more light, more room, more ventilation, more comfort. Vast sums of money are expended on ecclesiastical structures, and men sit down in them, and you ask a man how he likes the church, he says, "I like it very well, but I can't hear." As though a shawl factory were good for everything but making shawls. The voice of the preacher dashes against the pillars. Men sit down under the shadows of the Gothic arches and shiver, and feel they must be getting religion, or something else, they feel so uncomfortable.

Oh, my friends! we want more common sense in the rearing of churches. There is no excuse for lack of light when the Heavens are full of it; no excuse for lack of fresh air when the world swims in it. It ought to be an expression, not only of our spiritual happiness, but of our own physical comfort, when we say "how amiable are Thy tabernacles, O Lord God of Hosts! A day in Thy courts is better than a thousand."

Again I remark: We want more common sense in the obtaining of religious hope. All men understand that in order to succeed in worldly directions they must concentrate. They think on that one object, on that one subject, until their mind takes fire with the velocity of their own thoughts. All their acumen, all their strategy, all their wisdom, all their common sense they put in that one direction, and they succeed. But how seldom it is true in the matter of seeking after God! While the man expects to accomplish anything for this world without concentration and cathusiasm, how many there are expecting after a while to get into the kingdom of God without the use of any such means.

A miller in California, many years ago, picked up a sparkle of gold from the bed of a stream which turned his mill. He held up that sparkle of gold until it bewitched nations. Tens of thousands of people left their homes. They took their blankets, and their pickaxes and their pistols, and went to the wilds of California. Cities sprang up suddenly on the Pacific coast. Merchants put aside their elegant apparel, and put on the miner's garb. All the land was full of the talk about gold. Gold in the eyes, gold in the ears, gold in the wake of ships, gold in the streets—gold, gold, gold!

Word comes to us that the mountain of God's love is full of gold; that men have been digging there, and have brought up gold, and amethyst, and carbuncle, and jasper, and sardonyx, chrysoprasus, and all the precious stones out of which the walls of Heaven were builded. Word comes of a man, who digging in that mine for one hour, has brought up treasures worth more than all the stars that keep virgil over our sick and dying world.

Is it a bogus company that is formed? Is it undeveloped territory? Oh, no; the story is true. There are hundreds and thousands of people who would be willing to rise and testify that they have discovered that gold, and have it in their possession. Notwithstanding all this, what is the circumstance? One would suppose that the announcement would send people in great excitement up and down our streets, that at midnight men would knock at your door asking how they may get those treasures. Instead of that, many of us put our hands behind our back, and walk up and down in front of the mine of eternal riches and say: "Well, if I am to be saved, I will be saved; and if I am to be lost I will be lost, and there is nothing to do about it."

Why, my brother, do you not do that way in business matters? Why do you not to-morrow go to your store and sit down and fold your arms, and say: "If these goods are to be sold they will be sold, and if they are not to be sold they will not be sold; there is nothing for me to do about it." No, you dispatch your agents, you print your advertisements, you adorn your show-windows, you push those goods, you use the instrumentality. Oh, that men were as wise in the matter of the soul as they are wise in the matter of dollars and cents!

This doctrine of God's sovereignty, how it is misquoted and spoken of as though it were an iron chain which bound us hand and foot for time and for eternity, when so far from that, in every fiber of your body, in every faculty of your mind, in every passion of your soul, you are a free man—a free man—and it will no more be to-morrow be a matter of choice whether you shall go to business through Pennsylvania avenue or some other street; I will be no more a matter of choice with you to-morrow whether you shall go to Philadelphia or New York, or stay at home, than it is this hour a matter of free choice whether you will accept Christ or reject Him.

In all the army of banners, there is not one conscript. Men are not to be dragooned into Heaven. Among all the tens of thousands of the Lord's soldiery there is not one man but will tell you, "I chose Christ; I wanted Him; I desired to be in His service; I am not a conscript—I am a volunteer." Oh, that men had the same common sense in the matters of religion that they have in the matters of the world—the same concentration, the same push, the same enthusiasm! In the one case, a secular enthusiasm; in the other a consecrated enthusiasm.

Again, I remark: We want more common sense in the building up and enlarging of our Christian character. There are men who have for 40 years been running the Christian race, and they haven't run a quarter of a mile! No business man would be willing to have his investments unaccumulative. If you invest a dollar you expect that dollar to come back home bringing another dollar on its back. What would you think of a man who should invest $10,000 in a monetary institution, then go off for five years, make no inquiry in regard to the investment, then come back, step up to the cashier of the institution and say "Have you kept that $10,000 safely that I lodged with you?" but asking no question about interest or dividend? Why you say "that is not common sense." Neither is it, but that is the way we act in matters of the soul. We make a far more important investment than $10,000. We invest our soul. Is it accumulative? Are we growing in grace? Are we getting better? Are we getting worse? God declares many dividends, but we do not collect them; we dot ask about them; we do not want them. Oh, that in this matter of accumulation we were as wise in matters of the soul as we are in matters of the world!

How little common sense in the reading of the Scriptures! We get any other book and we open it and we say: "Now what does this book mean to teach me? It is a book on astronomy; it will teach me astronomy. It is a book on political economy; it will teach me political economy." Taking up this Bible, do we ask ourselves what it means to teach? It means to do just one thing—get the world converted and get us all to Heaven. That is what it proposes to do. But instead of that we go into the Bible as botanists to pick flowers, or we go as pugilists to get something to fight other Christians with, or we go as logicians trying to sharpen our mental faculties for a better argument, and we do not like this about the Bible, and we do not like that, and we do not like the other thing. What would you think of a man lost on the mountains; night has come down; he can not find his way home, and he sees a light in a mountain cabin; he goes to it, he knocks at the door; the mountaineer comes out and finds the traveler and says: "Well, here I have a lantern; you can take it and it will guide you on the way home;" and suppose that traveler should say, "I don't like that lantern, I don't like the handle of it; there are ten or 15 things about it I don't like; If you can't give me a better lantern than that I won't have any?"

Now, God says this Bible is to be a lamp to our feet and a lantern to our path, to guide us through the midnight of this world to the gates of the Celestial city. We stop and say we do not like this about it, and we do not like that, and we do not like the other thing. Oh, how much wiser we would be if by its holy light we found our way to our everlasting home! Then, we do not read the Bible as we read other books. We read it perhaps four or five minutes just before we retire at night. We are weary and sleepy, so somnolent we hardly know which end of the book is up. We drop our eye perhaps on the story of Sampson and the foxes, or upon some geneological table, important in its place, but stirring no more religious emotion than the atonement that somebody begat somebody else and he begat somebody else; instead of opening the book and saying, "Now I must read for my immortal life, my eternity is involved in this book"

How little we use common sense in prayer. We say, "Oh, Lord, give me this," and "Oh, Lord, give me that," and "Oh, Lord, give me something else," and we do not expect to receive, or, getting it, we do not know we have it. We have no anxiety about it. We do not watch and wait for its coming. As a merchant, you telegraph or you write to some other city for a bill of goods. You say, "Send me by such express, or by such a steamer, or by such a rail train." The day arrives. You send your wagon to the depot or to the wharf. The goods do not come. You immadiately telegraph: "What is the matter with those goods? We haven't received them. Send them right away. We want them now or we don't want them at all." And you keep writing, and you keep telegraphing and keep sending your wagon to the depot, or to the express office, or to the wharf, until you get the goods. In matters of religion we are not so wise as that. We ask certain things to be sent from Heaven. We do not know whether they come or not. We have not any special anxiety as to whether they come or not. We may get them and may not get them. Instead of at 7 o'clock in the morning saying, "Have I got that blessing?" at 12 o'clock noonday asking, "Have I got that blessing?" at 7 o'clock in the evening saying, "Have I got that blessing?" and not getting it, pleading, pleading—begging, begging—asking, asking, until you get it. Now, my brethren, is not that common sense? If we ask a thing from God, who has sworn by His eternal throne that He will do that which we ask, is it not common sense that we should watch and wait until we get it?

But I remark again: We want more common sense in doing good. Oh, how many people there are who want to do good, and they are dead failures! Why is it? They do not exercise the same tact, the same ingenuity, the same strategy, the same common sense in the work of Christ that they do in worldly things. Otherwise they would succeed in this direction as well as they succeed, in fact other. There are many men who have an arrogant way with them, although they may not feel arrogant in their soul. Or they have a patronizing way. They talk to a man of the world in a manner which seems to say: "Don't you wish you were as good as I am?" Why, I have to look clear down before I can see you, you are so far beneath me." That manner always disgusts, always drives men away from the kingdom of Jesus Christ, instead of bringing them in.

When I was a lad I was one day in a village store, and there was a large group of young men there full of rollicking and fun, and a Christian man came in, a very good Christian man, and without any introduction of the subject, and while they were in great hilarity, said to one of them: "George, what is the first step of wisdom?" George looked up and said: "Every man to mind his own business." Well, it was a very rough answer, but it was provoked. Religion had been hurled in there as though it were a bombshell. We must be natural in the presentation of religion to the world. Do you suppose that Mary, in her conversations with Christ, lost her simplicity? or that Paul, thundering from Mars hill, took the pulpit tone? Why is it people can not talk as naturally in prayer meetings and on religious subjects as they do in worldly circles? For no one can succeed in any kind of Christian work unless he works naturally. We want to imitate the Lord Jesus Christ, who plucked a poem from the grass in the field. We all want to imitate Him who talked with farmers about the man who went forth to sow, and talked with the fishermen about the drawn net the man who went forth to sow, and talked with the vine dresser about the idler in the vineyard, and talked with those newly affianced about the marriage supper, and talked with the man cramped in money matters about the two debtors, and talked with the woman about the yeast that leavened the whole lump, and talked with the shepherd about the lost sheep.

Oh, we might gather even the stars of the sky and twist them like forget-me-nots in the garland of Jesus. We must bring everything to Him—the wealth of language, the tenderness of sentiment, the delicacy of morning dew, the saffron of floating cloud, the tangled surf of the tossing sea, the bursting thundergums of the storm's bombardment. Yes, every star must point down to Him, every Lellotrope must breathe His praise, every drop in the summer shower must flash His glory, all the tree branches of the forest must thrum their music in the grand march which shall celebrate a world redeemed.

Now, all this being so, what is the common-sense thing for you and for me to do? What we do I think will depend upon three facts—three great facts:

The first fact, that sin has ruined us. It has blasted body, mind and soul. We want no li bie to prove that we are sinners. Any man who is not willing to acknowledge himself an imperfect and a sinful being is simply a fool and not to be argued with. We all feel that sin has disorganized our entire nature. That is one fact. Another fact is that Christ came to reconstruct, to restore, to revise, to correct, to redeem. That is a second fact. The third fact is that the only time we are sure Christ will pardon us is the present. Now, what is the common-sense thing for us to do in view of these three facts? You will all agree with me to quit sin, take Christ, and take Him now.

The "stinging tree" of Queensland is pleasing to the eye, but dangerous to the touch. Its effects are curious; it causes great pain to the person or animal that has the misfortune to get stung by it, but it leaves no wound, no mark of any kind. And for months afterward the part stung is painful in rainy weather, or when, in any way, it gets wet. Frequently it is necessary to shoot horses and dogs that have been stung by the tree, so maddening is its effect upon them.

NEW BISMARCK STORIES.

His Affection for His Dog—A Threat Carried Out—Begging Letters.

Henry von Poschinger, who has published ten or twelve volumes regarding Prince Bismarck's political career, has written a magazine article containing several new Bismarck stories. As new Bismarck stories are rare pieces of literature nowadays, it may be worth while to relate two or three of them. Told in Poschinger's language, they are:

"In 1877, when Bismarck's favorite dog, Sultan, was dying, the chancellor watched over the poor creature with such keen distress that Count Herbert at last interfered and sought to lead his father away. The prince took a few steps toward the door. Then, as he turned, he met the eyes of his old friend.

"'No, no; leave me alone,' he exclaimed, as he went back to Sultan. When the dog was dead he looked up at a friend near by and said:

"'Our old German ancestors had a beautiful religious belief. They believed that after death they would meet in the heavenly hunting grounds all the good dogs which were their companions in life. I only wish I could believe the same.'

"In 1851—a year still in the shadow of the revolution—when the tide of political passion was still running very high, Bismarck entered a restaurant one day to get a glass of bear. A man who sat near him, and evidently was inspired by the admiration of several friends, began to abuse a member of the royal family. Bismarck looked at him coldly, and then said:

"'If you do not leave the room before I finish this beer I will break the glass over your head.'

"The man did not go. Bismarck emptied his glass slowly, sip by sip. He arose, walked deliberately over to the man who had spoken insultingly of the royal family, and smashed the glass over his head. The man fell howling to the floor. Bismarck turned to the waiter and asked what the glass cost, paid the bill, and walked out slowly in the street. Yet at this time he was a man of political position and the recognized leader of the conservative party. True to his principles, however, he took the offensive, attacking his opponent with the first weapon that came to hand.

"The begging letters received by Bismarck were to be counted by the thousand. When he was sick in Varzin all the letters which were not strictly private were sent back to Berlin to be opened and answered. The majority of them were found to contain certain requests for money from 'most obedient servants,' not one of whom had the slightest claim on Bismarck's assistance. One of the officials, a particularly systematic man, kept a record of these letters and the amount requested by the writers. The sum total was 10,000,000 marks. When this was related to Bismarck he did not show a sign of a smile, but shrugged his shoulders and gave a look of bitter scorn. So it came that, seeing the meaner side of human nature, he became generally misanthropic. He held fast to the few men and women whom he trusted, and his first thought when he saw a new face was: 'Well, what does this man want from me?'"—N. Y. Sun.

BUCCANEER MORALITY.

"The Brethren of the Coast" Had Ideas as to Propriety.

It is impossible for men who have been brought up in civilized society, and who have been accustomed to obey laws, to rid themselves entirely of all ideas of propriety and morality as soon as they begin a life of lawlessness. So it happened that many of the buccaneers could not divest themselves of the notions of good behavior to which they had been accustomed from youth. For instance, we are told of a captain of buccaneers who, landing at a settlement on a Sunday, took his crew to church. As it is not at all probable that any of the buccaneering vessels carried chaplains, opportunities of attending services must have been rare. This captain seems to have wished to show that pirates in church know what they ought to do just as well as other people; and it was for this reason that when one of his men behaved himself in an improper and disorderly manner during the service, this proper-minded captain arose from his seat and shot the offender!

There was a Frenchman of that period who must have been a warm-hearted philanthropist, because, having read accounts of the terrible atrocities of the Spaniards in the western lands, he determined to leave his home and family and become a buccaneer in order that he might do what he could for the suffering in the Spanish possessions. He entered into the great work which he had planned for himself with such enthusiasm and zeal that in the course of time he came to be known as "The Exterminator;" and if there had been more people of his philanthropic turn of mind, there would soon have been no inhabitants whatever upon the islands from which the Spaniards had driven out the Indians.

There was another person of that day, also a Frenchman, who became deeply involved in debt in his own country, and feeling that the principles of honor forbade him to live upon and enjoy what was really the property of others, made up his mind to sail across the Atlantic and become a buccaneer. He hoped that if he should be enabled to rob Spaniards for a term of years, he could return to France, pay off his debts, and afterwards live the life of a man of honor and respectnbility.—Frank R. Stockton, in St. Nicholas.

His Depth.

"He's a man of considerable depth, isn't he?"

"Depth! Say, you ought to see how much he can pour into himself without getting full."—Chicago Post.

—Lawyer—The only man who ever gets satisfaction by going to law.—Chicago News.

RECIPROCITY HUMBUG.

The McKinley Scheme of Regulating Foreign Trade.

Reciprocity with France, we are informed, is almost effected. It has been hoped that the treaty could be negotiated and ratified before Ambassador Patenotre left for Paris, but that has proved impossible. Still, the scheme has progressed so far that only one thing is lacking to its success. That is the consent of France.

The treaty to which France's agreement is asked provides for the abrogation of the laws excluding American cattle from France. In return our government offers to make a reduction of 20 per cent. in the duties on France's exports to this country of champagne, brandy, cordials, statuary and painting.

The peculiarity of this proposal must strike even the most cursory reader. These duties, which the administration is willing to reduce, are all revenue duties. The articles named do not really compete with our own products. To scale down the customs taxes on them is simply to diminish the revenues of the government.

These articles, too, are used by the rich alone. The wealthy alone will benefit by their being cheapened in cost. It is of no consequence to the average citizen whether champagne is a little dearer or a little cheaper. He almost never gets French brandy, either, even if he pays for it. Nor does he find that he can live more economically if foreign statuary and paintings are admitted at a lower rate.

Thus the proposition of the administration is to admit luxuries cheaper but not necessaries. It is willing to extend our markets for cattle by cutting off just so much revenue from the treasury and making it up by taxing cattle raisers on their clothes, harness, implements and homes.

Statuary and paintings ought to be on the free list. Even the American artists protest against the present taxes on education. But French wines and brandies, being luxuries, should be taxed heavily. No reductions should be made in revenue duties which fall on the rich, who already gain at the people's expense by the protective tariff.

True reciprocity would aim, not at lightening the cost of luxuries, but at cheapening necessities. It would obtain concessions for our products by lowering the duties on foreign manufactures. This would diminish the tribute which our farming, laboring and business classes pay to the tariff barons.

There is no sense in the McKinley scheme to buy off foreign nations from retaliatory tariff legislation by reductions which operate as a bounty to the barons. But the administration dares not arrange for real reciprocity, because that is, as a matter of fact, tariff for revenue only, by special agreement. And nothing which helps the common people will find favor in the eyes of our plutocratic administration. —Kansas City Times.

PROFITS IN SIGHT.

The Proposed Gold McKinley for the Paris Fair.

It would be interesting to know the names of the western millionaires who are to provide the capital for the solid gold statue of William McKinley that is to be exhibited at the Paris world's fair in 1900. The report is that $1,050,000 of gold is to be employed in making the statue, which is to be of heroic design and seven feet tall. This is a foot and an inch or two higher than the president, but in order for the statue to be heroic, it must exaggerate the proportions of the subject. Presumably the sculpter or the molder or the goldsmith or whatever variety of artist is to be intrusted with the work will be instructed to bring out in bold relief those features of the Canton major which are supposed to give him a strong resemblance to Napoleon. If this was neglected one of the chief charms of the statue would be lacking. While we are about it we must show the Europeans that they have not a monopoly of the Napoleon business.

Those patriotic millionnaires who are to provide the capital for the undertaking expect to lose nothing. They may reasonably expect to make good interest on their investment.

In fact, looked at from any standpoint, it will be impossible for them to lose a cent, unless somebody steals the statue or their idol gets smashed in the meantime. The $1,050,000 of gold put into the work will be worth as much when the show is over, and a good deal more, if properly handled. If cut into small slices and sold as souvenirs of a great achievement, a great event and a great man, each would bring a great deal more than its weight in gold, provided the president is as great a man when the slicing operation begins as he is now, in the eyes of the thrifty patriots who have obtained his sanction to their scheme.

But on this point they would better have a care. Fame is a wonderfully evanescent thing, and before 1900 gets here William McKinley's fame and glory may have vanished into thin air. He has difficulties ahead of him that seem to make this highly probable. Maybe the promoters of the scheme will wait a year or two to see what happens to him.—St. Louis Republic.

—The democrats are pledged by their national platform of last year to bring the trusts under control. The republican national convention, under the domination of Mark Hanna, ignored the subject, but the republican leaders in congress know well that the masses of their party share the feelings of the democrats on this subject, and that they would never forgive the defeat of anti-trust legislation. These leaders are in a distressing position.—N. Y. Journal.

—The republican congress may even things by giving the country an immigration law that will shut out as many undesirable aliens as Hawaiian annexation will let in.—Detroit Free Press.

THE DINGLEY DEFICIT.

The Republican Tariff Depleting the Treasury.

The Dingley high tariff law is proving a failure as a revenue producer. Out of the months of its authors and champions is the operation of the act condemned. Said Representative Dingley in the house on March 24:

"Our problem is to provide adequate revenue from duties on imports to carry on the government."

In discussing the measure in the senate on May 26, Senator Aldrich, of Rhode Island, who had charge of the bill in the upper body, said:

"The adoption of a revenue bill which should fall in this purpose (of producing revenue), which should create an additional deficiency in the immediate future, which would require a further issue of bonds to meet current expenditures, would certainly be fatal to the hopes of future success of any political party responsible for such legislation."

The excuse for the calling of a special session of congress for the revision of the tariff was the necessity for increased revenue. The real purpose of such legislation was the furnishing of protection to special interests. As usual in such cases the latter object was accomplished at the expense of the former, as the figures clearly show. The statements of government receipts and expenditures for November shows a deficit for the month of $48,572,109. The deficit for the fiscal year up to the present time stands at $46,581,120. The deficit by months since the beginning of the present fiscal year is as follows:

July	$11,073,545
August	14,564,432
September	3,425,718
October	9,810,097
November	8,572,109

The Dingley law became a law July 24.

The deficits for the last four fiscal years, ended June 30, have been as follows:

1894	$69,803,261
1895	42,805,222
1896	25,257,285
1897	18,062,254

For the current fiscal year the deficit, which for the five months already expired amounts to over $46,000,000, promises to be larger than for any of the years given in the foregoing table, unless there shall be radical, and, judging from the present outlook, unexpected changes in the relation of receipts to expenditures.

For the fiscal years from June 30 up to the close of the third week in November the revenues, expenditures and deficits for the years given were as follows:

	Revenues	Expenditures.	Deficit.
1895	$131,108,447	$172,078,155	$39,969,723
1896	122,595,547	161,906,967	39,331,420
1897	123,276,777	168,145,280	44,868,503

For the periods from July 24, the date of passage of the Dingley law, to the close of the third week in November, the comparative deficits are as follows:

1895	$10,722,201
1896	26,256,111
1897	34,150,679

However it may be figured the comparisons are unfavorable to the Dingley law as a revenue producer. Possibly the future may bring improvement, but the natural fear must be that the rates of the Dingley law are so nearly prohibitive as to prove defective of revenue producing qualities sufficient to meet the needs of the government.—Chicago Record (Ind.).

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS.

—Mark Hanna now claims a majority of 15 in the Ohio legislature. How much did it cost him?—Kansas City Times.

—Mr. McKinley and Mr. Gage seem to have agreed to disagree most amiably on the currency question.—Chicago Record (Ind.).

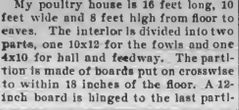
—A farmer writes to ask if there isn't some way to sidetrack this McKinley prosperity until the cotton crop can be disposed of.—Nashville (Tenn.) Sun.

—The Dingley deficit up to the close of the third week in November was a trifle under $45,000,000. The increase in pensions will absorb nearly all the receipts from the Union Pacific sale, and then the Dingley deficit will resume its steady and majestic course.—N. Y. World.

—The newly organized wire trust fills a long felt want. It has been a matter of reproach to the manufacturers that while forming monopolies in almost every other branch of trade they had no wire combine. Fortunately for them, the Dingley tariff comes to their aid and enables them to corner the production of wire. Prosperity has arrived.—Kansas City Times.

—If the government has $35,000,000 to give away, it may not be out of place to suggest that there are some "protected" workingmen in the coal mines of Pennsylvania and other states, for instance, who need money rather more than Uncle Collis. These are they who asked for bread and received an injunction, and if fortunes are to be given away they undoubtedly would be glad to be remembered.—San Francisco Examiner.

—Nine-tenths of the vast sum exacted from our industries by the republican tariff tax on hides goes into the pockets of the trust magnates, who control the cattle market. It is a very substantial gift to the Chicago beef trust, made by the republican party at the expense of every manufacturer who uses leather belting in his factory, and indirectly at the expense of every workman who looks for a rise in wages.—Boston Post.

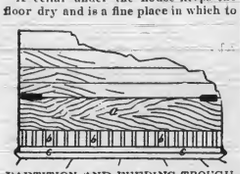


—We have already, in the Dingley bill, exhausted our powers for the industrial injury of continental Europe. If Europe retaliates upon us we have no further power of retaliating upon Europe. What we shall have is the sweet consciousness that, even if we can no longer market our surplus crops abroad, and even if we have reduced our revenue from imports so that we must resort to new schemes of taxation to meet current expenses, we have attained in the Dingley tariff the most complete scheme of protection and commercial nonintercourse ever exhibited outside of China.—N. Y. Times.

AGRICULTURAL HINTS

WARM POULTRY HOUSE.

A Structure That Is at Once Convenient and Easy to Build.



My poultry house is 16 feet long, 10 feet wide and 8 feet high from floor to eaves. The interior is divided into two parts, one 10x12 for the fowls and one 4x10 for hall and feedway. The partition is made of boards put on crosswise to within 18 inches of the floor. A 12-inch board is hinged to the last partition board, leaving a space of six inches. Close this by nailing on perpendicular strips. Make a feed trough and place in the hall before these strips. The chickens can get at the feed through the grating and are prevented from soiling their food.

CELLAR WALL, WITH WINDOWS ALONG THE TOP.

A cellar under the house keeps the floor dry and is a fine place in which to give grain feed mixed with chaff or cut straw. There is a window along the top of the east wall to light the cellar. On south end is the dust and scratch room, inclosed with hotbed frames. Here the fowls can take their dust bath during all kinds of weather. This I find most satisfactory in cold times. The loft

PARTITION AND FEEDING TROUGH

A, Hinged Board; B, Spaces Through Which Chickens Get the Feed; C, Feed Trough.

POULTRY HOUSE COMPLETE.

above the chicken room holds the poultry feed and assists in keeping the house warm in winter and cool in summer. Ventilator shafts run from the cellar, the coop and the loft, terminating in the cupola at the top. The windows are provided with shutters which can be closed at night. The floor is cemented. The walls are lined with tar paper which is painted every spring with asphaltum. Once a week I take a broom and scrub the walls and roosts with water to which a little kerosene has been added. Since I began using this house my fowls have not been troubled with sickness or lice.—W. H. Kraft, in Orange Judd Farmer.

SOUTH END, WITH HOTBED FRAME FOR DUSTING.

POULTRY PARASITES.

Keep Them Down by Giving Reliable Tonic to Your Fowls.

It may surprise the general reader to know that four different species of tapeworm attack chickens, four other kinds attack geese, seven attack ducks, and five attack pigeons. The remedy for tapeworms is one teaspoonful of absinthe to 50 fowls, mixed in warm bran mash, once a day for three or four days. Clean up and sprinkle premises with four fluid ounces sulphuric acid mixed in one gallon of water. For other intestinal worms, give one teaspoonful of turpentine to 25 birds, mixed in bran mash.

For grape worms, move all well fowls to new quarters, kill all sick ones and thoroughly boil them, chop fine and feed to the laying hens. Disinfect the old quarters—yards, runs and houses—by sprinkling thoroughly with the dilute sulphuric acid. Feed turpentine and asafoetida in soft food of the fowls for a few days. The remedies and preventives for mites, lice and fleas are generally understood. Cleanliness and the dust bath are the best preventives. Whitewash, kerosene, etc., applied to roosts, floor, nest boxes, etc., at frequent intervals, are also efficient. A little copperas, bysposulphite of soda, and half a teaspoonful of nuxvomica in the drinking water of a dozen fowls once a week is a good tonic and preventive of internal parasites.—Rural World.

Solving the Vermin Problem.

If all poultry houses were lathed and plastered with two coats of mortar, the lice problem would be solved, and the cold drafts in winter shut off. To destroy lice it will only be necessary, once a week, to burn enough sulphur in the poultry house to fill it with dense fumes, keeping it shut for an hour, and the work is done. When the house is not lathed and plastered it is not close enough, and too much fresh air comes in while the sulphur is burning. Whitewashing will also be easier on a plastered wall, and the hens much more comfortable and profitable.

COUNTING THE COST.

Why Farmers Should Keep an Account of Their Operations.

It has always been our rule to keep an account with every crop grown on the farm. In doing this we charge the crop with the rent and the work put upon it in preparing the land ready for the seed, the value of the seed, the labor of seeding or planting, the labor of cultivating, if cultivation is necessary, and the work of harvesting. This makes the cost of the crop. The difference between what it cost to get ready for market, and its value when ready, shows the profit or loss of growing. In doing this, prices will vary greatly in different localities. Land here will usually rent for two dollars per acre cash, when cash rent is paid, and we charge this amount as rent against a crop. Of course, this will be more in some localities and may be less in others; but it always seems fair to charge the price current in the neighborhood where the crop is raised. The same with the labor; prices paid for farm work, with and without teams, should rule in counting the cost of growing a crop. This, too, will vary considerably in different localities. The prices of harvesting, as well of seed, will also vary. Then there will be a difference in different situations as to the value or price when ready for market. Local conditions often affect the market in different places, and the price in the neighborhood should be made the basis in determining the value of a crop when ready to sell, so that the cost of growing and marketing will vary considerably. Then, too, the machinery used will make some difference in the cost so far as the expense of labor is concerned. The yield secured will, of course, vary the cost per bushel. The expense of securing a yield of 60 bushels of corn per acre on two acres of land is very little if any more than the cost of 20 bushels per acre. If it costs four dollars per acre to rent, plant, cultivate and harvest ten acres of corn and the yield is 200 bushels, the corn has cost 20 cents per bushel; but if the yield is 600 bushels the cost per bushel is but 6⅔ cents. But we have always found that a larger yield cost more in proportion than a small yield, as better work is necessary all through while the cost of harvesting is greater; but at the same time the larger yield pays much the best for cost of profit. A yield of 200 bushels of corn will often hardly pay the cost of growing, while 40 or 50 bushels will return a good profit. There is so much variation in different localities as to the price of land, the cost of labor and other things that go to make up the expense of growing a crop, that the only plan of positively knowing what a crop costs is to keep an account.—N. J. Shepherd, in Journal of Agriculture.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES.

Artichokes are cut in pieces and planted like potatoes.

It does not cost much for lath to batten the cracks of the stable.

Apples and vegetables lose in weight when stored, if not kept in cold storage.

While looking around for a new crop, try cultivating "confidence." It is a very short crop at present.

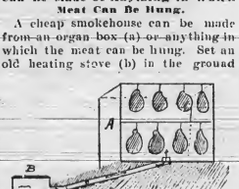
Cob meal furnishes very desirable bulk, but has not much nutriment in it, we would say to an inquirer.

Manitoba produced 40,000,000 bushels of grain this year and only one-tenth of the land is under cultivation.

Corn fodder, to be valuable as shredded fodder, must not be too dry or too moist. It requires a good deal of care to have it valuable.

Pardon us for suggesting again that board walks about the premises are a great convenience when the spring thaw commences.

You remember what a time you had last spring because the hens roosted on the machinery last winter. Don't repeat the experience next spring.



Now comes a man and says that on a large farm it is cheaper to buy new machinery than to house old. The manufacturers ought to vote that man a medal.

Wallace says that the most independent man in the world is the farmer, for all he has to buy is coffee, tea, spices and tobacco. In fact he can grow his tobacco, and get along without tea and coffee, and so all he needs is spices.—Western Plowman.

CHEAP SMOKEHOUSE.

Can Be Made of Anything in Which Meat Can Be Hung.

A cheap smokehouse can be made from an organ box (a) or anything in which the meat can be hung. Set an old heating stove (b) in the ground eight or ten feet from the box, preferably below it on a hillside. To conduct the smoke from the stove to the house, lay an old stove pipe (c) under ground or use six-inch tile. The stove must open on top.—J. S. Wilson, in Orange Judd Farmer.

ECONOMICAL SMOKEHOUSE.

Healthful Surroundings.

To insure the giving of good milk the cows must be in comfortable quarters, and in the best of health. An abundance of pure water at least twice a day, feed that is good, and free from dirt, decay, or a musty condition. The atmosphere of the stable should be pure and free from dust when milking is being done, that is the throwing down of hay or other food from the loft, and stirring up the bedding, etc., should all be postponed until after the milking is finished. The cows should at all times stand on dry, clean litter, and not dirty stuff.—Farmers' Review.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

with Local Applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

Sold by all druggists, price 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

A Man of His Word.

"Do you take this woman for your lawfully wedded wife?" asked the minister, in words to that effect. The young man, who had eloped by tandem 20 miles over a dirt road with the object of his heart's desire, looked at the perspiring, dusty, red-faced, limp-haired object that stood alongside him, set his teeth firmly, clenched his hands and answered, in the voice of a martyr: "I do."—Indianapolis Journal.

It Makes Cold Feet Warm.

Shake into your under shoes Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. It gives rest and comfort, prevents that smarting sensation and keeps your feet from perspiring. Allen's Foot-Ease makes cold feet warm. After your feet perspire they usually feel cold at this season. Ask your druggist or shoe dealer to-day for a 25c box of Allen's Foot-Ease and use it at once. Sample sent Free. Address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N.Y.

The Lawyer Knew His Business.

Plankington—I understand that you had to go to law about that property that was left you. Have you a smart lawyer?

Bloomfield—You bet I have. He owns the property now.—Boston Traveler.

There Is a Class of People.

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over ¼ as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

A Welcome Announcement.

Actor—Now the plot thickens.

Voice from the Audience—That's good; it has been pretty thin so far.—Tit Bits.

Fits stopped free and permanently cured. No fits after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Free $2 trial bottle & treatise. Dr. Kline, 933 Arch st., Phila., Pa.

Persistency without principle is a mighty revolving wheel to which is attached neither belt nor shaft.—N. Y. Independent.

Cold? Stiff as a poker. Use St. Jacobs Oil. Limber as a whiplash—cured.

A man is sometimes compelled to put up with those he does not love—pawnbrokers, for instance.—Chicago News.

Even a baby was cured of a burn By St. Jacobs Oil. Read directions.

An old man looks out of place in a brass band.—Washington Democrat.

THE MARKETS.

	CINCINNATI, Dec. 6
LIVESTOCK—Cattle common	$ 2 75	@	$ 3 25
Select butchers	3 10	@	3 35
CALVES—Fair to good light	6 00	@	6 75
HOGS—Common	2 75	@	3 25
Mixed packers	3 20	@	3 30
Light shippers	3 00	@	3 25
SHEEP—Choice	3 75	@	4 15
LAMBS—Good to choice	4 75	@	5 15
FLOUR—Winter family	3 50	@	3 75
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@	92¼
No. 3		@	91
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@	37½
Oats—No. 2		@	29½
Rye—No. 2		@	46¾
HAY—Prime to choice	9 25	@	9 50
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		@	8 12½
Lard—Prime steam		@	4 15
BUTTER—Choice dairy	12	@	14
Prime to choice creamery		@	24
APPLES—Per bbl	2 50	@	3 25
POTATOES—Per bbl	2 25	@	2 50
	CHICAGO.
FLOUR—Winter patents	4 70	@	4 90
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	95	@	95¼
No. 2 Chicago spring	89	@	90
CORN—No. 2		@	35¾
OATS—No. 2		@	21¾
PORK—Mess	7 30	@	7 35
LARD—Steam	4 25	@	4 27½
	NEW YORK.
FLOUR—Winter patent	4 90	@	5 15
No. 2 red		@	92½
CORN—No. 2 mixed		@	35½
RYE		@	46¾
OATS—Mixed		@	21¾
PORK—Mess	8 25	@	9 00
LARD—Western	4 25	@	4 27½
	BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	4 50	@	4 75
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	85½	@	86
Southern Wheat	91	@	97
Corn—Mixed	32	@	33
Oats—No. 2 white	29½	@	30
Rye—No. 2 western	53½	@	53½
CATTLE—First quality	4 35	@	4 50
HOGS—Western	4 15	@	4 20
	INDIANAPOLIS.
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@	63½
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@	25
Oats—No. 2 mixed		@	21½
	LOUISVILLE.
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 75	@	4 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	93	@	93
Corn—Mixed		@	28
Oats—Mixed		@	23½
PORK—Mess		@	9 50
LARD—Steam		@	4 15

WHAT HE WANTED.

Something Was Needed to Supplement His Wife's Present.

"You have scarcely spoken to me at all this evening," she said, in tones of reproach.

"I beg your pardon," her husband returned, apologetically. "I was just trying to think of something to say."

"Is there anything on your mind?"

"Yes, to tell you the truth, there is."

"Can't I help you in some way?"

"You might, if I could suggest it without your becoming angry."

"Tell me all about it. It is my duty to sympathize with you, you know."

"On my birthday anniversary you gave me a fountain pen."

"Yes. And now you are going to say that it makes a horrid mess and that you don't want to write with it."

"I'm not going to say anything of the kind," he replied, stoutly. "I am going to write with that pen every day of my life. But there is one little favor that I would like to ask."

"What is it?"

"Please make me a suit of overalls to go with it."—Washington Star.

New Route to California.

A striking confirmation of the truth of the saying: "It is an ill-wind that blows no one good" is found in the new routing of the "Sunset Limited." Heretofore it has started from New Orleans westward. This season, on account of the prevalence of yellow fever in some parts of the south, Chicago has been decided upon as the terminus, the route being over Chicago & Alton, Chicago to St. Louis; St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern, St. Louis to Texarkana; Texas & Pacific, Texarkana to El Paso; Southern Pacific Company, El Paso to California destination. The train runs twice a week, leaving Chicago 1:30 p. m. every Tuesday and Saturday, and St. Louis 10:20 p. m. same days. Eastbound the same trains leave San Francisco 5:30 p. m. Mondays and Thursdays, and Los Angeles 10:30 a. m. Tuesdays and Fridays.

"Sunset Limited" is a magnificent train, completely vestibuled and running through solid, composing a library and smoking car for gentlemen with barber-shop and bath-room; a combination ladies' parlor and compartment car, with well-stocked library, and ladies' maid in attendance; two of the finest sleeping cars, and a dining car, in which perfect meals are perfectly served. The dining car service is a la carte—pay for what you order, and prices are reasonable.

A trip across the continent in this train could not but be a delight at any time, but during the winter months there will be special satisfaction in the certainty of a semi-tropical climate, picturesque and novel scenery, per time, and no snow to encounter. And best of all, no extra fare is charged for transportation on "Sunset Limited," only the regular Pullman rates prevailing for sleeping car accommodations.

Hadn't Thought of That.

"Some time ago," says an insurance man, "a man asked me to accompany him home, as he had some things there to be insured. When we arrived at his home he showed me 100 boxes of cigars, which he wanted insured. There were 100 cigars in each box, making 10,000 in all, and were valued at ten cents each, so I insured the lot for $1,000. A few days ago the man came to see and asked for the insurance money. 'You've had no fire at your house,' I replied. 'No, but I've smoked them,' said he, 'and according to the paper, I am entitled to the money, as it reads distinctly that if the goods are consumed by fire money is paid on application.' As far as technicalities were concerned he was all right, but I knocked him cold about a minute later by saying, in a very stern manner: 'All right, sir; you'll get the money; but, according to your own confession, I will proceed at once to make a charge against you for incendiarism.' 'Well, I'll be hanged!' was all he said, and the room shook violently after he banged the door!"—Philadelphia Record.

The Pursuit of Happiness.

When the Declaration of Independence asserted man's right to this, it enunciated an immortal truth. The bilious sufferer is on the road to happiness when he begins to take Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the most efficacious regulator of the liver in existence. Equally reliant is it in chills and fever, constipation, dyspepsia, rheumatism, kidney trouble and nervousness. Use it regularly, and not at odd intervals.

Her Comment.

Young Mr. Fitts—The idea of establishing a Chinese chair at Cambridge!

Mrs. Fitts—Well, why not? Some of those bamboo chairs are just lovely!—Indianapolis Journal.

The Hot Springs.

Picturesquely situated in the heart of the Black Hills of South Dakota, are renowned for the marvelous cures of rheumatism, neuralgia and kindred diseases, which have been effected by the use of its waters. First-class hotel accommodations and baths. Tourist tickets on sale daily and especially low rates on the first and third Tuesdays of this month. For full information apply to agents Chicago & North-western Railway.

We have some congregations give their pastors a vacation so they can go and hear other preachers.—Washington Democrat.

The Grip may intensify aches, but St. Jacobs Oil will alleviate.

A truly great man is one who can live in a very small town, and refuse to become small in his opinions.—Atchison Globe.

With cold Neuralgia increases. With St. Jacobs Oil it decreases and is cured.

Women have great respect for a woman who has her hair done up by a professional hair dresser.—Atchison Globe.

A NECKLACE OF PEARLS

Is a beautiful possession. If a woman owns one, and if a single pearl drops off the string, she makes haste to find and restore it.

Good health is a more valuable possession than a necklace of the most beautiful pearls, yet one by one the jewels of health slip away, and women seem indifferent until it is almost too late, and they cannot be restored.

To die before you are really old is to suffer premature death, and that is a sin. It is a sin because it is the result of repeated violations of nature's laws.

Pain, lassitude and weariness, inability to sleep, dreadful dreams, starting violently from sleep, are all symptoms of nerve trouble.

You cannot have nerve trouble and keep your health. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred the womb, the ovaries and the bladder are affected. They are not vital organs, hence they give out soonest.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, by building up the nerves and restoring woman's organism to its natural state, relieves all these trouble-some uterine symptoms. In confirmation of this we, by permission, refer to the following women, all of whom speak from experience: Miss Celia Van Horn, 1912 Sharswood St., Philadelphia, Pa.; Miss Grace Collord, 1434 Eastern Ave., Cincinnati, O.; Mrs. Newell, 50 Ryerson St., Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mrs. Isabel Oberg, 220 Chestnut St., Woburn, Mass., Mrs. A. H. Cole, New Rochelle, N. Y., and many others

For special symptoms Mrs. Pinkham has prepared a Sanative Wash, which will cure local troubles. Give these medicines a trial.

Write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., if you are not quite satisfied; you can address private questions to a woman.

Coughs

that kill are not distinguished by any mark or sign from coughs that fail to be fatal. Any cough neglected, may sap the strength and undermine the health until recovery is impossible. All coughs lead to lung trouble, if not stopped. Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral Cures Coughs.

"My little daughter was taken with a distressing cough, which for three years defied all the remedies I tried. At length on the urgent recommendation of a friend, I began to give her Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After using one bottle I found to my great surprise that she was improving. Three bottles completely cured her."—J. A. Gray, Trav. Salesman Wrought Iron Range Co., St. Louis, Mo

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Is put up in half size bottles at half price - - 50 cents

PAINT YOUR OWN WALLS AND CEILINGS.

MURALO WATER COLOR PAINTS

FOR DECORATING WALLS AND CEILINGS Purchase a package of CALCIMO from your grocer or paint dealer and do your own kalsomining. This material is made on scientific principles by machinery and milled in twenty-four tints and is superior to any concoction of Glue and Whiting that can possibly be made by hand. To be mixed with Cold Water.

If you want something extra, buy some MURALO from the same dealer. This material is a Hard Finish to be applied with a brush and becomes as hard as Cement. Milled in twenty-four tints and works equally as well with cold or hot water. Send for sample cards and if you cannot purchase this material from your local dealers let us know and we will put you in the way of obtaining it.

THE MURALO CO., NEW BRIGHTON, S. I., NEW YORK.

N. B.—The attention of the trade is called to the fact that a man by the name of Church goes through the country trying to intimidate purchasers of our material by telling them that our paints are an infringement on his material, which he calls "Alabastine." We are advised by our patent counsel that his material when used with cold water is an infringement upon ours. We have invited W. Church to support his contention by suit against us and have volunteered to accept service of any papers he wishes to serve so as to save him trouble, that his pretended rights may be tested in the courts. This he refuses to do, but secretly continues his misleading statements, which course, under the circumstances, we believe will be condemned by all reputable dealers.

House-drudgery, more than any other one thing, is what wears out women. Not ordinary house-work—but hard labor with the hands, trying to keep things clean without modern methods. That isn't work. It's drudgery—an enemy to woman's health. Now, which is better—to use Pearline and stop the drudgery, or to wear yourself out and then try to get well? Pearline, more than any other one thing, makes house-work what it should be. It makes the washing and cleaning fit work for any woman. 561

Millions Now Use Pearline

GET THE GENUINE ARTICLE!

Walter Baker & Co.'s Breakfast COCOA

Pure, Delicious, Nutritious.

Costs Less than ONE CENT a cup.

Be sure that the package bears our Trade-Mark.

Walter Baker & Co. Limited,

(Established 1780.) Dorchester, Mass.

Trade-Mark.

CANDY CATHARTIC

Cascarets

CURE CONSTIPATION

REGULATE THE LIVER

10c 25c 50c ALL DRUGGISTS

WHAT BRINGS RELEASE FROM DIRT AND GREASE? WHY, DON'T YOU KNOW?

SAPOLIO

Do You Love Music?

If so, secure one of the latest and prettiest Two-Steps of the day, by mailing Ten Cents (silver or stamps) to cover mailing and postage, to the undersigned for a copy of the BIG FOUR TWO-STEP.

(Mark envelope "Two-Step.")

We are giving this music, which is regular fifty-cent sheet music, at this exceedingly low rate, for the purpose of advertising, and testing the value of the different papers as advertising mediums.

E. O. McCORMICK,
Passenger Traffic Manager.
"BIG FOUR ROUTE."
CINCINNATI, O.

Mention this paper when you write.

"ONLY PERFECT VAPOR BATH." The Greatest seller on earth. Hygienic Bath Cabinet Co. Nashville, Tenn.

CATALOGUE FREE

SEND YOUR NAME ON A POSTAL CARD AND WE WILL SEND YOU OUR 136 PAGE ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE

WINCHESTER REPEATING ARMS CO.
180 WINCHESTER AVE., NEW HAVEN, CONN.

DROPSY NEW DISCOVERY gives quick relief and cures worst cases. Send for book of testimonials and 10 days' treatment Free. Dr. H. H. GREEN'S SONS, Atlanta, Ga.

KLONDYKE for $1.00. Write for particulars. KLONDYKE EMIGRATION AND MINING CO., 51-52 Hinkley Blk., Seattle, Wash.

PATENTS Send for Inventors' Guide, free. RIGHTS AND CO. Patent Solicitors, 618 F St., Washington, D.C.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please state that you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BOONE : COUNTY : RECORDER

Wednesday, Dec., 8, 1897.

Rates of Subscription:

One year..... $1 50.
Six months..... 75.
Three months..... 40.

☞Payable invariably in advance.

THE RECORDER

SOLICITS YOUR

Job Work.

NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HORSE BILLS,

Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.

Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

STATE NEWS.

The Richmond work-house burned.

Owensboro has an organized band of housebreakers.

'Possums and coons are thick up in the mountains.

Many quails have been killed in the State this fall.

A bale of hay scared a horse to death in Lexington.

A gang of horse thieves are operating in Western Kentucky.

Quail are being hauled into some towns by the wheelbarrow load.

Schools over the State are adopting the one session idea for winter terms.

Many Elizabethtown young ladies are going South to spend the winter.

Henry county Court-house is liable to be sold to pay costs of a lamppost suit.

John Moore, indicted as one of the assailants of Mrs. Gleason, was acquitted.

Miss Lucy Loyal, of Shelbyville, operated a typewriter until it made her insane.

John Witt, a well known young man, was found dead in the road near Louisa.

Typhoid fever is epidemic in Robinson county, and there are many deaths.

County Sheriffs paid $160,000 into the State treasury Friday, three settling in full.

D. B. Watson, the enterprising merchant at Beechwood, has bought 4,000 rabbits this fall.

Thirty-three couples obtained marriage licenses at Louisville the day before Thanksgiving.

The newly-elected Clerk of the Court of Appeals does not go into office until September, 1898.

Willis Stivers got a verdict for $850 against the Lexington Herald for libel. He sued for $10,000.

An earnest, intending benedict of Barren county, Ky., walked thirty-two miles after a marriage license.

More wild geese than ever known passed over the Green River section, hundreds being in sight at a time.

Will Gode, of Daviess county, had his trm so badly mangled in a corn sheller that amputation was necessary.

For six months William Moore, of Richmond, consumed six boxes of cigarettes per day. He was buried last week.

The safe in the Carrollton post-office was cracked, one night last week, and $159 in money and $4 or $5 in stamps taken.

The faculty of Berea college, the leading negro school in the south, has issued an order forbidding the playing of football.

More opossums have been caught and killed in the mountain counties this fall than ever before in the same length of time.

The entire turnpike system of Lincoln county, with the exception of a few small roads, has been made free by the Fiscal Court.

Four murder and thirty divorce cases are among the items on the docket of the Madison Circuit Court which convened Monday.

The Owensboro cellulose factory is shipping its product made of cornstalks' pith to England for use in constructing warships.

At Lexington 61 head of the Woodburn stud of horses, mares and colts brought an average of only $174 at a closing-out sale.

The official returns of the recent election by Congressional districts show a Democratic plurality in every district in the State, except one.

Frank Lindsey, who carries the mail from Benton to Coy, is twenty-eight years old and only weighs sixty-eight pounds. He is married and a father.

W. A. Catchings, the mail route contractor of London, Ky., will control the bulk of the mail service for the next four years in the Rocky Mountain district.

The Kentucky distillers are in favor of limiting the production of whisky for three years, 20,000,000 gallons annually being suggested as the maximum output.

Sam D. Campbell brought to town says, the Springfield Leader, this week a piece of limestone rock the exact shape of a ham which he dug out of a spring on his farm.

The third death from fire within a week in Daviess county occurred at Pleasant Ridge. The seventeen months' infant of Addis Martin was burned to death during its mother's absence.

The suspension of the Stanford Commercial and the Mt. Vernon Republican leaves the Eighth Congressional district with only one Republican newspaper, the Richmond Pantagraph.

A large musket ball was found near the middle of a tree three feet in diameter near Scottsville, that must have been there since early pioneer times as no marks were visible except near the center.

John Warford, of Anderson co., has sued T. C. Oliver, sheriff of that county, for $5,000. Warford was arrested, charged with being a toll gate raider, but established his innocence, hence the suit.

The inventory of the State Penitentiary will cost about $10,000. This year the State is out $20,000. They come high, but we must have them. There is a chance for another one when the Legislature assembles early next year.—Western Argus.

A curiosity left at C. B. Mitchell's grocery is a freak of nature consisting of four leaves of tobacco grown on a single stem. The leaves are 12 inches long and 3 inches wide. The curiosity grew this year on Henry Mitchell's farm, near the city.—Paris News.

It looks blue for the proposed shoots of reform in Kentucky. The State officers seem to have given the question a frost, the Auditor announcing that there are no funds available for the work, for which an appropriation of $10,000 was make by the last Legislature.

P. L. Worden, manager of the Clay City Lumber & Stave Company at Lumber Point, has a piece of money made out of brass or some similar substance which, according to the genealogy of the Bible, was in use by persons living 1,500 years before Christ. It was found imbedded in a stone on Hell creek.—Clay City Chronicle.

A deal has been started in Newport to sell 700 acres of land to the Government for an artillery and cavalry post at Ft. Thomas. The deal, if completed, will give $75,000 to the estate of Thomas B. Youtsey, cashier of the defunct, First National Bank of Newport, and pay that much of the $110,000 claims held against Youtsey by his creditors.

Dr. J. G. Brooks, of Paducah, was the recipient, Saturday, of a letter which had been delayed in the Paducah postoffice several years, says the Register. It had fallen under a box in some way, and, according to the postmark, had been there seven years. Some cleaning was being done by the janitor, and in removing some of the furniture, the long lost letter was found and delivered to Dr. Brooks.

The first lottery privilege granted in Kentucky was given to build a church. By an act of the Legislature December 15, 1792, Jno. Smith, Benedict Swope, Gasper Carsner, Martin Castle and Jacob Kiser, representatives of the Dutch Presbyterian Society of Lexington were authorized on behalf of the society to draw a lottery for the purpose of raising $500 with which to build a house for the worship of God.

Mr. B. Beavin, the Hawesville saloonist, has one of the rarest collections of old coins to be found in the State. The collection comprises about 900 rare coins and their value is about $2,000, says the Clarion. In the lot is found an English dollar of date 1726 and worth good money. Another of 1804 is also valuable. The collection is one of the most interesting we have seen and is made up of both foreign and domestic coins.

Mrs. Leroy Lester, of Pittsburgh, shot and seriously wounded her husband with a double-barrelled gun. The act was done jokingly. Mrs. Leroy thought the weapon a rifle and intended to frighten him by shooting between his arm and body.

POLITICAL.

Gov. Bradley has presented a handsome flag to the city of Lancaster.

Green Keller will have no opposition for Assistant Clerk of the House of Representatives.

It is given out on good authority that John H. Wilson will be made U. S. District Attorney for Kentucky.

The Argus wants the Frankfort people to ask the legislature to levy a tax of five cents on the $100 for the purpose of erecting a new State House.

The Civil Service Commission has decided to send an inspector to Kentucky the latter part of this week. He will investigate every district except the 6th district.

Circuit Judge T. Z. Morrow gives out an interview in which he attacks the Hunter-Deboe faction bitterly for its effort to side-track R. D. Hill for District Attorney. After some severe strictures on the "gang" Judge Morrow says that if the President proposes to take up Hunter's personal quarrels there will not be enough Republicans left in Kentucky in the next two years to furnish election officers.

We are making a great to do at our ports over the admission of undesirable immigrants. We are maintaining a costly machinery to turn back all immigrants that from illiteracy, poverty and depravity may fall below our standard. And yet with one sweep of the bars we are about to admit over a hundred thousand Kanakas, Chinese, Japanese, Portugese, barbarians, degenerates and lepers that infest the Hawaiian islands.—Courier-Journal.

A number of legislators and candidates for legislative offices have a mistaken idea as to when the Kentucky Legislature meets. The Constitution says that it shall meet the "Tuesday after the first Monday in January succeeding their election" which comes this time on January 4. The Democratic caucus to nominate candidates for the officers of the House and Senate will consequently be held Monday night, January 3. The Senate caucus will contain 28 Senators, and it will require 15 votes to nominate for any office. The House caucus will contain 74, and possibly 75 votes, and in either event it will take 38 votes to nominate. The caucus to nominate a candidate for State Librarian will be called later in the month, but each one of the score of fair candidates will have abundant time to use her charming electioneering plans on the legislators.

CROP AND STOCK.

To see a barn full of tobacco in Bath county, is a rarity, says the Outlook.

Forty car loads of beeves were shipped from Lexington to England for Christmas.

About 300 cattle at Winchester on Court day. Twenty one, 1000 pound steers, sold at $3,60.

About 260 cattle on the market at Cynthiana on Court day, with some common and mountain stuff left over. Some fair to good yearling and 2-year-old steers sold at about 4c, medium 3½ to 3¾c, common 2 to 3c.

The annual shipment of Kentucky beeves to England for the Christmas trade has just been made. Forty carloads left over the Chesapeake & Ohio, says the Lexington Leader. Mr. Simon Weil shipped to Jersey City to Lebmon Bros. twenty cars, of which eleven were from Lexington, five from Shelbyville and four from Winchester. Mr. Jonas Weil shipped twenty cars to E. Morris, Newport News—seven from Lexington, two from Richmond, five from Chilesburg and six from Paris. These cattle will go by the "Greenbrier" of the C. & O. steamship line.

There is one good suggestion in Commissioner Evans' pension report. It is that hereafter women who marry pensioners shall not be entitled to a continuance of the pension after the death of the pensioner.

A great many women have been known to marry old soldiers just to continue their pensions and the fact that there are now 2,800 widows of the soldiers of the war 1812 on the pension lists shows the practice began with the system of pensions.

There are said to be many disreputable women who lie around soldiers' homes and play all sorts of schemes to induce the pensioners to marry them, and when they accomplish their end, they have no further care for their husbands except to watch for their death.

Any man who was in the last war is too old to marry now anyway, and there ought to be some step put to the inducement of a certain class of women to marry them solely for what they can make out of it.—Interior Journal.

FROM CARROLL COUNTY.

[News]

There are a few destitute families in town, who are deserving and sorely in need of assistance.

The Carrollton Furniture Factory put in three large pieces of modern machinery this week.

The price on tobacco seems to be pretty well established in this county, the prevailing price being 12 & 3.

Judge Hezekiah Cox, one of Carroll county's oldest and most distinguished citizens, passed peacefully away at the home of his son-in-law, Carter Lind-ay, in Ghent, yesterday, Dec. 1st, at one o'clock p. m. in the 86th year of his age. He had been in failing health for sometime. Judge Cox was born near Port William (now Carrollton), in 1812. He cast his first vote for Gen. Jackson in 1832, before he had quite maintained his majority and was always an active, working Democrat until his health began to fail him a year or two ago.

FROM GRANT COUNTY.

[Courier]

News came to town Wednesday morning of a terrible shooting affray in the neighborhood of Mt. Zion, Tuesday afternoon. John Wade, a married man, now keeping the toll-gate on the Mt. Zion and Dry Ridge turnpike near Mt. Zion, shot and mortally wounded Addison Pepplar, a young man about 20. The parties were out rabbit and quail hunting with A. L. Vawter and others. The report, as it came to town, is that the parties partook pretty freely of liquor they had along and became pretty full, and while in this condition a difficulty took place between John Wade and Addison Pepplar about the payment for some whisky and that Wade shot Peppler with a double-barrel shot gun, discharging both barrels at him inflicting wounds from which he will die. Who was in the wrong we have not been able to learn. Pepplar has been living at Pack Beach's for the past year, is a young man of good character and has never been in trouble until this occasion. His wounds were examined by Dr. Tomlin and pronounced necessarily fatal.

FROM OWEN COUNTY.

[News]

Dr. John S. Brown, of Taylor, Texas, brother of F. H. Brown, this place, writes that his residence was consumed by fire a few days previous. Everything he had in the way of household goods went up in the flames. Neither the house nor goods were insured.

Rev. John H. Threlkeld, of Hesler, a much beloved citizen, lies at the point of death at his home. Last week he went to Monterey after a load of coal. While sitting on his wagon on the streets of that town he suddenly lost consciousness and fell to the ground. In a short while he recovered and started for home. When he arrived there he was barely able to move, and it was with the greatest difficulty he was disrobed and put to bed. Since that time he has been very low.

[Herald.]

The Baptist church has purchased an elegant church bell, weight about 1,000 lbs. of the best bell metal. It is being cast at Cincinnati and will be shipped here as soon as completed.

Last week the fox hunters holed a fox. As they were digging for him he exercised his cunningness, came out, passed four men and eight dogs and made good his escape. He was holed the second time and captured.

Perry Sones and Porter Hale, two young men of the Lusby's Mill neighborhood, had a difficulty last Saturday night which resulted in Jones shooting and possibly fatally wounding Hale. It is said they were drinking.

A very handsome historical lithographic colored bird's-eye view of Chattanooga, Missionary Ridge and portions of Chickamauga field as seen from the summit of Lookout mountain, has been issued recently by the General Passenger Department of the Queen & Crescent Route. It is in the highest style of the lithographer's art, on fine egg-shell paper. The color plate is 10x 24 inches, with extra wide margins of paper on all sides. The lithograph is a somewhat expensive one, and in view of that fact, a charge of ten cents is made per copy. Address with stamps, W. C. Rinearson,

Only by making the Dingley law a revenue law in fact as well as in name can the Republicans restore a proper balance between the expenses and receipts of the Government. The proposition that a tariff for protection can be a tariff for revenue has been emphatically disproved.—New York Journal.

Notice.

Having attained an age, and condition of health, that I am no longer able to attend to my business, I appoint Geo. W. Roberts to take charge of it, and enforce settlement and reinvest the money to the best advantage.

NAT HIND, Verona, Ky.

Take the Recorder, $1.50 a year.

AYLOR'S AYLOR'S AYLOR'S AYLOR'S

YOU WILL FIND US

Very much alive in all that means business—and business that will be your business is what we are going to talk right along. Our business is to sell good, pure and fresh GROCERIES and PROVISIONS, and to point out to people the wisdom of patronizing our establishment.

IRA AYLOR, - - Erlanger, Ky.

AYLOR'S AYLOR'S AYLOR'S AYLOR'S

C. W. ROBINSON,
—DEALER IN—
Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots and Shoes,
ALL KIND OF FEED AND FLOUR IN STOCK,
Agent for Weidler's Germ Food; Also agent for the Jones Fertilizers.
GOOD STABLE IN CONNECTION WITH STORE.
Constance, Ky.

METROPOLITAN COUPE & LIVERY COMPANY.
62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,
E. H. BAKER, Proprietor
(o)
Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.
Horses and Second-Hand Buggies for Sale.
Telephone 580. Horses Sold on Commission.

CHAS C FRY. JACOB REIB.
FRY & REIB,
Manufacturers of and Dealers in all kinds of
Marble & Granite Monuments
HEADSTONES, CORNER POSTS, ETC.,
109 Pike Sreet, - - - COVINGTON, K.
Near C. & O. R. R. Crossing. Designs Furnished Upon Application.

FOR ALL WOMEN

Nine-tenths of all the pain and sickness from which women suffer is caused by weakness or derangement in the organs of menstruation. Nearly always when a woman is not well these organs are affected. But when they are strong and healthy a woman is very seldom sick.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

Is nature's provision for the regulation of the menstrual function. It cures all "female troubles." It is equally effective for the girl in her teens, the young wife with domestic and maternal cares, and the woman approaching the period known as the "Change of Life." They all need it. They are all benefitted by it.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

THOS. J. COOPER, Tupelo, Miss., says: "My sister suffered from very irregular and painful menstruation and doctors could not relieve her. Wine of Cardui entirely cured her and also helped my mother through the Change of Life."

What it Will Do.

FALMOUTH, Ky. July 7, 1896.
Dr. J. T. Boulton, Cincinnati, O.
Dear Sir—I was taken with a severe cough the first of May; for two weeks I could not lie on my left side nor breathe through my left lung. I also had hemorrhage and my friends said I had consumption. I began taking Boulton's Cough Remedy and began to improve with the first dose, and within three weeks was entirely well. I can not say enough in favor of Boulton's Cough Remedy. Respectfully,
MRS. R. J. MARSHALL.
For sale by all druggists. Price, 25c. and $1 per bottle.

For Sale or Rent.

Good Stock Farm of 170 acres. Money rent in cash, if rented.
Wm. C. HENSLEY.

Frankfort & Cincinnati Railway.

Ask for tickets via this line. Schedule of trains in effect March 1, 1897.

East Bound.
Lve. Frankfort..... 6:30 a. m. 3:00 p. m
Arr. Georgetown..7:20 a. m. 4:15 p. m
West Bound.
Lve. Georgetown...10:40 a. m 6:30 p. m
Arr. Frankfort.....11:55 a. m 7:20 p. m
C. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.
Geo. B. Harper, Gen. Supt.
Frankfort, Ky.

H. S. STEVENSON.
Satisfaction Guaranteed
DENTIST.
Prices Consistent with Good Services Only.
OFFICE:— Rising Sun, Indiana.

R. A. STEELE,
RISING SUN, IND.,
UNDERTAKING.
My Stock and accouterments are unsurpassed, having adult's black hearses and child's white hearse.

Independent of Undertakers' Union.
My prices are reasonable and my friends will tell you I give satisfaction.

FURNITURE
Large Stock of Latest Styles at Lowest Prices.
GIVE ME A CALL.

BOOTS & SHOES
MADE TO ORDER.
Work Strictly First-Class.
Prices to Suit the Times.
Harness, Boots and Shoes Neatly Repaired. Give me a trial.
CHRISTIAN BECKER,
20apt2m Union, Ky.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U.S. PATENT OFFICE, and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U.S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C.A.SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXIII. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1897. NO. 8.

MISS CHRISTINE BRADLEY will christen the battleship Kentucky.

THERE will be no need of calling out the State guards at Frankfort this winter.

ONE of the richest mining districts in Alaska, and there is a rush now for the dog.

GEN. BUCKNER manifests, in the politics of the day, more of the bull dog hang-on than he did at Ft. Donalson.

CONGRESS will not do much until after the holidays, and the country would be the gainer, no doubt, if it did less then.

IF it is true that Speaker Read is opposed to the annexation of Hawaii, the scheme is too dead to refer to any more.

THE Circuit Court Judges in Indiana have decided that decrees of divorce shall not be valid until the court costs have been paid.

THE endless chain financiers are in the saddle and are riding in every direction, each having his own particular notion as to how the currency should be reformed.

THE figures prepared in the Auditor's office, at Frankfort, but not for campaign purposes, show that the penitentiary chair factory was operated last year at a heavy loss to the State.

MAYOR WEAVER'S announced policy towards his subordinates is causing him trouble in getting good men to accept his appointments. They do not want to surrender entirely to an autocrat.

THE entire country mourns with President McKinley because of the death of his venerable mother. She was 89 years of age. She died early Sunday morning. The funeral occurred yesterday at 1 p. m.

BUTCHER WEYLER has hopes of being returned to Cuba and put in command of the Spanish troops. His successor's military experience has been an unbroken series of defeats since he landed on the island.

SPIDERS are tangling up the Japanese telegraph lines. They start their webs on the wires, and are so numerous as to cause a serious loss of insulation. Sweeping the webs off does little good, as the spiders begin all over again.

IT is somewhat strange that those who were so thoroughly agreed on the financial question one year ago, are now so far apart. It turns out that even the President and his Secretary of the Treasury are not of the same mind on the question.

THAT man Forrester fails to find anything good in the McKinley administration. He has been a close student of political events of the past year, and charges that the President does not belong to himself, but is the property of the Cleveland millionaire.

HAD E. L. Harper, the Cincinnati banker who attempted to corner the wheat market, been as successful in his efforts along that line as those who now control that market he would never have experienced that enforced sojourn in that public institution at Columbus.

KENTUCKY'S local Congress will assemble again in a few days, and, politically, it will be very lopsided, the Republican members being so few that they will be so lonesome it is feared they will take to hard drink, in the absence of the gum-shoe statesman and the missionary from Ohio. It will not be as interesting an aggregation as that which had a date at Frankfort last winter.

SINCE local legislation was knocked out by the constitution, the rural statesmen who congregate at Frankfort, biennially, have but little to do, and devote much of their time to smoking good cigars and sampling mountain dew. The local dog laws and stock laws that have developed so many statesmen, have done their turn, and with them the modern Cicero from Hell-for-sartain and other equally renowned "destricts," has retired to obscurity.

ONE fellow claiming to have kept an accurate tab on the number of labors in the United States reported to have received permanent employment since the inauguration of the McKinley administration, says they have reached 90,000,000 and that the number is still increasing; but as that number is largely in excess of the population of the country, he is not prepared to believe that all the reports sent out are true.

THOSE fellows who had considerable to say as to what material the St. Louis platform should contain, and who pronounced it a thing of beauty, and claimed that it would be a joy forever, have discovered a very ugly civil service hump that so destroys the symetry of the structure, that it can never be a joy unless the civil service plank is remodeled. They believe in civil service when it keeps Republicans in office, otherwise, they oppose it, except when making platforms.

IT is surmised that Covington has a large crop of prospective Congressional candidates for next fall. Of those whose names have been mentioned so far very little is known in this section of the hayseed part of the district, and one thing that has put the country yaps to thinking is, if either, any or all of them are Congressional timber, why is it that their reputation has been so slow to reach this neck o' woods. The country Democracy will be very slow to fly to evils that it knows not of.

THE turnpike raiders continue to do business in this State despite the Governor's threat to call out his army and navy if they do not desist. By the way, has it occurred to you that Gov. Bradley's strong stand against mobs, and his request for the enactment of a rigid anti-mob law has seemingly increased lawlessness in this State, rendering his administration particularly noted for its failure in guaranteeing his people the protection of life, limb and property. The Governor has not been able to cope with the lawless element, which, soon after his inauguration, it was thought, he would soon banish from the State.

THE Court of Appeals affirmed the judgment of the lower court in the case of Joseph Graddy, son of G. C. Graddy, of Bullittsville, against the Western Union Telegraph Co. When Mr. Graddy's mother was lying at the point of death at her home near Bullittsville, he was telegraphed to at Lexington, where he was engaged in business, to come at once. The telegram was sent on Sunday, but was not delivered until Monday, afternoon, his mother dying in the meantime. Mr. Graddy sued the company for damages and got a verdict for several hundred dollars, and it was this the appellate court affirmed.

THIS term of the Circuit Court closes Judge Greene's and Commonwealth Attorney Gray's first term of office. They have made painstaking, efficient officers, and their renomination and reelection without opposition either within or without their party is an unprecicdented testimonial in this judicial district. Merit, as a rule, is endorsed by the public, but seldom does that endorsement come unanimously as it did in the cases of Messrs. Greene and Gray. They are to be congratulated upon the exalted position they occupy in the estimation of their constituents, and may they continue to enjoy the confidence of which the expiring term has proven them worthy.

Pith of the Press.

Speaker Reed is happy. He's the whole thing again.—St. Paul Globe.

On the Cuban question the President wobbles badly.—Atlanta Journal, Dem.

President McKinley's truckling to Spain is a sore disappointment. The people expected more.—Hamilton Ohio Democrat.

Mediocrity apologizing for bad faith and incompetency epitomizes the quality of the President's message.—Kansas City Times.

The President evidently forgot to say something about trusts, but the memory of the people is not so short.—Philadelphia Item.

We trust Congress will not attempt to do anything for national honor without first sending for Mr. Bynum.—Washington Post.

The best that can be said for the currency part of the President's message is that it gives evidence of good intentions.—Baltimore News, Dem.

Mr. McKinley's first message falls far short of the standard set in more than one of the December utterances of Grover Cleveland.—Boston Globe.

If Reed and the Administration obstruct the people's measures in the House, let the Administration measures be obstructed in the Senate.—N. Y. Journal.

The present Administration is committed to the support of the plans of the Sagasta Cabinet, and the Cubans can look for help from it.—New Orleans Picayune, Dem.

Mr. McKinley does not take a very pronounced stand upon the financial question, further than to point out evils and make a few suggestions.—Detroit Free Press, Dem.

Attorney General McKenna should at once proceed to get out an injunction against those brickbats buried at him from the direction of the Pacific slope.—Boston Herald.

England seems to consider McKinley's message as an "early confession of a great failure." It hasn't been announced there that Hanna is the receiver.—N. Y. Evening Journal.

George H. Williams, Attorney-General of the United States from 1871 to 1873, protests that Judge McKenna is incompetent for a place on the Supreme bench.—Brooklyn Standard-Union.

There is a little bit of special pleading in behalf of the annexation of Hawaii that is not convincing and is somewhat at issue with principles elsewhere laid down.—Philadelphia Times, Dem.

One of the foreign critics of Mr. McKinley's message, in explaining why it is "weak and colorless," remarks that Mr. Cleveland was in front of Congress, while Mr. McKinley is behind it.—Philadelphia Press.

If Mr. McKinley elevates Corporation Attorney McKenna to the Supreme Bench and Corporation Attorney Griggs to the Cabinet there will be two Christmas presents for the corporation.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Hon. Thomas Brackett Reed is inclined to think that Congress is not going to do very much this session. As one end of the Capital can't perform at all without the gentleman from Mines this tip is of some value.—Baltimore News.

Circuit Court.

The December term of the Boone Circuit Court convened Monday morning with Judge Greene on the bench and Circuit Clerk Duncan, with J. S. Clutterbuck as his assistant, on hand to keep the record.

The Judge arrived in town at an early hour, and at 9:30 he pulled the bell chord, but owing to there being so few in town, the organizing of the grand jury was deferred for an hour.

At 10 o'clock the Sheriff called the names of the grand jurors summoned, nearly all of whom answered. The panel was completed, but Uncle Adam Baurer, of near Lawrenceburg ferry, and Benj. Terrill, of Union, were excused because of illness of their families. The panel was again filled, but it occurred to Col. Graddy that he is not a housekeeper, and was told to stand aside. E. S. West was called to fill the vacancy, and was asked if he knew of any reason why he should not serve at this term. He reflected for a few seconds and then announced that he had a sick mule at home, but the Judge informed him his excuse was n. g., and the jury was then completed, and was compose of the following gentlemen:

Lon Utz	John Black,
R. O. Powers,	Henry Tanner,
W. L. B. Rouse,	Geo. H. Walton,
Elzie Harper,	E. S. West,
J. H. Grubbs,	Joseph Love,
Robert Houston,	Geo. Smith.

The jury was sworn and the Court proceeded with the charge, dwelling at length upon the graver offenses laid down in the statutes. The delivery of the charge consumed the morning session. The jury was told to give attention first to the cases of those in jail, they being the West Covington and Newport poulty dealers.

In the afternoon the bail bond of $100 in the case of the Commonwealth against Robert Vongundy, charged with housebreaking, was forfeited and the money paid over to the trustee of the jury fund. It was during the last Florence fair that Vongundy raided a dwelling house or two near Richwood, and for which he was arrested on the fair grounds.

The bond in the case of the Commonwealth against Samuel Caskey, one of the West Covington chicken thieves who came to grief in the Limaburg neighborhood about three months ago, took the same course until it came to the financial question, when it switched. The State will get the cash later on.

Hon. John S. Gaunt was the first visiting attorney to put in an appearance. He arrived about noon, and looked fresh and anxious for the fray. He generally comes early and stays till the final adjourning order is signed.

The Circuit Clerk's report of public money received since last term is as follows:

Tax on 13 Equity cases	$ 6 50
Tax on 18 Ordinary cases	9 00
Tax on 3 Jury fees	12 00
Total	$27 50

The suit of A. M. Edwards vs. W. W. Dean for $20,000 for alienating the affections of his wife, will consume considerable of the Court's time should it come to trial. Both sides has had witnesses summoned, and the case is set for to-morrow.

TUESDAY.

The Judge started the wheels of justice at an early hour Tuesday, and the petit juries were organized as follows:

No. 1.	No. 2.
J. C. Mitchell,	Henry Phipps,
L. M. Rouse,	H. H. Grant.
John Rowland	Chas. Craven.
Chas. Lebrec,	G. O. Hafer,
Bird Clore,	H. Goodridge,
W. P. Cropper,	A. C. Clarkson.
Jake Cook,	W. E. Tanner.
Richard Clements,	J. R. Akin,
Ezra Aylor,
Thomas Utz,
R. O. Smith,
F. Hossman.

Commonwealth's Attorney Gray, and Attorneys Cram and Menifee, arrived early in the morning. The call of the criminal docket was begun.

Clifford, the chicken thief, who has been in jail for several months, was tried yesterday and given thirty days in jail. Clifford is a hard looking party—and is as hard as he looks, no doubt. It is a pity that his offense had not been grand instead of petit larcency, so he could have been sent over the road. A whipping post would fit such cases as Clifford's very nicely.

The trial of the thieve captured last Friday night, has been set for next Friday.

Some people are beginning to think one term of the Circuit Court a year is enough.

STATE PRESS.

The mention of the Hon. John Young Brown for Governor, to succeed Mr. Bradley, meets with approval. He is the man for the place.—Morganfield Sun.

John Young Brown is said to be casting wistful eyes at the Governorship again. But one term of that thankless office ought to do a man. Eh, Gov. Bradley.—Interior Journal.

While there is so much talk over the proposed retirement of the greenbacks, we would suggest that Congress retire the politicians and give the "dear people" a rest.—Fairview Review.

Gen. S. B. Buckner wants the Gold Democratic organization of Kentucky continued, and writes a long letter to show that he is right about it. Some men seem not to know when they are licked out of their boots, and the venerable "Sage of Glen Lily" seems to be one of this class.—Georgetown Times.

We silver lunatics are just setting back and waiting and watching the gold bug monkies in Congress and the Administration monkies crack that financial cocoanut. They knew all about it last fall, a year past, but as the time draws near for something to be done, how immense grows the nut, and how hard looks the shell as the great financial carpenters, no two of whom agree, concentrate in Washington to attack the monster,—Owen News.

It has leaked out here upon authority that seems to know what they are talking about, that the Legislature will be of very limited existence. It is said that the Democrats, who have everything their own way in the coming session, intend to make a record unprecedented in Kentucky's legislative era—that is to cut the time of the session allowed by law, just one-half, which will be 30 legislative days. If such a thing is done, surely a record for Democracy in old Kentucky is made.—Western Argus.

THE Republicans are holding meetings for the purpose of devising a way to get around the civil service plank in their national platform. If the civil service legislation was a thing of which to be so proud at the time of the nominating convention, what is the matter with it now.

COUNTY DIRECTORY.

County Judge—Benjamin Stephens.
County Clerk—S. W. Adams.
County Attorney—J. M. Lassing.
Sheriff—C. C. Roberts.
Jailer—C. L. Crisler.
Assessor—R. A. Hendr.
Coroner—A. A. Murat.
Superintendent Schools—L. H. Voshell.
Surveyor—W. E. Vest.

Fiscal Court meets Tuesday after first Monday in January, April, July and October.

RAILROAD COMMISSION:
John C. Wood, Chairman; J. F. Dempsey, H. S. Irwin, Secretary—Samuel Brown.

CIRCUIT COURT.
Judge—John W. Green.
Clerk—J. W. Duncan.
Commonwealth's Attorney—M. D. Gray.
Master Commissioner—J. B. Berkshire.

JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.
Courts are held in the months of March, June, September and December, as follows:
District No 1.—O. W. Gaines, fourth Saturday; J. B. Crigler, Constable.
District No. 2.—M. B. Green, first Saturday; Jake Cook, Constable.
District No. 3.—R. L. Roberts, wednesday after third Monday; T. M. Rice, Constable.
District No. 4.—H. Bannister, Thursday after second Monday; Add Mitchell, Constable.
District No. 5.—T. E. Roberts, fourth Monday; J. H. watson, Constable.
District No. 6.—Joseph Wagstaff, third Saturday; Simeo Tanner, Constable.

STATE DIRECTORY.
Governor—W. O. Bradley.
Lieutenant Governor—W. J. Worthington.
Secretary of State—Charles Finley.
Assistant Secretary of State—E. D. Guffy.
Attorney General—W. S. Taylor.
Auditor—Samuel H. Stone.
Assistant Auditor—Frank Johnson.
Treasurer—George W. Long.
Sup't of Public Instruction—Geo. M. Davidson.
Register Land Office—Charles O. Reynolds.
Deputies—Stanley D. Brown, Sam S. Shepherd.
Insurance Commissioner—D. M. Comingore.
Adjutant General—D. R. Collier.
Assistant—Walter Forrester.
Supt. Arsenal—Capt. David O'Connell.
State Inspector—C. W. Lester.
Commissioner Agriculture—Lucas Moore.

COURT OF APPEALS.
Chief Justice—Joseph Lewis. Judges—Geo. Du reile, J. R. Grace, T. H. Paynter, B. L. D. Guffy, J. H. Hazelrigg, J. H. Lewis.
Reporter—E. W. Hines. Clerk—A. Addams.
Sergeant—W. S. B. Hill. Tipstaff—C. C. Turner.
Librarian—Mrs. Mary Brown Day.
Inspector of Mines—C. J. Norwood.

STATE PRISON OFFICIALS:
Frankfort Prison—Warden, Henry George; Deputy Warden, M. A. Rooney.
Eddyville Prison—Warden, L. C. Curry; Deputy Warden, Ward Linn.

J. P. LINDSAY & CO.,
—DEALERS IN—
HARD AND SOFT
:COAL,:
Erlanger, - - Ky.
Coal Sold on Cars at the Lowest Possible Prices.
J. O. HUEY, MANAGER.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
— DRUGGIST, —
Rising Sun, - Indiana.
Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the Corner Drug Store.

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF BOONE COUNTY,
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.
E. H. BLANKENBECKER, - President, Florence, Ky.
D. E. LAWELL, - Vice-President.
OSCAR GAINES, Secretary, Burlington.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
EXECUTIVE BOARD—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
J. E. SMITH, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky.
W. M. ROGERS, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

FOR SALE--This Fall.
STRAWBERRY PLANTS.
Bubach No. 5. P. Greenville P.
Parker Earl, Haverlan,
And other Varieties.
LIGHT BRAHMA FOWLS.
Blackberry & Raspberry Sprouts.
For further information write to
WM. C. ROUSE, Limaburg, Ky.

D. E. CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone Kenton, Grant and Gallatin. Collections pushed energetically.

G. G. HUGHES,
ATTORNEY AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to me.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
BURLINGTON, KY,
Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given to Collections entrusted to him. mch22-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by mail promptly attended to.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL
LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Prompt Attention Given to Collections

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections. Office—In residence near post-office.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,
DENTIST.
Will be in Lawrenceburg, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.
At Aurora, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Practiced for 30 years.
No Poisonous Gasses Used.

S. W. ADAMS,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
ERLANGER, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the courts of Boone and Kenton counties. Collections and general law practice.

W. E. VEST. B. L. RICE.
VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.
Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged, Money to Loan on Real Estate, Notes bought, sold & Negotiated.
All communications addressed to W. E. VEST, Burlington, Ky.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1886.)
CAPITAL, ... $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 19,000
Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates.

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK.
(INCORPORATED 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - - KENTUCKY
CAPITAL PAID IN $50,000
SURPLUS, ... $ 3,000
Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

Dr. J. L. Adams,
DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.
All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession.
Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

W. N. HIND & CO.,
—DEALERS IN—
Furniture, Carpets, Stoves,
And all Kinds of
Household Goods,
213 W. Fifth St. 4 Doors W. of Elm, Cincinnati, O.
Telephone No. 1284.

JOHN L. VEST,
SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of work south of Burlington, Ky. Prompt attention given to all mail orders.

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : KENTUCKY.

DECEMBER—1897.

Sun.	Mon.	Tue.	Wed.	Thur.	Fri.	Sat.
....	....	....	1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	9	10	11
12	13	14	15	16	17	18
19	20	21	22	23	24	25
26	27	28	29	30	31	....

CURRENT TOPICS.

AMERICA employs 1,221,000 freight cars.

KANSAS CITY'S fire engine-houses are numbered from 1 to 18, but there is no No. 13.

THE New England Gas and Coke Co. has contracted to buy from 800,000 to 1,500,000 tons yearly of Nova Scotia coal for 20 years.

NEW JERSEY has her bachelor Maids' club, New York, possibly in a spirit of retaliation, proposes to have her Jilted Lovers' club.

In the year 1700 there was only one newspaper in the United States. Now there are more than in England, France and Germany put together.

THE growth of the human head continues until the age of 20 is reached, though it is practically completed at the end of the seventh year.

THE summer coat of the Polar fox is dark, almost black. In winter it is so white that the animal can hardly be seen as it runs over the snow.

U. S. MINISTER ANGELL has renewed his demand for indemnity from the Turkish government for the pillage of American missions in Armenia.

SEPTIMUS WINNER, the composer of the popular song, "Listen to the Mocking Bird," written in 1855, celebrated his golden wedding the 25th of November.

A TEXAN aged 82 years is cutting teeth, after having been toothless for 80 years. Octogenarian dentition is becoming quite a fad in Grand Old Texas.

A COMMISSIONER of the Spanish government reports that there are 40,000 concentrados in the province of Pinar del Rio, 15,000 of whom are orphans. All are in want.

GOV. FERRALL, in his message to the Virginia general assembly, recommended legislation imposing penalties upon counties and officials for permitting mob violence.

MISS MINNIE POWER, of Lockport, N. Y., is eight feet in height lacking one inch. She is the tallest woman in the United States. She is handsome in spite of her abnormal proportions.

AS THE supply of ivory is becoming short, billiard balls of cast steel are being used in Sweden. By making them hollow the weight is made to correspond with that of ivory balls.

THE Athens Archæological society is about to undertake the restoration and strengthening of the Parthenon. Marble from Pentelicos will be furnished free for this by the company working the quarries.

IN the state of Nuevo Leon, Mex., the government has ordered that the pupils in all the official schools shall be taught to write and perform all manual tasks as well with the left hand as with the right.

SEARCHLIGHTS are now used to illuminate the grounds of the Jersey State prison to prevent the escape of prisoners. It is reported to have been effective in preventing the escape of prisoners in several instances.

ALTHOUGH the brain is perpetually active, the whole of it is never active at one time. The two hemispheres or halves do not operate simultaneously, but alternate in action—now it is the one half, then the other.

A MARRIAGE with several unusual features recently occurred at Paducah, Ky. the groom was a Presbyterian, the bride an Episcopalian and the marriage occurred in a Methodist church, a Baptist minister officiating.

CHIEF ARTHUR and other representatives of unions of railroad employes are in Washington. They want congress to appoint a national labor commission, and will insist that a compulsory arbitration law be passed.

GIRLS and women employed in Japan cotton factories earn on an average five cents per day. The mills are operated day and night and on Sundays, except on two Sundays per month, when the machinery must be cleaned.

HORSE racing without jockeys is indulged in at Rome during the summer. The horses are started by a gun, which is discharged behind them. They carry little spiked balls on cords which swing around their bodies, and these act as spurs.

ON a stone of the temple of "Wingless Victory" on the Acropolis at Athens an inscription has been found stating that the monument was built by Kallicrates, who was one of the architects of the Parthenon at the beginning of Periele's government. This fixes its date at about 450 years before Christ.

PROF. GEORGE LINCOLN GODDALE, of Harvard university, says that there are now about 200,000 species of plants, divided into flowering and flowerless plants, and although nearly all of the flowering varieties might be used for food, only about 1,000 are so used and only 300 are frequently.

AN eminent physician states that typhoid fever can be washed out of the system by water. He gives his patients what would amount to eight or ten ounces an hour of sterilized water In cases of cholera, where the system secretes a large amount of fluid, enormous quantities of hot water are of great benefit.

TORU HOSHI,

The Japanese Minister, Gives an Inkling of the Course Japan Will Pursue Should Hawaii Be Annexed to the United States.

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 9.—Toru Hoshi, Japanese minister to the United States, passed through Omaha Wednesday evening en route to Washington, accompanied by his private secretary. In an interview Mr. Hoshi admitted that the object of his mission to Japan was to ascertain the views of his government on the proposed annexation of Hawaii and to procure instructions from the mikado relative to the course he was expected to pursue in case the treaty shall be ratified by congress.

"The impression has gone out to the American press," said Mr. Hoshi, "that we propose to recall the protest entered by Japan against the acquisition of the Sandwich islands by the United States government. This is misleading and untrue. Japan has always maintained amicable relations with the United States and it is not our purpose now to take any steps that would lead to a breach of mutual good will, but at the same time Japan will stand firmly in the maintenance of its rights and privileges acquired under treaty with the Hawaiian government. If the United States decided to annex Hawaii we hope to be able to enforce our demands for indemnity for the violation of treaty rights in the expulsion of Japanese immigrants from the island and their exclusion from the rights acquired under our treaty."

Concerning President McKinley's message particularly as referring to relation of Japan with the United States, in connection with the proposed annexation of Hawaii, Mr Hoshi declined to express any views beyond reiterating what he stated at the outset, that there would be no disposition on the part of Japan to resist the acquisition of Hawaii by the United States but that he hoped to be able through diplomatic negotiations to bring about a peaceful solution of the matters involved.

ALL DEMANDS

Of Germany Promptly Conceded By the Haytian Government—The $30,000 to Be Paid to Herr Lueders Placed on Board the Charlotte.

BERLIN, Dec. 9.—The official account of the collection of an indemnity from Hayti, accompanied by a salute of the German flag at Port Au Prince, on Monday last, owing to the alleged illegal arrest of Herr Emil Lueders, says that after the ultimatum of Germany had been delivered to the Haytian government the German cruiser cleared for action and took up a position close to the Haytian war vessels.

A diplomatic request for delay in the execution of the ultimatum was refused and, half an hour before the expiration of the stipulated time, all the demands of Germany were conceded and the sum insisted upon as an indemnity ($30,000, to be paid to Herr Lueders), was on board the Charlotte before 4 p. m.

The Haytian government's letter of apology to Germany arrived shortly afterwards.

PORT AU PRINCE, Hayti, Dec. 9.—M. Frederique, managing editor of the Journal Imparcial, and alleged author of the virulent articles attacking the Germans, who is accused of desiring to excite the populace of this place against the government, was arrested Wednesday and taken on board a Haytian cruiser. At the moment of his embarkation there was much excitement, but order was soon restored. The government has at his disposition a sufficient number of troops and is taking all the necessary measures to maintain order.

Mother McKinley Growing Weaker.

CANTON, O., Dec. 9.—At two o'clock Wednesday afternoon the information was given at the McKinley residence that the mother of the president is still growing weaker. She continues in the same quiet rest which has prevailed all day and the slight change is only apparent to those who have been constantly at the bedside.

CANTON, O., Dec. 9.—At 2:20 Thursday morning Mother McKinley was growing weaker. She is unconscious. The president was still at the bedside and refused to be relieved.

Fatal Fire in Owosso, Mich.

OWOSSO, Mich., Dec. 9.—Fire which broke out in the Owosso Casket works about five o'clock Wednesday morning, destroyed one life and $30,000 worth of property. Frank Wilcox, night watchman, aged 27, and the support of an aged mother living in Detroit, was suffocated to death while trying to quell the fire with a hand extinguisher. The fire is supposed to have been the result of spontaneous combustion. The property destroyed was insured for $16,000.

To Reorganize the Company.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 9.—Articles of incorporation were filed Wednesday for the Detroit & Cleveland Navigation Co. with a capital stock of $1,050,000 divided into 20,000 shares. This is simply a reorganization of the Detroit & Cleveland Steam Navigation Co., whose corporate existence terminated Wednesday by statutory limitation.

Fatally Shot by Robbers.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 9.—Mrs. Emma Schumacher, keeper of a grocery at Eighteenth and Campbell streets, was fatally shot Wednesday night by robbers, who demanded the cash in her money drawer. In attempting to defend her property, Mrs. Schumacher drew a revolver and was shot down by the robbers.

Executive Committee of the G. A. R. to Meet.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 9.—Commander-in-Chief Gobin, of the Grand Army of the Republic, has called a meeting of the executive committee of the national council to be held in Cincinnati on December 15, to fix the date of the next national encampment.

French Cruisers to Be Sent to China.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—According to a special dispatch received from Paris the French cruisers Jean Bart, Isly, Alger and Pascal have been ordered to be prepared for immediate dispatch to China.

A HUGE PROTEST

Against the Annexation of the Hawaiian Islands to United States.

age's Plan of Naming New Revenue Cutters—Census Official—Construction and Enlargement of Dry Docks—Report on Condition of the Mississippi.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—In the house Thursday Mr. Fleming, of Georgia, introduced a bill authorizing an investigation of the books, accounts and methods of railroads which have received aid from the United States. It provides that in the president's judgment the secretary of the treasury shall redeem or otherwise clear off the paramount lien, mortgage or other incumbrance of government aided railroads by paying the sums lawfully due out of the treasury, or may bid and purchase for the United States the property subject to such incumbrance at any sale or sales made under any order of the court or any judgment or decree of foreclosure of such incumbrance or any lien or mortgages or interest of the United States.

Secretary Gage has adopted a plan for naming new vessels of the revenue cutter service. The old system of naming vessels was to call them after secretaries, sometimes senators or members of the house, and sometimes clerks. Hereafter, however, these vessels will receive the names of tribes of Indians. The cutter launched Cleveland Wednesday has been named the Algonquin, and another will be called the Onondaga. It is not unlikely that the names of the old cutters Smith and Sperry will be changed in conformity with the new plan.

The senate committee on commerce Thursday authorized Senator Carter to report favorably the bill introduced at the last session of congress to provide for the twelfth census and for subsequent censuses, with an amendment taking the chief clerk, the disbursing clerk and the chief statistician out of the classified service as provided in the original bill. The bill provides for the immediate appointment of a director of census of a salary of $6,000; an assistant director, a chief clerk and five chief statisticians.

The senate committee on commerce Thursday heard an informal report from Senator Nelson, chairman of the subcommittee to examine and report upon the condition of the Mississippi river. The sub-committee will make a partial report and will be authorized to continue and complete the investigation.

Representative Lounderlager, of New Jersey, introduced a bill Thursday for constructing dry docks and enlarging those already built in a number of cities. The bill appropriates $5,000,000 each for the construction of dry docks at Portsmouth, N. H., not to cost over $1,100,000; Boston, Mass., not to cost over $1,350,000; Algiers, La., not to cost over $1,150,000. The other appropriations made in the bill are: Are to enlarge and improve dry docks at Brooklyn, N. Y., $286,556; League Island, Pa., $286,556; Norfolk, Va., $160,000, and to construct wharf at Port Royal, S. C., $75,000.

Senator Hoar Thursday presented a monster protest in the senate from native Hawaiians against the annexation of the Hawaiian islands to the United States. The protest filled several hundred pages of foolscap paper and was forwarded by Enoch Johnson and Lilia K. Aholo, secretaries respectively of the Hawaiian Patriotic league and the Hawaiian Woman's Patriotic league, who made certificates that the signatures were all genuine. Of the 21,269 signers 10,300 were women and 160 were foreigners. The petition was printed in both the English and Hawaiian languages and was very brief, merely "protesting against annexation to the United States in any shape or form."

The presentation of the petition was witnessed by the native Hawaiians comprising the delegation now here to oppose annexation who made their first visit to the capitol Thursday.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Although no formal action has been taken, a pretty general understanding has been reached by the leaders in the house of representatives as to the course of legislation in the near future. This contemplates the disposal of appropriation bills as fast as they are ready for consideration. After these the bankruptcy bill will be given the first opportunity for a hearing. This measure will be reported by Chairman Henderson, of the judiciary committee, before the holiday recess, but it will not be taken up by the house until after the recess. It is understood that Speaker Reed and the committee on rules will be disposed to give this bill every advantage in the way of securing early time for debate.

It is equally well understood that for the present there will be no effort to take up financial legislation on the floor of the house. This is due mainly to the fact that a strong impression prevails among members of the house that the committee on banking and currency will not be able to reconcile the many conflicting interests inside of the committee.

Aside from bankruptcy and appropriation bills, some emergency measures, such as that relating to Behring sea, introduced by Mr. Hitt, will have a hearing, as they involve questions of general policy and are not likely to meet with opposition. With these exceptions, the disposition of the house leaders will be to keep radical legislation in the rear.

A Fight for a Nine Hour Day.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—At the annual convention of the International Typographical union a year ago it was decided to make a fight for a work day of nine hours in all book and job printing shops as soon as possible. This fight will be started in this city on January 2, 1898, and will involve 5,000 men, as the employing printers have resolved to oppose the demand. It was announced Wednesday night that other cities, including Brooklyn, would also take up the fight for nine hours, and before the new year was a month old it was probable that 50,000 men would be on a strike for a shorter day.

PUT TO DEATH.

Messengers With Autonomous Offers Killed by Insurgents—A Like Fate Awaits All Who Come on a Like Errand.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—A dispatch to the World from Havana says: An important battle is expected hourly. The insurgents have planned the most formidable demonstration against Havana for a year. Gen. Parrado has started from this city with strong columns of troops to meet the Cubans.

Senor Canalejas, the confidential agent of the Spanish government, went with him to ascertain the real condition of Havana province. Gen. Maisia Rodriguez, with the combined Cuban forces under Juan Delgado, Nodarez and Rafael de Cardenas, is encamped on La Luisa plantation, near Guira de Melina, about 20 miles south of here on the railway to Pinar del Rio. He has fully 1,000 men, who are well armed and are said to have a Hotchkiss rapid fire cannon. The topography of the country about Guira de Melina is favorable to the Spanish troops.

Emilio Collazo hanged Antonio Rodriguez Rivera and the Negro Osman. They went to Collazo with money and a proposition to lay down his arms, accepting autonomy. A note was pinned on the breasts of the hanged men announcing that anyone coming on a similar mission would meet a like fate.

It is reported authoritatively that on Sunday the Spanish guerillas of Calmanera, near Guantanamo, deserted to the insurgent leader, Rodriguez, with $14,000, 52,000 cartridges and their arms. They were supposed to have numbered about fifty men.

Juan Delgado's party lately attacked Santiago de Las Vegas, near Havana. The place had three companies of guerrilas and an infantry column. There was a hot fight for three hours. The insurgents did not enter the town. The Spanish losses were heavy, those of the rebels are not known.

The latest reports of the recent fight in Pinar del Rio province show that the Spanish loss was greater than was claimed. The dead or wounded include one colonel, one major, seven captains, eleven subordinate officers and seventy-four privates. Most of the wounded will die. The rebel loss was fourteen. The rebels really used explosive bullets.

GIGANTIC ROBBERIES.

Nearly $100,000 Taken From Registered Letters in the Railway Mail Service on the New York, Somerville & Easton Railway.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—It was learned Friday that one of the biggest robberies in the history of the New York post office occurred on November 9. The amount involved is said to be in the neighborhood of $100,000 and was taken from registered letters in the railway mail service on that section of the Central railway of New Jersey known as the New York, Somerville & Easton branch. On November 9 it is stated that two bags containing $50,000 were taken. How long the defalcation has gone on before that date has not yet been ascertained. Maj. Charles F. Lewis, of the Philadelphia branch of the government secret service, was in this city Friday investigating the robbery which has been kept secret until now by the postal authorities.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The postal officials here Friday night admitted that there had been a number of losses of registered mail matter reported on the railroad referred to, but said that up to date no definite advices had been received as to the amount. It would probably however, not reach as much as $100,000.

A PROTEST

Telegraphed to the Secretary of War Against the Abandonment of Fort Whipple.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 11.—Gov. McCord has telegraphed the secretary of war protesting against the abandonment of Fort Whipple, suggested in the last report to the war department.

"Whipple is now the only military post in Northern Arizona and is essential," the governor declared, "to the protection of half of the territory's expanse, a district constantly exposed to deeds of outlawry and embracing reservations of thousands of Indians, against whose occasional turbulence nothing but military force is ever effective. Even now there is a serious and perhaps dangerous irritation among the Navajoes with or without cause. The national guard is of slight strength in Northern Arizona and the abolishment of the fort would be an error and a costly one to the government, and I urge that the suggestion be withdrawn.

Steel Wire and Nail Pool.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Representative of the steel wire and nail manufacturing firms of the United States, who for months have been negotiating to form a steel wire and nail pool, are nearing a conclusion of their work. It is said that about twenty of the largest steel wire and nail manufacturers will enter the pool and that the capital involved will exceed $60,000,000. The legal formalities for forming the pool, will probably not be completed until after the holidays.

The Deal Consummated.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 11.—The deal by which Pitcher McJames, Second Baseman Demontreville and First Baseman McGann, of the Washington baseball team, become Orioles in exchange for First Baseman Doyle, Second Baseman Reitz and Pitcher Amole, was consummated Friday afternoon in this city.

The Cabinet Reconstructed.

ROME, Dec. 11.—The Marquis de Rudini has completed the task of reconstructing the cabinet. Marquis Venosta has accepted the foreign office portfolio. The list of members of the new ministry will be officially issued Saturday.

Prominent Lawyer Assassinated.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 11.—Joe Reid, a prominent lawyer of Tangipahoa, and widely known as a figure in the feuds in the Florida parishes was assassinated Thursday night. He was shot in the back on the stairway of the courthouse at Franklinton.

THE PROGRAMME

Of Business in Both Houses of Congress During the Present Week.

War Against Civil Service Will Be Made in the House—Immigration Bill Will Be Considered in the Senate and May Be Passed After a Brief Debate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—If the present programme is carried out congress will adjourn for the holiday recess next Saturday. The week in the house promises to be made memorable by the formal inauguration of the war against the civil service law. The legislative, executive and judicial and appropriation bill, which will be taken up on Tuesday, contains the regular appropriations for the civil service commission, and whether or not [illegible] the members who favor the repeal or modification of the law, unite to strike down the provision for its maintenance as the quickest and most direct method of crippling its operation. Undoubtedly some will advocate this course and the whole civil service question will be dragged into the arena of debate. How long the debate will last it is impossible to predict, but as this is the only item in the bill which will attract much of a contest, Chairman Cannon hopes and believes the bill can be passed before Saturday. This latter day, under an order made on Thursday has been set aside for paying tribute to the memory of the late representative Cooke, of Illinois. Monday Chairman Hitt, of the foreign affairs committee, will again seek to secure the passage of the bill to prohibit pelagic sealing by citizens of the United States. There is some very strong opposition to the passage of this measure in its present form and the whole question of the Behring sea negotiations may be precipitated when it is called up. Mr. Hopkins, of Illinois, and other members favor a limitation on the period of the operation of the act, if it is to be passed, so that in case Great Britain refuses to restrict similarly her citizens, our citizens may not be placed at a disadvantage. Others like Mr. Johnson, of North Dakota, think the extinguishment of the seal herds in the near future, is certain, and are not disposed to favor any legislation looking to their preservation.

The work of the senate so far as it has been mapped out for the week includes the consideration of the immigration bill, which stands on the calendar as the unfinished business, the probable debate of the census bill, and the pronouncing of eulogies upon the late Representative Holman, of Indiana. The general opinion among friends of the measure is that there will be no very strenuous opposition to the immigration bill and that it may be passed after a brief debate. When a similar bill was before the senate last session it had its principal opponent in Senator Gibson, of Maryland, and as he has retired from the senate the friends of the bill are hopeful that no one will be found who will feel called upon to champion the opposition. They remember however, when it was necessary in order to have the bill become a law to pass it over the president's veto, the two-thirds vote requisite for that purpose could not be secured. Hence, while they are hopeful of the speedy and favorable consideration of the bill, they realize the possibility of delay on account of opposing speeches. There appears to be no reason to doubt that when the vote shall be reached the bill will pass.

By special arrangements between Senators Carter and Lodge, in charge respectively of the two bills, the immigration bill will be temporarily displaced on Tuesday in order to give Mr. Carter an opportunity to call up the bill providing for the next census. When this agreement was made on last Thursday Senator Carter expressed the opinion that very brief debate would be necessary to get the bill through, but there are now some indications that the civil service question will be raised in this connection, and if it should, a prolonged debate may be inaugurated.

The friends of annexation on the committee on foreign relations are now expecting to ask the senate to take up the treaty during the week, though quite well aware of the impossibility of securing final action before the holidays. They are decided also upon taking the treaty up as such instead of attempting to secure legislation on a joint resolution. They may postpone their request for consideration until January.

The senate leaders express themselves as agreeable to the house programme for adjournment for the holidays on Saturday. The senate eulogies on the late Representative Holman will delivered on Friday.

American Federation of Labor.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 13.—Nearly all the delegates to the convention of the American Federation of Labor have arrived. The attendance is not expected to be exceedingly large, but there will be a full representation. The examination of credentials of delegates was very nearly completed Sunday, and the report will be ready when the convention meets. All the members of the executive council have arrived. The federation will meet in the hall of the house of representatives Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

To Assist English Strikers.

BOSTON, Dec. 13.—It was decided at a meeting of the Boston branch of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers to make an appeal to every trade union in Massachusetts to assist the engineers, machinists, smiths and pattern makers of Great Britain in their great fight for the eight-hour day.

Gen. Blanco Tenders His Condolence.

HAVANA, Dec. 13.—Gen. Blanco has cabled to Senor De Lome, Spanish minister at Washington, a request that he tender Blanco's condolences to President McKinley on the death of Mrs. McKinley, the president's mother.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. Cheney & Co., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

The Spoils.

Citizen—To tell the honest truth, do you think you are earning your salary?

Office Holder—Mac, I earned it four times over in the campaign.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

How to Wash with Ease.

Washing cannot be well done with a scant supply of hard water and inferior soap. To skillfully perform this necessary work, assort the clothes, put the linens first in a tub nearly full of hot water, soap with Ivory soap. When clean scald, rinse, starch and hang on the line. When dry, sprinkle, fold and lay in a basket over night. Iron carefully with well-heated irons. ELIZA R. PARKER.

There is no happiness in having and getting, but only in giving; half the world is on the wrong scent in the pursuit of happiness.—Henry Drummond.

The Last Man on Earth

To recklessly experiment upon himself with hope of relief is the dyspeptic. Yet the nostrums for this malady are as the sands of the sea, and, presumably, as ineffacious. Indigestion, that obstinate malady, even if of long perpetuity, is eventually overcome with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, an appetizing tonic and alterative, which cures constipation, fever and ague, bilious remittent, rheumatism, kidney complaint and feebleness.

She—"Oh, Charles, papa has lost all he had on the board of trade. We are ruined!" He—" Not ruined, dear. I have just been elected to the city council."—Brooklyn Life.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomachs receive it without distress. 1-4 the price of coffee. 15c and 25 cts. per package. Sold by all grocers.

A man's only chance to get a head in this world is to be born with one.—Chicago News.

It is never too cold to cure Neuralgia With St. Jacobs Oil. Sure cure.

It never does any good to look bored. Use a club.—Atchison Globe.

Hot and itchy—as a frost-bite. Cooled and Soothed—as a cure by St. Jacobs Oil.

Never take a girl's judgment of beauty. —Atchison Globe.

Rheumatism

Hood's Sarsaparilla Gives Complete Relief, Also Cures Catarrh.

"I was troubled with rheumatism and had running sores on my face. One of my friends advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I did. After taking six bottles I was cured. Hood's Sarsaparilla has also cured me of catarrh." MISS MAMIE ETHIER, 4408 Moffitt Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

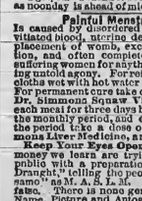
Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—the One True Blood Purifier.

Hood's Pills cure constipation. 25 cents

TEXAS HEROES SPEAK PLAINLY.

J. C. A. Bell.



San Antonio, Tex., writes: In 1862 I had Chronic Dysentery and Periodical Constipation. Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine cured me then, and I have raised my Daughter, Miss Julia Bell whose picture I send, on it. Some Dealers try to sell me "Something Better" on me, but I always return it.

Profuse Menstruation.

Flooding is always an annoying and sometimes a very dangerous disease. When the menstrual discharge is natural, it is so gradual that by mixing with the vaginal secretions it is prevented from coagulating, while in this disease, clots are often formed. Where there is a tendency to this disease, laxative doses of Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine should be taken, and to give tone and strength to the pelvic organs Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine should be used continuously for weeks, to effect a permanent cure.

Garland Wilson.

Dublin, Tex., writes: Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine has saved many lives in this malarial country. It prevents Bilious Malarial Intermittent Fever and Constipation. I thoroughly cleanses my system without any pain, while the "Zeilin's Regulator" and "Black Draught" and "Simmons Liver Regulator" on me, but I always return it.

I used caused great uneasiness in bowels and griped. I think it as far ahead of them as noonday is ahead of midnight.

Painful Menstruation

Is caused by disordered nervous system, vitiated blood, uterine derangements, displacement of womb, excessive menstruation, and often completely incapacitates suffering women for anything except suffering until surgery. For relief of pain apply cloths wet with hot water to back and hips. For permanent cure take one tablespoonful Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine before each meal for three days before and during the monthly period, and each night during the period take a dose of Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine, and cure is certain.

Keep Your Eyes Open. Some men for money we learn are trying to deceive the public with a preparation called "Black Draught," telling the people it is "just the same" as M. A. S. L. M. The statement is false. There is none genuine without the Name, Picture and Autograph of Dr. M. A. Simmons.

What organ shall I buy?

Why not buy the one which holds the world's record for largest sales—the

ESTEY

Write for Illustrated Catalogue with prices, to Estey Organ Company, Brattleboro, Vt.

"ONLY PERFECT VAPOR BATH." Operated solely on earth. HYGIENIC BATH CABINET CO., Nashville, Tenn.

SAMSON'S WICKED WAYS.

Rev. Dr. Talmage Preaches a Sermon on Sanctified Muscle.

Temptations of the World Pointed Out—How a Wicked Woman Sheared the Locks of Samson, the Strong Man, and Brought an End to His Greatness.

Taking the exciting story of Samson's fall as a suggestion, Dr. Talmage, in his discourse, shows how giants in body and mind or soul ought to be consecrated to good and great purposes. His text is Judges xiv., 1: "And Samson went down to Timnath."

There are two sides to the character of Samson. The one phase of his life, if followed into the particulars, would administer to the grotesque and mirthful; but there is a phase of his character fraught with lessons of solemn and eternal import. To these graver lessons we devote our sermon. This giant no doubt in early life gave evidences of what he was to be. It is almost always so. There were two Napoleons—the boy Napoleon and the man Napoleon—but both alike; two Howards—the boy Howard and the man Howard—but both alike; two Samsons—the boy Samson and the man Samson—but both alike. This giant was no doubt the hero of the playground, and nothing could stand before this exhibition of youthful prowess. At 18 years of age he was betrothed to the daughter of a Philistine. Going down toward Timnath a lion came upon him, and, although this young giant was weaponless, he seized the monster by the long mane and shook him as a hungry hound shakes a March hare, and made his bones crack, and left him by the wayside bleeding under the smiting of his fist and the grinding heif of his heel.

There he stands, looming up above other men, a mountain of flesh. his arms bunched with muscle that can lift the gate of a city, taking an attitude defiant of everything. His hair had never been cut, and it rolled down in seven great plaits over his shoulders, adding to his bulk, fierceness and terror. The Philistines went to conquer him, and therefore they must find out where the secret of his strength lies.

There is a dissolute woman living in the valley of Sorek by the name of Delilah. They appointed her the agent in the case. The Philistines are secreted in the same building and then Delilah goes to work and coaxes Samson to tell what is the secret of his strength. "Well," he says, "if you should take seven green withes, such as they fasten wild beasts with, and put them around me I should be perfectly powerless." So she binds him with the seven green withes. Then she claps her hands and says: "They come—the Philistines!" and he walks out as though they were no impediment. She coaxes him again, and says: "Now tell me the secret of this great strength?" And he replies: "If you should take some ropes that have never been used and tie me with them I should be just like other men." Shen ties him with the ropes, claps her hands and shouts: "They come—the Philistines!" He walks out as easily as he did before, dragging a part of the loom with him.

But after awhile she persades him to tell the truth. He says: "If you should take a razor or shears and cut off this long hair I should be powerless and in the hands of my enemies." Samson sleeps, and that she may not wake him up during the process of shearing, help is called in. You know that the barbers of the east have such a skillful way of manipulating the head to this day that, instead of waking a sleeping man, they will put a man wide awake sound asleep. I hear the blades of the shears grinding against each other, and I see the long locks falling off. The shears or razor accomplishes what green withes and new ropes and house loom could not do. Suddenly she clasps her hands and says: "The Philistines be upon thee. Samson!" He rouses up with a struggle, but his strength is all gone. He is in the hands of his enemies.

I hear the groan of the giant as they take his eyes out, and then I see him staggering on in his blindness, feeling his way as he goes on toward Gaza. The prison door is open and the giant is thrust in. He sits down and puts his hand on the millcrank, which, with exhausting horizontal motion, goes day after day, week after week, month after month—work, work, work! The consternation of the world in captivity, his locks shorn, his eyes punctured, grinding corn in Gaza!

First of all, behold in this giant of the text that physical power is not always an index of moral power. He was a huge man—the lion found it out and the 3,000 men whom he slew found it out; yet he was the subject of petty revenges and outgianted by low passion. I am far from throwing any discredit upon physieal stamina. There are those who seem to have great admiration for delicacy and sickliness of constitution. I never could see any glory in weak nerves or sick headache. Whatever effort in our day is made to make the men and women more robust should have the favor of every good citizen as well as every Christian. Gymnastics may be positively religious.

Good people sometimes ascribe to a wicked heart what they ought to ascribe to a slow liver. The body and the soul are such near neighbors that they often catch each other's diseases. Those who never saw a sick day, and who, like Hercules, show the giant in the cradle, have more to answer for than those who are the subjects of lifelong infirmities. He who can lift twice as much as you can, and walk twice as far, and work twice as long, will have a double account to meet in the judgment.

How often is it that you do not find physical energy indicative of spiritual power! If a clear head is worth more than one dizzy with perpetual vertigo—if muscles with the play of health in them are worth more than those drawn up in chronic "rheumatics"—if an eye, quick to catch passing objects, is better than one with vision dim and uncertain—then God will require of us efficiency just in proportion to what he has given us. Physical energy ought to be a type of moral power. We ought to have as good digestion of truth as we have capacity to assimilate food. Our spiritual hearing ought to be as good as our physical hearing. Our spiritual taste ought to be as clear as our tongue. Samsons in body, we ought to be giants in moral power.

But while you find a great many men who realize that they ought to use their money aright, and use their intelligence aright, how few men you find aware of the fact that they ought to use their physical organism aright! While every thnmp of the heart there is something saying, "work! work!" and lest we should complain that we have no tools to work with, God gives us our hands and feet, with every knuckle, and with every joint, and with every muscle, saying to us, "lay hold and do something."

But how often it is that men with physical strength do not serve Christ! They are like a ship full-manned and full-rigged, capable of vast tonnage, able to endure all stress of weather, yet swinging idly at the docks, when these men ought to be crossing and recrossing the great ocean of human suffering and sin with God's supplies of mercy. How often it is that physical strength is used in doing positive damage, or in luxurious ease, when, with sleeves rolled up and bronzed bosom, fearless of the shafts of opposition, it ought to be laying hold with all its might, and tugging away to lift up this sunken wreck of a world.

It is a most shameless fact that much of the business of the church and of the world must be done by those comparatively invalid. Richard Baxter, by reason of his diseases, all his days sitting in the door of the tomb, yet writing more than a hundred volumes, and sending out an influence for God that will endure as long as the "Saints' Everlasting Rest." Edward Paxton, never knowing a well day, yet how he preached and how he wrote, helping thousands of dying souls like himself to "swim in a sea of glory." And Robert M'Cheyne a walking skeleton, yet you know what he did in Dundee, and how he shook Scotland with power for God. Philip Doddridge, advised by his friends, because of his illness, not to enter the ministry, yet you know what he did for the "rise and progress of religion" in the church and in the world.

Wilberforce was told by his doctors that he could not live a fortnight, yet at that very time entering upon philanthropic enterprises that demanded the greatest endurance and persistence. Robert Hall, suffering excruciations, so that often in his pulpit, while preaching, he would stop and lie down on a sofa, then getting up again to preach about Heaven until the glories of the celestial city dropped on the multitude, doing more work, perhaps, than almost any well man in his day.

Behold also, in the story of my text, illustration of the damage that strength can do if it be misguided. It seems to me that this man spent a great deal of his time in doing evil—this Samson of my text. To pay a bet which he had lost by guessing of his riddle he robs and kills 50 people. He was not only gigantic in strength, but gigantic in mischief, and a type of those men in all ages of the world who, powerful in body or mind, or any faculty of social position or wealth, have used their strength for iniquitous purposes.

It is not the small, weak men of the day who do the damage. These small men who go swearing and loafing about your stores and shops and banking houses, assailing Christ and the Bible and the church—they do not do the damage. They have no influence. They are vermin that you crush with your foot. But it is the giant of the day, the misguided giant, giant in physical power, or giants in mental acumen, or giants in social positions, or giants in wealth, who do the damage. The men with sharp pens that stab religion and throw their poison all through our literature, the men who use the power of wealth to sanction iniquity, and bribe justice, and make truth and honor bow to their golden scepter. Misguided giants—look out for them! In the middle and latter part of the last century no doubt there were thousands of men in Paris and Edinburgh and London who hated God and blasphemed the name of the Almighty; but they did but little mischief—they were small men, insignificant men. Yet there were giants in those days.

Who can calculate the soul-havoc of a Rousseau, going on with a very enthusiasm of iniqnity, with fiery imagination seizing upon all the impulsive natures of his day? Or David Hume, who employed his life as a spider employs its summer, in spinning out silken webs to trap the unwary? Or Voltaire, the most learned man of his day, marshaling a great host of sceptics and leading them out in the dark land of infidelity? Or Gibbon, who showed an uncontrollnble grudge against religion in his history of one of the most fascinating periods of the world's existence—"The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire"—a book in which, with all the splendors of his genius, he magnified the errors of Christian disciples, while, with a sparseness of notice that never can be forgiven, he treated of the Christian heroes of whom the world was not worthy?

Oh, men of stout physical health, men of grent mental stature, men of high social position, men of great power of any sort, I want you to understand your power, and I want you to know that that power devoted to God will be a crown on earth, to you typical of a crown in Heaven; but misguided, bedraggled in sin, administrative of evil, God will thunder against you with His condemnation in the day when millionaire and pauper, master and slave, king and subject, shall stand side by side in the judgment; and money bags, and judicial ermine, and royal robe shall be riven with the lightnings.

Behold, also, how a giant may be slain! Delilah started the train of circumstances that pulled down the temple of Dagon about Samson's ears. And tens of thousands of giants have gone down to death and hell through the same impure fascinations. It seems to me that it is high time that pulpit and platform and printing press speak out against the impurities of modern society. Fastidionsness and prudery say: "Better not speak—you will rouse up adverse criticism; you will make worse what you want to make better; better deal in glittering generalities; the subject is too delicate for polite ears." But there comes a voice from Heaven overpowering the mincing sentimentalities of the day, saying: "Cry aloud, spare not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet, and show my people their transgressions and the house of Jacob their sins."

The trouble is that when people write or speak upon this theme they are apt to cover it up with the graces of belles-letters, so that the crime is made attractive instead of repulsive, Lord Byron in "Don Jnan" adorns this crime until it smiles like a May queen. Michelet, the great French writer, covers it up with bewiching rhetoric until it glows like the rising sun, when it ought to be made loathsome as a small-pox hospital. There are to-day influences abroad which, if unresisted by the pulpit and the printing press, will turn our modern cities into Sodom and Gomorrah, fit only for the storm of fire and brimstone that whelmed the cities of the plain.

You are seated in your Christian homes, compassed by moral and religions restraints, do not realize the gulf of iniquity that bounds you on the north and the south and the east and the west. While I speak there are tens of thousands of men and women going over the awful plunge of an impure life; and while I cry to God for mercy upon their souls, I call upon you to marshal in the defense of your homes, your church and your nation. There is a banqueting hall that you have never heard described. You know all about the feast of Ahasuerus where a thonsand lords sat. You know all about Belshazzar's carousal, where the blood of the murdered king spurted into the faces of the banqueters. You may know of the scene of riot and wassail when there was set before Esopns one dish of food that cost $400,000. But I speak now of a different banqueting hall. Its roof is fretted with fire. Its floor is lassellated with fire. Its chalices are chased with fire. Its song is a song of a fire. Its walls are battlements of fire. Solomon refers to it when he says: "Her guests are in the depths of hell."

Behold also in this giant of the text and in the giant of our own century that great physical power must crumble and expire. The Samson of the text long ago went away. He fought the lion. He fought the Philistines. He could fight anything, but death was too much for him. He may have required a longer grave and a broader grave, but the tomb nevertheless was his terminus.

If, then, we are to be compelled to go out of this world where are we to go? This body and soul must soon part. What shall be the destiny of the former I know—dnst to dust. But what shall be the destiny of tho latter? Shall it rise into the companionship of the white-robed, whose sins Christ has s.ain or it will go down among the nnbelieving, who tried to gain the world and save their souls but were swindled out of both? Blessed be God, we have a champion! He is so styled in the Bible. A champion who has conquered death and hell, and is ready to fight all our battles from the first to the last. "Who is this that cometh from Edom with dyed garments from Bozrah, mighty to save?" If we follow in the wake of that Champion death has no power and the grave no victory. The worst mau trusting in Him shall have his dying pangs alleviated and his future illumined.

In the light of this subject I want to enll your attention to a fact which may not have been rightly considered by five men in all the world, and that is the fact that we must be brought into judgment for the employment of our physieal organism. Shoulder, brain, hand, foot—we must answer in judgment for the use we have made of them. Have they been used for the elevation of society or for its depression? In proportion as our arm is strong and our step elastic will our account at last be intensified. Thousands of sermons are preached to invalids. I preach this morning to stout men and healthful women. We must give to God an account for the right use of this physical organism.

These invalids have comparatively little to account for perhaps. They could not lift 20 pound. They could not walk half a mile without sitting down to rest. In preparation of this subject I have said to myself, how shall I account to God in judgment for the use of a body which never knew one moment of real sickness? Rising up in judgment, standing beside men and women who had only little physical energy, and yet consumed that energy in a conflagration of religious enthusiasm, how will we feel abashed!

Oh, men of the strong arm and the stout heart, what use are you making of your physical forces? Will you be able to stand the test of that day when we must answer for the use of every talent, whether it were a physical energy, or a mental acumen, or a spiritual power?

It is rumored that the headquarters of the K. of L. will be removed from Washington, D. C., to New York.

THE INTERMENT

Of Mrs. Nancy A. McKinley's Remains Will Take Place Tuesday.

The Aged Mother of the President Passed Away at an Early Hour Sunday Morning, Surrounded by Relatives and Friends—The End Peaceful.

CANTON, O., Dec. 13.—Mrs. Nancy Allison McKinley, the aged mother of the president, died shortly after 2 o'clock Sunday morning. Almost two weeks had elapsed since the stroke of paralysis, which was at once pronounced fatal, and the wonderful vitality which had kept death at bay so long had deluded the friends and relatives into the belief that the aged woman might, perhaps, recover, despite the verdict of her physician.

The demise of Mrs. McKinley was painless. All night long the members of the family were watching and waiting for the time of dissolution.

Aronnd the deathbed when the final scene was enacted were President McKinley, his wife, Mr. Abner McKinley, Mrs. Duncan and Miss Helen McKinley, children of the aged woman. The aged sister was there, Mrs. Abigail Osborne, the only one of the Allison family now living. Mrs. Bowman, of Lorain; Misses Grace and Mabel McKinley, James McKinley, Miss Duncan and Jack Duncan, grandchildren, were all in the sad party that witnessed the last scene in the gentle life. The president and his wife remained at the bedside for an hour after the end, but by four o'clock every member of the family had retired.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Nancy Allison McKinley will be held in the First M. E. church of this city at 1 o'clock Tnesday afternoon. Interment will follow in West Lawn cemetery, just west of the city; and Tuesday evening President McKinley and wife and official from Washington who attend the funeral will leave for the capitol reaching there about noon Wednesday.

These are the arrangements so far as completed since the death of Mother McKinley shortly after 2 o'clock Snnday morning.

It was at first thought by the family that the service should be of a more private nature, held at the homestead. It was soon learned however through the pastor of Mrs. McKinley's church and members of the congregation, as well as from other friends, that the nnmber of friends who desired to pay their last tribute of respect to the beloved woman by attending the obsequies could not be accommodated with such arrangements and church services were decided upon. The services will be short and simple, consisting of words of comfort and enlogy by the officiating clergymen and the singing of several favorite hymns by the choir. Rev. Dr. Manchester, the pastor of the church, has announced that it is his desire and that he will extend an invitation to have the ministers of all the churches of Canton present and assist in the ceremonies.

Pallbearers have been selected from among the older members of the church and those who for years have been close neighbors of the deceased. They are: Judge William R. Day, Hon. William A. Lynch, former Mayor R. A. Cassidy, L. L. Miller, W. W. Clark, Judge F. J. McCarty, David Zollars, former Mayor John F. Blake.

At daylight Sunday morning, at the suggestion of some of the older members of the congregation that an old time custom now almost obsolete be observed to publicly announce the death, the bell in the tower of the church slowly tolled off the years of her age.

It is a coincidence that Mrs. McKinley died at almost the identical hour of the day as did hor husband on Thanksgiving, five years ago.

THE BIKE RACE.

It is Now Admitted That the Track Was About 200 Feet Short.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—The managers of the six-day bike contest that was finished Saturday night in Madison Square garden now admit what has been alleged since the second day of the race, that the track was short. Sunday surveyors went over the course and, although it was officially announced that the riders had not traveled a full mile for every nine laps, just how short each "mile" was has not been given out.

When Miller finished winner of the race—3,093½ miles had been chalked up to his credit. From what can be learned it is believed that the track was something like 200 feet short to the mile, and therefore the actual distance traveled was about 2,014 miles. Miller was 67 miles ahead of Rice, the second man, and thus the latter will have to his credit something like 1,940 miles. Schinker, by the new figures, will have beaten Hale's old record of 1,910 by about 15 miles, instead of by 90—as the nominal figures recorded Saturday night indicated, while Hale himself is much below his mark. It is stated by the managers that the actual figures will not be given out until affidavits has been submitted by the surveyors who went over the course Snnday, and until other formal steps have been taken to insnre the correctness of the records made by the men. Probably all this will have been accomplished by Monday when the prizes will be distributed.

French Expedition Massacred.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 13.—The Mouvement Geographique, which, on Tnesday last, announced that a French expedition under Maj. Marchand while on its way up the Nile had been massacred near Lahreighlazel, says Saturday that only two officers of the expedition escnped, one of whom is Maj. Marchand.

Germany Will Not Evacuate Kiao Chou Bay.

BERLIN, Dec. 13.—It was semi-officially announced Saturday that the report that Germany would evacuate Kiiao Chou bay for a coaling station in the Sam-Sah inlet was unfounded.

A FIEND CAUGHT.

Charley Lewis, One of the Murderers of the Smith Family, in His Trial Before a Justice Implicates Two Other Negroes.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 11.—A special to the Picayune from Wesson, Miss., says: "Your correspondent has just interviewed one of the most prominent men in this section, who left the scene of the massacre of the Brown Smith family Friday morning. The accused Negro, Charley Lewis, is being tried before Justice T. D. Holmes; he has given testimony implicating two other Negroes, Will Powell and Andy Smith, who are now in custody. My informant was positive that the Negroes would not be lynched Friday night, but the recent lynching at Monroe will be imitated, making it public, and every Negro will be made to carry pine knots to burn the other. The trial is being conducted in a lawful manner, and the committee have charge of the prisoners, and will not permit them to be sent to any jail. During the trial Lewis broke down and confessed, saying:

"Its mighty hard for me to suffer for what somebody else has done."

Upon being allowed to talk further, he said:

"Get Will Powell and Andrew Smith."

Lewis is a mulatto, about 23 years old and married. It is believed that a general clean-up will be made in that section of the country, and that a number of Negroes will be lynched.

WESSON, Miss., Dec. 11.—Full particulars of the most fiendish crime ever recorded have just come to hand. Almost the entire family of Brown Smith, a respectable white farmer, about 33 years of age, were brutally killed with a club in the hands of Charles Lewis, a black fiend, more devil than human.

Smith was working at a gin a few miles from his home, which is situated about two and a half miles from Pearl river, on the east bank, in Lawrence county, and in a wild country.

The house is off the main road and no white family lives within two miles of it, although several Negro families live near. It was one of those Negroes who on Wednesday, some time between noon and darkness, crept up to Smith's house and most brutally assanlted Mrs. Smith, then brained her with a club, and then to forever hide his crime he began on the six children, only sparing a babe which he left untouched.

The fiend's work was not done as well as he thought, for one of the children, a little girl of five years of age, regained consciousness, and when her father entered after his day's work at the end of the day she told him the name of the brute. The four murdered children were found dying in the yard, showing how they had struggled to escape the brute.

The father and husband immediately sounded the alarm and a posse was organized and late Friday afternoon the Negro was captnred, carried to Monticello, the county seat of Lawrence county and at 7 o'clock was carried back to the scene of his crime, where he was fully identified by the little girl.

CHARLES FLEISCHMANN,

Millionaire, Banker, Manufacturer and Public-Spirited Citizen Dead.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 11.—Hon. Charles Fleischman, the multi-millionaire, died from an attack of asthma at his home in Avondale at 4:30 o'clock Friday morning. He was suddenly stricken Thursday morning and physicians were immediately summoned to his bedside and examination showed that asthma had again set in an attack upon Mr. Fleischman and owing to his enfeebled condition the disease had gained a firm hold.

The family was at once notified and throughont the day and Thursday night was constantly at his bedside with the physicians.

Several times during the day it was thonght the end was near, but under the skillful treatment of the doctors he rallied, but late Thursday night but little hope was entertained for his recovery.

Several weeks ago Mr. Fleischman suffered a paraly tic stroke while aboard his yacht, the Hiawatha, but recovered. Since Mr. Fleischman returned to Cincinnati two weeks ago he has not been himself owing to the change in the temperature, which made his breathing extremely difficult.

No More Pugilistic Exhibitions in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 11.—The health and police committee of the board of supervisors put the quietus upon the prize fighting industry in this city for some time to come Friday by refusing any more permits for pugilistic or "physical culture" exhibitions to the big club. This disposes of the Griffo-Lavigne, Hawkins-Connelly and the Smith-Kelly matches.

Ex-President Kerr Sells Out.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 11.—Ex-President William Kerr, of the Pittsburgh baseball club, has sold his entire interest in the club to P. L. Auten, of Chicago. This deal makes Mr. Auten the owner of all the stock with the exception of ten or fifteen shares held by the ex-pitcher, John Tenner. President-Manager Watkins will have entire control of the team.

Hair Filled the Coffin.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Dec. 11.—Mrs. James Bratney was buried here 37 years ago. She had short hair when she died, but when the grave was opened Friday her hair was over six feet long and completely filled the coffin.

The North Atlantic Squadron.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—The North Atlantic squadron, according to information given out at the navy yard Friday, will be on its way south by the 15th of the month. Repairs on the warships have been hastened as rapidly as possible and the work will be completed by Monday.

Double Murderer Hanged.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11.—Harry Alexander, of San Jose, was hanged at san Quentin penitentiary at 10:31 o'clock Friday morning for the murder of Mrs. Waldbergen Fichter and Vinaro Cucetti, August 9, 1896.

FIFTY-FIFTH CONGRESS.

First Regular Session.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—The regular session of the Fifty-fifth congress began at noon Monday when Vice President Hobart in the senate and Speaker Reed in the house called these respective bodies to order. As congress had already organized last March, the opening session was rather tame in comparison with the usual first day. Precisely at 12 o'clock the gavel of Vice President Hobart fell and the senate was called to order. The invocation was delivered by Rev. W. H. Milburn, the blind chaplain. He made a beautiful and touching reference to our "beloved president," who awaited news from the bedside of the mother to whom he is devoted, and prayed that she might have a peaceful passage to the celestial shore. Seventy-seven senators responded to their names on the roll call. The president's message was read in both houses, after which an adjournment was had until Tuesday.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—SENATE—During the session Tuesday 108 bills, many of which were private pension measures, were introduced in addition to several joint resolutions and some senate resolutions. An interesting contest for precedence arose between Mr. Gallinger and Mr. Lodge's immigration bill and the proposed legislation to confer authority upon the president to act for the protection of the government's interest at the sale of the Kansas Pacific railroad was pending at the close of the session. The probability is that it will be amicably arranged before the senate convenes Wednesday. Mr. H. De S. Money, of Mississippi, was introduced, and after some brief criticism of the form of his credentials, the oath of office was administered to him.

HOUSE—The session of the house Tuesday, though it lasted but two hours, witnessed a lively skirmish over the question of distributing the president's message to the various committees, coupled with the distribution of the subjects dealt with. The conflict of authority came between the ways and means committee and the banking and currency committee. The battle ended all along the line, favoring the debate Gen. Grosvenor, of Ohio, fired the first gun against the civil service law, and this also brought the friends and enemies of that measure into action. Mr. Johnson, of Indiana, in a ringing warning declared that if a bill to emasculate the civil service law were passed it would meet the presidential veto. Eventually Mr. Dingley, in deference to the opposition of the members of the banking and currency committee, agreed to a modification of the order distribution, so as to send to the ways and means committee all matters relating to the "revenues, the bonded debt of the country and the treaties affecting the revenues." The resolution was then adopted.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Wednesday's session of the senate occupied less than an hour, the time principally being consumed by members in presentation of memorials, resolutions and bills. A resolution presented by Mr. Allen (pop. Neb.) declaring it to be the sense of the senate that the United States should recognize the political independence of Cuba, was made the subject of some remarks by the Nebraska senator, in course of which he criticised the president for not carrying into effect the pledge of the republican party made in its national platform to recognize the independence of the Cuban republic. At the conclusion of Mr. Allen's remarks, the senate by resolution of Mr. Hoar (Mass.) adjourned as a mark of respect to the memory of the late Ashley B. Wright, one of the members of the house of representatives from Massachusetts.

HOUSE—The session of the house Wednesday lasted only 15 minutes. Mr. W. A. Stone (rep., Pa.) reported the pension appropriation bill, the first of the appropriation bills, and gave notice that he would call it up immediately after the reading of the journal Thursday. The committee on election and the committee on banking and currency were given leave to sit during the session of the house. Then at 12:15 the house adjourned.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—SENATE—The senate did a considerable amount of business, although no very important measures were considered or passed, and there was very little debate. Senator Gallinger, chairman of the committee on pensions, called attention to the increasing demand for private pension legislation and requested senators to be careful in the future to see that their bills for private pensions were meritorious before they were introduced. An attempt was made by Senator McBride to secure an appropriation for the relief of the Klondike miners, but the net result was a resolution calling on the secretary of war for all information he has on the subject. An hour was devoted to the consideration of the Indian pension bills, and 45 were passed. The resolution of the Pacific railroad committee asking information regarding the sale of the Kansas Pacific was passed, which gave Senator Cockrell, Mo., and Senator Thurston, of Nebraska, an opportunity to make short speeches congratulating the country upon the settlement of the Pacific railroad question. Senate to work on pensions next week, Senator Carter securing the right of way Monday and Tuesday for his census bill and Senator Lodge the immigration bill made the unfinished business during these two weeks. At 2:40 p. m. the senate adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE—The house Thursday entered upon the consideration of the pension appropriation bill and stirred up debate that promises to continue for several days. Several of the southern democrats offered criticisms of various classes of pensioners, and Private John Allen, of Mississippi, who led the assault in a speech replete with his characteristic humor, presented a series of amendments designed, as he said, to correct some of the most glaring evils. They prohibit the granting of pensions to widows whose applications were not filed during their widowhood and the granting of pensions to widows whose applications were based on marriages contracted after the passage of this act, and to permanently insane or idiotic minors who had reached their majority. Bills introduced: For the relief of persons who served 90 days or more in the various construction corps in the army; to establish a national military park at the scene of Dade's massacre in the Seminole war, with 100 acres of land; to establish the department of commerce and industries; appropriating $100,000 for the holding of a congress of the Indian tribes of the United States in Omaha, Neb.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—SENATE—Not in session.

HOUSE—The house Friday passed the pension appropriation bill amendments and adjourned until Monday. The amendments offered by the democrats to correct alleged existing abuses were all ruled out on the points of order that they were not germane. As reported, the bill carried $141,283,880. The debate Friday covered a wide range. It touched not only the question of our pension policy, but that of civil service reform and the receipts and expenditures of the treasury under the Dingley law. On the latter question Mr. Dingley made an important statement, in which he expressed the opinion the receipts would equal the expenditures before the close of the present fiscal year, and predicted a surplus of $10,000,000 next year. The civil service law was savagely attacked by several members, notably by Mr. Brown (rep., O.) and Mr. Linney (rep., N. C.) and was warmly defended by Mr. Johnson (rep., Ind.). Just before the close of the session Mr. Hitt, chairman of the foreign affairs committee, attempted to secure unanimous consent for the passage of the bill to prohibit polygamists from the American citizens but objections was made to it. It will, under agreement, however, be considered Monday.

Record-Breaking Fast Time.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Dec. 11.—A record-breaking fast run was made by the Union Pacific eastbound fast mail train between Cheyenne and North Platte. The train, which was run as the second section of eastbound No. 2, made the run between Tipton and Wamsutter Station, on the Wyoming division, at the rate of 78 miles an hour. From Cheyenne to Sidney, a distance of 102 miles, the running time was 97 minutes. From Sidney to North Platte, 114 miles, the time was 117 minutes, being the fastest time in the history of the road.

BOONE CO., RECORDER.

Wednesday, December 15, 1897.

Advertising Rates:
One inch, one time.....$1.00
Each additional time.....25
Obituaries, Tributes of Respects or notices of a like nature, per inch .50

W. L. RIDDELL, - - Publisher.

Neighborhood News.

Gasburg.

Mrs. John Klopp is seriously ill of liver trouble.

John Deck has been considerably indisposed for some time with stomach trouble.

Ben R. and Edward Gaines have hauled a great deal of corn from this place lately. 25 cents a bushel at the crib is the prevailing price.

Several crops of tobacco have been sold in this vicinity in the last few days, at about 10 cents for three grades and 3 cents for trash.

Taylorsport.

Born to John Barber and wife, a girl. To Charles Beacon and wife, a boy.

Capt. Goodwin sold his ferry boat to Capt. Gardner, of Bromley.

Capt. Pickiehelmer towed the whale boat up from Home City to Constance, last Tuesday.

Mrs. Lizzie Souther was out in the yard attending chores, and when she was returning to the house the heel of her shoe hung on a rock, throwing her and bruising the side of her face and almost breaking her arm.

Richwood.

Ed Stephens is building a barn.

John Delahunty is on the sick list.

Some of the farmers are through husking and cribbing corn.

A number of young men from Bellevue are camping here and hunting.

Mrs Fannie Snow moved to Williamstown, last week, where she recently purchased a house and lot.

Chas. Whitson was here one day last week, and said he was sorry the roads were getting muddy, as it will interfere with his trips this winter.

Limaburg.

A great deal of corn is in the field yet. Most of the hogs around here have been butchered.

A. F. Crigler passed his 70th birthday on the 7th inst.

Mrs. Ezra Rouse has nine fine ewes and a Shropshire buck for sale.

Irvan Baker cut the end of one of his fingers badly in a sausage mill.

Wheat is growing nicely, and the grass looks like spring of the year

Dr. Ben Dulaney, James M. Utz, Joe Brown and Charles Garnett dropped in at W. C. Rouse's Sunday.

W. C. Rouse has four ducks and he says he gets five eggs a day. It looks like prosperity has struck Lum.

Erlanger.

Eastern Star Lodge will meet this Saturday evening; and all the members are requested to be on hand.

Nine candidates will travel over the hot sands to become Princes of Calips. Bro. Hy Myers is the Sultan of the Order.

The K. P. Lodge is going to give a Santa Claus entertainment for the benefit of their wives and children at their large hall on Christmas eve.

The Masonic Order will not have a meeting on December 25th, but will hold their regular meeting on December 27th, when the election of officers will take place.

James McWilliams was arrested for shooting with intent to kill John Michaels about 5 o'clock p. m. Sunday. In default of $500 bail Marshal Wyss took him to Covington jail. Michaels was wounded in the arm.

Verona.

John Sleet is on the sick list.

Turkeys are in demand here for the holidays.

George Johnson, assisted by A. C. Roberts, is the hustling coal dealer here.

There will be a Christmas tree given at the public school building Christmas eve.

Mrs. Russell Hume has been quite poorly for some time. She is at her fathers Mr. L. J. Hume.

Our farmers are preparing their tobacco for market, with the anticipation of its bringing them good prices.

We had the pleasure of seeing our next Judge, C. C. Roberts, in our town, one day last week. Mr. Roberts is turning out whiskers.

A debate will be given by the young gentlemen of the League Institute, on the evening of Dec. 23d, at the Verona Hall. Affirmed "The Mental Capacities of Woman are Inferior to those of Man." The recent quotation contest by the League pupils was quite enjoyable. The reward being given to Miss Myrtle Wade, of Kenton county.

Hathaway.

Miss Pearl White is very sick with quinsy.

Miss Carrie Woods is quite poorly at this writing.

T. L. Utz and family were visiting his father, A. J. Utz, last week.

Mrs. Anna Crisler, of Gunpowder, was visiting relatives here, last week.

Rev. Burgess preached a fine sermon at Big Bone church, last Friday night.

Mrs. T. J. Stephens and Mrs. F. J. Rue spent last Friday with Mrs. B. F. Rue.

They have an interesting prayer meeting at Big Bone every Wednesday night. The young men seem to take a great interest in it.

Misses Connie Stephens and Essie Boaggess and Mr. Colen Kelly, Bert Clore and Lafe Presser spent Saturday night and Sunday with Grace Neal.

Frank Rue sold his tobacco to Long for 7c, last week; Ben Rue sold for 10c and 6c; James Sebree got 10c and 6c; Robt. Woods got 8c; Cage Stephens sold for 8c to Kennedy.

Florence

We are promised another wedding in February.

Mrs. Lewis Yeager is here from Glencoe, for a short time.

Irvin Kyle's hand has improved so that he is able to return to work.

Mrs. Ephraim Helm and Mrs. Albert Fisk were the guests of Mrs. Noah Clore Saturday.

Miss Bess Crigler is expected home from Louisville immediately after Christmas.

Mr. Dick Kidwell, of Southern Kentucky, will be the guest of Miss Alice Cloud, this week.

Mr. George Crouch and wife, we are sorry to say, have left us to make their home at Warsaw.

Miss Jennie Myers and Chas. Souther were the guests of H. C. Fisk and wife, last Wednesday.

Sunday, January 23, will be the first of a series of meetings at the Baptist church, conducted by Rev. Green.

Mrs. Media Tanner and her father, Joel Tanner, of Gunpowder, were the guests of Mrs. Henry Tanner, last week.

Mr. Dixey Goodridge, of LaGrange, Oldham county, who was visiting his uncle Will Goodridge, last week, has returned home.

Died at 12 o'clock Sunday night, December 12th, Linville Souther, aged 83 years. The family have the sympathy of the neighborhood in this their loss of a good and kind husband and father. Services at the residence Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock.

Union.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Rachal are visiting in Mason county.

Mr. Jas. Dorman and sister, of Owen county, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kennedy.

Here's a problem some kind reader will please solve. "If J. M. Wilson killed one hog that made 11 barrels of lard and 100 pounds of sausage, how much did the hog weigh on foot?" and how broad between the eyes would he have to be if uncle Will Wilson could hit it with a rifle 10 paces?

When the Union cor., said Mr. Henry Quick had raised such fine apples many people doubted the statement, and one most excellent man went so far as to say that it was a fabrication, all wool and a yard wide. Now, since Mr. Quick has engaged an agent to sell the trees it is an admission on his part that he has them, and this vindicates the cor. For two reasons I think the tree business will be a dismal failure: 1st, is Fall could not sell a yellow dog for 10c if he had a tail 4 feet long made out of solid gold; 2d place, the idea of having two trees to hold up one apple would strike any farmer as a bad scheme, because if he expected to raise 1000 bushels of apples, it would take a piece of land as large as the State of Texas to set the trees on.

Mr. Geo. Jack learned that reports were being freely circulated in Union and vicinity that reflected upon him as a teacher and he had the trustees meet for the purpose of finding out the truth. The meeting was held and testimony was taken, going to show that his language was misconstrued. So the trustees exonerated him from all blame. Your correspondent knows nothing personally of the matter, but he does know that when a teacher or anyother man has done what we think is wrong, it is better to go right to his face and ask him if he did it, and why he did it, and what he did it for—in other words come to some understanding on the spot. No man should hesitate to speak out in meeting if he thinks he has been wronged.

Golden Grange held a very interesting meeting Saturday, in addition to which a fine dinner was served. The Grange continues to grow right along and they have a plan in view now, to build a house suitable for grange and school purposes. Heard a prominent educator say Saturday, "That if the Grange succeeded in carrying out a plan that would ultimately establish a school that would offer a finished course of study for the young men and women of Union and vicinity, they would reflect great credit upon themselves and bestow everlasting benefits upon the community at large." The advantages of higher education are apparent to every thinking person these days and it is reasonable to believe that everybody will be in for their plan and hope for its success.

The Richwood correspondent has suggested what may be a first-class thing to do so far as we can judge, viz: to have a circle formed around the Union precinct and come into a given center bringing all the foxes with them, &c., but his suggestion about making Tom Burkett, L. H. Dickerson, Napolean Bristow and other enthusiastic fox hunters the leaders in the scheme, is not so good according to our feeble judgment. First reason is they would not like to see the source of their greatest sport killed off. Second, is they hold it as a cardinal virtue for any man to love a fox chase and also firmly believe that any man who wilfully and maliciously kills a fox with forethought and previous intention should be taken out and tied to a tree and receive one hundred lashes without his overcoat on. Tell you the truth, Bro. Richwood, you might as well think the millionaires and other money sharks of this country would be in favor of doing away with the single gold standard as to think these gentlemen would want to help do up the foxes of the Union precinct. Then another truth is, my chickens and pigs are conspicuous by these abuses and I am very willing to let the above mentioned lovers of fox hunting hunt all they please.

Walton.

Dr. A. N. Jones is again able to be out.

Mrs. Ollie Curley and Miss Gertrude, were in the city Tuesday, buying presents for Christmas.

Miss MamieStephens has returned to her home in Covington, after a week's visit with Miss Madge Holder.

Mrs. Sophia Whitson, of Verona, was the pleasant guest of her daughter, Mrs. Dr. Jones, during the past week.

Mrs. Ella McKee, of Brunswick, Ga., has returned to her home after a pleasant visit with Mrs. Tom Stephens and Mrs. James Crow.

Mrs. J. E. Botts entertained her sister, Miss Alice Wilson, of Banklick, and Miss Morris, of Sulpher, Henry county, one day last week.

Much interest is being manifested by the friends of A. M. Edwards and W. W. Deen in the damage suit to be tried at the Circuit Court, this week.

James Hedges, of Bank Lick, has moved on the farm lately vacated by Wm. Durr. Mr. Durr will move to Hellenwood, Tenn., in a few weeks. His family are now the guests of his mother, near Fiskburg.

The residence of A. S. Arnold was entered by burglars, last Friday night, while the family was away from home. The house was thoroughly ransacked, but nothing was found missing. The panel of the front door had been pushed in and the thieves made their exit through a door in the rear of the house.

The Sheriff of Grant county, and his deputies accompanied by the Marshal of Williamstown, were at this place last Wednesday night, searching for Jno. Wade, who shot Addison Peplar, of Mt. Zion. Mr. Wade has a brother living near here and as his wife was at his brothers for a few days it was supposed that he (John Wade) might be hiding in this community. After searching the residences of Wm. Wade and Mr. Lunsford, his nearest neighbor, they returned home, satisfied that Wade had gone elsewhere.

The following pupils were marked 90 or above in Walton Academy, last month:—Hattie Taylor, Edna Ransler, Eleanora Walsh, Ethel Waltz, Presley Adams, Bert Allphin, Sidney Ambrose, Robt. Byland, Robt. Coffman, Watson Dyas, Ralph Edwards, Fleming Hedges, Cleveland Hedges, Wayne Hind, Marvin Hudson, Leslie Jones, Leon Prior, Chas. Ransler, Garfield Slater, Ray Stanley, Thos. Stephens, Wallace Tanner, Julia Adams, Emma Ambrose, Mabel Bagby, Alice Coffman, Kate Baker, Katie Bentz, Lucy Fields, Bianch Dyas, Gertrude Curley, Lizzie Green, Ethaline Griffith, Bessie Hance, Lena Hedges, Lucille Hind, Lottie Holder, Anna Hudson, Effa Herrell, Lena Elston, Katie Moore, Ninie McKin, Earle Rouse, Mattie Rouse, Lydia Taylor, Wallace Herndon, Chas. Chambers.

Bellevue.

Jas. Rogers is on the sick list.

D. M. Snyder and wife were in the city last Saturday.

R. W. Records has been on the sick list for several days with a severe cold.

Rev. Bruner, of Ludlow, preached here last Wednesday evening to a large congregation.

Mrs. Willey, mother of Mrs. Jas. H. Lawell, has been visiting her daughter for the past week.

Mrs. James Rogers and Miss Mary Huey spent several days, last week, with Erlanger friends

N. B. Walton and wife, and Al Rogers, were the guests of James Rogers and family, Sunday.

D. E. Lawell and T. J. Clore have traded farms, and will exchange places within the next ten days.

J. J. Huey & Co., and Corbin Sons, are butchering a fine lot of pork to supply their next summer's trade.

Uncle Joel Corbin and wife, of Aurora, Ind., were visiting Mrs. Mary Corbin and family, Saturday and Sunday.

Preaching at the Baptist church, last Sunday, by the regular pastor. After services Miss Rebecca West was baptized.

Robert Clore and family, of Clore's Ridge, spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives and friends here. Shorty is well pleased with his new home.

Prof. D. M. Snyder has spent twenty years of his life in teaching and the greater portion of that time he has taught in the Willoughby school house where he is teaching at present, and I think that is evidence of his being a satisfactory instructor.

Bullittsville.

The entertainment given in the Hebron Hall, the 4th inst., under the auspices of Mount Pleasant Grange, was a grand success. A committee of five members of the Grange was appointed several weeks ago to prepare a programme for an entertainment to be given in behalf of the Grange. The committee consisted of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Riley, Mrs. Frank Sayer, Mr. John Stephens and Dr. Hays. The zeal manifested in preparing for the entertainment, and the very commendable manner in which the programme was carried out by each one of the performers, has reflected much credit upon all concerned, and especially upon the Grange, the parent of the enterprise.

The entertainment consisted of a drama and minstrel, interspersed with music both vocal and instrumental.

In the drama, "My Turn Next," the dramatis personal consisted of Mr. E. L. Riley, as Taraxicum Twitters, who acted his part so well that had Mr. Twitters been present, he would have found himself most feelingly personated. Elbert, with a little more polish through the Grange, will find his star in the galaxy of great actors.

Miss Bernice Duncan, as Lydia (Twitter's wife), seemed herself awhile to lay aside and came upon the stage ready to personate a mortal part," and she did so to perfection.

Miss Berth Gaines, as Cicely (Lydia's sister), acted her limited part with ease and grace. She performed a double duty by personating the charming Cicely and acting the beautiful Miss Bertha.

Mrs. E. L. Riley, as Peggy (the servant), was quite a success. Her acting was perfect. The jealousy she manifested towards Lydia was quite natural.

Mr. Courney Walton, as Tim Boles, Garnett Riley, as Tom Trap and Louis Crisler, farmer Wheatear, acted their several part well.

The hit of the evening was a recitation "Marble Dream," by Miss Bessie Cropper. When the curtain was lifted she was standing on a marble pedestal in the rear of the stage, dressed in pure white, with her beautiful arms exposed, representing a Marble Dream or rather a Marble Beauty. Gradually she awakened to life and came to the front of the stage and recited that pathetic little story, a "Marble Dream." Though Miss Bessie has never taken a lesson in elocution, she recites beautifully. Her gestures are appropriate and her style or manner of delivery is effective and impresive

Next upon the programme was the Minstrel. Dr. Hays in evening dress, looked very hadsome and exquisite. He preformed the part of Interlocutor with dignity and grace.

The comedians, E. L. Riley and Louis Crisler, as tambos; Courtney Walton and Garnett Riley, as bones, acted their parts well, and furnished much amusement for the audience. They were blackened anddressed in minstrel garb. Mr. Pericles Grubbs was also blackened and dressed as a comedian. He, E. L. and Garnett Riley, each sang negro songs, which were enthusiastically received by the audience. Master Duncan Riley, in full minstrel dress, sang and acted well.

The music, under the direction of Miss Zada Gaines, our accomplished musician, was grand. Misses Zada Gaines, Beulah Gaines Annabel Riley, Mrs. Frank Sayer and Mrs. E. L. Riley, sang solos that were very beautiful, and artistically rendered.

Having never seen the programme I am unable to recall the names of the different songs that were sung.

The overture was beautiful, with Miss Zada Gaines on mandolin, E. L. Riley on violin, Will Gaines on guitar, Dr. Hays on piccolo, Garnett Riley on cornet and Mrs. E. L. Riley on bassviol

The Hackett Punteuney Co., n. e. cor. 4th and Elm st., through their secretary, Mr. O. W. Williams, kindly furnished, free of charge, a new piano, which was a very sweet toned and hansome instrument.

Utzinger.

Bob and Chas. Moore have bought the C. D. Platt farm near here, paying $1,670 for 93 acres.

The teachers institute should be held at Burlington and I think the school laws should settle that fact.

Persons who have willows have begun cutting them. The price on them has advanced in the last few years.

One of our young bachelor friends at Petersburg, will soon lead to the altar one of Lawrenceburg's handsome and wealthy ladies.

Geo. Bird, the colored applicant for the Petersburg postoffice has pulled stakes since the appointment and gone to Addyston, Ohio.

News has been received of the death of Samuel Tolin at his home in St. Joe Missouri. He went West when that city was on the frontier.

J. I. Wingate is preparing to start a notion and gent's furnishing store at Lawrenceburg. The fixtures have been put in. Now, Ira, place an ad in the RECORDER and your fortune is made.

Some member of the Legislature can immortalize himself by introducing and having passed a bill prohibiting the use of Paris Green on tobacco, and prohibiting turkeys running at large.

The opposition to Col. Berry in this congressional district is looking about for a suitable person to unite on, and from what we can hear, Hon. John S. Gaunt will be the man. Berry has had it long enough.

Lee Straus, the Jew trader, of Cincinnati, who makes his headquarters at Plattsburg, says he sees more people on the garbage dump looking for something to eat than he did before McKinley's election.

The President, in his message, recommended the substitution of the civil service because it was in their platform. Should this continue till 1900 the Republicans would not carry a State in the union.

What is the matter with Hon. L. C. Norman for Gov. He is one of the most popular as well as the most intelligent men in the State. Besides he is a native of Boone and Boone is the banner Democratic county in the State. So let us boom Norman.

FARM FOR SALE.

65 acres of nice land in Boone county, Ky., on the road from Florence to the Ohio river, about 2½ miles southwest of Erlanger, Ky., known as the Harriet Wayland farm. This is a very desirable piece of land, with frame house and barn on it, and nicely located. Terms easy. Possession will be given March 1st, 1898. Address me for particulars at Ghent, Ky.

R. O. WILLIAMS,
dec-15 Administrator.

Farm for Sale!

—(o)—

In Boone county, Ky., on the North Bend Road, 1½ miles from Burlington, 1 mile from Hebron and 5 miles from Anderson's Ferry, and contains seventy-eight acres, good cottage of 5 rooms and good barn, orchard of 200 trees select fruit. The farm is all under good state of cultivation. For terms apply to LASSING & RIDDELL,
Burlington, Ky.

For Sale--Farm.

—or—

123 Acres of Good Land in Boone County, Ky., on the Union & Beaver Turnpike, 2 miles from Union, three miles from Richwood Station. Good house of seven rooms, hall, vestibule, porches, good cellar; large barn, outbuildings, two cisterns, orchard and never failing water.

Henry Tucker,
UNION, Boone Co., KY.

FOURTH YEAR

OF WALTON ACADEMY,

opens

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 6th, 1897
AT WALTON, KY.

Three Courses of Study to choose from:
English, Scientific or Classical,
Tuition per month,...$2·50 and $3.00
Vocal and Instrumental Music at moderate rates.

We have a fine, new building with rooms for pupils, connected.—Board only $2.50 per week, or $2.00 for 5 days.

Thorough, Substantial Work

Guaranteed.

Teachers { MRS. S. H. MYERS. / CHAS. P. PRIOR, / REV. S. H. MYERS.

Further information gladly given by mail or interview.

Administrator's Notice.

All persons indebted to the estate of Evan Acra, deceased, must come forward and settle, and all those having claims against said estate must present them to the undersigned, proven according to law.

ASA CASON, Adm'r.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

GO TO

HANKINS, DAVIS & CO., General Merchants,

HEBRON AND CONSTANCE,

A Good Supply of Feed always in Stock.

GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS.

—)—(—

Undertaking is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.

A good supply of Coal on hand at Constance at all times.

Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance

S. L. EDWARDS. A. M. EDWARDS.

EDWARDS BROTHERS,

DEALERS IN HARDWARE

—AND—

Agricultural Implements,

Furniture,
Stoves,
Tinware,
Saddlery,
Oils and Paints,
Wall Paper.

UNDERTAKING & EMBALMING A SPECIALTY.

We have added a first class Tin Shop and are prepared to do Tin, Iron and Paper Roofing and guarantee all work done by us.

EDWARDS BROS., - - - Walton, Ky.

JOHN ALLISON,

UNDER-TAKER

EMBAL-MER,

—Corner Pike & Russell Streets,

COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.

INDEPENDENT OF UNDERTAKERS' UNION.

THEY : MUST : GO.

Desiring to quit that branch of the business I am Closing

—OUT MY ENTIRE STOCK OF—

MEN'S & BOYS'

Ready-Made CLOTHING

At the greatest bargains ever offered in Covington.

MY TAILORING DEPARTMENT

Will be continued, and I have on hand the Finest Line of Suitings in the three cities. Give me a call.

H. F. BLASE, 540 Madison Avenue, COVINGTON, KY.

jany 1-98

Its Your MONEY

Of course, but what's the use of wasting it by paying double price for your..... CLOTHING?

Our Clothing is well Made, Perfect Fitting and we guarantee our Prices the Lowest. We ask you to kindly call on us and inspect our MENS OVERCOATS at $5, $6.50, $8, $10 and upwards; our $10 Kersey Coat in blue and black, is all wool, Skinner Satin sleeve lining. We guarantee this to be the best garment in the city at this price.

MENS' All-Wool SUITS, $5 and up. } The Finest Line of CHILDREN'S MENS' ODD PANTS, $1.00 up. } SUITS, OVERCOATS and REEFERS in the city—all prices.

ROLFES & WACHS, RELIABLE CLOTHIERS

S. W. Cor. Pike & Madison Ave. Covington, Ky.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

ELECTRIC HEADLIGHTS

are but one of the many modern appliances for the safe, rapid and comfortable transit of the traveler which the limited trains of the QUEEN & CRESCENT ROUTE afford.

Fast vestibuled trains to Lexington, Harriman, Chattanooga, Atlanta, Knoxville, Asheville, Columbia, Savannah, Jacksonville, Meridian, Birmingham, New Orleans, daily from Cincinnati, are provided with safety vestibules, heated by steam, lighted with gas, and have all modern improvements.

Write for information to W. C. Rinearson, General Passenger Agent, Cincinnati, O.

Send 10 cents for fine Art colored Lithograph of Lookout Mountain and Chickamauga.

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

Sallie Powers, &c., Plffs.,
vs.
F. L. Gordon, &c., Defts.

The undersigned hereby gives notice that he will begin his sittings on the 24th day of Nov., 1897, at the Circuit clerk's office in Burlington, Ky., to hear proof in the aboved styled cause and will adjourn from day to day (Sunday excepted) to the 11 day of Dec., 1897. J. B. BERKSHIRE, M. C. B. C. C.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

Local News.

For Holiday Goods be sure to call at B. F. Buchanan's "Corner Dragstore" when in Rising Sun.

Small crowd in town Monday.

This is certainly not healthy weather.

Some plowing for next year's corn crop.

Some predict fine weather for the holidays.

One week from next Saturday is Christmas.

Robert Carver has a good fresh Jersey cow for sale.

There has been some fine weather for stripping tobacco.

Nice weather for the holidays is just what is wanted now.

Some spring weather got mixed in with that of December.

Those who come to court over dirt roads say they are getting very bad.

Six pole cat pelts were stolen from Newton Sullivan's a few nights since.

The supply wagons from Florence struck the town early Monday morning.

Oscar Ryle reports potato digging still in progress in the Hathaway neighborhood.

If you want Christmas goods do not stop until you arrive at Ira Aylor's, Erlanger.

The grand jury is now under way, and is having a good many witnesses before it.

Representative-elect Conner was in town Monday, shaking hands with his constituents.

Some of the citizens of the county will have important business out of the county this week.

For Sale—Side-bar, top buggy—in good condition, will sell cheap.
G. C. Graddy, Bullittsville, Ky.

Chas. Fleischman, the Cincinnati multi-millionaire distiller and turfman is dead, and the city is in mourning.

Two men came out from Newport, Sunday, and took the horse and wagon captured with the thieves Friday night.

Audrew B. Acra, who has been ill of typhoid fever nearly seventeen weeks, is improving as rapidly as could be expected.

One day last week Noah Clore found a cape belonging to a Mackintosh, in the road near Mrs. Kendall's. He left it at this office.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.
Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c

The wave of prosperity has struck the jail, and there are now five confined there, the largest number at any one time for many years.

At the suggestion of a majority of his bondsmen, Sheriff-elect Elmer Beall has selected B. B. Allphin, jr., of Big Bone, as his deputy.

If a few more petty thieves are captured in this part of the county they'll begin to conclude they would better keep away from about here.

WANTED.—An energetic man of good character, who can furnish horse and harness and give bond for his honesty, can obtain profitable employment by addressing P. O. Box 372, Lexington, Kentucky.

Offerings increased on the tobacco market last week—principally the new crop. The price reached as high $17 20—7 hhds Boone County New at $7½, 7 80, 151, 8 35, 9 70, 9 95 and 13½, averaging $8 85.

On the second Saturday in January Goldeu Grauge No. 340, will have a public instalation of officers at the Masonic Hall in Union. An extensive program of exercises has been prepared for the occasion.

From the quantity of work the feather renovators have done since they came here, everybody within a radius of five miles of Burlington have had their feather beds cleaned. They do good quick work.

J. P. Lindsay & Co. have gone into the coal business at Erlanger. J. O. Huey is the manager, and will be glad to have the patronage of this part of the county. They will make prices as close as possible. See advertisement on first page.

Elder Geo. W. Watkins, a Christian minister, has located at Hebron, this county, and will preach at Bullittsville and Pt. Pleasant the second and fourth Sundays in each month. He can be secured by churches in reach for the other half of the time.

Only a few days more in which to kill quails, and it is hoped that no one will refuse to recognize the law and continue to kill those birds after the protected period begins. If none are killed after the first of January, the probabilities are there will be fine shooting again next fall.

Jule Ross, colored, who was indicted at the last term of the circuit court for horseracing on the public highway, was arrested here Sunday, and, in default of bail, was lodged in jail. He lives in the neighborhood of Bracht, Kenton county, and was down here on a visit when apprehended.

The Sunday School of the M. E. Church of Petersburg will give au entainment in Gordon's Opera House on Christmas eve (Friday). They will have a fine program, and with the assistance of Mrs. M. A. Douglas, the noted elocutionist, expect to make it a grand success. Admission:—Adults, 15 cents; Children over 8 years, 10 cts.

About ten o'clock last Friday night, Jeff Eddins heard a wagon stop in the street near his house. As it was raining though not very dark, he concluded someone was stopping to steal the storm apron out of his mail wagon, and got up and slipped to the window, but could see no one although the strange wagon was in plain view. Finally he saw a light in James Hogan's barn down the street and in a few minutes thereafter the wagon was driven rapidly away. Eddins went to Hogans and told them of seeing the light in the barn, when a visit to the barn was made and 2 sets of buggy harness was missed. Sheriff Roberts and Deputy Sheriff Beall were them summoned and accompanied by Jeff Eddins and Edward Hogan they started in pursuit of the thieves and came upon their wagon standing in the pike near Noah Craven's, when they took charge of it and the boy who was driving it, the man being absent on a reconnoitre.

A search was made for the missing man, and about the time they were beginning to think he had discovered them and made his escape, Sheriff Roberts met the fellow in the road, who, playing drunk, came very near throwing the officer off of his guard, but the deputy insisted on taking the man which was done and when they searched him they found a pistol and inch iron rod about 18 inches long, one end of which was made for pulling staples, while the other was chisel shaped.

The entire outfit was brought back to town and delivered to the jailer. In the wagon was some tinware (which was hauled about as a blind) two chicken coops, ten chickens, two sets of harness and a storm apron.

After the arrest the culprits pretended to be strangers, one of them claiming Newport as his home and the other, Lawrenceburg, Ind. They refused to give their names.

Saturday morning Charles Craven found a sack containg ten of his father's chickens, which the larger thief had stolen and carried out to the road to load into the wagon when his pal came up with it.

The ten chickens in the coop were stolen at Owen Tanner's.

The Association met at the school house in Florence on the 4th inst., and was called to order by Supt. Voshell at 10:30 a. m.

After prayer by Rev. H. Max Leutz, and an opening song by the school, Master Atwood Culbertson read a composition entitled, Early Biography of Washington.

Miss Olive N. Orem read a well prepared paper on Language. An able discussion by Rev. H. Max Lentz and Miss Lizzie Roberts, followed.

Miss Ruth Lentz favored the Association with an essay on the History of Thanksgiving.

The Lord's Prayer, by the pupils of the school, was one of the features of the meeting.

The Association adjourned to meet at 1:15 at the Baptist church.

A bountiful dinner prepared by the ladies of Florence was enjoyed by all, after which the Association reassembled as per adjournment.

The Hopeful Quartett favored the Association with some excellent music.

Physiology was introduced by Prof. G. S. Hann, followed by Shelly Tanner, Miss Lizzie Roberts and Rev. Leutz.

How to secure the cooperation of pupils and parents, was introduced by Supt. Voshell and Rev. Lentz.

The School Teacher's Dream, a recitation by Miss Marietta Riley, was received with a storm of applause.

Topic Method of Teaching History was introduced by A. C. Collins, followed by Prof. Haun.

The Village Church Yard, sung by Misses Carrie and Naunie Latham, was well received, and brought forth many compliments.

The Benefits of the Teachers' Association, were discussed in an able manner by Prof. Craven.

Primary Arithmetic was introduced by Miss Grace Russell, followed by Messrs. W. Nelson, Wm. Gaines Supt. Voshell and Miss Orem.

The Hopeful quartett favored the Association with another excellent selection.

A. C. Collins made some remarks in favor of the Boone County Recorder, Boone County Banner and The School Record, as local papers; and the Southern School, published at Lexington, as a superior educational journal.

The vote was taken as to where the next session of the Institute should be held. The vote on this occasion being the last to take, the final result was announced and was as follows: Walton, 20; Florence, 12; Burlington, 10 and Union, 1. No teacher was allowed to vote who did not hold a Boone county certificate.

The committee on resolutions reported the following resolutions, which were adopted:

Resolved—

1. That the Teachers of this Association owe their thanks to the good people of Florence for their kindness and hospitality shown us on this occasion:

2. That we extend our hearty thanks to Miss Lizzie Roberts, Rev. H. Max Lentz, the Hopeful Quartett and the pupils of the Florence school, for the excellent program arranged for our benefit.

3. That we desire to offer to the officers of the Baptist church our thanks for the use of their beautiful church.

4. That we extend our thanks to Superintendent Voshell for his energetic efforts to make our Association a success, and to all others who labored so earnestly to make this meeting so pleasant and enjoyable.

B. W. NELON,
WM. GAINES,
S. J. OREM,
} Committee.

A. C. COLLINS, Secretary.

The Boone House, with the exception of two or three rooms on the lower floor, is ready for the accommodation of the public, and those who had patronized the old house so long are surprised when they see the remarkable transformation there has been inside and out. The rooms are large enough and light, and well furnished, and their occupants will be as comfortable as is possible to make them in a country hotel. Mine host, Crisler, will do his best to make pleasant the sojourn of those who stop with him. The table will be second to none in the country.

The Bullittsville Minstrel and Dramatic troop has the 18th inst. as its date at Gordon's hall, Petersburg, and the people of that town may expect a good show.

W. M. RACHAL & CO.

PRICE POWER PULLS.

For Your Christmas Cakes

We will sell the following:

2½ Pounds of Granulated Sugar.....10 cents
1 Package of Seedless Raisins.....13 cents
1 Package of Cleaned Currants.....13 cents
¼ Pound of Citron.....14 cents

Package.....50 cents

We will put up in packages as above and will sell for 50cts.
We do this to save us and our customers trouble.

UNION, KENTUCKY

PRICE POWER PULLS.

WE HAVE ALWAYS ON HAND FRESH BULK
OYSTERS,
CELERY,
CRANBERRIES, ETC.

The best place to buy yours.

Candies for Christmas.

W. M. RACHAL & CO.,
UNION, KENTUCKY.

Minstrel and Dramatic Entertainment.

Will be given at Gordon's Hall, at Petersburg, Ky., December 18th, 1897. First part:—Drama. "My Turu Next."

Characters:

Tarnalcum Twitters.....Elbert L. Riley.
Tim Bolus.....Courtney Walton.
Tom Trap.....Garnett C. Riley.
Farmer Wheatear.....Louis Crisler.
Lydia (Twitter's wife).....Miss Bernice Duncan
Cicely (her niece)...Miss Bertha Gaines
Peggy (servaut).....Mrs. E. L. Riley.

Second part:—Overture.

Interlocuter.....Dr. H. H. Hays.

Comedians:

Tambos: Bones:
E. L. Riley. Courtney Walton.
Louis Crisler. Garnett Riley, jr.

Vocalists:—Misses Joe Grubbs, Zayda Gaines, Beulah Gaines, Annabel Riley, Grace Grant, Mrs. Frank Sayer, Mrs. E. L. Riley, and Mr. Pericles Grubbs.

Music under the direction of Miss Zayda Gaines. Recitation, "Marble Dream,"—Miss Bessie Crowe.

Admission:—Adults, 20cts; Children under 12 years, 15c. Doors open at 7 p. m. Curtain rises at 7:30 p. m.

Christmas Arch and Entertainment at the Court House, Friday evening, Dec., 24th, 1897, by the Eureka Society. Admission, 20 cents. Doors open at 7 o'clock.

PROGRAMME:

Vocal Solo .....Calvary,
Miss Ella Duncan.
Hoop Drill, by Sixteen Ladies of the Epworth League.
Piano Solo....."The June-Bug Dance."
Quartette....."I was Glad,"
Mrs. Wm. Riddell, Miss Ella Duncan, Messrs. McKim and Berkshire.
Cantata....."Santa Claus' Mistake,"
Twenty Boys and Girls.
Piano Solo....."Tripping through the Woodlands,".....Miss Annie Garrison.
"The Darkey Wood Dealer," (comic)
Charles Finch, Otto Crisler, Herbert McKim.
Flag Drill by Twelve Youug Ladies.

After which Santa Claus will distribute his presents from the Arch, to husbands, wives, sweethearts and children. Everybody come and help give Santa Claus a merry welcome.

It was our pleasure, in company with Judge Stephens, to visit the Odd-Fellows Lodge at McVille, last Thursday evening. We arrived at the hall in advance of any of the members, but found Bro. Hewitt, of Viola Lodge, on hand, anxiously awaiting the assembling of the brethren, who soon began arriving, and when the Noble Grand's gavel fell every member of the lodge was present. Work in the initiatory, first and second degrees was on the program, and shortly after the lodge was opened, Lewis Clore was riding the goat. Nathan Smith and his nephew received the first and second degrees. Aileen Lodge is now only three months old and is a hummer. Each member is enthusiastic, and the floor work is a long ways ahead of many older lodges, and in a short time she will take her place at the head of the list in this county if her present progress is not interrupted.

Mrs. Ethel Acra, widow of Evan Acra, who died of typhoid fever at his home at McVille, on the 28th of November last, died of the same disease at the home of her father, Mr. Asa Casou, three miles out on the East Bend road, last Friday at 10 a. m. Mrs. Acra took the fever, and was moved to her father's before her husband died, of whose death she was never apprised. The only survivor of what, a few months ago, was a happy family, is the little boy, aged about 15 months. The remains were interred in the Pope family burying ground, where 4 newly made graves testify to the sorrow that weighs heavily upon Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Acra, and has extended its pangs to Mr. and Mrs. Asa Casou, both of which families have the sympathy of all who are aware of their great affliction.

The pump on the public cistern having given out, it was suggested to jailer Crisler that he provide a rope and tin bucket with a horse-shop sinker, but he refused, saying Boone county should not be burlesqued in that style under his administration; that the pump went on duty under civil service, and it made it imperative upon him to keep a pump there at least until those who made the law repeal it over the protest of the President, or get out of the way and let the Democrats knock it out. So a new pump it is.

Last Thursday night Charles Robinson, William Graves, —— Masters and—— Heim, of Bullittsville, delivered Will Neal, colored, to the jailer at this place. Neal is under indictment for using his razor on Will Smith, colored, at a negro festival about two years ago. Neal brought he had inflicted fatal wounds on Smith, and he fled. Smith recovered, and Neal returned to the Bullittsville neighborhood, the other day. It is said he had been released from the Ohio penitentiary but recently.

Holiday Rates Queen & Crescent Route—One and one-third fare round trip between all Queen & Crescent stations, Dec. 22, 23, 24, 25, 30, 31, and Jan. 1st. Good to return Jan. 4th. Same rate also for tickets to points on other lines within 200 miles of starting point. Ask agent for particulars.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mrs. A. O. Hall continues very low.

Judge Green is boarding with sheriff Roberts.

Mrs. T. W. Finch is visiting her parents at Williamstown.

Reuben Hager, of East Bend, called in to see the RECORDER Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ossman, of Beaver, are guests of County Clerk Adams and wife.

Miss Annie Ida began instructing her class in voice culture at this place, Monday.

Thos. Adams will occupy Miss Gusta Kirkpatrick's house when he goes into office.

To-morrow Capt. J. M. Riddell and wife, of Williamstown, will celebrate their golden wedding.

A check received from G. W. Brown, of Nashville, Tenn., one day last week, placed him in the RECORDER'S '90 list.

Mrs. McGarvey, of Cincinnati, Mrs. Creager and Mr. and Mrs. Siegel, of Loveland, Ohio, are here attending Mrs. A. O. Hall in her illness.

Messrs. A. B. Rouse and Gordon McKim, were among the large number of the present and former Hanover, Ind., College students who were entertained by Rev. B. W. Tyler, of Charleston, last week. According to the newspaper accounts they were given a royal reception, the keys of the town being turned over to them.

W. T. Davis and wife, of Tennessee, have been the guests of Mrs. Davis' father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Yanoy Clore. This is their first visit since they went to Tennessee about two years ago. Mr. Davis looks well, and has been doing well at his new home. Their many friends here were glad to see them again.

Program of the exercises of Golden Grange, No. 340, to be held at Union, the second Saturday in January, 1898:

Music.
Installation of Officers, (open to the public.
Recitation, "How the Christmas Prayer was Answered," by Miss Eva Smith.
Recitation, "Seeing Things at Night" by Master Frank Smith.
Recitation, "How Christmas came to the Poorhouse," by Miss Lizzie Rouse.
Music.
Recitation, "Grandpa's Courtship," by Harry Wilson.
Recitation, "The Frenchman and the Flea-powder," by Miss Ella Tanner.
Recitation, "Straddlebug," by Sidney Rouse.
Music.
Reading by Miss Alice Weaver.
Question to be discussed by the male members: "What I would do if I was a Woman."
Address by Rev. Sam Adams.
Public Installation, (1 p. m.)

Grass is growing.

Uncle Ben Clore, one of the oldest citizens of the Bullittsville neighborhood, died last Sunday morning.

Mr. Dudley Rouse received a letter from Rising Sun, yesterday at noon, annoucing the death of Mrs. Jas. N. Perkins, at her home in Rising Sun, Monday morning. The funeral will occur some time to-day (Weduesday).

Go to John Schmidt, the Shoemaker, to have your harness repaired. Boots and Shoes made to order. Repairing a specialty. All work guaranteed.

Thirty lashes would have sounded better than thirty days in the Clifford case.

FOR RENT—FOR SALE.

One cottage of three rooms, and a small garden, in Hebron. For sale, 12 barrels pure apple vinegar. Apply to HARRISON CLORE, Hebron, Ky.
Dec. 29.

Notice to Trespassers.

We, the undersigned, hereby give notice that we have posted our farms according to law, against trespass of all kinds, and will enforce the law against those who trespass thereon by hunting or otherwise.

Reuben Hager,	Mary Kirtley.
W. K. Leathers,	P. Hager.
Filmore Ryle,	Ben R. Stephens,
W. B. Ryle,	O. H. Craig.
Charles Craig,	Murry Ryle.

For Sale or Rent.

Good Stock Farm of 170 acres. Money rent in cash, if rented.
Wm. C. HENSLEY.

Notice.

Having attained an age, and condition of health, that I am no longer able to attend to my business, I appoint Geo. W. Roberts to take charge of it, and enforce settlement and reinvest the money to the best advantage.
NAT HIND, Verona, Ky.

Take the Recorder, $1.50 a year.

W. E. CHAMBERLAIN,
DEALER IN UP TO DATE
FURNITURE,
HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS, ETC.,
HIGH STREET,
Lawrenceburg, - Indiana.
—HAUCK BUILDING.—
Stylish and Durable Oak BED ROOM SUITS,
All-Oak SIDE BOARDS, As Handsome as the Finest.
INGRAIN CARPETS.
BRUSSELS CARPETS.
W. E. CHAMBERLAIN,
LAWRENCEBURG, INDIANA.

When in Burlington Call on
J. S. CLUTTERBUCK
DEALER IN
DRY GOODS
Notions, Boots and Shoes,
HAY, CORN AND MILL FEED,
At Prices to Suit the times.
FRESH - MEATS - ALWAYS - ON - HAND.
J. S. CLUTTERBUCK, Burlington, Ky.

Buy COFFEE and TEA of the J. L. BILL COFFEE & TEA CO., a Ticket given with every 25c purchase and handsome presents given away.
The J. L. BILL
Coffee and Tea Co.
THE BEST BRANDS OF FLOUR.
12 W. Seventh & S. E. Cor. Sixth & Bakewell,
COVINGTON, KY.
WM. F. NEAD, Salesman.

FARMERS

Make the most of your crops, buy the best Wind-mill outfit made—The AERMOTOR—abundance of power wasting sight over your heads, grasp the opportunity—Grind and Cut your own Feed and that of your neighbors—feed economically.
THE AERMOTOR
will bear close inspection and is guaranteed to work right. They are Cheap. Come and see it work and be convinced.

Also remember we are still in the ring with a complete line
OF GENERAL MERCHANDISE
and can sell Goods just as cheap as anyone. Highest market Prices paid for COUNTRY PRODUCE or anything salable. Come and see
OUR STOCK,
It Speaks for Itself.

Don't forget that "LaBELLE" HERD
Of Chester White Hogs

Is ready to supply Choice Stock at Reasonable Prices.
T. J. HUGHES, - BEAVER LICK, KY.

TAKE YOUR OWN COUNTY PAPER,

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : KENTUCKY.

REFLECTED GLORY.

[A Fable.]

A marigold grew at the fluted base
Of a lofty statue of chiseled fame,
And crowds were thronging the open space,
All eager to learn the sculptor's name;
And the marigold felt a thrill of pride,
As she heard the words of generous praise:
"How very beautiful!" they cried;
For genius warms like the sun's broad rays.

She reared her head with an arrogant smile,
And gazed at the great admiring crowd,
She thought they were bowing to her the while,
And gratified vanity made her proud;
"Whoever said that the rose was queen,
Had never looked on a marigold—
I'm the loveliest flower ever seen,
My beauty has not yet been told."

And the marble statue, gleaming white,
Lost no whit of its value rare,
More than the stars of purple night
Are paled by the penny candle's glare;
And ere the sun had sunk to rest,
The marigold had drooped and died—
Her golden head upon her breast,
And broken all her idle pride.
—Lilla Shaw Husted, in Overland Monthly.

THE PIRATE AND THE WHALER.

By George E. Walsh.

WHEN Capt. Ned Low, one of the most formidable pirate leaders in colonial days, committed his depredations along the Atlantic coast from Newfoundland to Panama, he took special delight in wreaking vengeance upon the crews and captains of New England vessels.

The reason for this is found in the accounts of his exploits by an old historian. The sturdy colonists would not permit him to perform his outrages without some sort of retaliation. So formidable a foe did they send after the noted pirate chief that more than once he was cornered and nearly captured.

In June, 1723, Capt. Low formed a partnership with a successful pirate of lesser note, known as Charles Harris. The two united forces and directed their energies toward the New England coast. They soon aroused such indignation in the New England coast towns that the warship Greyhound was sent out after the pirate, and, disguised as a merchantman, she soon fell in with the enemy. The war ship was manned with 20 guns and 120 men. When she sighted the pirates her captain pretended to be in great consternation, and the vessel stood away for two hours, with the pirates close at her heels.

When Low and Harris were in gunshot the war ship suddenly turned around and delivered several broadsides into the chasing vessels. During the conflict which followed, Capt. Low escaped on his fleet vessel; but Harris and his crew were captured and hanged near Newport on July 10, 1723.

This incident created a feeling of relief and rejoicing throughout New England, but it was of short duration. Instead of being frightened away by the fate of his partner and his crew, Capt. Low increased his activity, and scoured the seas after New England vessels.

At that time New England was sending out large fleets of whaling boats, and the sturdy, innocent seamen of these were bothered by the pirates probably more than any other class. They carried very little merchandise that was of any value to the pirates, but out of a sense of revenge, Capt. Low took special delight in destroying the whaling vessels and in setting their crews adrift in small boats or killing them.

Matters went on this way for a few months, when the noted pirate chief either became frightened at the number of war ships searching for him, or he felt that he had been sufficiently revenged for the hanging of his partner, for after the winter of 1723 there is no record to show that he ever again visited the American coast. His operations thereafter were confined chiefly to the African coast and among the Canaries and Cape Verde islands.

But one incident of his career among the New England whalers before he left for southern waters will illustrate the pluck and ingenuity of the sturdy seamen of that day.

The Carrie Bald, of Boston, sailed from that city, manned with a crew of 15 sailors, and after ten weeks of successful whaling, she turned her prow toward home, loaded down with blubber and whale oil. Her crew were in the best of spirits, anticipating large profits from their cargo, and a hearty welcome home by their wives, children and sweethearts.

On July 10 she sighted land, which proved to be a rocky headland on the Maine coast. With this guide post telling the captain and crew that they would be in Boston harbor in a few days everybody began to make preparations for landing. Everything about the vessel was put ship-shape, and the old sailors even got their belongings together and packed them in bags and old sailcloth.

But before Mount Desert island was sighted, a sail was seen heading toward the coast, standing up from the sea like a great, white cloud. Capt. Bald, of the Carrie, grew anxious as the sail approached nearer and displayed a flag at the mizzen masthead which he could not make out. One reason for his running so far inshore had been to escape the notice of any pirating craft that might be cruising up and down the coast. Most of the trading vessels stood well out from the shore.

But not long after Capt. Bald felt reasonably sure that the approaching sail meant mischief, and that his whaler was in imminent danger.

"We'll run in a bit," he remarked to his first mate.

Long familiarity with the New England coast now stood him in good service. He ran his craft so close to the shore that it was dangerous for one not familiar with the channels to follow.

"It's no use, captain," the first mate said after a long pause. "If that's Capt. Low he knows every inch of this water. He's better acquainted with this coast than any other whaling captain from Portland to New Bedford."

"Well, if it ain't Ned Low, we'll give him a chase among these rocks that he won't forget very soon," replied gruff Capt. Bald, pulling his long whiskers nervously.

In a short time the black flag of the pirates indicated even to the crew what mission the ship was bent on. There was a short time of general fear when stout hearts quaked and rugged faces turned pale. Every sailor knew the cruelty of the pirate captain and his horde of savages.

Then Capt. Bald called the crew together and addressed them in these words:

"We may as well face this little difficulty bravely, my men, and not mince matters. That's Ned Low's ship, and ye know what he's after; he never shows mercy to anybody, especially to a New Englander, and we'd better die fighting than be strung up to the yardarm or have our lips and noses cut off for a fry. We've got harpoons and axes aboard, and every one of ye knows how to use 'em. So just get 'em and stick together and fight until ye're dead. Just remember that it's better to be killed than to fall in their hands. I'll use my wits to get away from them, but if worst comes to worst, we must fight. That's all."

The stout words of the grim old whaling captain lent new courage to the crew, and they gave a little cheer that meant more than the loud huzzah of a crowd. Every man felt that he was about to face death, and he was determined to do it with a brave front.

Nearer and nearer approached the threatening boat, on whose decks black swarms of armed men could now be seen. A small swivel gun sent a ball ricocheting across the waves toward the whaling schooner, but the latter continued to thread her way carefully among the sunken rocks.

The pirate craft, when she reached the outlying fringe of rocks, hove to and beat up and down like a duck uncertain which way to go.

"It's dangerous water here if you don't know your way," muttered Capt. Bald, "and I guess you don't know it."

He was scanning the ship through his sea glasses.

"Aha! Now Capt. Low takes the wheel. His pilot don't know the way. Now we're in for it!"

There was a change noticeable on board the pirate. Then she directed her course once more toward the rocks and plunged boldly between them, following the narrow, tortuous channel.

Capt. Bald watched her in silence. Then his light blue eyes, shaded by thick, shaggy eyebrows, grew worried and restless. He scanned the sea and the shore, and then he returned his gaze to the pirate.

A DENSE WREATH OF SMOKE COULD BE SEEN CURLING UPWARD.

"We can't lose them here," he said finally to his first mate. "They'll overhaul us before night, and then—"

He shuddered involuntarily.

"We might run her aground and swim for the shore," he ejaculated, finally. "No, we'll run her up the river. This is Machias Point, and we might reach the river ahead of 'em."

This decision was no sooner made than the order was given to change the course of the schooner. In half an hour she rounded the point and stood in toward the mouth of the river. The pirate craft sent several solid shots after the old whaler, but the aim was poor, and no particular damage was done.

It was late in the afternoon when the Carrie sailed up the mouth of the river against a strong tide, with the pirate craft less than a mile astern. The coast at this point was bleak and deserted in those days, and it was almost as certain a death to land and desert the ship as to face the pirates.

"Still, we'll do it," Capt. Bald said. "It's better to fall among the Indians than among these human fiends. I'd rather be eaten by wolves than have my tongue and eyes gouged out."

The pirates were so certain of their prey now that their loud shouts of defiance could be distinctly heard by the whaling crew. Suddenly Capt. Bald started, and, knowing that the best way to keep his men brave was to find employment for them, he gave orders quickly.

"Get the whaleboats ready for action!" he shouted.

There were four of these, two on either side, and each one was manned with a crew of three sailors and an officer. When the men had unlashed them from the davits, the captain shouted:

"Form a water-bucket brigade for a fire in the hold!"

This strange order made some of the men hesitate, but explicit obedience in their captain's words had become a habit with them.

When the men were in line armed with their buckets, Capt. Bald went below, and in a few minutes the men were passing the buckets from one to the other, emptying their contents first into one whaleboat and then into another. But there was no fire to fight, and the men were not handling water. They were dipping the whale oil from the great tanks and hogsheads in the hold and pouring it into the small boats.

"Enough!" shouted the captain a little later. "Every man on deck!"

The novelty of the orders made the men now obey with alacrity, and they had partly forgotten their danger in their exertions. But when they assembled on deck again and saw the pirate only a short distance off their faces paled once more.

But Capt. Bald realized that the moment for action had come, and he gave his orders in quick, sharp commands.

"Lower the boats and tie them together with a rope 20 feet long!"

He fastened one of the lengths of rope to the first boat himself, and threw the other end to the first mate. The pirates saw the launching of the four whaleboats, and prepared to do the same with their boats. But they little realized that the brave seamen were not making ready to escape to the shore, but were planning for their destruction.

"I want four brave men who are willing to risk their lives for the rest of us!" Capt. Bald said, in his usual abrupt way. "Will they please step forward?"

Instead of four men every one of the crew stepped forward.

"That's enough, my brave men," the captain said, while his eyes grew moist. "I'll select my men."

Then taking four of his most trustworthy sailors he gave them brief but emphatic directions what to do. The sailors nodded their heads and jumped into the boats, each carrying a life-preserver with him. The last words the captain said to them were:

"Remember the right bank! Swim toward it, and I'll pick you up."

What could he mean? The sailors on board the Carrie asked this, and the pirates must have been curious also to know. They stopped a moment in their yelling and watched the peculiar proceedings of the men in the whaleboats.

The four boats shot out from the Carrie and were towed directly toward the pirate, the strong current of the river helping them in their speed. The pirates did not notice at first that each boat was fastened by strong ropes to each other's prows. They were too intent in watching the strange proceedings of this attack. It might have dawned upon their obtuse minds that part of the crew of the Carrie had deserted, or that they were coming to plead for mercy.

But the four rowers were silent and active. When they were within 50 yards of the pirate the men threw away their oars simultaneously and bent over something in the middle of their whaleboats. There was a tiny spark of light, a flash and then a sudden upward blaze.

The four brave men slipped over the side of their boats into the water and disappeared. But the flames which they had started burned furiously. The whale oil in the bottom of the boats furnished fuel that made a fire hard to extinguish. The tide was carrying the boats rapidly down the river toward the pirate. Then for the first time the pirates noticed that the boats were tied together, forming a wide line stretching half across the river.

Instantly there was commotion on board the pirate ship. In the confusion everybody forgot the prey they had so neatly hemmed in the river. The guns were aimed at the approaching oil boats of fire, and one was actually blown to pieces, but the oil floated on the water and only spread the flames.

In a few minutes the fire boats struck the pirate ship, and the ropes holding them together drew the end boats around toward the ship in such a way that flames were soon spreading through the rigging and hull. A few brave pirates climbed down and cut the ropes, but before they floated away the ship was a huge mass of flames and smoke.

Meanwhile Capt. Bald had not been idle. Just as soon as his men dropped into the water from the fire boats he crowded on all sail, and, helped by the tide, he went bowling down the river close up toward the right bank.

While the pirates were fighting the fire and trying to avert the doom of their ship Capt. Bald was leisurely picking up the four brave sailors who had caused the mischief.

"Now we'll stand out to sea," he said, "and let 'em chase us again."

But the last he saw of the pirates, as his schooner rounded the point of land at the mouth of the river, was a cheering sight. Most of them were seeking safety in the water. For more than two hours a dense wreath of smoke could be seen curling upward, and as long as it was visible Capt. Bald chuckled softly to himself on the forward deck.

"What wouldn't Capt. Low give to catch me," he said over and over again. "He'd cook me alive and feed me to his men."

But no one was more joyful over the outcome of the encounter with the celebrated pirate chief than the sailors of the Carrie, who ever afterward told with great glee how they helped to burn Ned Low's best ship.—N. Y. Ledger.

Ladies First.

There is a story of a Scottish "original" who, when asked by some young ladies to cross a doubtful piece of ice to test its strength preliminary to their skating upon it, replied: "Na, na; I'm daft I ken mainners—leddies first."—Tit-Bits.

—A wealthy gentleman of London is daily whirled around the streets of the metropolis in a carriage drawn by four zebras.

GREAT DEMAND FOR PENNIES.

Philadelphia Mint Turns Out 4,000,000 a Month.

The most useful and hard-working member of the coin family consists of 95 per cent. of copper and five per cent. tin and zinc, and bears on its face the legend "one cent." It doesn't require a person of advanced age or long memory to recall the time when the humble coin was practically unknown west of the Mississippi. Now its use is wellnigh universal, and the demand for it is increasing so rapidly that the Philadelphia mint is compelled to turn out one-cent pieces at the rate of nearly 4,000,000 per month to keep up the supply.

Two recent devices have been largely responsible for the increased use of our only copper coin. One is the penny-in-the-slot machine, which has spread over the land like the locusts of Egypt within the past two or three years. A single automatic machine company takes in 800,000 pennies a day. As there isn't a cross-roads village in the country that hasn't a chewing gum, kinetoscope, music or weighing machine operated in this way the number of coins required to keep them all going is enormous. The other invention responsible for the rise of the cent is the "bargain counter." The craze for 49-cent and 99-cent bargains makes work for a lot of pennies.

A subtreasury official says: "Why, in the middle of July there was a week or more of cold, rainy weather, and the supply of pennies coming in for exchange into larger denominations fell off one-third. All through the summer the pennies accumulate on our hands, but when cold weather comes and the children get back to school and retail trade revives there is a great demand for them. At present the minor coin division has tens of thousands of dollars' worth of pennies on hand, but they are beginning to go out, and soon we shall probably be compelled to call on the mint for a fresh supply. The holidays demand a lot of pennies, and with the approach of Christmas our cent pile melts away amazingly.

"There is no better indication of lively trade conditions than the cent. During periods of dullness they always accumulate on our hands, and when trade revives they begin to circulate rapidly again."

The figures of distribution kept by the mint are interesting as showing the localities where pennies are most in use. Last year the demand was greatest from Pennsylvania, which took over 11,000,000 of them. New York was the second largest customer, adding 9,000,000 to her supply.—Philadelphia Presa.

BAD BITERS IN BANANAS.

Tarantulas Are Occasionally Found by the Fruit Handlers.

Men who handle bananas on South Water street, where the fruit comes from, say that the deadly tarantula does not appear as often as might be expected of a spider which has a predilection for hiding in bunches of bananas. So seldom does the many-legged spider put in an appearance that it is never thought of, and when one is found it occasions but little comment among the fruit handlers, because it is not remarkably dangerous. Banana rats, banana snakes and scorpions also come to town by fast freight in the fruit trains, but no one worries about them, and they are killed as soon as they drop out of the bunch.

"We handle about 100,000 bunches of bananas every year," said the manager of one of the big houses on the street, "and we get about three tarantulas a year. From that you can see that the chances of a man being bitten are very small, and indeed the men who handle the fruit never think of the spiders. Besides, when they arrive here the change in temperatre has chilled them so that they are dormant and they huddle as closely to the stem as possible and will not move unless they are stirred up. When we take the bunch downstairs to the banana room, where it is quite warm, they wake up and get lively. They will not bite unless they are bothered or unless a man puts his hand on one of them accidentally. Even then the bite is not dangerous, because the skin of the average fruit handler's hand is so hard that the fang will not pierce it. But we had a man here who was bitten on the arm once and it swelled up much as a snake bite does. The only thing to do is to give him the snake bite remedy, fill him up with rum and he will get over the bite all right.

"The banana snakes are not especially dangerous. They are long green snakes about the size of the common hay snakes found out here on the prairie and they are found coiled up around the stem of the bunch. When the bunch is shaken they drop out and are easily killed. Then there is what is called a banana rat, a small animal like a rat with long, silky hair and a bushy tail. It forms a nest in the bunch made of banana leaves, straw and whatever it can find, but it is dangerous. Scorpions occasionally drop out of a bunch of bananas, but not often, and no serious accidents have ever occurred."—Chicago Chronicle.

Wanted a Bill.

"Kunnel," said an old Georgia darky, "will you do me a favor when you's up yer de legislature?"

"Certainly," replied the representative, "if it's in my power. What is it?"

"Don't dey hev lots er bills up dere, suh?"

"Oh, yes—lots."

"An' you'll be comin' home 'bout Christmus, suh?"

"Yes."

"Well, suh, do—ef you please, suh—bring me a two-dollar bill!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Putting It Gently.

Barnes—Did you call Gunter a lazy donkey?

Potter—Oh! not so directly as that! I told him it was nearly time he was getting into harness again.—Pick-Me-Up

M'KINLEY AS A REFORMER.

How the President Discharges an "Obvious Duty."

The president is not much more consistent in his treatment of the currency question than he is in his dealing with the matter of forcible annexation.

"I earnestly recommend," he says, "as soon as the receipts of the government are quite sufficient to pay all the expenses of the government, that when any of the United States notes are presented for redemption in gold and are redeemed in gold such notes shall be kept and set apart and paid out only in exchange for gold. This is an obvious duty."

Why an obvious duty? Because if the redeemed notes are paid out as the law now requires they are more than likely to return for re-redemption. Thus it becomes necessary to keep replenishing the gold reserve, and this can be done in no other way than by selling interest-bearing bonds. Hence "the great cost to the government" under existing law "of maintaining the parity of our different forms of money."

And this cost is especially great "in times of business panic and when the revenues are insufficient to meet the expenses of the government. At such times," the president truly says, "the government has no other way to supply its deficit and maintain redemption but through the increase of its bonded debt."

If, then, it is the obvious duty of government to hold greenbacks in the treasury until somebody is willing to give gold in exchange for them in order to obviate the necessity for repeated issues of bonds, that duty is most obvious and imperative in times of panic and when the revenues are insufficient.

Yet the president does not propose to begin the discharge of this obvious duty until "the receipts of the government are quite sufficient to pay all the expenses of the government!" How can he explain his recommendation that the obvious duty be not discharged at the very time when, by his own showing, it is most imperative?

The government is running behind now at a greater rate than ever before and there is no official estimate that there will be a deficit of more than $21,000,000 during the next fiscal year unless something is done to increase the revenues. According to republican theory, therefore, another panic is due and liable to occur at any time. But, panic or no panic, the shortage is a notorious fact, and it is a fact which should prompt to the immediate discharge of that obvious duty.

Respecting this duty it is to be observed that if it should be discharged in accordance with the president's recommendation and if the banks should be required to redeem their notes in gold in accordance with another of his recommendations the greenbacks would soon be permanently retired and they might as well be extinguished.

Such runs on the treasury as occurred during the last administration would bring the last one of the greenbacks into the treasury, and there they would stay until some one offered gold in exchange for them.

Who would offer the gold? Not the national banks, because they would hold fast to the gold to meet demands from holders of their own notes. If others should offer gold and take out the notes and put them in circulation the banks would quickly gather them up and present them at the treasury and draw out the gold again.

Thus the proposed measure would almost certainly result soon in the complete retirement of the greenbacks and practically their permanent retirement. This would the more certainly be the case, because, as Senator Allison has pointed out, if the banks were required to redeem their notes in gold they would decline to accept silver or its certificate representative, except as a special deposit. They could not afford to be loaded with silver if required to redeem in gold.

The resulting discrimination against silver would produce very serious complications. Not the least of these, probably, would be depreciation of silver and silver certificates, which the government could not remedy without borrowing hundreds of millions of gold to maintain their convertibility.—Chicago Chronicle.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

——Poor Mr. Secretary Gage's currency reform scheme is getting the ha! ha! even from Tom Reed.—St. Louis Republic.

——The gold advocates ought to be good to the organ grinders, for these musicians handle nothing but sound money.—Chicago Dispatch.

——After his tussle with the democrats and the Foraker men in Ohio Mr. Hanna considers having the grippe a harmless diversion.—Kansas City Times.

——The Dingley robber tariff is a failure as a revenue producer; but it is a grand success as a tribute taker, and that is what the monopolies and trusts gave their money to Hanna for.—Illinois State Register.

——The deficit for the first five months of the Dingley law which was to "stop the deficit at once" is $2,000,000 greater than the largest deficit under the Wilson law for an entire year. Bad as the Wilson law was its greatest deficit for a year was $44,000,000. The Dingley bill makes a deficit of $46,000,000 in five months.—Utica Observer.

——Just think of it! Here is the man who discovered William McKinley, elected him to the presidency, mortgaged his administration to Wall street, "fired" John Sherman from the senate to make a place for himself and dragooned a governor into appointing him, now having to make a desperate struggle to get the vote of the republican members of the general assembly. And all this in a little more than a year.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

NO POLICY.

House Republicans "Up in the Air" on the Money Question.

Chairman Dingley is as uncertain about what congress will do this winter as are the dozen or more other members who have felt called upon to express opinions. The only point on which he speaks with anything like positive conviction is that there will be no "reform" of the currency.

In an extended interview given to the press before leaving Maine for Washington, Mr. Dingley said this: "If the senate were republican and in harmony with the majority of the house on monetary questions, I should look for currency legislation; but, with a free silver majority in the senate antagonistic to the ideas of a majority of the house as to what constitutes a sound currency system, I do not see how it is possible to secure desirable currency legislation of a permanent character until the senate is brought into harmony with the house."

This language is important, coming as it does from the republican house leader, and gives credence to the belief which has been growing in the public mind for months to the effect that the republicans will be glad enough to avoid all discussion of the currency question at the forthcoming session of congress. Their hope is to take advantage of the senate situation as a subterfuge affording the best means at hand for escape from a most embarrassing predicament. The truth is that the majority in the house is about as badly divided on the money issue as that in the senate, and agitation at this time would bring humiliating exposure.

Democratic duty, therefore, is plain. The republicans in the house must be smoked out, and the democratic leaders could perform no better party service at this juncture than to smoke them out and reveal their hypocrisy and pretense.

Mr. Dingley does not say so in plain terms, but the tenor of his remarks indicates the belief on his part that the house republicans will pursue a course of masterly inactivity on the currency this winter if permitted to do so by the democrats, because of the lack of a definite reform policy. He then proceeds to outline a policy. "I should be pleased," he says, "to see legislation which would remedy the want of flexibility of our banking system and would separate those functions of the treasury department which relate to the government demand notes and certificates used as currency from those which relate to current receipts and expenditures, and thus better protect the reserve." This is practically the scheme which, it is presumed, Secretary Gage will urge upon congress, but which, it is understood, has not the sanction of the president. Without McKinley's positive indorsement it is not likely to find enough favor in the house to even threaten party harmony.—St. Louis Republic.

PROSPERITY AND PANIC.

Hard Times Prices Better Than Prosperity Prices.

Republican newspapers are doing all they can to impress upon the farmers the idea that prosperity has dawned in the United States because of the election of McKinley.

The rise in the price of wheat has been spectacular, and, although it was caused by famine and short crops abroad, the increase in price has been exploited to prove that republican legislation is the producer of prosperity.

This argument has been urged with constant reiteration, and has had more or less effect, but there are some statistical people in Iowa who are still unconvinced. Among these disbelievers in republican sophistry is the editor of the Independent of Forest City, Ia., who indulges in a little mathematical calculation, with results which are not at all comfortable for the republicans.

With unusual generosity this editor takes the panic year of 1893 and compares the prices received then by farmers for seven leading agricultural products with those received in 1897. The prices are those quoted on the Chicago market November 15 of 1893 and 1897.

For 1897 the record stands as follows:

500 bu. corn at 26c	$130.00
500 bu. flax at $1.09	545.00
500 bu. oats at 21c	105.00
500 bu. wheat at 94c	470.00
100 bu. rye at 47c	47.00
40 hogs, 200 lbs. each, at $3.50	280.00
20 steers, 1,200 lbs. each, at $5.20	1,248.00
Total	$2,914.00

Turning back to the panic year of 1893 the statistics give the following results:

500 bu. corn at 38c	$190.00
500 bu. flax at $1.16	580.00
500 bu. oats at 28c	140.00
500 bu. wheat at 63c	315.00
100 bu. rye at 47c	47.00
40 hogs, 200 lbs. each, at $6.26	250.40
20 steers, 1,200 lbs. each, at $5.62	1,348.80
Total	$3,410.80

With McKinley prosperity the farmer receives $2,941 for the products in question. With acknowledged panic and hard times in 1893 he received $3,410.80 for the same kind and quantity of products, a balance in favor of hard times prices of $469.80.

Comment is unnecessary.—Chicago Dispatch.

——The trouble with the Dingley bill is that it was framed to do two entirely inconsistent and contradictory things, and thus far it has succeeded in doing only one of them. As a prohibitory tariff act it is undoubtedly a success. The importations since it went into effect show this. As a revenue producer it has proved a colossal failure. The constantly growing treasury deficit proves this. What sound reason is there for expecting the effect of the Dingley law to be one thing this year and a different thing next year?—Philadelphia Times.

——The fact that Mark Hanna has permanently closed the headquarters of the republican national committee at Washington, which he had promised to keep open until the next campaign, may give a hint of what his late fight in Ohio cost him and the party.—St. Louis Republic.

AGRICULTURAL HINTS

POOR STONE ROADS.

Few "Macadam" Roadways Are Being Built Properly.

Interest in the movement for better highways shows itself most strongly in the growing custom of using crushed stone for road improvement. The stone crusher companies have evidently been doing an excellent business, for both in the cities and in the country do we find that stone has been used as road material.

It is greatly to be deplored, however, that while so much excellent material is being employed, the methods adopted are so very faulty. In too many cases the men having the work in charge are content simply to deposit the stone upon the highway, frequently throwing it right into a muddy spot, and doing nothing further after the material has been put in place and spread. In many of the towns and cities where a road roller can be afforded the officials undertake to finish their work by placing a layer of gravel on top of the stone, and then rolling it until the entire material has been packed and hardened.

All of these attempts at building macadam roads are failures, when regarded from the standpoint of intelligent and scientific road construction. The valuable feature of a stone or macadam road is its absolute compactness, and the principal aim in building a road by the use of crushed stone should be to thoroughly pack and firmly unite every part of the material used. The only way to accomplish this is to roll every layer of dirt, stone, gravel or other material separately. Before any of the stone is deposited, the subsoil should be thoroughly hardened by rolling with a heavy roller. A layer of stone, if it is to properly pack and form a hard road bed, must have, above all, a solid foundation. Stone deposited upon loose gravel, on soft ground, or in a bed of mud can never be successfully packed, either with a roller or by travel.

FRENCH MACADAM ROAD.
(Located Between Fontainebleau and Sens.)

So, too, if it isintended to place a layer of gravel, or smaller crushed stone, or screenings on the surface, the layer of crushed stone beneath should first be thoroughly hardened and packed. It is a mistake to suppose that the two can be packed and rolled together. Material, to be thus compacted, must be uniform in character and size, and, while the angular pieces of stone will shift about under the weight of the roller until they are all firmly wedged in place, round particles of gravel, or smaller pieces, loose dirt or sand, when mixed with these angular pieces, will prevent their being thus crowded together and compacted.

The above explanations are the result of a careful study of the instructions issued by the state highway commissions of Massachusetts, California, New Jersey and Connecticut, and indicate the principles followed in those states in the construction of roads by state aid. The same principles are laid down in treatises upon macadam roads as built in Pennsylvania, Alabama, New York, North Carolina and Ontario, and they constitute the fundamental rules laid down by experienced road engineers all over the world.

The building of macadam roads offers opportunities for manifold mistakes and for an enormous waste of public funds. If ever it be true that what is worth doing at all is worth doing well it is emphatically true in the building of stone roads. A macadam road, when once properly constructed, needs little repairing and lasts for generations, as has been indisputably and repeatedly proven in England and on the European continent. A stone road, poorly built, for want of successful rolling, even with excellent material, is but a poor highway at best. Many so-called macadam roads, recently built by inexperienced men or without the proper use of good road rollers, are continually going to pieces by the wearing of ruts and the subsequent combined action of water and travel. Every good macadam road testifies to the value of durable highways, while every stone road improperly built throws a shadow of doubt upon the movement for better highways. Those who believe in good roads cannot afford to have their work thus discredited.

OTTO DORNER.

Don't Confine the Turkeys.

Feed the turkeys well, but do not confine them. Turkeys will lose flesh if confined longer than ten days, as they fret and pine for their liberty. The proper plan is to keep them growing as much as possible, by feeding meat twice a week, with a mess of wheat morning and night. Just before selling, they may be penned up for a week or ten days, and fed four times a day on a variety of all they will eat; making corn and corn meal the principal food. It always pays to fatten them before selling.—Rural World.

Sensible and Effective.

The executive committee of the united wheelmen of Montgomery county, O., drew up a simple but practical, complete and inexpensive plan of road improvement, setting forth the needs of the county roads, the methods best adapted to keep them in repair, and the estimated expense, and petitioned the board of county commissioners to adopt it, and pledged candidates to it prior to the election

WINTER DAIRYING.

If the Cows Are Well Protected and Cared For It Pays.

There is always a demand for extra good milk. We are in favor of selling milk when from five to eight cents per quart can be obtained. In the suburbs that is not a high price because the owner of milch cows have to pay high for all the feed they buy. It requires much bran, sherts and linseed meal to keep the cows to their milk. That is to say, such cows as come fresh in December and succeeding months. The shelter has to be closely watched and the stalls well littered and water has to be tempered before giving it to the cows or they will not drink it. We again remind our readers that it is not good practice to wash the cows. Sags. It makes the skin tender and is apt to crack the teats, which by the necessary milking twice a day are hard to heal up. Now, no sensible person will imagine that we oppose warm water for a wash absolutely necessary, but when a soft brush and a clean soft cloth can do the work I use no water.

Jersey cows are not of the kind to pour out a great quantity of milk for a mess; but most people of experience know that their milk is very rich, containing ofttimes twice as much cream as that of ordinary stock, hence their milk should bring an extra price because it is worth it.

Many people give larger rations than common so soon as they notice that the cow is springing bag. For a young cow liberal feeding may be allowed, but the older cows seldom develop larger udders nor is it desirable. Our experience teaches that high feeding up to the time of calving is very dangerous, because it increases the parturition fever, more or less of which is always to be expected. Hence, we counsel to withdraw the feed of the usual rations one-third, and when the udder is much distended, even more than that. After 36 or 48 hours, if the cow is ready to eat, commence to increase the feed and in a few days thereafter you may give her all the feed she can assimilate, and you will find the flow of milk correspondingly increased.—Charles W. Murtfeldt, in St. Louis Republic.

DRYING VEGETABLES.

In California It Has Become Quite an Important Industry.

In California the drying of vegetables has developed into an important industry. Potatoes, carrots and other tubers are poured into the hoppers of cutting machines, where rotating blades slice them a quarter of an inch thick. They are then slightly sulphured in a wooden chamber. If this process is overdone the vegetables will taste of the fumes; if too little, bacteria, attracted by the starch, will develop. A little sulphurring is necessary to prevent decay and to preserve the color. The tubers are now revolved for a few hours close to a hot pipe in an evaporator, which is a sort of Ferris wheel, consisting of a brick oven with glass windows. At the end of this time the potatoes are taken out in the form of dry chips. It requires six or seven pounds of the fresh to make one of the dried. As bacteria do not take kindly to onions, they are only slightly sulphured. It takes 20 pounds of the fresh onions to make one of dried, they shrivel up so much. Nine parts of fresh carrots are required to make one of the dried. The industry is proving very profitable, as there is a great demand for the dried fruit and vegetables in the country and at mines. If steam comes into use in the process the starch in potatoes could be sterilized and partly cooked before they are evaporated. In this way they would be rid of sulphur.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

HANDY MILKING STOOL.

Although Made at Home, It Has Given General Satisfaction.

I have used a milking stool made and illustrated on the plan described below for six years. The seat board (a) is of two inch plank, nine inches wide, 14 inches long. The stool board (b) is two inches thick, nine inches broad and long, cut round. A three-eighths-inch bolt (c) is put through the middle, the head sunk, the nut left off, so the seat will revolve. The seat is 11 inches high. A hoop (e) is fastened with staples on the upright board (d) to hold the bucket so it will be 11 inches from the floor to its upper rim. I use a two-gallon tin pail. A heavy wire is used for a hoop. The piece d is two by four and six inches long fastened to the underside of the seat.—Lyman Parmelee, in Farm and Home.

HANDY MILKING STOOL.

Cherry Trees in Grass.

Our experience with cherry trees is that they do not require cultivation. Those we had in the garden were always more liable to rot and to be affected by insects than the trees that stood in dry places and surrounded by grass. It may be that it is the extra moisture in the cultivated soil that predisposes cherries to rot, or it may be the manure annually applied to the garden and to which the cherry tree roots helped themselves freely. The cherry tree does not do well with wet feet. On high, dry land its roots will run deeply enough to find all the moisture it needs, and on such land in grass is the best to plant cherries for profitable fruiting.—American Cultivator.

Good Season for Agitation.

The coming six months will afford a splendid opportunity to agitate for better highways, develop popular sentiment and force it upon legislatures.

CALENDAR FOR 1898.

JANUARY
S	M	T	W	T	F	S
						1
2	3	4	5	6	7	8
9	10	11	12	13	14	15
16	17	18	19	20	21	22
23	24	25	26	27	28	29
30	31

FEBRUARY
		1	2	3	4	5
6	7	8	9	10	11	12
13	14	15	16	17	18	19
20	21	22	23	24	25	26
27	28

MARCH
		1	2	3	4	5
6	7	8	9	10	11	12
13	14	15	16	17	18	19
20	21	22	23	24	25	26
27	28	29	30	31

APRIL
					1	2
3	4	5	6	7	8	9
10	11	12	13	14	15	16
17	18	19	20	21	22	23
24	25	26	27	28	29	30

MAY
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
8	9	10	11	12	13	14
15	16	17	18	19	20	21
22	23	24	25	26	27	28
29	30	31

JUNE
			1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	9	10	11
12	13	14	15	16	17	18
19	20	21	22	23	24	25
26	27	28	29	30

JULY
S	M	T	W	T	F	S
					1	2
3	4	5	6	7	8	9
10	11	12	13	14	15	16
17	18	19	20	21	22	23
24	25	26	27	28	29	30
31

AUGUST
	1	2	3	4	5	6
7	8	9	10	11	12	13
14	15	16	17	18	19	20
21	22	23	24	25	26	27
28	29	30	31

SEPTEMBER
				1	2	3
4	5	6	7	8	9	10
11	12	13	14	15	16	17
18	19	20	21	22	23	24
25	26	27	28	29	30

OCTOBER
						1
2	3	4	5	6	7	8
9	10	11	12	13	14	15
16	17	18	19	20	21	22
23	24	25	26	27	28	29
30	31

NOVEMBER
		1	2	3	4	5
6	7	8	9	10	11	12
13	14	15	16	17	18	19
20	21	22	23	24	25	26
27	28	29	30

DECEMBER
				1	2	3
4	5	6	7	8	9	10
11	12	13	14	15	16	17
18	19	20	21	22	23	24
25	26	27	28	29	30	31

Advice to Klondikers.

"Be sure you are right—then go ahead." The newspapers are filled with affidavits of statements regarding mining in the Yukon basin; and schemes for the profit of the "stay-at-homes" are more plentiful than icicles in Dawson. The railways are trying to place before you reliable information as to the country and how to get there. The Northern Pacific as the pioneer to Alaska passenger traffic, running its trains from St. Paul and Minneapolis to Puget Sound and Portland, and by their recently issued map folder on Alaska again demonstrated their right to first consideration. Send Chas. S. Fee, St. Paul, Minn., 2-cents postage for the latest and best Alaska map published.

The Man of Moderate Means.

"I can't afford," said the man of moderate means, "to go to many places of amusement, but I am admitted free to the play with the longest run on record, 'The Struggle of Life.'"—N. Y. Sun.

The Hot Springs.

Picturesquely situated in the heart of the Black Hills of South Dakota, are renowned for the many cures of rheumatism, neuralgia and kindred diseases, which have been effected by the use of its waters. First-class hotel accommodations and baths. Tourist tickets on sale daily and especially low rates on the first and third Tuesdays of this month. For full information apply to agents Chicago & North-western Railway.

"What do you think, old boy; I stole a kiss from that haughty Miss Juniper!" "Pooh, that's nothing. The last evening I was there I saw her poodle kiss her 17 times."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

For Homeseeker's Excursion dates via the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Ry. and information of their tourist sleeper arrangement, address H. F. Bowsher, 435 Walnut St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

When a man begins to imagine that he is in love with a bloomer girl it's time for him to stop drinking.—Chicago News.

Fits stopped free and permanently cured No fits after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Free $2 trial bottle & treatise. Dr. Kline, 933 Arch st., Phila., Pa.

On the shoulders of the young and hale poverty sits but lightly.—N. Y. Independent.

In Winter Sciatica is worse. Any time St. Jacobs Oil is the best cure.

The dance they sit out is the most delightful to a pair of lovers.—Chicago News.

Cold weather aggravates rheumatic pains But St. Jacobs Oil cures—any time.

No man can love a woman, no matter how beautiful she is, if she can't cook.—Washington Democrat.

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 13.

LIVE STOCK—Cattle, common	$ 2	75	@ 3 75
Select butchers	4	00	@ 4 35
CALVES—Fair to good light	5	75	@ 6 50
HOGS—Common	3	00	@ 3 15
Mixed packers	3	10	@ 3 20
Light shippers	3	25	@ 3 30
SHEEP—Choice	3	85	@ 4 35
LAMBS—Goood to choice	5	00	@ 5 35
FLOUR—Winter family	3	35	@ 3 80
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		66	@ 66
No. 3 red		62	@ 63
Corn—No. 2 mixed		26	@ 26½
Oats—No. 2		20	@ 21
Rye—No. 2		46	@ 47
HAY—Prime to choice	9	25	@ 9 50
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		07	@ 8 75
Lard—Prime Steam		04	@ 4 20
BUTTER—Choice Dairy		12	@ 13
Prime to choice creamery		20	@ 21½
APPLES—Per bbl	2	50	@ 3 25
POTATOES—Per bbl	2	25	@ 2 35

CHICAGO.

FLOUR—Winter patents	$ 4	10	@ 4 50
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	1	02½	@ 1 04
No. 2 Chicago spring		86	@ 86½
CORN—No. 2		24½	@ 25½
OATS—No. 2		19	@ 22½
PORK—Mess	7	35	@ 7 40
LARD—Steam	4	35	@ 4 38

NEW YORK.

FLOUR—Winter patents	$ 4	80	@ 5 10
No. 2 red		97½	@ 97½
CORN—No. 2 mixed			@ 31½
RYE—No. 2		52	@ 53½
OATS—Mixed		27½	@ 27½
WHEAT—Spring	8	25	@ 9 00
LARD—Western			@ 4 60

BALTIMORE.

FLOUR—Family	$ 4	50	@ 4 75
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		80½	@ 80½
Southern Wheat		81	@ 86
Corn—Mixed		33	@ 33½
Oats—No. 2 white		26	@ 27½
Rye—No. 2 western		51	@ 51½
CATTLE—First quality	4	35	@ 4 65
HOGS—Western	4	15	@ 4 20

INDIANAPOLIS.

GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		66	@ 67
Corn—No. 2 mixed		26	@ 26
Oats—No. 2 mixed		20	@ 21½

LOUISVILLE.

FLOUR—Winter patent	$ 3	75	@ 4 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		65	@ 66
No. 3—Mixed		62	@ 63
Oats—Mixed		22	@ 23
PORK—Mess		00	@ 9 50
LARD—Steam		25	@ 4 15

GIVES HER OLD NUMBER.

Young Bride Confused in Making Her First Purchase.

She was one of the prettiest little things in the world and the way she stepped into the store and ordered a bill of groceries was a sight worth witnessing. When she came to settle for them she found she did not have enough money with her, so blushingly asked that they be sent C. O. D.

"Certainly," returned the obliging grocer, smilingly. "What is the number?"

The little lady stammered as she gave the name Gibson, but failed utterly when she came to the number. At last she faltered out:

"No. 4621 M——; no I mean 5337 B," and hastened away covered with confusion and blushes.

An interested bystander asked the grocer as the girl went out the door:

"One of those persons who try to get goods under false pretenses, I suppose?" and was very much astonished when the grocer replied, laughingly:

"Not on your life. Just a bride giving her first order. I can spot them a mile off."—Chicago Chronicle.

YOU CAN'T STOP 'EM.

News comes from Attica, Ind., of the destruction by fire, of the big laboratory and office building of the Sterling Remedy Company, makers of Cascarets Candy Cathartic and No-To-Bac, the original guaranteed tobacco habit cure. The fire broke out in one of the packing rooms on the third floor during the noon hour, and had made considerable headway before it was discovered.

As soon as it became apparent that the fire department could have difficulty in controlling the flames, the work of saving the valuable documents, consisting of thousands of letters, of booklets and tons of advertising matter began with the utmost energy. The Sterling Remedy Company is the principal industry of the beautiful little city of Attica, employing seven hundred people, besides being affiliated with the Indiana Mineral Springs, the famous Magno-Mud Cure. Hundreds of men, women and children vied with each other in carrying the contents of the burning building to places of safety.

Yesterday the proverbial energy and resource of the mind of General Manager Rubber, of the Sterling Remedy Company, was displayed. He, like Napoleon, walked away and secured a big shed not far away, on near by, and had all the office furniture, shipping and stock installed as if it was taken there. Before the boxes had ceased burning, in which the fire originated, orders were being dictated for the make-shift office for new supplies, and car loads of material were ordered by wire, while the streams were still playing on the ruins. Several shipments were made the same evening from goods saved, and on Friday morning, all departments were at work in various rooms about town, while a gang of men were cleaning away the wreckage preliminary to rebuilding.

His Parting Shot.

He (after being rejected)—I shall never marry now.

She—Foolish man! Why not?

(Viciously)—If you won't have me, who will?—Philadelphia North American.

All About Alaska.

Descriptive folder containing five maps of Alaska and routes to the gold fields, the most complete publication of the kind in print. Send 4 cents in stamps to F. I. Whitney, G. P. & T. A. Great Northern railway, 3d and Broadway, St. Paul, Minn. "Alaska, Land of Gold and Glacier," a beautifully illustrated booklet, sent for fifteen cents in stamps. The Great Northern is over 100 miles the shortest line from St. Paul and Minneapolis to Seattle and Portland, the outfitting points whence steamers sail for Alaska.

Fond of Golf.

Stokes—Is your son fond of golf?

Pogis—Fond of it? I should say he was. Why, the young rascal actually plays it.—Boston Transcript.

Tourist Sleeping Cars.

Commencing with the excursion of Dec. 7th, the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Ry. has inaugurated a system of Tourist Sleepers on their excursion dates between St. Louis or Kansas City and South Texas points. For information address H. F. Bowsher, 435 Walnut St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Women say of every pretty girl that she might be tolerably good looking if she didn't know it so well herself.—Washington Democrat.

If you want to be cured of a cough use Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. Pike's Toothache Drops Cure in one minute.

Any woman will finally get tired of her husband, if he is a habitual loafer.—Washington Democrat.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

"Rushem is dealing in mining securities, isn't he?" "Well, stocks is the better word."—Chicago Journal.

I believe Piso's Cure for Consumption saved my boy's life last summer.—Mrs. Allie Douglass, LeRoy, Mich., Oct. 20, '94.

Hope—The untiring effort of a woman to find a burglar under the bed.—Chicago News.

Never trifle with pain. It may fool you. St. Jacobs Oil never fools; it cures.

The upper ten is composed of the winning nine and the umpire.—Chicago News.

Isn't a scald a burn? Yes; and St. Jacobs Oil is a cure.

Everybody at a fire knows best how to put it out.—Washington Democrat.

CAUSE FOR ALARM.

How baldness begins.

How to prevent it.

Every person, male or female, shrinks from baldness. It adds to the appearance of age and is a serious discomfort. The cases are rare when the falling out of the hair may not be stopped and a new and healthy growth of the hair promoted. The hair grows in the scalp like a plant in the soil. If a plant flourishes, it must have constant attention; it must be watered regularly and find food in the soil where it is rooted. It's so with the hair. Neglect is usually the beginning of baldness. Dandruff starves the hair and the scalp. The hair begins to loosen, the scalp loses its vitality. The hair, insufficiently nourished, begins to fade and to fall. The instant need in such a case is some practical preparation which, supplying the needed nourishment to the scalp, will feed the hair give it strength, and so produce a strong and healthy growth. All this is done by Dr. Ayer's Hair Vigor, the most practical and valuable preparation for the hair that can be obtained. It loses up the scalp, does away with dandruff, stops the hair from falling, restores the original color to gray or faded hair, and gives an abundant and glossy growth. Those who are threatened with approaching baldness will be interested in the following voluntary statement, made by Alfred Swan & J. Green, of Spencer, Iowa. He writes:

"About four months ago, my hair commenced falling out so rapidly that I became alarmed, and being recommended Dr. Ayer's Hair Vigor by a druggist, I resolved to try this preparation. I have been now using it for three months, and much gratified to find that my hair has ceased falling out and also that hair which had been turning gray for the past five years has been restored to its original color, dark brown. It gives me much pleasure to recommend this dressing."—S. J. GREEN, Alderman, Spencer, Iowa.

Those who are interested in preserving and beautifying the hair will do well to send for Dr. Ayer's Curebook. A story of cures told by the cured. This book of 100 pages is sent free on request, by the J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

GRANDMA ESCAPES

The Hospital and a Fearful Operation.

Hospitals in great cities are sad places to visit. Three-fourths of the patients lying on those snow-white beds are women and girls.

Why should this be the case?

Because they have neglected themselves! Women as a rule attach too little importance to first symptoms of a certain kind. If they have toothache, they will try to save the tooth, though many leave even this too late. They comfort themselves with the thought that they can replace their teeth; but they cannot replace their internal organs!

Every one of those patients in the hospital beds had plenty of warnings in the form of bearing-down feelings, pain at the right or the left of the womb, nervous dyspepsia, pain in the small of the back, the "blues," or some other unnatural symptom, but they did not heed them.

Don't drag along at home or in the shop until you are finally obliged to go to the hospital and submit to horrible examinations and operations! Build up the female organs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will save you from the hospital. It will put new life into you.

The following letter shows how Mrs. Lyness escaped the hospital and a fearful operation. Her experience should encourage other women to follow her example. She says to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I thank you very much for what you have done for me, for I had given up in despair. Last February, I had a miscarriage caused by overwork. It affected my heart, caused me to have sinking spells three to four a day, lasting sometimes half a day. I could not be left alone. I flowed constantly. The doctor called twice a day for a week, and once a day for four weeks, then three or four times a week, for four months. Finally he said I would have to undergo an operation. Then I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after one week I began to recover and steadily improved until I was cured completely. By taking the Pinkham medicine, I avoided an operation which the doctor said I would certainly have to undergo. I am gaining every day and will cheerfully tell anyone what you have done for me."—MRS. THOS. LYNESS, 10 Frederick St., Rochester, N. Y.

PAINT YOUR OWN WALLS AND CEILINGS.

MURALO WATER COLOR PAINTS FOR DECORATING WALLS AND CEILINGS

Purchase a package of CALCIMO from your grocer or paint dealer and do your own kalsomining. This material is made on scientific principles by machinery and mixed in twenty-four tints and is superior to any concoction of Glue and Whiting that can possibly be made by hand. TO BE MIXED WITH COLD WATER.

If you want something extra, buy some MURALO from the same dealer. This material is a HARD FINISH to be applied with a brush and becomes as hard as Cement. Milled in twenty-four tints and works equally as well with cold or hot water. Send for sample cards and if you cannot purchase this material from your local dealers let us know and we will put you in the way of obtaining it.

THE MURALO CO., NEW BRIGHTON, S. I., NEW YORK.

N. B.—The attention of the trade is called to the fact that a man by the name of Church goes through the country trying to introduce purchases of our material by telling them that our paints are an infringement on his material, which he calls "Alabastine." We are advised by our patent counsel that his material when used with cold water is an infringement upon ours. We have invited Mr. Church to support his contention by suit against us and have volunteered to accept service of any papers he wishes to serve so as to save him trouble, but this proffer he has not accepted. We caution the trade and customers to the fact that nevertheless continues his misleading statements, which course, under the circumstances, we believe will be condemned by all reputable dealers.

IN A WORLD WHERE "CLEANLINESS IS NEXT TO GODLINESS" NO PRAISE IS TOO GREAT FOR SAPOLIO

OUR DIALECT.

A Hard Thing for the Average Person to Understand.

The two men approached each other and spoke as follows:

"Hellole ma#, wutz news?"

"Noh'n allter know of. Zher wife got boa kyet?"

"No. Spectnerback never train. Woan chay some in?"

"Mutcher bligeder jus tad one. How zeverting?"

"Oh, bout zhusual. Sni sweather w'ravin' now?"

"Certain liz. But fdone train farmer slaver hard timerther wheat. Say, gotcher hor soee ainter fraidether car she?"

"Oh, fessezer gentlezer lamb now. Whenzher brother gointer selly zouse?" "Soony zeek a fine mantle paze price. Sawful hard nowter sell anything fwuts sworth."

"That sright. Jerreck'n thing sloose snupper little this fall?"

"Yesser guess thrizen wheat'll may kevcrything nuoo flong."

"Well, Imes be going. Drop pin some timenyer passing."

"All ri; chew dothersame."

"I will. Gladter metcher."

No, son, this is neither Scotch, Irish, Creole, New England, Wild West, Kipling-American, Georgin Cracker, Dowery or Cradock-Moonshiner dialect; it is simply the English language as she is spoken every day in any town in the United States by the average American citizen.—Detroit Free Press.

A Sore Amusing Occupation.

He—There's no use crying over spilt milk.

She—Of course not—there's plenty more to spill.—Brooklyn Life.

Go to your grocer to-day and get a 15c. package of Grain-O

It takes the place of coffee at ¼ the cost.

Made from pure grains it is nourishing and healthful.

Insist that your grocer gives you GRAIN-O. Accept no imitation.

WINCHESTER GUN CATALOGUE FREE

SEND YOUR NAME ON A POSTAL CARD AND WE WILL SEND YOU OUR 156 PAGE ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE

WINCHESTER REPEATING ARMS CO. 160 WINCHESTER AVE., NEW HAVEN, CONN.

FARMING IN THE WEST

If you want to read up on this subject during the winter; of the cheap homes and prosperous conditions in Nebraska and elsewhere, subscribe to "The Corn Belt." A monthly paper full of farm pictures and information about the West. It will be sent for one year for 25 cents; postage stamps accepted. Address, "THE CORN BELT," 209 Adams Street, Chicago.

Seattle Klondike Alaska

FREE INFORMATION BY SEATTLE, WASH., CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BUREAU.

Seattle, Klondike, Alaska, Washington State. Seattle, 65,000 population; Railroad, Commercial, Mining and Agricultural Centre; Best OUTFITS, LOWEST PRICES. Longest Experience; Largest City; Safest Routes. Address SECRETARY.

DROPSY NEW DISCOVERY; gives quick relief and cures worst cases. Send for book of testimonials and 10 days' treatment Free. Dr. H. H. GREEN'S SONS, Atlanta, Ga.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS kindly mention this paper and state that you saw the advertisement in this paper.

A. N. K.—E

BOONE : COUNTY : RECORDER

Wednesday. Dec., 15, 1897.

Rates of Subscription:

One year..... $1 50.
Six months..... 75.
Three months..... 40.

☞Payable invariably in advance.

THE RECORDER

SOLICITS YOUR

Job Work,

NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HOP BILLS,

Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.

Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

STATE NEWS.

Dover will have a bank in the near future.

Henry Clay Burton killed John Smith in Wayne county.

Gill Jones, a Knox county farmer, dropped dead while at work.

The best price paid for Daviess county leaf tobacco this season was $12.

Fayette county feels quite proud of the fact that all her turnpikes are free.

The old Rock Ridge gang has broken out again near Tompkinsville.

Mary West, a 16 year-old murderer is under $3,000 bond at Lexington.

School Superintendents will meet at Frankfort Dec. 28th, for a three day's session.

B. F. Menifee, of Grant county, has sued Dr. Alexander for $10,000 damages for malpractice.

Cuban buyers are arranging to ship from 15,000 to 20,000 head of cattle a month from Texas.

The logging and towboat business is in full blast on the streams running through Kentucky.

Dr. Clardy says he authorized no such interview as that accredited to him, and going the rounds of the press.

Just twenty-five men want to be Jailer of Hardin county to fill a vacancy caused by the death of the Jailer-elect.

While hunting near Ashland, John Hunt, jr., shot his father in the face and chest, injuring him probably fatally.

Rev. Sam Kerkland, a well known primitive Baptist preacher, had both arms broken by the overturning of his bugxy.

James and Will Lynch have found a four foot vein of coal on their farm, about one mile from Patesville.

George Buck, the Hickman Edison, is now engaged in making the apparatus for a horseless surrey. It is his own invention, and something different from anything of the kind heretofore made. The motor power is gas.

The biggest job of work done in the Hardin Circuit Court was accomplished Thursday, when one jury in less than an hour sent eight negroes to the penitentiary for terms extending from five to 12 years, for burglary and grand larceny.—Elizabethtown News.

Capt. Noah Spears, ex-banker and one of the best-known citizens of Georgetown, died at his home in that city from the effects of injuries received. In going to his stable in the dark he fell over a keg and ruptured his bowels which led to his death. He was 70 years old.

Mary Conn, one of the shrewdest women moonshiners the Government officials in Kentucky have had to deal with in years, was found guilty Thursday in the United States Court at Covington. This is her first conviction. The woman is known personally to all the revenue officers throughout the State.

It is reported that gold has been discovered at Bennett's Mills. Samples of ore have been sent to Washington for analysis, and the result, it is said, shows that the gold is there in paying quantities. A company is being organized to develop the mines. Among those interested are: Lieutenant Governor Worthington and Hon. B. F. Bennett, of Greenup, and Isaac Clark.

The Rock Springs Distillery at Owensboro has purchased machinery by which the slops running from the mash, and which has been heretofore fed to cattle in the fluid state, will be dried and packed in sacks and sold as cattle feed, says the Inquirer. This will be the first industry of its kind in Western Kentucky, and the distillery company has just secured the machinery at a cost of $10,000.

The English sparrows have established a roost in a tree near the head of the big spring, which has become a nuisance. In order to break it up, a number of young men got shotguns and just after dark they would fire into the tree. On Tuesday night 52 were picked up, although many more were killed. On Wednesday night 233 were picked up, but 500 must have been killed. Sparrow pie is now the order of the day, and it is quite a toothsome dose.—Georgetown News,

S. D. Neale, a citizen of Corinth, for several years past engaged in the lumber and coal business, may prove to be a descendant of Lieut. Daniel Neale, who was forced out of Ireland and his e[illegible]confiscated in 1649. The history of the family has been traced by Peyton Clarke, of Louisville, and the similarity in given names and the partiality for Bible names to link the families together and will lead to the establishment of the priority of a legacy that properly belongs to the family. —Corinth Messenger.

Jonathan Stiles, of Stephensport, was robbed of $310 in cash last Friday night. He went home that night, pulled off his pantaloons on going to bed and laid them down on a chair near his bed, as was his custom. When he awoke next morning he found his pantaloons out on the pavement in front of his house, with his papers and pocketbook scattered over the walk and his money gone. On further examination he found a pole with a hook on the end of it, with which the thief secured his booty.

The reports from the penitentiary and penitentiary chair plant from July 1, 1896, to June 30,1807, were as follows: Penitentiary $11,206.15; Penitentiary chair plant, $113,051,15; making a total of $124,347.30. The amount paid out for the same period was; Penitentiary $122,838,28; Penitentiary appropriations, 1893, $15,986,50; Penitentiary chair plant, $16[illegible]460,27; making a total difference of expenditures over receipts of $177,937,55. Those figures are from the Auditors report. The report for the same period from the Branch Penitentiary are 11,751.08 while the expenditures for the same period were $51,826,61.

CROP AND STOCK.

A steer with a wooden leg is a curiosity at Bowling Green.

The Hardin county farmers have bought this year about $40,000 worth of cotton seed meal and hulls to fatten cattle on.

It is said that more than 100,000 sheep were shipped out of Arizona between September 14 and October 25 of the present year.

A quarantine of three months has been established in Montana against sheep from other States on account of an outbreak of scab.

A Mercer county man has a crop of tobacco that will average 1,800 pounds to the acre, for which he refused 12 cents all around.

Colorado expects to receive not less than $5,000,000 from the State's large fruit crop this year, the greatest the Centennial State has ever known.

Residing six miles south of Valley View, are several families of Whittakers, who claim to be lineal descendants of Robert Whittaker, who died in England, leaving an immense fortune.

Sixty-two head of Shorthorns from the herd of S. Campbell Kinellar, Aberdeen, Scotland, were sold publicly a few days ago at an average of $145. Two cows made $300 each, and 8 or 9 head made $200 or over a piece.

An effort is being made by the Agricultural Department of the University of California to produce a new breed of sheep, which shall give fine results as to both wool and mutton and which shall enjoy especial adaptation to the local conditions in California.

Things are booming at the newly established cellulose factory in Owensboro, and it is just now drawing on the people of Daviess and adjoining counties what an immense industry it is. The average number of loads of corn stalks delivered daily at the factory is over 100, and as many as 300 loads have been delivered in one day.

What will the Republican statesmen who so freely denounced President Cleveland's Cuban policy have to say now of Mr. McKinley's acceptance and indorsement of it? Such jingos as Lodge and Frye, who tore passion to tatters in behalf of bleeding Cuba a year ago, will roar you as gently as any sucking doves now.—Courier-Journal.

For this month 136 correspondents reported from 95 counties.

WHEAT.

The month of November has been unusually favorable to the growth of the wheat crop and as a result a considerable portion has reached what is considered an advanced stage, considering the very late start it made.

The general tenor of remarks of correspondents is that the crop promises well and a few consider the outlook very fine. Of course much will depend upon what is met with during the winter in the way of sudden and hard freezes when unprotected by snow.

Should the crop be visited with the average amount of hardships during the winter the result may be disastrous.

Considerable wheat was sown during November, the acreage, compared with 1896, having increased from 90 per cent. on November 1st, to 103 on December 1st. The returns from Assessor's reports show the acreage for 1896 as 611.629 acres; the estimated acreage for 1897 would therefore, be 627,978.

CORN.

Corn is reported [illegible]ribed much damage since maturity. Many correspondents report the crop light and chaffy, and not yielding as well as indicated earlier. As to quality 24 correspondents report it good, 71 average and 36 bad. The yield for the State averages 24.55 bushel per acre In 1896 the average yield was 27 bushels.

The acreage by the returns of [illegible] County Assessors is 2,220,563 acres. Taking now the estimated average yield of 24.55 bushels per acre, gives a total of 54,500,038 bushels.

HEMP.

The number of correspondent reporting hemp appears to gradually decrease. The estimated yield per acre is 839 lbs. In 1896 the average was 1,045 lbs. On quality 7 report it good, 2 an average and 1 bad.

LIVE STOCK.

The condition of all live stock shows an improvement during the month. The condition of horses is 95; cattle, 92; sheep, 95 and hogs 94. On November 1st these conditions were 87,86, 90 and 87.

A WARNING.

Information has reached me that Australian rabbits are being kept as pets in this and other sections of the State. I feel it my duty to call the attention of those owning these apparently harmless little creatures to their wonderful powers of distruction and the rapidity with which they increase in numbers. The female brings forth her young, 4 to 6 in number, every month. It can easily be seen that a single pair turned loose would in a year or two make themselves felt in that section and would rapidly spread to adjoining sections. They are especially destructive to young orchards and garden crops. Being a burrowing animal it is an easy matter for them to tunnel underneath the enclosure intended for their confinement. The English sparrow nuisance from which we are now suffering should serve as an object lesson against the importation of any more foreign pests.

The publication of the monthly crop reports will close with this issue until the opening of the growing season next spring.

I desire to express my thanks and the obligations of the Bureau to the corsespondents throughout the State and to solicit their further valuable service when the work is resumed. LUCAS MOORE.
Commissioner of Agriculture.

FROM CARROLL COUNTY.

[News]

The principal freight coming out of the Kentucky river is rabbits.

Aaron Neal delivered to Barker Tuesday his crop of about 5,000 lbs. of tobacco—4,000 lbs. at 12 cts. and 1,000 lbs. at 4 cents.

The big bell of the Telegraph has a history. It was originally made in Cincinnati for the most famous boat of her day—the Telegraph No. 3, in 1852, and still bears her name. It was on the great Gen. Lytle, which exploded her boilers near Bethlehem in 1866. It was used on the City of Madison, that sank on the end of the dyke at Madison a few years ago. It now holds its silent tongue on the roof of the Telegraph, stranded and sunk at Fern Grove. What boat it will go on next remains to be "tolled."

That seems to be the number Carrollton has at the present time, including the present incumbent. Several weeks ago T. C. King was appointed, made his bond, and, we understand, his commission was made out at Washington, but Monday a dispatch came stating that Mr. King had been turned down. A. W. Darling, jr., had been appointed—or recommended. Mr. King secured the appointment through his cousin, Hon. Jno. C. New, of Indiana, but as the "push" of the Republican party had indorsed his opponent, the wires were heated hot and delegations sent to Washington, who informed the powers-that-be that Democrats were jubilating over the appointment of King, and when the latter made his bond, which was signed altogether by Democrats, a great point was made, and his commission was revoked by Senator Deboe, who said he had acted against the wishes of his friends, and recommended Mr. Darling.

FROM OWEN COUNTY.

[News]

Prof. W. Hind Roberts accidently sprained his back last Monday, and has since been confined to his bed, suffering severe pains. It is, however, not of a serious nature and he will be out soon.

Miss Birdie Barnett, candidate for State Librarian, was in town last Thursday interviewing Representative-elect Orr in regard to his preference in the race and urging her own claims.

The bell for the Owenton Baptist church arrived Saturday and has been placed in position.

[Herald.]

J. H. Dorman, jr., is well satisfied with the encouragement that he is receiving in his candidacy for Enrolling Clerk of the House. He is well equipped for the duties of the position.

The wife of the editor of the Herald bought a fine Chester White pig last April, so the family could have all the fresh meat, sausage, lard, etc., that could be used in the winter, and later on the hams and shoulders, to say nothing of the large sum of ready cash that the sides would bring. She has been away from home for several weeks, and last Thursday your most obedient concluded that, instead of bothering with having this vast amount of meat put up, he would convert the entire hog into free silver and surprise his better half upon her return. He did so. The account stands about this way: Cost of pig $2; meal 60 cents; corn $4. Total cost to make a 220-pound hog out of a weanling pig $6,60. Realized three cents a pound—$6,60 for the hog. The work and worry of feeding are represented by nought. How much was gained by the transaction?

FROM GRANT COUNTY.

[Courier]

There is a new organization in Williamstown. It is known as the Grant County Opossum Club,

The members of the Christian church at Dry Ridge have begun a protracted meeting under the able preaching of Elder Geo. W. Hill of Falmouth Ky.

On yesterday at 10 a. m. at the residence of B. N. Harrison, J. Ben Neal and Irene S. Harrison, and Perry McGlasson and Emma S. Harrison were united in the bonds of holy wedlock in the presence of a few friends and relatives.

Frank Menefee, son of the late George Menefee, of near Heekin, and late candidate for Surveyor on the Republican ticket has filed suit in the Grant Circuit Court against Dr. J. B. Alexander for $10,000 in damages for malpractice in severing his arm, some years ago. Frank Menefee at the time the amputation occurred was only a boy, and he was out hunting and in climbing a fence accidently discharged the shotgun he was carrying and the entire load took effect in his right arm. Dr. J. B. Alexander was called in and amputated the arm below the elbow. It is now alleged that the amputation was a very faulty one and has never properly healed, and that young Menefee has suffered excruciating and lasting pain from the injured member from the day of the operation to the present time and his damages are placed at $10,000. W. W. Dickerson is attorney for Menefee, and A. G. DeJarnette is the attorney for Alexander. Hot legal battle is expected. Dr. Alexander lives at Mason and has grown rich in worldly possessions.

A very handsome historical lithographic colored bird's-eye view of Chattanooga, Missionary Ridge and portions of Chickamauga field as seen from the summit of Lookout mountain, has been issued recently by the General Passenger Department of the Queen & Crescent Route. It is in the highest style of the lithographer's art, on fine eggshell paper. The color plate is 10x 24 inches, with extra wide margins of paper on all sides. The lithograph is a somewhat expensive one, and in view of that fact, a charge of ten cents is made per copy. Address with stamps, W. C. Rinearson,

It appears that T. C. King, of Carrollton, has the inside track in the contest for postmaster at that place. His appointment was a very great surprise to the Carrollton Republicans, who went to work to have the appointment revoked, but his commission was issued, and the latest news from Washington is that King will hold the fort.

There seems to be a great big job behind the Hawaiian annexation.—Hawesville Courier.

Of all the schemes to come before the next Congress, the most senseless is that of the annexation of Hawaii.—Owensboro Messenger.

AYLOR'S AYLOR'S AYLOR'S AYLOR'S

YOU WILL FIND US—

Very much alive in all that means business—and business that will be your business is what we are going to talk right along. Our business is to sell good, pure and fresh GROCERIES and PROVISIONS, and to point out to people the wisdom of patronizing our establishment.

IRA AYLOR, - - Erlanger, Ky.

AYLOR'S AYLOR'S AYLOR'S AYLOR'S

C. W. ROBINSON,
DEALER IN—
Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots and Shoes,
ALL KIND OF FEED AND FLOUR IN STOCK,
Agent for Weidler's Germ Food; Also agent for the Jones Fertilizers.
GOOD STABLE IN CONNECTION WITH STORE.
Constance, Ky.

METROPOLITAN COUPE & LIVERY COMPANY.
62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,
E. H. BAKER, Proprietor
Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.
Horses and Second-Hand Buggies for Sale.
Horses Sold on Commission.
Telephone 580.

CHAS. C. FRY. JACOB REIB.
FRY & REIB,
Manufacturers of and Dealers in all kinds of
Marble & Granite Monuments,
HEADSTONES, CORNER POSTS, ETC.,
109 Pike Sreet, - - - COVINGTON, K.
Near C. & O. R. R. Crossing. { Designs Furnished Upon Application.

Some Plain Facts.

Grave errors, injustice, wrongs of greater or less degree, arise from lack of knowledge of the truth, and more frequently from deception.

The most infamous case on record of deception and injustice is the attempt to demonetize silver as a money of final redemption in the United States.

There is no learned judge, skilled lawyer, or court of justice that is capable of reconciling the effort with the constitutional laws that govern the issue of money in this country.

The people have been deceived, officials in power, chosen to administer justice under the laws, have ignored their sworn duty, and given aid to the scheme that has paralyzed industry, reduced property values one-half, and beggared millions.

There is no authority of law, either specific or by inference, by which gold alone is made the only money with which to discharge debts, either public or private. The effort to make it so is unconstitutional and a national calamity.

Plain and ample information, facts, and truth, concerning this almost successful scheme to corner the wealth of the people, is now being printed in the Cincinnati Enquirer, a newspaper which the combined power of money has failed to muzzle or buy.

The Weekly Enquirer is only 75c. a year. The address is

Enquirer Company, Cincinnati, O.

What it Will Do.

FALMOUTH, KY. July 7, 1896.
Dr. J. T. Boulton, Cincinnati, O.
Dear Sir—I was taken with a severe cough the first of May; for two weeks I could not lie on my left side nor breathe through my left lung. I also had hemorrhage and my friends said I had consumption. I began taking Boulton's Cough Remedy and began to improve with the first dose, and within three weeks was entirely well. I can not say enough in favor of Boulton's Cough Remedy. Respectfully,
MRS. R. J. MARSHALL.
For sale by all druggists. Price, 25c. and $1 per bottle.

Frankfort & Cincinnati Railway.
Ask for tickets via this line. Schedule of trains in effect March 1, 1897.
East Bound.
Lve. Frankfort..... 6:30 a. m, 3:00 p. m
Arr. Georgetown...7:20 a. m. 4:15 p. m
West Bound.
Lve. Georgetown...10:40 a. m 6:30 p. m
Arr. Frankfort.....11:55 a. m 7:20 p. m
C. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.
Geo. B. Harper, Gen. Supt.
Frankfort, Ky.

H. S. STEVENSON,
Satisfaction Guaranteed.
DENTIST.
Prices Consistent with Good Services Only.
OFFICE:— Rising Sun, Indiana.

R. A. STEELE,
RISING SUN, IND.,
UNDERTAKING.
My Stock and accouterments are unsurpassed, having adult's black hearses and child's white hearse.
Independent of Undertakers' Union.
My prices are reasonable and my friends will tell you I give satisfaction.
FURNITURE
Large Stock of Latest Styles at Lowest Prices.
GIVE : ME : A : CALL.
BOOTS & SHOES
MADE TO ORDER.
Work Strictly First-Class.
Prices to Suit the Times.
Harness, Boots and Shoes Neatly Repaired. Give me a trial.
CHRISTIAN BECKER,
29spt2m Union, Ky.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U.S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C. A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXIII. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1897. NO. 9

The session of the legislature is near at hand.

THERE were six legal executions in the United States last Friday.

THE December term of the Boone Circuit Court consumed more time than was anticipated.

THE fellows who predicted that Congress would do nothing until after the holidays knew whereof they spoke.

HERE is wishing all the RECORDER'S subscribers a merry Christmas and an abundance of turkey and oysters.

IF the legislature will reestablish the whipping post it will prove a great saving to taxpayers in the way of jailers' fees.

KENTUCKY bidders secured over 1,500 contracts for mail routes in the West in the awards made at Washington last Thursday.

MANY of the members of Congress have returned home to spend the holidays and to drink good whisky with their constituents.

AFTER an animated debate on the Whitsitt controversy, the Alabama Baptist Association voted down both the majority and minority reports of the committee to which the matter had been referred, which the Whitsitt people claim is a victory for them.

THE National Civil Service Reform League finished its session at Cincinnati with a banquet last Friday night. Carl Schurz was re-elected President. Resolutions were adopted demanding that the Republican party fufill the pledge its for reform of the civil service,

THE Louisville Commercial says there will be no tariff tinkering at this term of Congress but the Commercial is noncommittal civil service tinkering, of which law it said a few months since that no convention is a Republican convention that did not endorse the civil service law.

"CONGRESSMAN COONEY, of Missouri," says the Courier-Journal, "wants to meet the Hawaiian question with a constitutional amendment providing that no new State the territory of which, or part thereof, not contiguous to the United States, shall be admitted by the Congress into the Union. But what is the constituton among annexationists? Already seeing defeat through the constitutional method of treaty ratification, they have determined to resort to extra constitutional means to get their job through."

THE President is between the devil and the deep sea on the question of civil serviee. His last publie utteranee was in favor of its extension, and has raised a terrible howl on the part of members of his party who want the offices to which it applies; and this element is reenforced by those in office who expect to retain their hold upon the public teat by assisting to place in office those of their constituents who are anxious to serve their country. The President is thoroughly committed to the enforcement of the civil service law, by both the Republican National platform and his message to Congress, but despite these facts there are about two hundred Republican Congressman who are making speeches that are antagonistic to the law, but its friends are claiming that not to exceed sixty will vote against it in its present shape, when the test comes.

SENATOR DEBOE has introduced a bill to improve and reform the civil service. The first section provides for a repeal of the present law. Heads of departments, according to section 2, are required to make all appointments in the civil service except those in the Presidential class. Heads of departments are to be required to prepare forms of examination, and all questions are to be wholly practical. There is to be an apportionment of offices among the States and Territories and District of Columbia, according to population. Names of applicants are to remain on the eligible list four years instead of one, as at present. A four-years tenure of office is fixed in the bill. The appointing officer is to be empowered, for the good of the service, to select any name on the eligible list.

The bill provides that the terms of all now in the service shall expire at the end of the year from the passage of the bill, but all incumbents are to be permitted to submit themselves to examination. All other things being equal, honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines are to be given the preference. Examinations are to be held twice yearly in all the States, and full power is conferred for the making of rules and regulations under which examinations are to be held and lists made up.

SENATOR LINDSAY says: "I do not expect very much at this session except a long and tedious debate over Hawaii. I believe also that this debate will end in failure for this pet scheme of the administration. It will be one of the bitterest fights that has been in the Senate for a long time, and think the end of the session will still find it being debated. As long as the treaty is being discussed no joint resolution to annex the islands will be permitted to come up, I imagine. Seeing that the treaty will fail, the annexationists might force a vote in order to get the right of way for a joint resolution, for I hardly think this will be done. The opposition to annexation is growing stronger every day, and I do not believe the administration will be able to have this mongrel population engrafted on us at this session at least.

"I do not expect to see anything done regarding Cuba until spring. If Spain is not able to put down the revolution by that time, I do not think that the President will have a legitimate excuse for inaction any longer. In fact, I think by that time the administration will be only too anxious to take up the Cuban matter as a popular policy."

THE Carrollton News gives the following in regard to the contest for the Carrollton post office:

"King is the king of the Republican party in Carroll county, and we would suggest to our Republican friends who are applicants for Government positions to seek his endorsement and influence at once. T. C. King wanted the Carrollton postoffice, which pays $1,300 per year, and set to work to get it. The party organization endorsed Mr. Andrew Darling, jr., one of the fittest men in the county for the position, and an exceedingly popular young business man, and every one was sanguine of his appointment, until about three weeks ago, when the announcement was made that Mr. King had secured the prize. This was a great blow to the leaders of the party in Carroll county, and immediately a howl and protests went to Washington, telling that the Postmaster General and the President had made a mistake; that it would not do to break down the party organization in that manner. Accordingly the commission, which was ready to be mailed to Mr. King, was held up, and about ten days ago it was announced that the commission had been revoked and Mr. Darling would be appointed, and the matter stood that way until Monday, when a telegram was received here announeing that King's appointment had been confirmed. Then the party leaders looked sick, indeed, but they all admit that Tom King is a clever gentleman and that his appointment will be acceptable to the people, but that they wanted Darling and did not like to be turned down. A. W. Darling, jr., is justly popular and an elegant gentleman, and his friends hope that he may get an appointment that would pay even better than the postoffiee, and every one, regardless of politics, would gladly sign such a petition and do everything honorable to help land him."

THOSE young ladies who are contemplating early marriage with old soldiers would better defer the wedding until it is seen what legislation this Congress will cnact calculated to defeat their pensions as widows.

GEORGE VANDERBILT has gone for a tour of Europe. Before leaving he took out an insurance poliey on his life for $2,000,000.

THE meanest thief on record does business in Covington. He steals crape off of doors of residences where the dead lie.

IT is said that Mrs. Pullman will contest her husband's will which gives the bulk of his estate to her daughters.

SPAIN wants to get mad about something contained in the President's message. She is easily offended, indeed.

SECRETARY LONG of the navy has expressed the hope that the civil service law will not be impaired.

Everything will have to surrender to the holidays—they have the right of way.

Pith of the Press.

Mr. Reed's red necktie is not giving satisfaction to the Democratic press.—Washington Post.

The John Sherman retirement rumor seems to be enjoying its first good rest.—Atlanta Journal.

By the way has Mark Hanna succeeded in pacifying the Ohio Legislature yet?—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

When it comes to estimating the r ances from a tariff law Mr. Dingley is about as reliable as an expert witness.—Detroit Tribune.

Durham Bull is the odd name of a Greenwood county farmer. His mother's name was Ann Durham and his father's name was Jonathan Bull.—Kansas City Times.

Now Postmaster General Gary is being boomed for the Maryland Senatorship. The fates seem bound to play havoc with the McKinley Cabinet.—Boston Herald.

Reports from Washington represent Mr. Reed as being in an amiable frame of mind, and disposed to grant the Senate autonomy under suitable restrictions.—Detroit Tribune.

Hon. Benjamin Harrison thinks the President's message "generally most admirable." Mr. Harrison retains the art of refraining from becoming undulyenthusiastic.—Washington Post.

It will not do to point the finger of scorn at Texas because a town has been sold there for $90.000. There are towns in New England that wouldn't feteh that price on a forced sale.—Boston Herald,

Weyler doesn't understand the President. Mr. McKinley was forced to denounce Weyler in order to reconeile Americans to the Administration's friendliness to Spain.—St. Louis Post-Dispateh.

Senator Allen and Mason are amply able to make it warm for the American pacificos in the Senate, and there are plenty of representatives to take care of the same class in the House.—Omaha World-Herald.

The Republican Congress has agreed "not to disturb the Dingley bill." Certainly not! The problem is to find some way of preventing the Dingley bill from disturbing the Republican Congress.—N. Y. World.

Having been properly importuned Hon. Shelby M. Cullom has consented to become a candidate for re election. The Illinois Legislature is now at work rearranging the district so that Mr. Cullom's ambition may be cinchified.—Washington Post.

Being an Ohio man President McKinley should be well enough acquainted with Grosvenor by this time to know that when he goes hunting for Civil Serviee Reform he means to kill it as dead as Julius Caesar if he can.—Philadelphia Times.

An item of $10,000 for an agrieultural experiment station in Alaska is a featurc in the Agricultural Appropriation Bill. What agricultural product can be grown in Alaska, with the exception of ice-cream, is what the world would like to know. —Courier Journal.

Whatever may have been the defects and shorteomings of the Wilson-Gorman law, there is no excuse or justification for the defects and shorteomings of the Dingley law; it should have cured the defects and shorteomings of its predecessor. —Salt Lake Herald.

The saddest feature of the christening of the battleship "Kentucky" will be the breaking of a bottle of rare, old Kentucky liquor over her bows. This is one lone proposition upon which both temperance and anti-temperance people will stand together with both feet.

Mr. McKinley and Mr. Gage knew, as every other man on the inside knew, that the Republican platform of 1896 meant the single gold standard, greenbaek retirement and all other things essential to the scheme to deliver complete control of finanees to Wall street.—Omaha World Herald.

Hanna ran off to New York to get rid of the office seekers. For very important reasons he doesn't want to make appointments now, for he knows that for every friend he makes in giving out an office he makes a hundred enemies, and at present he has enough of the latter without making more.—Senaca (O) Advertiser.

Dispatches from the duck region report the assignment of the Government launch Water Lily to speeial duty as a pleasure boat for Hon. Grover Cleveland, fromerly President of the United States. With his feet onee more on the deck of a Government tender Mr. Cleveland becomes again, in a certain sense, a public character.—N. Y. Sun.

Politicians remark that President McKinley has a plan, that Secretary Gage has a plan, that the Indianapolis Monetary Conference will soon give birth to a plan, that Mr. Walker, head of the House Committee on Banking and Currency, has, and for years has had, a plan, that nearly every other member of the committee has. He has a plan.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Women Who Should Not Marry.

The woman who proudly declares that she can not even hem a pocket handkerchief, never made up a bed in her life, and adds with a simper that she has "been in society ever since she was fifteen."

The woman who would rather nurse a pug dog than a baby.

The woman who thinks she can get $5,000 worth of style out of a $1,000 salary.

The woman who wants to refurnish her house every spring.

The woman who buys for the mere pleasure of buying.

The woman who does not know how many cents, halves, quarters, dimes and nickels there are in a dollar.

The woman who thinks that men are angels and demigods.

The woman who would rather die than wear a bonnet two seasons old.

The woman who thinks the cook and the nurse can keep house.

The woman who thinks it is cheaper to buy bread than to make it.

The woman who buys brie-a-brac for the parlor and borrows kitchen utensils from her neighbors.

The woman who wants certain things just because "other women" have them.

The woman who thinks she is an ornament to her sex if she wins a progressive euchre prize.—Philadelphia Times.

A very handsome historical lithographic colored bird's-eye view of Chattanooga, Missionary Ridge and portions of Chickamauga field as seen from the summit of Lookout mountain, has been issued recently by the General Passenger Department of the Queen & Crescent Route. It is in the highest style of the lithographer's art, on fine eggshell paper. The color plate is 10x 24 inches, with extra wide margins of paper on all sides. The lithograph is a somewhat expensive one, and in view of that fact, a charge of ten cents is made per copy. Address with stamps, W. C. Rinearson,

Strange world indeed will this be when all traces of superstition will have disappeared. The half-way belief in departed spirits coming back to this old earth at times seems to linger with the learned as well as the uneducated. Down in Henderson county, about midway between the towns of Corydon and Cairo, close by the roadside, a gentle declivity, grown up in bushes and briars and a few scattering oaks and cedar trees, tells the story of a onee thrifty burying ground, but long since abandoned. Forty years ago a church stood there, and the place was known as Pleasant Hill. Campmeetings were held there periodically, and it was the most popular religious resort in the county. Many weird tales have been told by both the white and colored population of the community about ghosts and goblins seen there at all times during the night. Horses have been known to refuse to pass the place at night, so some of the older residents of the neighborhood relate. The lonesomeness of the old deserted spot is certainly indescribable. This may add weight to the belief that the place is haunted. At any rate there are many so-called disbelievers in ghost theories of the neighboring country, who, when they pass the old graveyard at night, feel that weakness in the actionof the heart that tells one to look neither to right nor left, but keep straight ahead, while many prefer to do all their traveling along that way when ghosts are said never to walk.—Louisville Post.

Mrs. Catherine Hendrix, the oldest woman in the county, died at her home at Napoleon Tuesday, December 14. in the ninety-sixth year of her age.—Warsaw Independent.

COUNTY DIRECTORY.

County Judge—Benjamin Stephens.
County Clerk—B. W. Adams.
County Attorney—J. M. Lassing.
Sheriff—C. C. Roberts.
Jailer—C. L. Crisler.
Assessor—R. A. Brady.
Coroner—A. A. Murat.
Superintendent Schools—L. H. Voshell.
Surveyor—W. E. Vest.
Fiscal Court meets Tuesday after first Monday in January, April, July and October.

RAILROAD COMMISSION:
John C. Wood, Chairman; L. P. Dempsey, H. S. Irwin. Secretary-Samuel Brown.

CIRCUIT COURT.
Judge—John W. Green.
Clerk—J. W. Duncan.
Commonwealth's Attorney—M. D. Gray.
Master Commissioner—J. B. Berkshire.

JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.
Courts are held in the months of March, June, September and December, as follows:
District No 1.—O. W. Gaines, fourth Saturday; J. H. Grigler, Constable.
District No. 2.—M. B. Green, first Saturday; Jake Cook, Constable.
District No. 3.—R. L. Roberts, wednesday after third Monday; T. M. Rich, Constable.
District No. 4.—H. Bannister, Thursday after second Monday; Add Rideout, Constable.
District No. 5.—T. E. Roberts, fourth Monday; J. H. Watson, Constable.
District No. 6.—Joseph Wagstaff, third Saturday; Simeon Tanner, Constable.

STATE DIRECTORY.
Governor—W. O. Bradley.
Lieutenant Governor—W. J. Worthington.
Secretary of State—Charles Finley.
Assistant Secretary of State—E. D. Guffy.
Attorney General—W. S. Taylor.
Auditor—Samuel H. Stone.
Assistant Auditor—Frank Johnson.
Treasurer—George W. Long.
Sup't of Public Instruction—Geo. M. Davidson.
Register Land Office—Charles O. Reynolds.
Deputies—Stanley D. Brown, Sam S. Shepherd.
Insurance Commissioner—T. M. Cunningore.
Adjutant General—D. R. Collier.
Assistant—Walter Forrester.
Supt. Arsenal—Capt. David O'Connell.
State Inspector—C. W. Lester.
Commissioner Agriculture—Lucas Moore.

COURT OF APPEALS.
Chief Justice—Joseph Lewis. Judges—Geo. Durelle, J. R. Grace, T. H. Payater, B. L. D. Guffy, J. H. Hazelrigg, J. H. Lewis.
Reporter—E. W. Hines. Clerk—A. Addams.
Sergeant—W. S. B. Hill. Tipstaff—C. C. Turner.
Librarian—Mrs. Mary Brown Day.
Inspector of Mines—C. J. Norwood.

STATE PRISON OFFICIALS:
Frankfort Prison—Warden, Henry George; Deputy Warden, M. A. Rooney.
Eddyville Prison—Warden, L. C. Curry; Deputy Warden, Ward Linn.

J. P. LINDSAY & CO.,
—DEALERS IN—
HARD AND SOFT
:COAL,:
Erlanger, - - Ky.
Coal Sold on Cars at the Lowest Possible Prices.
J. O. HUEY, MANAGER.

B. F. BUCHANAN.
— DRUGGIST, —
Rising Sun, - Indiana.
Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the Corner Drug Store.

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF BOONE COUNTY,
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.
E. H. BLANKENBECKER, - President, Florence, Ky.
D. E. LAWELL, - Vice-President.
OSCAR GAINES, Secretary, Burlington.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
EXECUTIVE BOARD—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
J. E. SMITH, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky.
W. M. ROGERS, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

FOR SALE--This Fall.
STRAWBERRY PLANTS.
Bubach No. 5. P. Greenville P.
Parker Earl, Haverlan,
And other Varieties.
LIGHT BRAHMA FOWLS.
Blackberry & Raspberry Sprouts.
For further information write to
WM. C. ROUSE, Limaburg, Ky.

D. E. CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone Kenton, Grant and Gallatin. Collections pushed energetically.

G. G. HUGHES,
ATTORNEY AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to me.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given t Collections entrusted to him. mch22-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by mail promptly attended to.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL
LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Prompt Attention Given to Collections

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections. Office—In residence near post-office.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,
DENTIST.
Will be in Lawrenceburg, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.
At Aurora, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Practiced for 30 years.
No Poisonous Gasses Used.

S. W. ADAMS,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
ERLANGER, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the courts of Boone and Kenton counties. Collections and general law practice.

W. E. VEST. B. L. RICE.
VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.
Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged, Money to Loan on Real Estate, Notes bought, sold & Negotiated.
All communications addressed to W. E. VEST, Burlington, Ky.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1886.)
CAPITAL, ... $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 19,000
Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK.
(INCORPORATED 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY
CAPITAL PAID IN..... $50,000
SURPLUS,..... $ 3.000
Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

Dr. J. L. Adams,
DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.
All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession.
Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

W. N. HIND & CO.,
—DEALERS IN—
Furniture, Carpets, Stoves,
And all Kinds of
Household Goods,
213 W. Fifth St.
4 Doors W. of Elm, Cincinnati, O.
Telephone No. 1284.

JOHN L. VEST,
SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of work south of Burlington, Ky. Prompt attention given to all mail orders.

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : KENTUCKY.

A SOUTHERNER says that the daisy was not known in the south until after the war. Now every part of the south visited by the northern troops is full of daisies. Sherman's march to the sea can be followed in the summer time by the track of the white flower. The seed was brought in the hay sent from the north to feed the horses.

ATTEMPTS to evade the death duties act are causing queer complications in England. An old man transferred all his property by deed of gift to his young wife, not expecting that he would survive her. She made a will leaving it to a former beau of hers, and then was killed on the hunting field. The husband was thus left dependent on the lover's generosity.

Two thousand dollars deposited by a man named Samuel Lord has been piling up interest at the Somersworth, N. H., bank for 39 years, during which time nobody has appeared to claim it. The fact was published, and after investigations and other necessary delays, Mrs. Lucy S. Towle, of Newfield, a granddaughter of Mr. Samuel Lord, of Parsonsfield, has been proved the lawful heir, and comes into the inheritance of the $2,000 plus the sum of $8,667.87 interest.

MAINE has 18 starch factories, the largest number of any one state. Over 3,000 persons are employed in this industry in the United States, and the annual value of the output is $10,000,000. Abont 2,824,512 bushels of potatoes are used yearly to produce 21,000,000 pounds of starch, the value of which is $854,697. In the west starch is made chiefly from wheat and Indian corn. In respect to the amount of capital represented in starch works New York stands away and beyond all others.

THE agricultural department is now engaged in a series of experiments with the laying of steel tracks on country roads which open up possibilities of economical hauling of which past generations never dreamed. It appears that roads may be equipped with these rails at a cost not greatly if at all, in excess of macadamizing, and perhaps much more cheaply. Private experimenters are working along the same lines, and the results obtained by some of them are truly astonishing.

THE Belgians are extremely careful of their historic souvenirs. In the front of a house situated in the Faubourg de Shearbrah, in Brussels, there is to be seen, half buried in plaster, a cannon ball which was fired from a Dutch cannon some time during the revolution of 1830, and has ever since been permitted to remain where it struck. Recently it was determined to restore and refront the house, and it was decided to make the repairs without disturbing the cannon ball.

BEFORE sailing for Europe and encountering the perils of a globe-trotter, George W. Vanderbilt took out $1,000,000 insurance on his life. The policy was taken in the Mutual Life Insurance company. It is the largest policy ever issued by any company in the world. The next largest policy ever written is said to have been entered into by an English concern, which reinsured much of the risk in other companies. The policy is in the straight life, twenty-year class, and the annual premium is $35,000.

AMONG the bills introduced at the present session is one which proposes to put on the retired list as officers of the United States navy, without pay, past, present or future, all surviving active volunteer officers who served for a year or more in the rebellion. It is further provided that each of these officers being on the retired list shall be presented with a regulation sword, with the inscription: "Presented by the United States in recognition of services in the United States navy during the war of the rebellion."

FOR 40 years the old stone house at Tappan, N. Y., which was converted into a prison during the revolutionary war, and about which cluster memories of one of the most tragic incidents of that dark time, has been closed to public view. It was behind those gray walls that Maj. John Andre spent the last days of his short life, and it was from that house that he was taken on October 3, 1780, and executed as a spy. Now it is being converted into a public resorted, and those darkened rooms will re-echo with merry laughter and the rythmic shuffle of dancing feet.

THE Luke Bros., who received the contract for manufacturing postal cards, have completed the building for the plant at Luke, near Cumberland, Md. It is estimated that 2,000,000 cards a day will be about the capacity of the plant. This is the first time that postal cards have been manufactured south of Mason and Dixon's line. There will be two sizes of cards, the larger measuring five and one-half inches long and three and one-quarter inches wide. On the larger card the profile of Jefferson will be printed, while the smaller card will carry the likeness of John Adams.

CHARLES HULSHIZER, an Erie railroad engineer, who runs one of the fastest trains over the Delaware division, had an exciting experience in a three-mile race between a deer and his engine, No. 117. Just as his train bowled into Shimer's cut he saw a noble buck standing on the railroad track in advance of him. As the train reached the animal it started to run. Hulshizer let out his engine, but the deer kept fully 20 yards ahead of him, and for three miles kept up a pace equal to the train, and finally jumped from the track, gave a snort and disappeared in the woods.

A FATAL BLAZE.

Large Hotel at Grand Forks, N. D., Destroyed by Fire—It is Thought at Least Six Persons Perished.

GRAND FORKS, N. D., Dec. 18.—The hotel Dakota, a large five-story structure, was completely destroyed by fire Friday morning, also two large wholesale houses adjoining, Nash Bros. and the Grand Forks Mercantile Co. In the hotel there were 150 guests.

At least six persons lost their lives in the burning of the hotel Dakota here Friday morning.

The names of the dead could not be learned except those of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Howe.

On the third floor were two commercial traveling men, who are believed to have perished, a dining room girl and a railroad man, whose name is not known, is also missing. As the register is burned the number of dead can not definitely be known.

NASHUA, N. H., Dec. 18.—The dispatches received Friday announcing the burning of buildings at Grand Forks, S. D., owned by the Security Trust Co., of this city, caused gloom here among the holders of stock in that organization.

The hotel which was burned cost $174,000 and was built with trust company money. The company loses about $154,000 on the building. The Peerless building, also built with Security Trust money, was mortaged for $30,000, nominally the full value, so that the loss will be total.

The Nash building was in the name of Frank E. Anderson, of this city. It was built with the Trust Co.'s money and bore a $12,000 mortgage.

The total loss to the company is about $175,000. The insurance amounts to $85,000, making a net loss of $90,000.

LAST GATE GONE.

The Fleming County Raiders Down the Tollhouse Near Flemingsburg.

FLEMINGSBURG, Ky., Dec. 18.—Raiders were abroad Friday night and destroyed the remaining gate in Fleming county, two miles from here, on the Maysville and Mt. Sterling pike. Angered by the persistency with which the turnpike officials have collected toll at this gate, the mob set fire to the tollhouse and burned it to the ground. Only a few days ago they took James Maher, the gatekeeper, and whipped him with switches. The gatekeeper was not to be found Thursday night. County Judge Boge has offered a reward for the incendiaries and has telegraphed Gov. Bradley. The officials of the road are bound by contract not to put the county to any expense in guarding the gates.

WARRANTS ISSUED

For the Arrest of McCoy and Creedon—Furnish Bonds Not to Violate the Law.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Police Justice Duffy, of Long Island, issued warrants Friday for the arrest of McCoy and Creedon, on complaint of Peter Leininger and J. Rufus Terry, of the Long Island City Purification society.

Lawyer Francis Vau Vetchen, representing the athletic club, said the men would be in court at 2 o'clock and that they would furnish bonds not to violate the law.

District Attorney Youngs received a letter Friday from Gov. Black regarding the contest, but the district attorney would not make the contents public.

Well-Known Publisher Dead.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 18.—Robert W. Carroll, one of Cincinnati's oldest citizens, died at his home on Linden avenue, in Avondale. Mr. Carroll was for years the head of the leading publishing house in the west. The firm was known as R. W. Carroll & Co., and during the war occupied the stores now occupied by the Joseph R. Peebles Grocery Co. Upon the retirement of Mr. Carroll from active business life the business was sold to Robert Clarke & Co.

Hon. Samuel A. Miller Dying.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 8.—Hon. Samuel A. Miller, well-known scientist, lawyer and politician, who has been ill at his home, on Torrence road, for several weeks, began to sink rapidly Friday and his physicians, Dr. Watson and Dr. Walker, have abandoned all hope of his recovery. At a late hour Friday night the flame of life was burning so low as to be almost imperceptible, and the end is but a few hours off at the furthest.

Electric Light Plant Burned.

PORT HURON, Mich., Dec. 18.—The Excelsior Electric Light works caught fire about 8:30 o'clock Friday morning and at 10 o'clock was a complete ruin. The loss to the company can not be estimated until an examination is made of the dynamos and other machinery, but it is thought it will run anywhere from $25,000 to $75,000. The origin of the fire is unknown, but probably started from the boiler room.

Masked Robbers' Bloody Work.

CLIFTON, Ark., Dec. 18.—Mr. Patterson, a prominent farmer living six miles from this place, was shot to death by two masked men, who also seriously, although not fatally, wounded his son and daughter-in-law. Robbery is supposed to have been the motive for the crime. Two suspects have been arrested.

Mark Twain Paying Up.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—The World says that Mark Twain has recently paid $25,000 to the creditors of the publishing firm of W. L. Webster & Co., in which he was a partner. He has now paid 75 per cent. of the debt which he considered himself in honor bound to make good.

Killed by Dynamite.

AKRON, O., Dec. 18.—Peter Dettling and Albert Mellinger went to examine a dynamite blast which failed to explode. The blast went off. Dettling was fatally hurt and Mellinger seriously injured. The accident occurred on a farm near Cuyahoga Falls.

Luetgert Jury Completed.

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—Once more 12 men sit in the box to hear the evidence tending to show the guilt or innocence of Adolph L. Luetgert, alleged wife murderer. The man who will take the place of Henry Boasburg is Robert Anders, a shoemaker, 45 years old.

FIRE IN ST. LOUIS.

Mermod & Jaccard Jewelry Co., Locust and Broadway, Burned Out.

Loss Will Aggregate $335,000—Not a Dollar's Worth of Salvage Was Taken Out So Fierce Was the Heat—The Firm Will Occupy New Quarters.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 20.—A fire started in the basement of the building occupied by the Mermod & Jaccard Jewelry company at the corner of Locust street and Broadway at an early hour Sunday morning, and in an almost incredible short time the five-story building was completely gutted. The total loss will reach $335,000, fully covered by insurance.

The fire had been burning some time before it was discovered at 4:40 o'clock, and at 5 o'clock the south wall and all the floors began falling, making one of the fiercest and quickest fires in the annals of the city. Next to the boiler room in the basement was a room used for packing. It is thought the fire started in the boiler room, communicating to the packing room and shooting up the elevator shaft quickly spread over the building. W. A. Rutledge, the engineer and his family lived on the fourth flour. They barely escaped with their lives. The firemen dragged them unconscious from their beds and carried them down the fire escape. Many cottages later the floors fell. The crop lights tenants in the building escaped, but there were [illegible] yielding as well.

The Mermod & Jaccard Jewelry Co. was one of the largest in the world, and this being Christmas season, carried an immense stock. One-half of the stock had been placed in the two large vaults and saved, but the rest, as well as the buildings and its fixtures, were totally destroyed.

So fierce was the fire that not a dollar's worth of salvage was taken out.

The Model Cloak Co. in the northeast corner of the building was wiped out, sustaining a loss of $50,000 on which there is an insurance of three-fourths.

The firm carried insurance amounting to $400,000 which, if the stock in the vaults is found intact, will amply cover the loss sustained.

The building was owned by the estate of the late Luther M. Kennett, but under lease to the Mermod-Jaccard Co. The firm estimated the value of the building at $125,000, upon which was an insurance of $168,000.

Late Sunday night the burned out firm decided to continue in business and will take possession of the store and stock of another leading jeweler of this city, which they have bought. The firm that goes out of business is that of A. Kurtzeborn & Sons.

SANTA CLAUS

Should Be Relegated to the Class of Mythical Personages, Decides the Child Garden Conference.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—Santa Claus as a material being must be relegated to the "Mother Goose" and "Jack the Giant Killer" class of mythical personages in the minds of the coming generation if the moral development of future generations is to be considered. This was decided at the Child Garden conference held at Handel hall. The general sentiment of those who attended was that, while the belief in Santa Claus should not be allowed to die out entirely, the youth of the nation should be educated up to the fact that the Christmas tide Saint is only a story. The final enlightenment, which comes about the time that the children enter school, it was held, did much toward causing the young people to look with skepticism upon almost everything with which they came in contact which was for the time being beyond their comprehension.

IN THE PRIZE RING

Bob Fitzsimmons and James Corbett Will Meet Again in the Near Future.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—Fitzsimmons and Corbett are to meet again in the prize ring. The date of the battle is indefinite but the lanky pugilist declared Sunday that he had changed his mind and will give Corbett another chance. Martin Julian, the champion's manager confirmed the statement.

"Some day before long we will give Corbett another chance," said Julian. "Not now, that is a certainty; but before long. How long I can not say."

Asked if that was not a concession on the part of Fitzsimmons, Julian replied it was not, as that idea had been in the mind of "Bob" for a long time.

A Gift to McGill University.

MONTREAL, Dec. 20.—W. C. McDonald, the millionaire tobacco manufacturer, whose gifts to McGill university already aggregate nearly three million dollars, has just given $250,000 more to the institution. Fifty thousand of this sum is to be used as an endowment in strengthening the law faculty and the remaining $200,000 is for the scientific department, in the building of which his previous donations have been principally used.

Lewis Leland Critically Ill.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Lewis Leland, 54 years old, a member of the well known Leland family of hotel keepers, was taken to the New York hospital Sunday night for treatment. He is suffering from uraemic and lung troubles and is not likely to recover. Mr. Leland's sister died last week from the same cause at her home in Brooklyn.

Deals in the Western Baseball League.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—Two deals in players were made by Western baseball league magnates Sunday. Detroit gave up Beard and Trost for Buckley and Butler, of Columbus, the exchange depending upon the willingness of the players. The other deal makes Campau captain of the Minneapolis club. He is released by Grand Rapids in exchange for Roat and Eustice.

An Alton Train Wrecked.

PONTIAC, Ill., Dec. 20.—The north-bound Alton train was wrecked near here at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Seven people were seriously hurt.

A SEVERE BLOW

Against the British and Canadian Sealskin Industries Is the Passage of the Bill Relating to Pelagic Sealing in Behring Sea.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—It has developed that the bill relating to pelagic sealing which has just passed both branches of congress and is before the president, contains a provision of far reaching importance which has thus far escaped attention. This places an absolute prohibition on the further bringing of sealskins into the United States from any source whatever. As the United States is the largest market in the world for sealskins this complete stoppage in the trade in this country will be a severe measure against the British and Canadian industries which take and cure the skins and then dispose of them largely in the United States.

The provision is as follows:

Section 9. That the importation into the United States by any person whatsoever of fur seal skins taken in the waters mentioned in the act, whether raw, dressed, dyed or manufactured, is hereby prohibited, and all such articles imported after this act shall take effect shall not be permitted to be exported, but shall be seized and destroyed by the proper officers of the United State [illegible]

Those who are thoroughly familiar with the bill say this provision is of far more importance in its effect than the prohibition against pelagic sealing by Americans.

Secretary Gage Friday sent to the senate his reply to Senator Cannon's resolution inquiring about use of revenue cutters to prevent filibustering expeditions. The McLane, Winona, Rantwell, Colfax and Forward have been used for this purpose on the Florida coast, and the report shows that the course adopted by the treasury department was in compliance with President Cleveland's proclamation and with numerous sections of the revised statutes which Secretary Gage quotes.

At the treasury department it was said Friday that the redemption of the Pacific railroad currency 6s would be made by checks sent out from the department on the 24th inst. It was expected that these checks would be offset by deposits by the Union Pacific reorganization committee so that no disturbance of the money market would result from the large operations involved. The checks will go through the New York clearing house.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—The president Friday sent the following nominations to the senate:

State—William W. Thomas, jr., of Maine, to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Sweden and Norway; Hamilton King, of Michigan, to be minister resident and consul general of the United States to Siam; James C. McNally, Pennsylvania, to be secretary of legation and consul general of the United States at Bogota, Colombia; Edgar O. Achorn, of Massachusetts, to be secretary of the legation of the United States, at St. Petersburg, Russia.

Treasury—Nathan B. Scott, of West Virginia, to be commissioner of internal revenue; John Peterson, collector of customs for the district of Minnesota; Edward C. Duncan, of North Carolina, to be collector of internal revenue for the fourth district of North Carolina.

A bill has been introduced in the house which provides that in case any person drawing a pension is put into a federal office either by appointment, election or otherwise, in which the emoluments equal or exceed $100 a month, such person shall not during his incumbency of that office receive any pension. Upon the termination of such employment the pension is to be restored.

"KID" M'COY

The Middle-Weight Champion Pugilist of the World.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Norman Selby, of Rush county, Ind., better known in pugilistic circles as "Kid" McCoy, is undoubtedly the middle-weight champion pugilist of the world. He met Dan Creedon, of New Zealand, Friday night in the arena of the Puritan Athletic club at Long Island City, and after relively rounds made the foreigner throw up the spong and acknowledge the "Hoosier's" superiority. Long before the big event took place the frame building in which it was held was crowded to excess, and bets were freely made with McCoy the favorite at 10 to 8. The "Kid's" wonderful science and self-possession were always in evidence and these, combined with the advantage of height and reach, enabled him to outpoint his more stockily built antagonist. From the moment the men put up their hands in the opening round, McCoy's stock began to ascend and at the end of the sixth round McCoy's backers were offering three to one on their man. "McCoy is a wonder," was the universal comment when the fight was over and no one, even those who bet against him, begrudged him his well won laurels.

Unprovoked Murder in Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 18.—Claude Bryant, a bar tender at Abe Both's saloon, Sixth and Green streets, was shot and killed Friday morning by Curtis Dearing, son of Charles T. Dearing president of the Louisville Book Co., and one of the most prominent citizens of Louisville. Bryant was unarmed while Dearing used two revolvers, firing nine shots in all. The killing was entirely unprovoked. Dearing was arrested and presented in the police court immediately after the killing. The case was continued until Saturday.

A New Press Association.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 18.—The Associated Labor Press of America has been organized with 40 charter members. Its principal object will be to disseminate labor news throughout the country, to be given only to members of the organization. It has adopted a badge, which will be distributed among the members, and which entitles the wearer to attend all conferences of unions and to receive reliable news in the event of strikes or other controversies. The officers are as follows: President, D. Douglass Wilson, of Chicago; secretary, Stephe S. Bonbright, of Cincinnati.

THE RUSSIANS,

It is Reported, Have Taken Possession of Port Arthur.

The Harbor is Free From Ice the Year Round, Which is Not the Case With Vladivostock, Present Headquarters of the Russian Fleet in the East.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—A dispatch to the Standard from Vienna says it is rumored there that the Russians have occupied Port Arthur.

Port Arthur, which is situated at the extremity of Kwang-Tung peninsula, has practically been in the hands of Russia for some time past. After the Japanese evacuated the port, which was the scene of the terrible massacree of Chinese during the war with Japan, Russian engineers began supervising the reconstruction of the docks and forts which had been destroyed by the Japanese previous to leaving the place.

Previous to the war between China and Japan, Port Arthur was the largest naval station possessed by the Chinese and was strongly fortified. There was a naval dock yard there, built by the French company, a large refitting basin with a depth of 25 feet at the lower water, spacious wharves and quays, two docks, one 490 feet long, and facilities for repairing ships of all sizes, from ironclads to torpedo boats. The foundries and work shops were constructed on the most improved models and contained the best modern machinery. Japan was very anxious to hold Port Arthur permanently, but Russia strongly objected and would have backed up her objection by force. Russia's great anxiety to possess Port Arthur is due to the fact that the harbor is free from ice all the winter, which is not the case with Vladivostock, the present headquarters of the Russian fleet in the far east. It is proposed to connect Port Arthur with the Russian railroad now being built through Manchuria, which in turn will connect with the Great Trans-Siberia railroad.

Telegrams from all the continental capitals show that Russia's step at Port Arthur is regarded as tantamount as a permanent occupation and a reply to Germany's action.

A well informed St. Petersburg correspondent says there was no agreement between Russia and Germany and that the latter simply warned Russia when the occupation of Kiao-Chau was already decided upon.

NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Interesting Information From the Seat of Government.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The programme of the appropriation bills to be reported to the house has been outlined in a general way. The appropriations committee will get to work on the District of Columbia bill just before congress convenes after the holiday recess, and it will be several weeks before it can be put in shape for report. The next bill the committee will take up is the fortifications, and the sundry civil bill will be brought up late in February or March as now indicated. All these will originate with the appropriations committee. The army bill will be reported to the full committee in the first week after the recess and will go to the house probably early the following week. It will carry a large decrease from the estimates though an increase over the last year's appropriations. The agricultural bill will be finished by the sub-committee the first week after the recess and will be reported immediately. The naval bill is now pending the consideration of the subcommittee. The post office appropriation bill may be called up Monday if the sub-committee is here then, but at any rate will not be reported until the middle or latter part of January.

A bi-monthly service between New York and the ports of Hayti has been established by the Clyde Line Steamship Co., which United States Minister Powell, at Port-Au-Prince, says in a report to the state department, will be the first American line to carry our flag under American registry to Hayti. He regards the outlook as bright for the success of the new venture.

The total output of sugar from the Hawaiian Islands for the year just closing, according to the figures of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' association, transmitted to the state department by United States Consul General Haywood, is put down as 248,567 tons as against 248,555 tons last year. The planters have had more trouble than usual on account of desertions, especially with the Japanese. Ten Japanese gave trouble to one Chinese. Of the 22,000 laborers on the plantations 9,109 were contract Japanese, 5,285 free Japanese, 4,950 contract Chinese, and 1,911 free Chinese. The number of laborers whose contracts expire next year is 2,017, and the number wanted is 4,273. The Japanese seem to be preferred by the planters as laborers.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Both houses of congress have adjourned until January 3 next. The Klondike relief bill was put through its final stages before adjournment.

Death of John Gillespie.

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 20.—John Gillespie, territorial auditor of Nebraska and a member of the commission which founded the city of Lincoln and made it the seat of the state government, died here Sunday, aged 65.

Cleveland Joins a Club.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Grover Cleveland has joined the Princeton University Cottage club. This club is open only to the members of the senior and junior classes of the university and honorary members. It corresponds to a fraternity in other colleges.

Two Brothers Charged With Murder.

BUSTON, Tenn., Dec. 20.—Walter and Jack Marks, well-known stock dealers, were arrested charged with the murder of Mrs. Rebecca Carlton, Jack's mother-in-law, which occurred in Denton valley last week. They were bound to court without bail.

Whaling Fleet in Danger.

It is predicted that the vessels of the whaling fleet, most of whose underwriters are in San Francisco, have been caught in the ice and some may not last through the siege. Danger also threatens those who neglect what are called "trifling" ailments, for they may not last through the year. Resort to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters at once for incipient rheumatism, malaria, constipation, nervousness and kidney complaint.

Timely.

First Klondike Miner (wallowing through snowdrifts higher than his cabin, his ears, nose, toes and fingers frozen, chatteringly) —M-M-Merry C-C-Christmas, m-m-my m-m-m-

FINANCIAL BILL.

The Measure Prepared by Secretary Gage Introduced in the House.

Provisions for Refunding the National Debt —To Establish a Redemption Fund and a Division of Issue and Redemption in the Treasury Department.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The currency bill framed by Secretary Gage was introduced in the house Thursday by Chairman Walker, of the banking and currency committee. It is as follows:

BE IT ENACTED, etc. That there be established in the treasury department, as part of the office of the treasurer of the United States, a division to be designated and known as the division of issue and redemption, to which will be assigned, under such regulations as the secretary of the treasury may approve, all records and accounts relating to the issue, redemption and exchange, as hereinafter provided, of the several classes of United States paper money.

There shall be transferred from the general fund in the treasury of the United States, and taken up on the books of said division as a redemption fund, the sum of $123,000,000 in United States gold coin and bullion, and such further sums of standard silver dollars and silver bullion purchased under the act of congress, approved July 14, 1890, as shall equal the silver certificates outside the treasury, and treasury notes issued and outstanding, issued when this act shall take effect. And thereafter the gold and silver coins and bullion hereby transferred from the general fund to the treasury as herein provided shall be maintained undiminished, as the case may be, in accordance with the provisions of this act, and in no other way.

Sec. 2. That all United States notes, treasury notes of 1890 and silver certificates presented for redemption shall be redeemed from the redemption fund herein provided, in accordance with the terms and conditions of the notes and certificates so redeemed shall be held in and constitute a part of said fund, and shall not be withdrawn from said fund nor disbursed, except in exchange for an equivalent amount of the coin in which said notes or certificates were redeemed; but to enable the secretary of the treasury more thoroughly to carry out the provisions contained in this section he is hereby authorized to exchange any of the funds in the division of issue and redemption for any other funds which may be in the general fund of the treasury department: Provided, that nothing in this act shall be construed as repealing that provision of the act approved July 14, 1890, which provides that there shall be coined each month from the silver bullion purchased by the secretary of the treasury under said act not less than four million five hundred thousand ounces, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay for the bullion purchased during the calendar month next preceding each of such coinages, and that all the silver coinage aforesaid shall be issued in redemption of treasury notes, or certificates, or purchases of bullion, as provided in said act.

Sec. 3. That the secretary of the treasury be and he is hereby authorized to receive at the treasury any of the outstanding United States paper currency, fifty per centum bonds of 1891 and the four per centum consols of 1907, issued respectively under the act approved January 14, 1875, and treasury notes issued under the act approved July 30, 1874, and to issue in exchange therefor coupon or registered bonds of the United States, in such form as he may prescribe, in denominations of fifty dollars, or any multiple of that sum, bearing interest at the rate of two and one-half per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, and redeemable at the pleasure of the United States at any time after two and after their issue; and the bonds hereby authorized shall be payable, principal and interest, in United States gold coin of the present standard value, and shall be exempt from taxation by or under state, municipal or local authority: Provided that none of the outstanding bonds shall be received at a valuation greater than their present worth, to yield an interest of two and one-half per centum per annum, and that the bonds hereby authorized shall be issued at not less than par.

Sec. 4. That the bonds authorized by this act, and any other bonds of the United States, may be deposited with the treasurer of the United States as security for the circulating notes of national banking associations, and any national banking association which may deposit the bonds herein authorized to be deposited as security for its circulating notes shall be entitled to receive from the controller of the currency and to issue such notes to an amount equal to the face value of such bonds; provided, that the aggregate amount of bonds deposited by any national banking association under any law, shall not exceed the amount of its capital; and provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to modify, or repeal the provisions of section 5167 and section 5171 of the revised statutes, authorizing the controller of the currency to require additional deposits of bonds, or of lawful money, in case the market value of the bonds held to secure the circulating notes shall fall below the par value of the circulating notes outstanding, for which such bonds may be deposited as security.

Sec. 5. That any national banking association whose deposit of bonds is less than the amount of its capital may deposit with the treasurer of the United States, under such regulations as the secretary of the treasury may approve, United States notes, treasury notes of 1890 and silver certificates, and shall be entitled to receive from the controller of the currency and to issue an equal amount of its circulating notes; but the aggregate amount of bonds, United States notes, treasury notes of 1890 and silver certificates deposited by any national banking association shall not exceed the amount of its capital; provided, that the total amount of United States notes, treasury notes of 1890 and silver certificates deposited with the treasurer of the United States under authority of this section shall not exceed the sum of $200,000,000.

Sec. 6. That the secretary of the treasury shall issue from time to time, in his discretion, bonds of the same class and character as those described in the third section of this act, and shall substitute the same with the treasurer of the United States for equal amounts of the United States notes, treasury notes of 1890 and silver certificates deposited with the banking associations, and the bonds so issued and substituted shall be charged to the respective national banking associations and be accounted for by the treasurer at such prices, not less than as shall represent the market value of such bonds; and the United States notes, treasury notes of 1890 and silver certificates released, as herein provided, shall become a part of the general redemption fund; and the secretary of the treasury is hereby authorized to exchange any of said treasury notes of 1890 and said silver certificates for a like amount of United States notes: Provided, that the amount of bonds issued under the authority of this section shall not exceed the sum of $200,000,000 of dollars.

Sec. 7. When any national bank now existing or hereafter organized shall have deposited such United States bonds, United States notes, treasury notes of 1890, or silver certificates, in an amount of not less than fifty per centum of its capital, it shall be entitled to receive from the controller of the currency, and issue national bank notes, in addition to the fifty per centum thus provided, to the amount of twenty-five per centum of such deposits; but this circulation issued by any national banking association shall never be in excess of its paid up capital stock, and the additional notes so issued shall not be secured by said deposit, but shall constitute a first lien upon all the remaining assets of the association issuing such notes. Upon the failure of any association to redeem its circulating notes above provided, whether the same are issued against deposited security or against general assets, the same shall be promptly redeemed by the treasurer of the United States. To secure the United States against any loss arising from its guaranty to pay and redeem such additional circulating notes, it shall be the duty of the controller of the currency to levy upon and collect from every national banking association issuing such unsecured circulation a tax at the rate of two per centum per annum on such unsecured circulation; which said tax shall be paid to the treasurer of the United States in equal semi-annual payments in January and July of each year, and when so collected it shall constitute a safety fund out of which the United States be reimbursed for any redemption of said unsecured circulation it may make as herein provided. The safety fund thus created shall be invested by the secretary of the treasury. Said tax of two per centum per annum shall be in addition to the tax of one-half of one per centum per annum on circulating notes hereinafter authorized.

Sec. 8. That each national banking association shall deposit and maintain in the treasury of the United States a sum of lawful money equal to ten per centum of its aggregate circulation, said sum to be in lieu of the five per centum redemption fund now required by Section 3 of the act approved June 20, 1874, to be maintained, and to be subject to all the provisions of existing law respecting said redemption fund not inconsistent with the provisions of this act; and in consideration of the deposits of notes, United States notes of 1890 and silver certificates and the taxes of two per centum on the unsecured circulating notes of national banking associations, and of the deposit of lawful money provided in this section, the faith of the United States is hereby pledged to the redemption in lawful money of the United States of all the circulating notes of said national banking association.

Sec. 9. That the controller of the currency shall not issue to any national banking association on and after the date when this act shall take effect, any of the circulating notes of such association of less denomination than ten dollars.

Sec. 10. That on and after the date when this act shall take effect, the circulating notes of the national banking associations shall be redeemed at the office of the United States assistant treasurer in the city of New York, and at such other sub-treasury offices as may be designated by the controller of the currency with the approval of the secretary of the treasury. * * *

Sec. 11. That in lieu of all existing taxes, every national banking association issuing notes, shall pay to the treasurer of the United States in the months of January and July of each year, a tax of one-fourth of one per centum, for each half year upon the average amount of its notes in circulation: Provided, however, that during all the period of time intervening between the deposit of United States notes, treasury notes and silver certificates, and the substitution of bonds by the secretary of the treasury, the circulating notes specifically issued therefor and secured by said United States notes, treasury notes or silver certificates, shall be exempt from taxation under the provisions of this act.

Sec. 12 Section 5138 of the revised statutes shall be amended to read as follows: No association shall be organized with a less capital than $100,000, except that banks with a capital not less than $50,000 may, with the approval of the secretary of the treasury, be organized in any place the population of which does not exceed 6,000: and, except that banks with a capital of not less than $25,000, may with the approval of the secretary of the treasury, be organized in any place the population of which does not exceed 2,000. No association shall be organized in a city, the population of which exceeds 50,000 persons, with a less capital than $200,000.

NEGRO LYNCHED.

Accomplice of Charley Lewis in the Smith Family Murder Hanged by a Mob Within a Few Feet of Where Lewis Was Strung Up.

BROOKHAVEN, Miss., Dec. 17.—Another Negro was lynched at Bankston Ferry, in Simpson county, on Wednesday, as an accomplice of Charley Lewis in the murder of the wife and four children of Brown Smith on Wednesday of last week. For the past several days a posse of about thirty determined men have been scouring the country in search of the negro, and Thursday they found a Negro woman in possession of a bloody coat which she claimed Charley Lewis left with her, requesting that she lock the coat up in her trunk until he called for it. The coat appeared to have been washed but bloody stains on the right sleeve and breast still remained. Upon this evidence a mob of 400 men held another meeting at Bankston Ferry, bringing before them three Negroes, Oscar Ferrell, Tom Waller and Giles Berry who were with Charley Lewis Sunday night of the murder. Oscar Ferrell testified before the mob that Charley Lewis, Giles Berry, Tom Waller and himself went to church across the river on the night of the murder. On returning Charles Lewis stopped at a Negro house, the other three proceeding to a cotton house where they had been stopping. Charley Lewis soon overtook them and all retired together. Lewis and Waller did not remain long and left them about two o'clock, returning just at break of day with some fresh meat and remarked that they had killed Brown Smith's wife and four children because she refused to cook them a meal. They threatened the witness and Giles Berry with instant death if they mentioned the matter.

Giles Berry denied the statement, but Oscar Ferrell made public declaration that it was true.

The mob became infuriated and placed a rope around Tom Waller's neck and dragged him up the hill and hanged him within a few feet of where Charley Lewis was hanged several days ago. Waller protested to the last that he was innocent, but it did no good. Everything is quiet and this is believed to be the last link in one of the most horrible murders ever committed in the state of Mississippi.

Wild Rumors in Madrid.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—According to the St. James Gazette private letters received here from Madrid say that Gen. Weyler's reception there was most significant, and that the government is so alarmed by the menacing attitude of the populace that artillery has been stationed at concealed points commanding the main thoroughfares. The gunners, however, can not be called upon. The wildest rumors are current, says the letters in question, with reports that preparations are making for the flight of the members of the royal family to France at the first sign of a revolution.

Hurricane Weather on the Atlantic.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Dec. 17.—The Allan line steamship Siberian, 12 days out from Liverpool, reports that during the passage she encountered hurricane weather with mountainous seas, lasting the entire voyage. She had never experienced the like before at this season of the year. The sailing vessels that are arriving report similar weather, most of them being more or less damaged and having been swept by heavy seas.

Heavy Orders for Alaskan Supplies.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—Heavy orders for Alaskan supplies have been closed here. A few days ago the Alaskan Commercial Co. invited bids on 400,000 pounds of bacon, 200,000 pounds of hams, 200,000 pounds of lard and 10,000 cases of canned meats. Estimates on even larger quantities of provisions have been asked for by the Alaska Exploration Co., which expects to have 15 steamers plying between San Francisco and Dawson next summer.

ADDRESS TO DEMOCRATS.

An Urgent Appeal for Strong and United Action.

State Committee Chairman Parks M. Martin, of Indiana, Roasts Republicans and Encourages Democrats.

The following address, which has been issued by Parks M. Martin, chairman of the state central committee, to the democracy of Indiana, will prove interesting and inspiring reading for democrats all over the country.

"A little more than a year ago the most remarkable presidential campaign in the history of the United States terminated in the success of the republican candidate. This was the first presidential campaign in a great many years in which the issues were squarely joined between the consolidated money power of the country, and the people. On the one hand were the enormous and practically inexhaustible resources of the organized forces of the United States and Europe, embracing the national banks, whose power had been built up by federal legislation, the great manufacturers, aided by the tariff, which is built under more than three decades of extreme protection, the railway and other corporations, the varied monopolies, trusts and combines which have had been built up by a long course of governmental favoritism and class legislation, the bondholders and money-lenders of two continents, the stock gamblers, speculators, jobbers and schemers of high and low degree who are interested in restoring a policy of lavish appropriations and reckless expenditure and all those who had reaped profits or hoped to do so through the prostitution of the functions of government to their own ends. To these sources a corruption fund was gathered of such magnitude that, although a golden stream was poured into every debatable state and congressional district in the United States during the campaign, an enormous unexpected balance remained in the hands of the republican national committee after the election.

Venal Newspapers.

"This gigantic combination of wealth and power was able to enlist in its service every venal newspaper in the United States, whatever its past political professions; every orator who was willing to sell his eloquence to monopoly for a price; every boodler and political corruptionist experienced in election fraud; every trained manipulator of boodle throughout the republic. Against this single combination of the historic democratic party went to the country with a candidate for the presidency whose purity of character, breadth of patriotism, power of eloquence and fearless devotion to the interests of the people marked him as their natural leader in a contest with the hosts of monopoly, and with a declaration of principles which stirred the heart and confidence as it had not been stirred for generations. The democratic party relied solely upon the merit of its standard bearer and the justice of its cause. It fought the campaign through with an empty treasury and a crippled press and with many of its state and local organizations under the control of treachery. A more heroic political battle against overwhelming odds has never been waged in this or any other country and the six millions of the people who gave votes and the 176 electoral votes expressed a great moral victory the magnitude of which is becoming more apparent every day.

"The principles for which the democratic party contended in 1896 were then strong enough to have carried the country overwhelmingly if the agencies of coercion and corruption could have been eliminated from the contest. These principles have been growing stronger day by day and there is no question that they are accepted now by a great majority of the American people. The republican party returned to power last March under pledges to reestablish the equilibrium between national revenue and expenditure, to give us safe and stable monetary system, and to restore prosperity to the masses of the people. Neither of these pledges has been kept.

The Tariff Issue.

"The first important official act of President McKinley was to convene congress in extraordinary session for the purpose of enacting a tariff law avowedly framed for the purpose of producing a revival of business throughout the country and to provide sufficient revenue to carry on the government. The second purpose was to enable the trusts to reimburse themselves for their contributions to the corruption fund of 1896 by legalized spoliation of the people. The first pledge is being accomplishing its real purpose. The sugar trust, the beef trust, and all the other great combinations which were aliased to create the tariff are already realizing enormous profits from its operation. In order to swell the ill-gotten gains of these predatory combinations, the public revenues have been sacrificed and the cost of living has been increased to the people. The public debt statement issued December 1 shows that the excess of expenditures over receipts during the first five months of the present fiscal year was $46,161,494, an average of over $9,000,000 per month or at the rate of about $110,000,000 a year.

"This startling deficit measures the complete failure of the Dingley law as a revenue producer and will compel congress at an early day either to levy additional taxes or to reduce expenditures. Republican administrations never reduce expenditures. So that after paying off the American people the country finds itself face to face with new taxes or another issue of bonds or both. There has been no marked increase in the number of persons employed and no general advance of wages to compensate for the augmented cost of living, and the Dingley bill already is a by-word and a reproach before the people as the most flagrant and oppressive abuse of the taxing power of the government which has ever been perpetrated.

Cuban Intervention's Failure.

"The failure of the commission sent to Europe by President McKinley to secure an agreement with England, France and Germany for intervention in Cuban affairs forces the republican party to grapple with the greatest problem which has ever confronted it. One of three policies must be adopted: (1) the present gold standard must be definitely established, or (2) bimetallism at the old ratio must be restored by independent national action, or (3) the present financial and industrial ruinous and utterly inadequate currency system must be perpetuated. The adoption of the first alternative involving the ultimate payment of all existing interest-bearing securities of the government from coin to gold obligations, the virtual retirement of the greenbacks and treasury notes and the concession of practically absolute control of the circulating medium to the national banks is urged upon congress by the administration. The execution of this programme would be a colossal crime against the people, and while it would rivet the chains of financial slavery upon them and compromise by swell the tribute they are now compelled to pay to the money power, it would cause such a wave of popular indignation as would sweep the republican organization out of existence. The second policy to which the democratic party stands pledged, and which presents the only practical solution of the currency question, will not, of course, be considered by the party in power. The only alternative, therefore, to the adoption of the administration programme is the do-nothing policy, which would involve a confession of utter impotence on the part of the republican party and would render its overthrow at the next general election as certain, if not as complete, as if the policy just proclaimed by President McKinley were to be carried out.

Inspiration for Democrats.

"The political situation is full of inspiration and encouragement to democrats everywhere, and at the same time it suggests to them unceasing vigilance. The republican party has not only failed to solve the currency question; it has not only failed to restore prosperity to the people; it has not only failed to negotiate an agreement for international bimetallism, but it has in other ways violated its pledges to the country. Its attitude with relation to Cuba is contrary to the explicit promise of the St. Louis platform and is in the last degree undemocratic, unrepublican, unpatriotic and un-American. The voice of humanity, the natural sympathy which every true American feels for a neighboring people struggling to throw off the yoke of savage despotism, and every consideration of enlightened self-interest demand the recognition of Cuban independence, a step which the administration, for some mysterious reason, refuses to take. The open bad faith which the administration has shown as to the enforcement of the civil service law, a measure placed upon the statute books by the republican party, in vitiated and will receive the reprobation of the country. Whatever differences of opinion may exist as to this law, all good citizens will agree that so long as it is a law it should be faithfully and impartially enforced. Its perversion by the appointees of President McKinley to the service of partisan greed is a distinct violation not only of the pledges of his party, but also of his personal pledges to the country. At present the law is enforced only when a democratic name is thereby secured to official preferment, and it is evaded or violated as often as a republican can be thereby retained in or provided with a public position. The party which deliberately violates every day a law of the United States is dangerous to our peace and safety, and approaches very nearly to the state of lawlessness and anarchy denied in the sometimes charged upon its opponents.

A Bankruptcy Law.

"The only measure of general importance which the republican leaders now promise is the enactment of a bankruptcy law. Such a law presumably which will enable creditors to enforce into bankruptcy debtors who, unable to pay, are willing to accept the present tariff and currency systems—a fitting sequel to the protective tariff enacted last summer. The issues to be passed upon by the country at the coming national elections of 1898 are the same which were presented in 1896, accentuated and emphasized by the record of the republican party and its return to power. Let the democracy of Indiana rally their forces, close up their ranks and march shoulder to shoulder in the contest for the principles of true democracy. We welcome them back. With united and determined efforts the state can be handsomely redeemed next year, the election of a democratic legislature assured and a largely increased democratic representation in the popular branch of congress returned. The democratic state committee appeals to and invites every citizen of Indiana, whatever his last political affiliations, who believes in these principles to cooperate earnestly from this time until the polls close on the first Tuesday in November to secure their triumph.

"The district conventions for the selection of members of the state central committee will be held in the various congressional districts on Tuesday, January 11, 1898. The members of the new committee then chosen will meet at Indianapolis on Tuesday, January 18, for organization.

"PARKS M. MARTIN,
"Chairman Democratic State Committee.
"S. L. WALKENHORST,
"Secretary."

Odd Women.

Lovers and admirers of the fair sex —and who is not comprised within that classification?—would find a book that might very well be written about woman remarkable for some physical or mental peculiarities unusually interesting. As a sample of the curious stories that might be collected, let the reader mark and digest the following: There was Mrs. Dorothy Collier, whose death is recorded in the public journals for 1764. She was the largest woman of her time, weighing upward of 30 stone, and yet "was very active," as we are assured. Her coffin was two yards two inches in length, a yard and four inches broad, and two feet six inches deep, which proves that Mrs. Collier's husband could have had no reason to complain on the score of quantity. Then we have Mrs. Sarah Rawlins, who married at 19 years of age, and lived with her husband 27 years, during which period she had 14 children. Her second husband she also lived with 27 years, and the number of her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren at her decease was no less than 329, "of whom," says the chronicler, in 1761, "182 are now living," and a very respectable progeny, too.—N. Y. Ledger.

A Social Row in Bath, 1769.

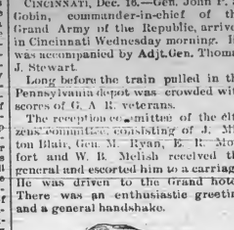
A fashionable concert was being given at Bath, and the hall was crammed, when a bevy of fair and noble ladies unexpectedly arrived. The manager ordered a bench to be set for their accommodation in front of the first row of seats. The occupants of the latter were not unnaturally displeased, and vigorously protested, but without effect. From words they came to blows, and the eclipsed beauties fell tooth and nail on the intruders. A pitched battle ensued, at the end of which the field was thickly strewn with trophies of the fight—tatters of torn laces, ribbons and tippets, and other female finery. At a later hour detachments of the combatants were observed ready for the fray in attire, and recruiting their strength at fashionable chemists' and pastry cooks' shops.—Notes and Questions.

National Characterization.

A German and a Frenchman sat opposite each other at table-d'hote in a certain hotel in Switzerland. "You are a Frenchman, I suppose?" inquired the German at the commencement of a meal. "Yes," was the reply, "but how do you manage to find that out?" "Because you eat so much bread," said the German. There was a long pause. When the dinner was over the Frenchman, in turn, questioned his vis-a-vis. "You are a German, I presume?" "To be sure: but tell me, pray, how you made that discovery." "Because you ate so much of everything," was the dry retort.—London Figaro.

A Thoughtful Better Half.

A man married recently a young wife who takes everything quite literally. He came home and said he would take her to the theater, and presently he found her stuffing all sorts of eatables into a couple of black bags. "What are you doing?" he asked, and she replied, meekly: "Packing provisions, because I have just read in the paper that six weeks will elapse between the first and second acts."—The Rival.



THE VETERANS.

Gen. John P. S. Gobin, the Commander-in-Chief, Favors a Later Date for the Encampment at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 16.—Gen. John P. S. Gobin, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, arrived in Cincinnati Wednesday morning. He was accompanied by Adjt. Gen. Thomas J. Stewart.

Long before the train pulled in the Pennsylvania depot was crowded with scores of G. A. R. veterans.

The reception committee of the citizens' committee, consisting of J. Milton Blair, Gen. M. Ryan, E. B. Monfort and W. B. Melish received the general and escorted him to a carriage. He was driven to the Grand hotel. There was an enthusiastic greeting and a general handshake.

COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF J. P. S. GOBIN.

At the hotel the general retired for a brief rest, to prepare himself for the business meeting at noon. The hotel corridor was jammed with G. A. R. veterans.

The G. A. R. posts all over the country are in favor of a later date than the one selected by your citizens' committee."

This was the statement of Commander-in-Chief Gobin to a reporter Wednesday.

"Strong considerations in favor of August 29 to September 3 will have to be presented or the date of the citizens' committee can not be indorsed by my council of administration.

"The selection of the citizens' committee is but a suggestion."

All the members of the generals' council arrived Wednesday. They were Chas. Burrows, of St. Louis; Wm. H. Armstrong, Indianapolis; Robert W. Hill, Canandaigua, N. Y.; Thomas W. Scott, Fairfield, Ill.; L. L. Caldwell, Decorah, Ia.; Ellwood Craig, Wilmington, Del.

Asked about the wishes of the G. A. R. posts throughout Illinois in regard to the encampment date, Gen. Thos. W. Scott said: "The people of Illinois want a date later than August. The weather is the principal consideration. We are disposed to treat the citizens' selection kindly, but when it comes to the Illinois posts' wishes they want it after August."

A formal and elaborate banquet was tendered Gen. Gobin Wednesday evening at 6:30. The entire membership of the citizens' executive committee was present. M. E. Ingalls, chairman of the committee, presided.

THEODORE DURRANT

Sentenced to Death for the Fourth Time —Date of Execution Fixed for Friday, January 7.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 16.—Theodore Durrant was sentenced to death for the fourth time Wednesday morning. Superior Judge Bahrs fixed the date of execution for January 7 next. The condemned man's attorneys will at once battle for his life. They intend to lay the foundation for another appeal to the supreme court of the United States. In all probability one of the lawyers for the defense will proceed to Washington to make the final technical fight based on the questions of federal and state law. The time for action is short however, and even the defense doubts the success of its new venture.

An Infernal Machine.

HAVANA, Dec. 16.—A small box apparently made to contain samples of some description, was found Wednesday morning at Casa Neuva, where the United States consulate is situated. An examination of the box showed it to contain a tube filled with an explosive substance. Fortunately the cover was not removed in the ordinary way, but was splintered open. Underneath the cover was a piece of sandpaper, intended to light a box of matches and thus bring about an explosion.

The Collision Between the Yantic and La Canadienne.

MONTREAL, Dec. 16.—The Dominion government, as owner of the steamer La Canadienne, in company with the charterers of that boat, have decided to take action in the United States government through the vice admiralty court at Quebec for the sum of $10,000, that being the amount of damage sustained by La Canadienne in the collision with the Yantic was estimated.

Five Years in the Penitentiary.

INDEPENDENCE, Kas., Dec. 16.—Henry C. Sheesley, the slayer of ex-State Senator Dan McTaggart, was Wednesday convicted of manslaughter in the second degree and sentenced to five years' imprisonment in the penitentiary. The killing resulted from a quarrel over the possession of a flouring mill which Sheesley had rented from McTaggart, who was a leader among the democrats of Kansas. Sheesley pleaded insanity.

To Complete the Blair System.

BOLIVAR, Mo., Dec. 16.—George S. Goral & Co., Lockhaven, Pa., have secured the contract for the building of about 40 miles of railroad from Bolivar to Osceola, Mo. This completes the line of railroad from Kansas City to Springfield, known as the Blair system.

Bryan Has an Audience With Diaz.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 16.—President Diaz Wednesday accorded an audience to Mr. Bryan and party. The ladies were charmed with Mrs. Diaz, who showed them the presidential apartments in the castle of Chapultepec.

FIFTY-FIFTH CONGRESS.

First Regular Session.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—SENATE—The senate was in session just 15 minutes Tuesday, adjournment being taken until Wednesday out of respect to President McKinley, who was in attendance upon the funeral of his brother. The motion to adjourn was made by Mr. Hoar (Mass.). "All senators," said he, "are aware of the great calamity that has overtaken the president and the whole nation. He is to-day in attendance upon the funeral of his mother. Out of respect to him and as an expression of sympathy for him in his affliction, I move that the senate do now adjourn." No business beyond the introduction of bills and resolutions was transacted. Among the bills introduced was one by Mr. Kyle (S. D.) to change the immigration laws of the United States. He gave notice that at the proper time he would offer the bill as a substitute for that which is now pending before the senate.

HOUSE—The house, after a session of about two hours, adjourned out of sympathy for the president, whose brother was buried at Canton Tuesday afternoon. The time of the session was devoted to the consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill. It was decided to postpone the consideration of the item providing for the maintenance of the civil service commission until after the other features of the bill had been concluded. It was apparent, from the remarks made today, that the entire subject will be exhaustively debated.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—SENATE—Proceedings of the senate were enlivened Thursday by an interesting debate upon the bill presented by the foreign relations committee providing for the prohibition of pelagic sealing by Americans. The bill was passed by a vote of 27 to 16. Mr. McBride (Ore.) endeavored to secure the adoption of his resolution directing the secretary of war to supply relief to the suffering miners in the Klondike region and appropriating $250,000 for that purpose. The resolution was amended so that the supplies might be transported by means of reindeer. Mr. McBride conceded that the fate of his resolution should be recommitted to the military affairs committee with the understanding that it would be promptly reported. The session closed with a spirited civil service debate upon the bill presented by the census committee providing for the appointment of a director of the census and 22 employes who should form the skeleton of an office force for the twelfth census.

HOUSE—The house spent the day in the consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill. Except about 40 of the 112 pages of the bill were covered and only one amendment of importance was adopted. It reduced the clerical force at the pension office 95, thereby effecting a reduction in salaries of $113,000. The civil service question was the chief topic of discussion Wednesday, and the proposition to increase the salaries of the fourth class clerks to retire clerks for age was made the text for denunciation by Mr. Moody, of Massachusetts, and Mr. Johnson, of Indiana, both of whom are defenders of the civil service law.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—SENATE—Mr. Frye, of the commerce committee, favorably reported and the senate passed a bill directing the secretary of the treasury to purchase or construct a steamer for the revenue marine service on the Yukon river, Alaska, the cost not to exceed $40,000. Mr. Allison, of the appropriations committee, reported favorably the house joint resolution providing for a recess of congress from December 18, 1897, to January 5, 1898. The resolution was adopted. Mr. Hawley, of the military affairs committee, reported a resolution of Mr. McBride (Ore.) for the relief of American miners and other sufferers in the Yukon valley, Alaska. The committee struck out all but the enacting clause and amended the resolution by appropriating $250,000. Adopted.

HOUSE—The house Thursday passed a bill appropriating $175,000 for the relief of the people who are in the Yukon river country, and also the bill passed by the senate Wednesday to prohibit pelagic sealing by American citizens. The former bill encountered practically no opposition. As passed, the sum carried by it is to be expended under the direction of the secretary of war for the purchase, transportation and distribution of subsistence stores. An hour was spent on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill without accomplishing anything. The bankruptcy bill was reported by the judiciary committee and an extension of time granted in which the minority may file its report. At 5 o'clock the house adjourned.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—SENATE—A spirited debate was precipitated in the senate Friday by submission by Mr. Platt, of Connecticut, of the report of the special joint committee of the senate and house of representatives, appointed to investigate the case of Fitzsimmons vs. Brice. It developed that a wide divergence of opinion exists among senators as to the practicability, from the point of view of government revenue, of reducing the present tax upon alcohol used in the arts. Bills providing for the erection of a public building at Tacoma, Wash., and appropriating $250,000 for the construction of and equipping an American register for the steamer Jacksonville, were passed. One of the pension bills passed granted a pension of $50 a month to Mrs. Lucinda M. Day, sr., of Kentucky, a major general in the United States army during the war of the rebellion.

HOUSE—The house completed the consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, excepting a paragraph relating to the civil service. By agreement the debate on this latter paragraph will go over until after the holidays. Two amendments of some importance were adopted. One to the bill as reported abolishes the assay office at Deadwood, S. D., and the mints at Carson City, Nev., and New Orleans, La. Friday the representatives from the far west states made a vigorous and unsuccessful fight to continue the appropriations for Deadwood and Carson City. The appropriation committee was beaten in each instance. The house refused to accept the senate amendment to the bill for the relief of the miners in the Upper Yukon and it was sent to conference.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—SENATE—Saturday's open session of the senate was brief, the time being consumed in the introduction of bills and resolutions, several of the latter calling for information from the executive departments being passed. One of the resolutions agreed to increase from $50,000 to $92,500 the amount to be expended by the government on the buildings for the Trans-Mississippi International exposition, to be held in Omaha, and reduced by $12,500 the sum to be expended upon the government's display. During the executive session the senate received and adopted the conference report on the bill providing for the extension of the relief of miners in the Yukon country. Adjourned until after the holidays.

HOUSE—The conference report to the emergency relief measure for the Klondike country was presented and agreed to. It compromises the amount of the relief fund at $250,000, provides for securing the consent of Canada to extending the relief to the Canadian side, and authorizes the use of the army to carry out the relief measures. It also provides that the supplies must be purchased instead of being donated. Adjourned until January 5.

Christmas Dinners for the Poor.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 20.—Three thousand of Cincinnati's poor will eat Christmas dinner at the Music hall through the efforts of the Salvation army corps.

Hoff Accused of Another Murder.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Dec. 20.—The police of this city express the belief that Albert Hoff, held by the police of San Francisco for the murder of Mrs. Mary Clute, is the murderer of Emma Hawkes, who was found in her room with her throat cut April 23, 1895. A description of the man last seen in her company tallies well with that of Hoff.

K. of P. Convention.

WILLISTON, O., Dec. 20.—The Tenth district convention of the Knights of Pythias, including 30 lodges, will be held here January 6. All the grand officers are expected to be present.

BOONE CO., RECORDER.

Wednesday, December 22, 1897.

Advertising Rates:

One inch, one time.....$1.00
Each additional time.....25
Obituaries, Tributes of Respects or notices of a like nature, per inch .50

W. L. RIDDELL, - - Publisher.

Neighborhood News.

Rabbit Hash.

Miss Sallie Dolph lost her McIntosh on the road between her home and the Hathaway school house.

Misses Lulah and Minnie Ryle entertained quite a number of their young friends last Saturday night.

The party at Murray Ryle's, last Saturday night, being a failure was quite a disappointment to one of our young men.

The other day Mrs. Euuie Wingate and daughter, Miss Delia, went over to the Ryle neighborhood visiting, and while there their mule broke loose, and the last seen of it it was going towards Hamilton at the top of its speed with its tail curled over its back.

—ŞŞ—

Pt. Pleasant.

Miss Carrie Henke was the guest of Miss Rachel Stansifer, of Covington, last Saturday night and Sunday.

We are glad to report that Mrs. Jno. Rucker is able to walk about the house and yard, after several months' illness.

The entertainment given by the C. W. B. M. was a decided success. The church was nearly filled in spite of the inclement weather. A collection of $8 1 was taken for the Bible Chair at Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Rev. George E. Watkins will preach at Pt. Pleasant next Sunday, and for the coming year he will preach for that church on the fourth Sunday, morning and night in each month. He is located at Hebron and expects to do a good work in the county in the year 1898.

—ŞŞ—

Union.

Look out for a wedding next week.

The hucksters are smiling because eggs are booming.

Supt. Voshell killed three hogs that grossed 1,446 pounds.

Thomas Garrison, we are pleased to say, is improving rapidly.

Boom prices in tobacco has tempted many of our farmers to sell.

Richard Smith shipped a pair of registered pigs at a fancy price, recently.

James A. Huey has completed a new cellar; built a fine drive-way in front of his residence, etc.

They say Plummy Gully is a fine shot. In a 10 hours' hunt he killed 2 woodpeckers and one rabbit in 29 shots.

John C. Mitchell has a farm to sell that he says is o. k, but needs rest. It is likely a farm of that kind would sell quicker than one needing lots of work.

It is said that walnuts are the best food known to make hens lay. If a fellow had to crack walnuts for 200 hens he would have to be "a cracker Jack," so to speak.

—ŞŞ—

Bellevue.

Miss Grace Rogers is visiting her parents near here.

Michael Clore has sold his town property to O. N Grant, the druggist. Consideration, $600.

Albert Snyder and sister were guests of J. K. Corbin and family, of near Aurora, last Sunday.

A merry Christmas and happy New Year to you, Mr. Editor, your employees, and your host of subscribers.

Asa Cason was down here last week, looking after the appraisement of the property of his deceased son-in-law, Evan Acra. The sale will occur on the 30th inst.

Died—On the 18th inst., Mrs. Susan Bush, at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Bettie Rice. Mrs. Bush had resided in Missouri for the last 25 years or more, and came in on the 8th inst., with her brother, W. W. Grant. She was stricken with paralysis and never spoke afterward. Her remains were interred in the old cemetery on the 21st. Her husband, Benjamin Bush, and two children survive her.

—ŞŞ—

Erlanger.

The Baptist Church will have a Christmas festival on the 24th inst.

Five candidates, after a weary journey over hot sands, became Princes of Caliphs, one evening last week.

The examining trial of Jas. McWilliams for shooting with intent to kill, will be held by Judge Morelli on the 28th inst. at 1:30 p. m.

St Henry's young men are going to give an entertainment for the benefit of the church. It will be at the town hall on New Year's eve.

The K. of P. Lodge is making great preparation for Santa Claus at the town hall. All their families will be on hand and a good time is expected, especially for the children.

Eastern Star Lodge held its annual election of officers last Saturday evening with the following result: W. M., Isabella Coe; Associate M., Mrs. Ida Schroedel; Conductress, Statira Childress; W. P., George Schroeflel; Associate Conductress, Lizzie Hilker; Treasurer, Mrs. Henry Myers; Secretary, Mrs L. Morelli; Warder, Mrs. L. Ballard; Prelate, Henry Myers Sentiuel, Robert Baker. The installation takes place December 30th. All the members are requested to be on hand.

—ŞŞ—

Florence

Mrs. Mollie Latham has returned from Chicago.

Mrs. Jeff Stephens, who has been dangerously ill is much improved.

Mr. Charlie Carpenter will entertain with a dance Wednesday evening Dec. 29th.

Miss Lottie Williams, of Erlanger, was the guest of friends here last Wednesday.

Miss Emma Herndon, of Covington, will be the guest of Miss Jennie Myers Monday, Dec , 27th.

Miss Mattie Whitson has returned from Burlington, where she has been rehearsing for the Christmas festival.

A surprise party was tendered Mrs. C. R. Slater last Friday evening by the young people of Erlanger. Many from this place attended. All enjoyed a most pleasant evening.

Mrs. Lewis Yager, who is visiting her son here, has been very ill.

Kriskrinkle has his advance agents posting bills, heralding the advent of Christmas.

Most of the boys have abandoned their fox hunt and returned home since the grand jury adjourned.

Several weddings are announced for the holidays. People generally mix up with sweets about that time.

Dad Clore has contracted to husk Jim Carpenter's corn, provided Jim will let him run in the stalk field.

The body of Linville Souther was cremated at the Cincinnati Crematory, being the first body of a citizen of this county so disposed of.

Dogs killed eight sheep for Edward Hensley Monday night.

John Bentler began work early Tuesday morning blacksmithing. He comes well recommended.

The entertainment given at Petersburg by the Bullittsville company, last Saturday night, was complete success in every particular.

A white setter dog belonging to Elbert Riley, followed some one from Hebron on the night of the 4th inst. He will be pleased to hear of its whereabouts.

A few days ago Montgomery Williamson, who lives on the headwaters of Lick Creek, killed two hogs that were pigged the day before McKinley was elected President, and they averaged 417 pounds. He says a hog will thrive under the McKinley administration.

The suit of H. O. Adams against D. H. Ryle, which has been pending in the United States Court at Covington for several terms, was decided against Adams Monday. It has been a very expensive piece of litigatiou, to both sides and especially to Mr. Adams. The Judge instructed the jury to find for defendant Ryle.

For several days County Attorney Lassing was considerably worked up by a letter he received from Florence in regard to the infraction of some the laws in that town, but having had all the witnesses he could secure from there before the grand jury he is now at ease, conscious of having discharged his full duty in the premises.

The last installment of burglars and chicken thieves that were captured, took their last dinner outside of prison with Mr. Jerry Beemon, who lives on the Florence pike at the top of the hill beyond Limaburg. They were genial sort of fellows, but Mr. Beemon did not fancy them, although Mr Beemon thought they were straight goods, and permitted them to take a survey of his premises. They went into the barn and examined the harness, amoug which was a new set. Mr. Beemon now thinks the thieves had him marked for a rich haul that night, but their arrest intervened and his property was saved.

The following orders have been made by the county court since its last regular term:

L. H. Voshell qualified as county Superintendent with B. L. Rice, R. L. Willis and James A Huey as sureties.

B J. Crisler qualified as Police Judge for Petersburg with H. P. Crisler and W. T. Aylor as sureties.

Asa Cason was appoluted administrator of Evan Acra.

M. B. Greeu qualified as Justice of the Peace, with R. A. Brady as surety.

B. W. Adams qualified as county clerk with Geo. W. Sleet and Geo. W. Ossman as sureties.

C. C. Roberts qualified as county Judge with Geo. W. Roberts as surety.

A few days ago Mrs. Eubanks, residing at Crescent Springs, hung out a blanket to dry. Along in the night her husband asked her if she had brought it in and she said no.

When she went to look for the blanket, she discovered it was gone.

Walking around in search of it she stumbled across an object and heard a moaning sound. She informed her husband and he investigated.

Wrapped up in the blanket he found a lad by the name of Willie Landers, shackled and chained. Mr. Eubanks took the the boy into the house for the night, and Judge Stepheus was notified.

The boy alleges his stepfather drove him from home and the children at the school kept him from starving. Judge Stephens will have him brought before him when the mystery of how he came to be shackled will be explained. It is thought his parents put the shackles on him to keep him at home. Willie is a bad boy and was captured by Sergeant Sandford some time ago and returned.—Commonwealth.

If Santa Claus is out to please he will give to

F. Riddell, an invitation to a turkey dinner.

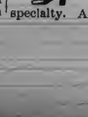
J. M. Lassing, a few days for a bird hunt.

C. L. Crisler, a good run of custom for the Boone House.

C. C. Hughes, Harry Blyth and E. S McKim, each a position in the revenue service.

County Clerk Adams, a dish of turkey hash—cold.

Joe Revill, borrowers for a considerable sum of money for the next year.



Sidney Gaines, a good garden and lots of clients for '98.

Jack Berkshire, another hotel to remodel.

C. C. Roberts, all uncollected taxes.

S. J. Clutterbuck, a big christmas trade.

The testimony in the Edwards-Dean damage suit was concluded about ten o'clock a. m. yesterday, and the arguments were in progress when we went to press.

Go to John Schmidt, the Shoemaker, to have your harness repaired. Boots and Shoes made to order. Repairing a specialty. All work guaranteed.

Christmas Arch and Entertainment at the Court House, Friday evening, Dec., 24th, 1897, by the Eureka Society. Admission, 20 cents. Doors open at 7 o'clock.

PROGRAMME;

Vocal Solo .....Calvary,
Miss Ella Duncan.
Hoop Drill, by Sixteen Ladies of the Epworth League.
Piano Solo....."The June-Bug Dance,"
Quartette.....".I was Glad,"
Mrs. Wm. Riddell, Mrs. J. B. Berkshire, Messrs. McKim and Berkshire
Cantata....."Santa Claus' Mistake,"
Twenty Boys and Girls.
Piano Solo....."Tripping through the Woodlands,".....Miss Annie Garrison.
"The Darkey Wood Dealer," (comic)
Charles Finch, Otto Crisler, Herbert McKim.
Flag Drill by Twelve Young Ladies.

After which Santa Claus will distribute his presents from the Arch, to husbands, wives, sweethearts and children. Everybody come and help give Santa Claus a merry welcome.

Incomparable Service.

The Queen & Crescent trains are the finest trains run in the State of Kentucky Four daily trains to Cincinnati connect with the main highways of the Great Trunk Lines of the North, West and East This is the line par-excellence to Washington, New York, Boston and the East. The Queen & Crescent connects with every line out of Cincinnati.

S. T. Swift, P. & T. A., Lexington, Ky.
W. G. Morgan, D. P. A.,

Mrs. Susan Bush, wife of Benjamin Bush, died at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Bettie Rice, at Bellevue, last Friday night. A few weeks ago her brother, W. W. Grant, visited her in Missouri, and she came home with him. Mrs. Bush had been in bad health for some time, and it was hoped that a return to her old home would be beneficial to her, but death had marked her as one of its victims.

The ranks of the Democratic gaugers and storekeepers in this district are being reduced, and there are several good Republicans who are anxious to take their places, so Collector Cunningore may expect frequent pilgrimages to his sanctum by the faithful and loyal Republicans of the rural districts a large per cent of whom are sanguine he will heed their requests and recommendations.

The Odd-Fellows Lodge at this place had an interesting called meeting last Saturday night. Grand Master John S. Gaunt and Bros. John W. Greene and C. C. Cram were present and each made a good speech as also did several of the local brethren. At the conclusion of the exercises in the lodge room, a good supper was enjoyed at the Boone House.

As a weather prophet James Clore can give Prof. Basseler cards and spades and beat him. He has a certain kind of work in which to engage just previous to a rain, and those who have kept tab on him will testify that he has not been disappointed by the rain in the last six months He does not risk his rep on weather conditions other than rain.

FARM FOR SALE.

65 acres of nice land in Boone county, Ky., on the road from Florence to the Ohio river, about 2½ miles southwest of Erlanger, Ky, known as the Harriet Wayland farm. This is a very desirable piece of land, with frame house and barn on it, and nicely located. Terms easy. Possession will be given March 1st 1898. Address me for particulars at Ghent, Ky.

R. O. WILLIAMS,
dec-15 Administrator.

Farm for Sale!

In Boone county, Ky., on the North Bend Road, 11 miles from Burlington, 1 mile from Hebron and 5 miles from Anderson's Ferry, and contains seventy-eight acres, good cottage of 5 rooms and good barn, orchard of 200 trees select fruit. The farm is all under good state of cultivation. For terms apply to

LASSING & RIDDELL,
Burlington, Ky.

For Sale--Farm.

—of—

123 Acres of Good Land in Boone County, Ky., on the Union & Beaver Turupike, 2 miles from Union, three miles from Richwood Station. Good house of seven rooms, hall, vestibule, porches, good cellar; large barn, outbuildings, two cisterns, orchard and never failing water.

Henry Tucker,
UNION, Boone Co., KY.

FOURTH YEAR

OF WALTON ACADEMY,

—opens—

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 6th, 1897

AT WALTON, KY.

Three Courses of Study to choose from:

English, Scientific or Classical,

Tuition per month,...$2·50 and $3.00

Vocal and Instrumental Music at moderate rates.

We have a fine, new building with rooms for pupils, connected.—Board only $2.50 per week, or $2 00 for 5 days.

Thorough, Substantial Work

Guaranteed.

Teachers { Mrs. S. H. MYERS. / CHAS. F. PRIOR. / Rev. S. H. MYERS.

Further information gladly given by mail or interview.

Administrator's Notice.

All persons indebted to the estate of Evan Acra, deceased, must come forward and settle, and all those having claims against said estate must present them to the undersigned, proven according to law.

ASA CASON, Adm'r.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

MAKING NEW DISEASES.

Civilization Responsible for Numerous Fresh Maladies.

It seems to be an indisputable fact that the rapid advance during the last 50 years in what we are pleased to call civilization is steadily bearing fruit in a rich crop of new diseases of the body and disorders of the mind. As fast as the progress in medical as well as general science enables us to combat, and often conquer, the old diseases, the habits and conditions of modern life seem to give birth to new and undreamt of maladies.

It is, of course, not possible to say to what extent our pre-Norman ancestors were troubled with "nerves," hypochondriasis, "liver," clergyman's sore throat or housemaid's knee, but there are certain disorders, directly caused by the habits of modern life, that it is evident they could not have been afflicted with.

The ridiculous desire of parents that their children should acquire some degree of mechanical dexterity on the keyboard of a pianoforte, whether they have any real aptitude for music or not, has produced a good deal of harm. It has created a disorder called "musical overstrain." It has even been stated by a German observer that much of the nervous delicacy so common among girls is traceable to excessive diligence at the piano. When, as sometimes happens, six or eight hours are daily absorbed in repeating a humdrum series of manipulations, the wonder is that nature long endures the drudgery. Musical mediocrity is surely a poor compensation for overstrung or shattered nerves.

Railway traveling is responsible for frequent cases of nervous debility and exhaustion. Many persons try to live a dual life—to be a busy city man during the day and a country gentleman at night. The consequent long daily railway journeys are more trying than most people suppose. A man with a strong constitution may pass through the ordeal unscathed, but many people suffer in later life from an impaired nervous system without being aware of the real cause.

Cycling is a boon that we could ill dispense with, yet there is a distinct danger of the rider acquiring a bad style and developing that ugly deformity known as the "cyclist's back." Even typewriting has produced a new complaint that is called "typewriter's disease." The operator, in consequence of overstrain and long application in spelling out words over the keyboard, gets attacks of a kind of temporary mental paralysis, which render work absolutely impossible. Then the excessive use of our brains in nearly every profession has produced that very troublesome complaint—insomnia.

According to the British Medical Journal, two quite new diseases may now be added to the list of those arising from the conditions of modern life. The first is a malady associated with football. It is known as "scrumpox," and is an infection that is liable to be transmitted through the abrasions which rough jerseys are apt to cause on the faces of the players during "scrummages." When it once breaks out, it seems that the most careful precautions have to be taken for the disinfection of jerseys and the avoidance of abrasions.

The other complaint is "golf arms." This disease is not to be lightly dismissed, and its announcement will come as a shock to many of our adult readers. It appears to be due, we are told, "to the repeated sudden and whip-like contractions of the triceps, bruising the musculo-spinal nerve. There are painful points, where the nerve pierces the external intermuscular septum and the facia above the elbow, and numbness with tingling in the dorsum of the thumb and first finger." Embrocations will not allay it, and no cure has yet been found. The disease, of course, quite spoils a man's enjoyment of golf, but it does not prevent many from enjoying it.—Happy Thoughts.

Concentration.

He who would do some great thing in this short life must apply himself to the work with such a concentration of his forces as to spectators who live only to amuse themselves looks like insanity.—John Foster.

The First Thing to Learn.

One of the first things a scholar is to learn is that he is to learn. Expectation is the prophecy and the limit of attainment.—Chicago Standard.

—The stock received its name from the fact that it was principally sold in the old stocks market, in London, the market itself having derived its title from a pair of stocks that stood there.

—Her Dearest Friend.—He—"Does your friend, Miss Rival, entertain much?" She—"No, but she bores more guests than any other young lady in our set."—Detroit Free Press.

GO TO

HANKINS, DAVIS & CO., General Merchants,

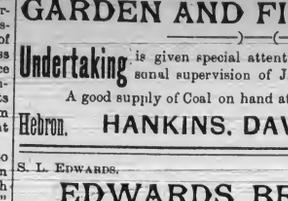
HEBRON AND CONSTANCE,

A Good Supply of Feed always in Stock.

GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS.



Undertaking is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.

A good supply of Coal on hand at Constance at all times.

Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance

S. L. EDWARDS, A. M. EDWARDS.

EDWARDS BROTHERS,

DEALERS IN HARDWARE

—AND—

Agricultural Implements,

Furniture,
Stoves,
Tinware,
Saddlery,
Oils and Paints,
Wall Paper.

UNDERTAKING & EMBALMING A SPECIALTY.

We have added a first class Tin Shop and are prepared to do Tin, Iron and Paper Roofing and guarantee all work done by us.

EDWARDS BROS., - - Walton, Ky.

JOHN ALLISON,

UNDER-TAKER

EMBAL-MER,

—Corner Pike & Russell Streets,—

COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.

INDEPENDENT OF UNDERTAKERS' UNION.

THEY : MUST : GO.

Desiring to quit that branch of the business I am Closing

—OUT MY ENTIRE STOCK OF—

MEN'S & BOYS' Ready-Made CLOTHING

At the greatest bargains ever offered in Covington.

MY TAILORING DEPARTMENT

Will be continued, and I have on hand the Finest Line of Suitings in the three cities. Give me a call.

H. F. BLASE, 540 Madison Avenue, COVINGTON, KY.

jany 1-98

Its Your MONEY

Of course, but what's the use of wasting it by paying double price for your..... CLOTHING?

Our Clothing is well Made, Perfect Fitting and we guarantee our Prices the Lowest. We ask you to kindly call on us and inspect our MEN'S OVERCOATS at $5, $6.50, $8, $10 and upwards; our $10 Kersey Coat in blue and black, is all wool, Skinner Satin sleeve lining. We guarantee this to be the best garment in the city at this price.

MENS' All-Wool SUITS, $5 and up. / MENS' ODD PANTS, $1.00 up. } The Finest Line of CHILDREN'S SUITS, OVERCOATS and REEFERS in the city—all prices.

ROLFES & WACHS, RELIABLE CLOTHIERS

S. W. Cor. Pike & Madison Ave. Covington, Ky.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Notice to Trespassers.

We, the undersigned, hereby give notice that we have posted our farms according to law, against trespass of all kinds, and will enforce the law against those who trespass thereon by hunting or otherwise.

Reuben Hager,	Mary Kirtley,
W. K. Leathers,	P. Hager.
Filmore Ryle,	Ben R. Stephens,
W. B. Ryle,	O. H. Craig.
Charles Craig,	Murry Ryle.

ELECTRIC HEADLIGHTS

are but one of the many modern appliances for the safe, rapid and comfortable transit of the traveler which the limited trains of the QUEEN & CRESCENT ROUTE afford.

Fast vestibuled trains to Lexington, Harriman, Chattanooga, Atlanta, Knoxville, Asheville, Columbia, Savannah, Jacksonville, Meridian, Birmingham, New Orleans, daily from Cincinnati, are provided with safety vestibules, heated by steam, lighted with gas, and have all modern improvements.

Write for information to
W. C. Rinearson,
General Passenger Agent,
Cincinnati, O.

Send 10 cents for fine Art colored Lithograph of Lookout Mountain and Chickamauga.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

Local News.

For Holiday Goods be sure to call at B. F. Buchanan's "Corner Drugstore" when in Rising Sun.

Oh, the dirt roads.

Hogs about all killed.

Next Saturday is Christmas day.

Have you purchased that present for your best girl?

Circuit Court developed a longer term than was expected.

Jurors and witnesses were slow getting to town Monday.

The blacksmiths had a rush of business Monday morning

Viola Lodge, I. O. O. F. will elect officers next Saturday night.

Livestock in this county is in good condition to enter the winter.

Santa Claus will pay no attention to socks or stockings that have holes in them.

The days are now at the shortest and night now comes about the middle of the after noon.

Pedestrians abandoned the side walks Monday morning and took to the middle of the streets.

The boys who had important business away from home last week, are all reported at home this week.

James E. Smith weighed to James M. Barlow & Co., Monday morning, 35 hogs that averaged 235 pounds.

Some of the boys were talking of pulling off an old fashioned turkey shooting as a Christmas diversion.

A sale of the personal effects of the late Evan Aera will take place at McVille on the 30th of this mouth.

George Baker, a prosperous Rising Sunner, says he will soon check his baggage for the Alaska gold fields.

It has looked like old times around the Boone House for the past week. Business has been brisk on the corner.

Monday was an awfully gloomy day. It was dark enough to require the lighting of lamps by the middle of the afternoon.

Circuit Clerk Duncan and Atty. D. E. Castleman, attended the United States Court in session in Covington, last Saturday.

Burlington Lodge No. 264, F. & A. M., will meet on the 27th inst at 2 p. m., for the election of officers and payment of dues.

People were late getting into town, Monday, on account of the sleet, which rendered traveling very bad and somewhat dangerous.

The Big Bone and Hamilton turnpike was indicted seven times for collecting toll from persons going to and from religious worship.

The Williamstown sportsmen are distressed over the disappearance of a fine bitch fox hound that they secured of Ben Cason, near Burlington.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c

There will be a Christmas tree in the Church at Bullittsville on the 24th inst. Doors open at 1 o'clock p. m. Exercises will begin at two o'clock.

The early risers Monday morning were surprised to find the ground covered with sleet. It was with difficulty that pedestrians could go about.

Let a fellow drive out the Petersburg pike 5 or 6 miles, and then drive over a couple of miles of dirt road about this time of the year, and he is persuaded that the Petersburg pike is equal to an asphalt pavement.

The commissions of D. B. Beall, A. C. Ellis, A. P. Sandford and others, employed in the revenue service in this district, have been revoked. This is a move to avoid the civil service and get Republicans on duty

Satisfaction Guaranteed.—Blue Barred Plymouth Rocks, barred to the skin. Young stock for sale. None better in the county. Right in size, marking and price. Eggs in season. Mrs R. O. Smith, Union, Ky. (Stone House.)

The ladies of the Bullittsburg Aid Society will give an oyster supper and social at the residence of Dr. H. H. Hays, Tuesday, December 28th, 1897. Refreshments from 3 to 11 o'clock pm. Admission, 25 cents. Entertainment free.

Mrs Jemeson Aylor, of the Hebron neighborhood, went out to draw a bucket of water, last Saturday, and before she reached the house, she fell and broke one of her lower limbs just above the ankle. Mrs Aylor is an aged lady, which makes the injury more serious than it otherwise would be.

On Wednesday night of last week Cropper & Gaines' store at Utzinger, was entered by burglars, and $30 or $40 worth of goods taken. The goods stolen consisted of sugar, coffee, boots shoes, calicos pocket knives &c. The stealing was done between the hours of 9 and 12 o'clock that night, and the thieves made good their escape after being pursued by Mr. Cropper as far as Dry Creek Kenton county.

W. W. Grant, of Bellevue, visited his sister in Missouri recently. He started from home with $20 in his purse, and $60 in a pocket book which his wife fastened with a safety-pin in the inside pocket of his vest. After he arrived at his destination he discovered that the $60 had been stolen. The thief had taken the pocket-book out of his vest pocket, took the money out then replaced the pocket-book. The safety-pin was gone and the pocket-book bore the marks of a pair of nippers used to remove it. Mr. Grant rode in a chair car and was robbed while sleeping.

Circuit Court.

The Commonwealth's business was disposed of as follows:

Com'lth vs Frank Staley; same vs Bert Staley; same vs Henry Foster; same vs Claud Beall; same vs William Sleet; same vs Lewis Slayback; same vs Ben Covington; same vs Webb Lampton; same vs John Passons; same vs E. S. Clutterbuck.

The above prosecutions were continued with alias.

Com'lth vs James Bradford—willfull and malicious shooting and wounding another person—$10 fine and ten days in jail.

Com'lth vs Beu Dulaney filed away.

Com'lth vs Ralph C. Tilly—unlawfully selling whisky—continued for defendant.

Com'lth vs A. M. Acra—carrying concealed deadly weapons—tried by jury and verdict of not guilty.

Com'lth vs Thos. Marshall—assault and battery—fined $10.

Com'lth vs Julius Rice—racing on public highway—fined $10.

Com'lth vs Sleet Hume—suffering turnpike under his control to become unfit for travel, on motion of County Attorney indictment filed away.

Com'lth vs Wm. Neal—malicious cutting and wounding another person, fined $50.

Com'lth vs Wm. Neal—carrying pistol, transferred to County Judge.

B. D. Henderson, who, something over a year ago moved from Ohio to the Hebron neighborhood, was indicted at the August term, 1897, for practicing law without license, and also for practicing medicine without having registered as the law requires. When the indictment for practicing law without license was called the defendant answered and presented his diploma from the Cincinnati Law School, and a license issued by the late J. S. Boyd, who many years ago was Judge of the Campbell County Circuit Court. The indictment was then dismissed and the defendant was admitted to the bar. The indictment for practicing medicine unlawfully was tried before a jury. The defendant admitted rendering the medical service as charged in the indictment, but denied charging anything for said services. The jury heard the evidence and returned a verdict of not guilty. On the trial the defendant exhibited his diplomas from a Cincinnati College and a certificate to practice from the State Board of Health, issued sometime in the eighties.

In the case of Jacob Craig, &c., vs. Cyrus Riddell, &c., an ordor was entered directing the sale of 40,000 acres more of land.

The case of the Walton Deposit Bank against Mrs. Kate Noell was decided in favor of Mrs. Noell.

The indictments returned by the grand jury were for misdemeanors, except those against the burglars confined in jail.

The trial of the suit of A. M. Edwards against Weden Dean for alienating his wife's affections, was called for trial last Thursday. The parties announced themselves ready for trial, and the work of securing the jury was begun, and the jury was obtained from the regular panel. The hearing of testimony was begun Friday morning and about 2 o'clock Saturday the plaintiff rested. Defendant Dean then testified and Court adjourned for the week. The hearing of Defendant's testimony was resumed Monday morning, and was still in progress when our report closed yesterday at noon. A large number of witnesses has testified on each side. The plaintiff is represented by Hon. W. W. Dickerson, of Williamstown, and C. Y. Dyas, of Walton; the defendant by Atty. Gayle Botts, of Owenton, and J. G. Tomlin, of Walton. The following is the jury before whom the case is being tried: Frank Hossman, Ben Grant, Holland Goodridge, Charles Sebree, J. C. Clarkson, James Atkin, L. E. Tanner, Robert Hiser, Heury Phipps, Ezra Aylor, Charles Craven, George O. Hafer.

The trial of the two prisoners in jail is set for to-day. That trial will complete the term.

The holidays are crowding upon the the court and all parties want to get home in time to welcome entertain old Santa.

All the Stevenson-Murphy suits were continued.

The Commonwealth cases did not yield much revenue for the Commonwealth's attorney.

The Court held several night sessions to try equity cases.

The docket that contains the fewest number of new suits does not always result in the shortest term of court.

To the Hon. John W. Greene, Judge of 15th Judicial District:

We, your grand jury, would most respectfully report that we have been in session 6 days, have examined 52 witnesses and found 23 indictments. We have subpoenaed a good many witnesses who did not appear before us, and the officers returned many "not found," and we are satisfied that most of those returned "not found" were hiding to keep from appearing before us.

T. W. Finch was summoned to appear before us but failed to do so, and we recommend that he be compelled to appear before the next grand jury.

We have examined all of the public buildings and found the jail in good condition and well kept.

The County Infirmary needs some repairs, and we would recommend that the inside walls thereof be either whitewashed or papered with light colored paper, and the weatherboarding above the back porch needs repairs. The Infirmary is clean and well kept, and the inmates are under good control.

The Court House needs repairs in several respects. The hall floor at the north end has fallen through and should be repaired at once. The front porch is falling away from the main building, and, if possible, it should be kept from getting in a worse condition. The dry weather seems to have affected the foundation of the building, and the walls are cracking in several places, but we do not know how this can be avoided. We found the offices in the Court House clean and well kept.

We investigated the case of the two negro babies found dead in a pond near Florence, but were unable to fix the guilt on anyone. Several minor cases were investigated but no indictments found other than reported.

All of which is respectfully reported.

W. L. B. ROUSE, Foreman.

From the number of "Old 76" bottles picked up about town, that must be the favorite brand.

W. M. RACHAL & CO.,

PRICE POWER PULLS.

For Your Christmas Cakes

We will sell the following:

2½ Pounds of Granulated Sugar.....10 cents
1 Package of Seedless Raisins.....13 cents
1 Package of Cleaned Currants.....13 cents
¾ Pound of Citron.....14 cents

Package.....50 cents

We will put up in packages as above and will sell for 50cts.

We do this to save us and our customers trouble.

UNION, KENTUCKY

PRICE POWER PULLS.

WE HAVE ALWAYS ON HAND FRESH BULK

OYSTERS,
CELERY,
CRANBERRIES, ETC.

The best place to buy yours.

• • • • Candies for Christmas.

W. M. RACHAL & CO.,
UNION, KENTUCKY.

Uncle Rube Among the Lawyers.

Hon. W. W. Dickerson, of Williamstown, is known to snore in five different languages, at least, and mine host of the Boone House is suspicious he can add a couple of more at any time.

—o—

No man in the Sixth District has a finer memory than the Hon. Mark Gray, nor can he paint a prettier word picture on short notice. One evening recently the gentleman repeated almost verbatim a lecture delivered in Cincinnati by Robt. Ingersoll, several weeks since.

—o—

Ben Menefee has a wit so keen that even when he lowered his lance upon the dignified Judge Botts, of Walton, that gentleman had to pull down his helmet, put up his shield and look a leetle oudt.

—o—

Judge Greene has a kindly disposition and is much attached to the Jailer of Boone county and likes to have him at his right hand in the Court House, so he can consult him about the best methods to heat a Court house with n. g. coal.

—o—

Reports go to show that the Hon. C. Y. Dyas, of Walton, selected the hour of midnight, when four other gentlemen in the same room, and many more on the same floor, were trying to sleep, as a suitable time to make one of the best speeches of his life. Mr. Menefee said the speech was alright, but the time was "beyond the limit."

—o—

At a special term of court held by Judge Botts in room No. 5, at the Boone House, last Wednesday night, a suit brought by Mr. Menefee against Mr. Gray to determine the rights of any Commonwealths Attorney to practice after he had forgotten, at least two-thirds of the civil law, was tried. The following testimony was brought out: Sidney Gaines testified that any lawyer who ignored decisions of the Court of Appeals and tried to convict a person of manslaughter, when, in reality, he had only stolen a few chickens, ought to be given a civil answer. J. M. Lassing testified that any lawyer who could take the position that stealing four barrels of old iron from a blacksmith was any worse a crime and any less a felony than to steal four feather beds from a shoemaker, was a false reasoner, and ought to be given four years at the bar or behind the bars as the court may decree. Judge Botts then ruled that any man not over 109 years old could testify in his own behalf, and Mr. Gray testified as follows: "I am not 109 yrs. old; never knew Mr. Menefee previous to the year 1820, since that time have known him intimately; can't say that he knows me; he knows no law, and God knows no law knows Mr. Menefee, so I leave him to the mercy of the court." The court decided to fine Mr Menefee the suppers for the house at Harf & Kramers'on Christmas day.

If everybody would stop and think how much money goes every year for whisky it would soon be seen that neither the gold standard nor the tariff, nor both are wholly responsible for the hard times. The liquor bill of this country is more than the bread and meat bills combined. The worst curse any town every had is a saloon, unless we except the "blind tiger." We do not say this out of any prejudice against the saloon keeper. His business is justified and protected and upheld by the law, and by the people who make the law. The people are responsible for the saloons and blind tiger. If the Democratic party were to set its self to rid the country of the whisky traffic it would merit the everlasting gratitude of the nation, and would become invincible.—Trimble Banner.

Capt. J. M. Riddell and wife, of Williamstown, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage, last Thursday. An elegant dinner was prepared for the occasion, and their four children, Charles W., Horatio B., Mrs. W. Finch and Mrs. Hattie Arould and her daughter, Miss Nancy, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Clay White, T. W. Fluch, Mrs. Cyrus Riddell and the writer and wife, enjoyed it with them. Mr. and Mrs. Riddell has each passed the three score and ten mark in life's journey, but are hale and hearty and bid fair to see the return of many more anniversaries of the day that nsbered in their marriage life, which has been a long, happy and useful one, protracted for beyond an average.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, wife of A. O. Hall, died last Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, after a lingering illness, aged 68 years, and 19 days. She was a daughter of Samuel Westbay, a citizen of Burlington many years ago. She was married to Mr. A. O. Hall on the 11th day of June, 1846, and leaves a husband and seven children—four sons and three daughters. She was a member of the Methodist church. After a short service by Rev. Hoover, Yesterday afternoon, the remains were deposited in the vault to await final interment. The family has the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

The Bellevue Masonic Lodge conferred the M. M. degres on two candidates last Saturday—R. C. Akins and —— McMullen. Between the conferring of the two degrees an oyster soup was partaken of with a relish.

PERSONAL MENTION.

H. W. Blyth was in the city last Saturday.

Mr. J. T. Hughes, of Beaver, was in town Monday, and called on the Recorder.

Polk Sullivan, who lives in the lower Guupowder neighborhood, has been in bad health for several months.

Master Herbert McKim is recovering from a severe attack of pneumonia. He has been sick for several days.

Chas. Schramm and Fillmore Wingate two of the most popular citizens of the Petersburg precinct, were in town Saturday.

Mrs. Amanda Rouse, of Hebron, has gone to Hartwell, Ohio, where she will spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Paddock.

Edward Rice, of the Utzinger neighborhood, had a stroke of paralysis last week. His left arm and leg were considerably affected. He is improving.

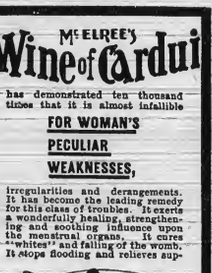
Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ossman, of Beaver, are guests of County Clerk Adams and wife. George is doing jury duty, or rather waiting for that kind of work.

John Bentler, who has been operating a blacksmith shop in Florence for some time, has rented Mrs. Annabel Kirkpatrick's shop, and will work here.

Chas. A. Gaines, of Utzinger, who has been suffering with inflammatory rheumatism, is able to be about his room again. Charlie is considerably reduced in flesh.

O. J. Ryle holds the lucrative position of foreman in a woodyard on the outskirts of town The weather for a few days past has been very much against its business.

Prof. Collins, of Richwood, was in town last Saturday, meeting his many friends who have been wondering if he had forgotten them. The professor looks as though rural life agrees with him. Come again, Audy, when you have longer to stay with us.



Our friend, Henry Quick was in an extra good humor Monday morning. It was the result of his discovering a small Klondike under his plate at the breakfast table that morning, a friend who did not expect to see him again until after the holidays, having deposited a V there as a Christmas gift.

McELREE'S
Wine of Cardui

has demonstrated ten thousand times that it is almost infallible

FOR WOMAN'S PECULIAR WEAKNESSES,

irregularities and derangements. It has become the leading remedy for this class of troubles. It exerts a wonderfully healing, strengthening and soothing influence upon the menstrual organs. It cures "whites" and falling of the womb. It stops flooding and relieves suppressed and painful menstruation. For Change of Life it is the best medicine made. It is beneficial during pregnancy, and helps to bring children into homes barren for years. It invigorates, stimulates, strengthens the whole system. This great remedy is offered to all afflicted women. Why will any woman suffer another minute with certain relief within reach? Wine of Cardui only costs $1.00 per bottle at your drug store.

For advice, in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Rev. J. W. SMITH, Camden, S. C., says: "My wife used Wine of Cardui at home for falling of the womb and it entirely cured her."

FOR RENT—FOR SALE.

One cottage of three rooms, and a small garden, in Hebron. For sale, 12 barrels pure apple vinegar. Apply to HARRISON CLORE, Hebron, Ky. Dec. 29,

For Sale or Rent.

Good Stock Farm of 170 acres. Money rent in cash, if rented.
Wm. C. HENSLEY.

Notice.

Having attained an age, and condition of health, that I am no longer able to attend to my business, I appoint Geo. W. Robe ts to take charge of it, and enforce settlement and reinvest the money to the best advantage.
NAT HIND, Verona, Ky.

Take the Recorder, $1.50 a year.

W. E. CHAMBERLAIN,

DEALER IN UP TO DATE

FURNITURE,

HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS, ETC.,

HIGH STREET,

Lawrenceburg, - Indiana.

—HAUCK BUILDING.—

Stylish and Durable Oak BED ROOM SUITS,

All-Oak SIDE BOARDS, As Handsome as the Finest.

INGRAIN CARPETS,

BRUSSELS CARPETS.

W. E. CHAMBERLAIN,
LAWRENCEBURG, INDIANA.

When in Burlington Call on

J. S. CLUTTERBUCK

DEALER IN

DRY GOODS

Notions, Boots and Shoes,

HAY, CORN AND MILL FEED,

At Prices to Suit the times.

FRESH - MEATS - ALWAYS - ON - HAND.

J. S. CLUTTERBUCK, Burlington, Ky.

Buy COFFEE and TEA of the J. L. BILL COFFEE & TEA CO., a Ticket given with every 25c purchase and handsome presents given away.

The J. L. BILL

Coffee and Tea Co.

THE BEST BRANDS OF FLOUR.

12 W. Seventh & S. E. Cor. Sixth & Bakewell,

COVINGTON, KY.

WM. F. NEAD, Salesman.

FARMERS

Make the most of your crops, buy the best Wind-mill outfit made—The AERMOTOR—abundance of power wasting right over your heads, grasp the opportunity—Grind and Cut your own Feed and that of your neighbors—feed economically.

THE AERMOTOR

will bear close inspection and is guaranteed to work right. They are Cheap. Come and see it work and be convinced.

Also remember we are still in the ring with a complete line

OF GENERAL MERCHANDISE

and can sell Goods just as cheap as anyone. Highest market Prices paid for COUNTRY PRODUCE or anything salable. Come and see

OUR STOCK,

It Speaks for Itself.

Don't forget that "LaBELLE" HERD

Of Chester White Hogs

Is ready to supply Choice Stock at Reasonaole Prices.

T. J. HUGHES, - BEAVER LICK, KY.

TAKE YOUR OWN COUNTY PAPER.

"'T WAS the night before Christmas," and—Oh, yes, I know
That's scarcely original, still it'll go.
It's just what I wanted to say, you'll admit,
And it's easier far than to write one to fit:
'Twas the night before Christmas and Dick was in bed,
When he heard a light step on the roof overhead,
And a rattle of boots in the chimney, and knew
It was Santa, so down the front stairway he flew
And peeped in the parlor and there, sure enough,
Was that little old gentleman, ruddy and stout,
With his thick bushy whiskers and jolly red nose,
And the pack that he carries wherever he goes.
But his dress, well, what student of story book lore
Saw Santa Claus dressed in a sweater before?
Or in trousers of plaid, while the stockings he sported
Were the kind Anglomaniacs lately 've imported.
Called "golfers." In short, his attire was so queer,
Dick's gasp of surprise reached the old fellow's ear.
"Come in," said he, kindly, "I really would like
To have some one to talk to. Say, how do I strike
Your critical eye? Aren't these golf stockings nice?
I fancy that they cut considerable ice.
What! Surprised at my slang? I don't know why you should be,
It's strange how the people have misunderstood me.
I'm not the old fossil the story books state;
I'll have you to know that I'm right up-to-date.
My reindeer? you ask. My dear boy, they're too slow
For this wide-awake age, they've been sold to a show.
I'm riding a wheel and I fancy myself
I could put a few racers away on the shelf
If I ever started to beat 'em. Let's see,
My cyclometer tells me I've ridden just three Hundred thousand and twenty-five miles since I started,
And—My! that reminds me, it's time I departed.
So long—See you later." He stepped to the flue
And giving a jump quickly vanished from view.
And Dick reached the window in season to spy
The flash of his lamp as his cycle whizzed by.
A glimpse in the road where the bright moonlight shone,
A speck in the distance, and Santa was gone.
And said Dick, as he slowly went back to the fire:
"Say, what would he do if he punctured a tire?"

—Joe Lincoln, in L. A. W. Bulletin.

CHRISTMAS ROSES.

IT HAD been a dull, gray day, sunless, rainless, cheerless, and it was Christmas eve. A sobbing breeze that was not even cold sighed among the pines and the leafless elms that lined the street of the little southern town.

"If the sun would come out, or even if it would rain! One likes to see something going on, even if the something is unpleasant. Things seem to have come to a sort of standstill. I wish we were at home with Minnie and the kids. She's the sort of person to keep you from missing the sunshine, and that."

Jack Allen laughed. "You are in love with your wife, Tom, that's all."

"I shouldn't be surprised. You'll understand why, when you see her. I wrote her that you were coming. Why, hello, here's a bright spot at last! Look at those Christmas roses! How white they are! My mother used to love them so, and Minnie does. Come in, Jack, and I'll get a pot for Minnie. Whose place is it?" glancing up at the name above the flower-filled window. "Rose Ellison. Why, let's see. We used to know her, Jack. Don't you recollect? She was one of the schoolgirls graduated with Minnie—pretty girl, too. Come in."

"Thank you, I'll wait here. Want a cigar. Flowers and old friends are not in my line," Jack said.

Tom glanced at his friend, who began to fumble with a cigar case, his back to the beautiful window. "Surly old bachelor, eh? More's the pity," he said as he opened the door and went in.

A trim little lady stood behind the counter. Her cheeks were a good deal flushed, and a curious, wistful light shone in her pretty blue eyes. She was trying to compose herself.

"Why, Miss Rose, I'm glad to stumble upon an old friend. How do you do? Minnie'll be glad to hear from you. I stopped to get a pot of your pretty Christmas roses for her." Tom talked on, and all the time his bright eyes were taking in the details of the little shop. Presently a sort of pain began to grow in his big, kind heart. Pretty Rose had come to this—to the wearing of faded, mended gowns and the selling of needles and pins and flowers. "They are the prettiest roses I ever saw," he went on, "and I want the very biggest and sweetest for Minnie's Christmas gift."

"I love them, every one," Rose said, setting down a fine plant. "How is this one?"

"It's a beauty. Will you take this for it?" He threw a $10 bill on the counter.

"That? Oh, not even half so much."

"Shucks! You ought to deal with a city florist. I'd be lucky to get off at $25! My conscience will trouble me, Miss Rose, if I pay less than $10. Habit is strong. You won't spoil my Christmas and my pleasure in giving this to the little woman at home, will you?"

"But I, too, have a conscience," Rose laughed.

"But mine is so tender, Miss Rose, and, honor bright, it's a sure thing they charge awful; so that's all right. Maybe it would be better if you'd throw in a 'button hole,'"

"Yes, let me. You've been too generous, I feel that I cannot—"

"I'll take violets and a sprig of nutmeg."

"And your friend. Won't you take one for him?" She flushed again.

"To Jack?" glancing outside. "Yes, but he's a surly old fellow, and I doubt if he'll wear it. It's Jack Allen, you know. Remember he went west five years ago. I stumbled upon him at the hotel—just got back."

Tom noticed how the girl's white hands fluttered as she tied up his violets, and then how she hesitated, and

"I—YOU DON'T CARE FOR THEM, JACK."

at last broke off a white rose bud and a scented leaf for his friend. He pinned on his flowers, and waited while she deftly wrapped up the pot that held the Christmas rose.

"You hardly miss it from your pretty window," he said.

"I'd hoped to sell all these," she replied, a little break in her voice, "but it's getting late now. To-morrow is Christmas day."

"So it is. Rose, come spend it with us. Minnie is always so glad to see old friends. It's only a two-hour run. Can't you come?"

"Why, I'd like to. Christmas is so sad, nowadays; so sad and dull."

"Yes. Well, you see, Minnie has the kids, and she's at home nearly always. I'm on the road, you know. It would help her, and she'd be glad I thought of it. Let's see." He took a slim black book from his pocket. "I've just the number of miles here on this ticket. It won't be any good next year," tearing out a bit of paper. "You just use it, and I'll go and send a telegram to Minnie." And before Rose could collect her wits he had snatched up the flowers and was gone, and there on the counter lay the crisp $10 bill and a railroad ticket!

"It's like a fairy visit," Rose laughed, peering between the roses at the men as they walked off. "And he wouldn't come in! I wonder why? He—oh, he has the rose in his coat! My little Christmas rose. I wonder if he remembers?"

The men were out of sight, and Rose turned from her flowery window, and, snatching up the money and ticket hurried into the little room at the back of the store.

"I've found that recipe, Rosy. The cheap fruit cake, you know," squeaked a little voice.

"Oh, aunty, you can't do it. You needn't to. Three eggs and not a shred of citron! Burn the recipe. You are going to spend Christmas with Cousin Serena, after all!"

"Rose Ellison!"

"Yes, I've been so lucky. I'm going to the city, and— But your train leaves in an hour. Let's hurry aunty, else you'll have to wait until to-morrow afternoon!"

"Rosy, dear, I don't understand!"

Rose caught the quaint little figure in her arms, and kissed the puzzled face. "You needn't. Just get ready. You are going in an hour. In the morning I'm going to see Minnie Drewn. I've had an invitation. She's married, you know, to Tom Wilkins—such a—there's the bell. Do get yourself together, aunty."

Presently aunty entered the store with a big green veil over her queer bonnet and a bandbox on each arm, while in one hand she carried a blue silk bag and the other grasped an immense umbrella. Into the bag Rose dropped a handful of coin, and kissing aunty's flushed, withered old face hurried her on. "It'll be a fine treat to me and Screny, Rosy. But what'll you do tonight?"

"Me? Oh, I'll stay with the minister's wife and help her fill the wee bit stockings. Get a real good time, aunty, dear."

"I will, child, but I feel all a-flutter, with the sadness of it. Kinter off my feet, you know." Then she trotted on down the street with the great bandboxes bouncing like life preservers, under her arms. She was just in time for the train. A little out of breath and a good deal excited, she settled her belongings in the end of her seat, and began to take comfort.

Two gentlemen in the seat before her glanced back at the quaint little figure, and one of them smiled. "Look here, Jack," one said, "don't let me forget at the next station to wire Minnie. That poor little girl is going down to-morrow to spend a day or so. It's a great nuisance, our having to go to Brightville instead of straight on home. She'll get there first, in the morning. We'll get in at 12."

"What girl is it?" Jack pulled his cap down over his curly hair.

"Why, Rose Ellison, of course. I was so sorry for her, Jack, I asked her."

"The dickens you did!" Jack's brown eyes flashed.

"Why, Jack, are you a regular woman-hater? The poor little woman is worked to death, and I warrant she never has a good time. If I'd thought a moment—but I was sorry for her. It's such a poor little place. She's pretty and the roses are, but there's—it's a stuffy little store. I'm afraid Minnie's forgotten her—it's been so long since they were girls, and I can't recollect hearing Minnie speak of her, but I'll send her word. That little woman shall have a good time. Why, Jack, old fellow?"

Jack's hand was on his friend's shoulder. "Don't Tom. It's going to be pretty tough for me, old boy. Can't you let me off?"

"Let you off, with Minnie expecting you? Not if I know it," and Tom looked very grave and earnest. "You are not a coward, are you, Jack? What's the matter?"

"I'm afraid I am, Tom, but if I must go, help me all you can."

"To keep out of the poor little creature's way? She looks harmless enough. I'd be more afraid of Minnie's town friends."

"You don't understand, Tom."

"Then suppose you enlighten me?"

"I—I used to know her in the old days. She was everything to me. I reckon I was a fool, but I couldn't tell her so."

"That you were a fool? Don't blame you."

"No; that I—that—she—that we—"

"Exactly," Tom nodded.

"So I sent her a bunch of Christmas roses like these." He touched one of the nodding white flowers tenderly.

"Like that in your buttonhole?"

"Yes. I sent them on Christmas eve—five years ago to-night. And there was a foolish note with them asking her if she loved me to wear them to the Dwight's party."

"And she didn't wear them?"

"She didn't even go, and I, fool that I was, went to see why. Her aunt was to go with her—I had ordered a carriage. There were lights all about the house. A dim one was in the parlor. I used often to go to the French window that opened on the veranda and save waiting at the hall door. That night the lace curtains were drawn across the window, but the blinds were open. I was about to push the window open when I saw Rose seated on a sofa across the room. She wore a bright loose-looking dress, and her face was pale and earnest. Beside her—" He stopped a moment and loosened his collar. Then he went on: "Beside her on the sofa sat Rex Hill—you recollect a young doctor who used to be with old Dr. Bellamy?"

Tom nodded. He had forgotten Rex Hill, but that didn't matter.

"Well, he sat there talking to her and holding her hand, and presently she burst out crying and—and—my eyes burned so I couldn't see very well, but her head went down on his breast, and—I reckon I was wild, mad. The next I knew I was on a train that was speeding westward, and the Christmas sun was rising."

Tom blew his nose; Jack covered his face with his hands. There was a little stir among the bandboxes behind them, and a hand in a gray cotton glove was laid on Jack's shoulder.

"Oh, sir," squeaked a small, mouse-like voice, "that was the night her father died. Dr. Bellamy was sick and he sent for the young man. I was there, spending Christmas. It was a stroke—so sudden and unexpected. Rosy couldn't believe—she couldn't sense it. I saw her dressed for the party in her pretty white frock with the Christmas roses in her hair and on her breast, and I saw her when the news came. She was almost crazy. She tore off the party finery, but she put the roses in water, and afterwards she set 'em out and they grew—them's the same roses. I put the red wrapper on her, and the young doctor undertook to tell her that her father'd have to die, for I couldn't (though I'm not one to shirk my duty), and I've stood by her ever since. Rosy never meant no harm—she never was bold. There's not many like Rosy."

The car door opened and the porter yelled "Centerville." There was a stir among the bandboxes, a flourish of the umbrella, and the quaint little figure fluttered out before either of the men could speak or move. And after she was gone they were quite still until presently Tom got out his cigars and went into another car.

The sun shone bright enough Christmas morning when Tom and his guest left the car for the carriage that would take them home.

"You see, I'll have to see Minnie all to myself, just at first, that's why she won't be in the hall. I'll just tumble you into the parlor for a moment until I gather my senses. Compensations, you see. It isn't so bad being a traveling man—there are so many home-comings!" Tom said, holding the carriage door open while they were speeding on.

This was how it came about that Jack walked into the bright warm parlor to find a little blue-eyed woman with Christmas roses in her hair sitting alone in the ruddy glow of the yule-tide fire. His eyes grew bright and soft as the little woman rose, flushing and confused.

"Are you wearing the Christmas roses for me, dear?" he asked, humbly.

"I—I didn't care for them, Jack."

"Then I do. I want the sweetest of all those roses for my own, little girl. May I have it, now?"

A mischievous sparkle brightened the blue eyes. "How can I tell which is sweetest?" she asked.

"May I take my choice?"

Then Tom and Minnie came and after them the "kids," and altogether it was a very happy Christmas.

"The rosiest sort of a rosy time," Tom said, pinching Rose Ellison's pink cheek.—Ellen Frizell Wycoff, in Minneapolis Housekeeper.

CHRISTMAS OBSERVANCES.

Customs Handed Down to Us from Bygone Ages.

It is an interesting fact that nearly all of the present observances of the sweet Christmas time which have been handed down to us from bygone ages are relics of heathenish barbarism.

The practice of decorating with evergreens has been ascribed to various sources. Decorating with flowers and evergreens was a pagan manifestation of rejoicing and worship. This custom was also observed among nations both of Gothic and Celtic origin. A superstition among the votaries of Druidism was that houses decked with evergreens in December would be visited by sylvan spirits and that the inmates would be uninjured by the frost and cold winds.

The mistletoe bough was held in veneration by the pagans, as it was likewise respected by the Gothic and Celtic nations. Among Celtic nations it is known to have been an object of great veneration. The ceremony of collecting it by the Druids was one of the highest solemnity. It is said that the oaks on which it grew were sacred to them. The reverence it inspired was based upon the wonderful healing powers it was believed to possess.

If hung up in the house it was considered a guard against evil spirits. Its introduction into Christmas festivals might be appropriate as emblematic of conquests obtained over the spirits of evil and darkness. The reverence of the mistletoe among the ancient Britons appears, however, to have been limited only to that which grew on an oak, whereas, the pearly berries, which bring a blush to the cheek of the modern maiden, may be gathered besides from the hawthorne, lime and old apple trees as well as the Scotch and silver fir. There existed a tradition that the maid not kissed under the mistletoe at Christmas would not wed within a year.

The Yule log was considered by the ancient Druids a protection against evil spirits. There were various superstitions mingled with the ceremony of lighting it. It had to be lighted with clean hands in order to extract its virtues. It was deemed an evil omen if the light went out during the night. The Yule log is still kindled on Christmas eve in various parts of England.—Louisville Courier Journal.

Signs of Christmas.

She meets me at the door
Each evening with a smile that's sweet and mellow;
"Your supper's waiting; come right in, you poor
Dear, tired fellow!"
(But I know just what this means,
For we've struck the Christmas scenes:
A new red hat,
And the likes o' that—
That's just what the dear one means.)

She marks my frowning brow
"('Tis sweet to have a woman to adore you!)
And says: "I know your head must ache, and now
I'm going to rub it for you!"
(But I know just what that means,
For we've struck the Christmas scenes:
A dress, a hat,
And the likes o' that—
That's just what the dear one means!)
—Atlanta Constitution.

A Mistake.

"Hit am er mistake," said Uncle Eben, "ter hab yoh merry Christmas in sech a way dat yoh can't hab er happy New Year, ease ob de worry 'bout de bills."—Washington Star.

A Belated Joy.

"It may seem queer, but I get the most of my holiday joy the day after Christmas."

"How's that?"

"I'm so glad to be alive after eating so much dinner the day before."—Chicago Record.

FINANCIAL DISHONESTY.

Republican Method of Dealing with Pensioners.

Republican cowardice was never more plainly exhibited than in the recent action of the house on pensions.

Commissioner Evans had appeared before the subcommittee having in charge the pension appropriation bill prepared at the extra session and had shown clearly the necessity of increasing the original appropriation at least $10,000,000 in order to avoid the unpleasant party embarrassment of facing a heavy deficit in the pension account at the close of the fiscal year.

He told the committee of the big monthly deficit piling up on him, and unblushingly revealed his methods of deceiving the country and imposing a hardship upon the pensioners by holding out the certificates that were due last June until the following month in order that the deficit might not appear in the reports made at the close of the first fiscal year.

"That is only one of several hides," was the calm remark of Representative Belden, a republican member of the subcommittee, who thereby confessed that his party was in the habit of juggling with figures in the manner described by Commissioner Evans.

Despite the representation of the approximately true condition and prospects of the pension account, the subcommittee refused to increase the appropriation to within anything like the required amount, and the party will have to assume the responsibility for an emergency deficiency bill on this account at the close of the Fifty-fifth congress.

The democrats face the issue with a courage and consistency that should put the republicans to shame and show the country who are the real friends of the honest and deserving pensioners. When the bill was reported back to the house the democrats moved to increase the appropriation to $150,000,000. The motion was lost on a strict party vote. The amendment was not proposed because the democrats approve the present fraudulent administration of the pension office, but in strict accord with democratic principles of government which can find no better form of expression than "pay as you go."

The democratic party is not opposed to the pension system. On the contrary, the system has found its warmest supporters among democrats.

It is the abuse of the system to which the democratic party is opposed. Every effort of the party has been to make the pension lists "a roll of honor." For that reason democratic legislation and administration have strenuously endeavored to purge the rolls and place them on a strict basis of merit. The amount involved has never concerned democrats, so long as it was known that fraud was not being perpetrated. Democrats have never asked for retrenchment that interfered with the relief of any veteran who was disabled in the service and who needs the assistance of the government. All that is demanded by them is the abandonment of a policy which degrades the standard of patriotism and manhood in this country, which encourages a spirit of mendicancy and a disposition to defraud the government. It is poor politics as well as fraudulent administration for the republicans to pursue the pension course marked out in congress.—St. Louis Republic.

POINTS AND OPINIONS.

——Mr. Dingley himself wishes there were more holes in his tariff wall.—St. Paul Globe.

——A revenue deficit is the legitimate result of a surplus of protection.—N. Y. World.

——Somebody says that Mr. Reed is not in favor of Hawaiian annexation. Oh!—yes—the sugar trust. Well, that settles it.—Atlanta Constitution.

——One of the statesmanlike strokes in Mr. McKinley's message is the fact that its author does not call attention too vociferously to the operations of the Dingley law.—Chicago Record (Ind.)

——Congressman Dingley has been interviewed on the probable work of the Fifty-fifth congress. He doesn't even suggest the passage of a tariff bill which will gather revenue.—St. Paul Globe.

——The goldite organs are insisting that congress ought to pass a bankruptcy bill this session. That's right!—McKinley goldite prosperity and bankruptcy must go hand in hand.—Illinois State Register.

——Secretary Gage raises the estimated receipts from the Dingley law to $200,000,000 for no reason except that he "hopes so." And still he is compelled to show a deficit of more than $20,000,000!—N. Y. World.

——Chairman Dingley insists that his law is all right as a revenue producer, but that economy will be necessary in the appropriations. He is almost as ingenious as the man who lengthened his trousers legs by cutting off a slice at the top and adding it to the bottom.—Boston Herald.

——The republicans talk one hour about their purpose to limit immigration to the United States by shutting out the ignorant, vicious, pauper scum of southern Europe. The next hour they tell us they propose to take in, by treaty, or by an act of annexation, 100,000 of the very dregs of humanity. The worst that can come from Sicily, Italy and Poland are model material compared to the riffraff of the Sandwich Islands.—Chattanooga Times.

——Mr. McKinley exhibits his characteristic weakness—some might call it political demagogy—in his treatment of the financial and money questions. He evidently desires to gratify the goldites, and suggests, as a remedy for the evils they complain of, a system of redemption of greenbacks and their retention in the treasury to be paid out only for gold on demand. This, of course, would require a revenue in excess of expenditures, which the Dingley robber tariff law does not provide.—Illinois State Register.

BONDS AND BUNCOMBE.

President McKinley's Ideas About Financiering.

One of the features of the president's message most difficult to account for is the elaborate explanation that President McKinley gives of the way the endless chain may operate to replete the gold reserve and thus make a bond issue necessary. The explanation is identical with the explanation that President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle gave to congress on more than one occasion. President McKinley says that we have $900,000,000 of currency to keep at par with gold; that nobody is obliged to redeem in gold but the government; that the revenues of the government are not [illegible] to be paid in gold; that the money the government can get gold with originally is by borrowing. He says:

"The law which requires the government, after having redeemed its United States notes, to pay them out again as current funds, demands a constant replenishment of the gold reserve. This is especially so in times of business panic and when the revenues are insufficient to meet the expenses of the government. * * * The serious question then is: Shall we continue the policy that has been pursued in the past—that is, when the gold reserve reaches the point of danger, issue more bonds and supply the needed gold—or shall we provide other means to prevent the recurring drains upon the gold reserve?

"If no further legislation is had and the policy of selling bonds is to be continued, then congress should give the secretary of the treasury authority to sell bonds at long or short periods, bearing a less rate of interest than is now authorized by law."

Why should President McKinley present these pregnant facts to the attention of his partisan friends and supporters, who had formerly so scornfully tossed them aside as wicked inventions of President Cleveland? Why should he make the republicans swallow the "endless chain" theory, and especially at this time? There is no pressure now tending to diminish the gold reserve. The insufficiency of the revenues does not have such a tendency, as the experience of the past four months shows. While the revenues have been running behind at an average rate of more than $9,000,000, the gold reserve has steadily and materially increased. July 1, 1897, it stood at $140,000,000. December 1, 1897, it stood at $157,000,000. While the treasury ran behind $45,000,000 in cash its stock of gold increased $17,000,000. The dependence of the gold reserve upon revenues isn't apparent so long as there is available cash in the treasury aside from the gold reserve to pay deficiencies with. If the deficit continues to run at the present rate for four or five months longer all the cash except the gold will be used up and further deficits will reduce the gold reserve. But the Dingley bill, we are told, will be producing plenty of revenue in a few months and thus all danger to the gold reserve will be averted.

That being the case, it is difficult to understand why so much of the message is devoted to a discussion of so improbable a thing as a bond issue. What is the sense of discussing bond issues when we have a sound money party in power and the Dingley tariff law in full swing? It is truly incomprehensible.—Utica Observer.

PAP AND EXTRAVAGANCE.

The Dingley-McKinley System of Reduction.

On the 1st of March, 1893, the total interest-bearing debt of the United States was $585,037,250.

On November 30, 1897, it is $847,365,620.

That is to say, in a time of profound peace the government's bonded debt has been increased by no less than $262,331,360, simply because the revenues have not equaled the expenditures.

And now the nation is spending every month $9,000,000 more than its income, with the certainty of still further bond issues if something is not done to increase revenue or to cut down expenses.

This is the situation that confronts congress.

Yet the people are enormously taxed. If what they pay all went into the treasury the whole national debt would be speedily extinguished and a reduction of taxation would become a pressing necessity.

The trouble is that under the Dingley-McKinley system the greater portion of what the people pay goes not into the treasury but into the coffers of "protected" and trust-manipulating monopolies.

On the other hand the expenditures of the government are enormously in excess of the actual need, because a very great proportion of the appropriations is made simply to serve party purposes, or, in plain words, to buy votes with bounties.

What a monument the present congress could build for itself if it had the courage to deal with this matter rationally and honestly, cutting off all unjust appropriations and levying taxes with sole reference to the replenishment of the treasury. But what a howl would come up from all the trusts and all the coddled and pap-fed monopolies!—N. Y. World.

——Reed, like Cæsar, is ambitious. He has desired to be president for many years. He is conscious that he was cheated out of the nomination to which he was by merit entitled on account of the wholesale purchase by money and promises of patronage employed by the political syndicate directed by Mark Hanna. Mr. Reed can have, under the circumstances, no conscientious scruples about throwing obstructions in the pathway of the McKinley second term boom. Evidence is already coming to the surface that the speaker is taking time by the forelock with one hand and putting bent pins on the chair whereon sits the administration with the other.—Kansas City Times.

——The biggest visible thing the McKinley administration has developed is the deficit in the treasury, but that is nothing compared to the deficit in the pockets of the people through the protection afforded to trusts under the Dingley law.—Louisville Dispatch.

GEOLOGY OF THE BIBLE.

The Genesis Story of the Creation Still Unshaken.

Turning to Salt and Rain and Brimstone Easily Explained—Plenty of Whales, Large Enough to Swallow Jonah—. Sermon by Rev. Dr. Talmage.

Dr. Talmage Sunday discussed "The Geology of the Bible, or God Among the Rocks." The text is II. Samuel, vi., 6-7: "And when they came to Nachon's threshing floor Uzzah put forth his hand to the ark of God, and took hold of it; for the oxen shook it. And the anger of the Lord was kindled against Uzzah, and God smote him there for his error; and there he died by the ark of God."

A band of music is coming down the road, cornets blown, timbrels struck, harps thummed and cymbals clapped, all led on by David, who was himself a musician. They are ahead of a wagon on which is the sacred box called the "Ark." The yoke of oxen drawing the wagon imperilled it. Some critics says that the oxen kicked, being struck with the driver's goad, but my knowledge of oxen leads me to say that if on a hot day they see a shadow of a tree or a wall they are apt to suddenly shy off to get the coolness of the shadow. I think these oxen so suddenly turned that the sacred box seemed about to upset and be thrown to the ground. Uzzah rushed forward and laid hold of the ark to keep it upright. But he had no right to do so. A special command had been given by the Lord that no one, save the priest, under any circumstances, should touch that box. Nervous, and excited, and irreverent, Uzzah disobeyed when he took hold of the ark, and he died as a consequence. In all ages, and never more so than in our own day, there are good people all the time afraid that the Holy Bible, which is the sacred ark of our time, will be upset, and they have been a long while afraid that science, and especially geology, would overthrow it. While we are not forbidden to touch the Holy Book, and, on the contrary, are urged to fondle and study it, any one who is afraid of the overthrow of the Book is greatly offending the Lord with his unbelief. The oxen have not yet been yoked which can upset that ark of the world's salvation. Written by the Lord Almighty, He is going to protect it until its mission is fully filled, and there shall be no more need of a Bible, because all its prophecies will have been fulfilled and the human race will have exchanged worlds. A trumpet and a violin are very different instruments, but they may be played in perfect accord. So the Bible account of the creation of the world and the geological account are differnet. One story written on parchment and the other on the rocks, and yet in perfect and eternal accord. The word "day," repeated in the first chapter of Genesis, has thrown into paroxysms of criticism many exegetes. The Hebrew word "Yom" of the Bible means sometimes what we call a day, and sometimes it means ages; it may mean 24 hours or a 100,000,000 years. The order of creation as written in the Book of Genesis is the order of creation discovered by the geologists' crowbar. So many Uzzahs have been nervously rushing about for fear the strong oxen of scientific discovery would upset the Bible that I went somewhat apprehensively to look into the matter, when I found that the Bible and geology agree in saying that first were built the rocks; then the plants greened the earth; then marine creatures were created, from minnow to whale; then the wings and throats of aerial choirs were colored and tuned, and the quadrupeds began to bleat and bellow and neigh. What is all this fuss that has been filling the church and the world concerning a fight between Moses and Agassiz? There is no fight at all. But is not the geological impression that the world was millions of years building antagonistic to the theory of one week's creation in Genesis? No. A great house is to be built. A man takes years to draw to the spot the foundation stone and the heavy timbers. The house is about done, but it is not finished for comfortable residence. Suddenly the owner calls in upholsterers, plumbers, gasfitters, paper hangers, and in one week it is ready for occupancy. Now, it requires no stretch of imagination to realize that God could have taken millions of years for the bringing of the rocks and the timbers of this world together, yet only one week more to make it inhabitable and to furnish it for human residence. Remember also that all up and down the Bible the language of the times was used—common parlance—and it was not always to be taken literally. Just as we say every day that the world is round, when it is not round. It is spheroidal—flattened at the poles and protuberant at the equator. Prof. Snell, with his chain of triangles, and Prof. Varin, with the shortened pendulum of his clock, found it was not round; but we do not become critical of any one who says the world is round. Let us deal as fairly with Moses or Job as we do with each other.

But for years good people feared geology, and, without any inquiration on their part, apprehended that the rocks and mountains would fall on them, until Hugh Miller, the elder of St. John's church in Edinburgh, and parishioner of Dr. Guthrie, came forth and told the world that there was no contradiction between the mountains and the church, and O. M. Mitchel, a brilliant lecturer before he became a brigadier general, dying at Beaufort, S. C., during our civil war, took the platform and spread his map of the strata of rock in the presence of great audiences, and Prof. Alexander Winchell, of Michigan university, and Prof. Taylor Lewis, of Union college, showed that the "without form and void" of the first chapter of Genesis was the very chaos out of which the world was formulated, the hands of God packing together the land and tossing up the mountains into great heights, and flinging down the seas into their great depths.

Before God gets through with this world there will hardly be a book of the Bible that will not find confirmation, either in archaeology or geology. Exhumed Babylon, Nineveh, Jerusalem, Tyre and Egyptian hieroglyphics are crying out in the ears of the world: "The Bible is right! All right! Everlastingly right!" Geology is saying the same thing, not only confirming the truth about the original creation, but confirming so many passages of the Scriptures that I can only slightly refer to them.

But you do not really believe that story of the deluge and the sinking of the mountains under the waves? Tell us something we can believe. "Believe that," says geology, "for how can you account for those sea shells and sea weeds and skeletons of sea animals found on the top of some of the highest mountains? If the water did not sometimes rise about the mountains, how did those sea shells and sea weeds and skeletons of sea animals get there? Did you put them there?"

But, now, you do not really believe the story about the storm of fire and brimstone whelming Sodom and Gomorrah, and enwrapping Lot's wife in such saline incrustations that she halted a sack of salt? For the confirmation of that story the geologist goes to that region, and after trying in vain to take a swim in the lake, so thick with salt he can not swim—the lake beneath which Sodom and Gomorrah lie buried—one drop of water so full of sulphur and brimstone that it stings your tongue, and for hours you can not get rid of the nauseating drop—the scientist then digging down and finding sulphur on top of sulphur, brimstone on top of brimstone, while all around there are jets, and crags, and peaks of salt, and if one of them did not become the sarcophagus of Lot's wife, they show you how a human being might in that tempest have been halted and packed into a white monument that would defy the ages.

But, now, you do not really believe that New Testament story about the earthquake at the time Christ was crucified, do you? Geology digs down into Mt. Calvary and finds the rocks ruptured and askant, showing the work of an especial earthquake for that mountain, and an earthquake which did not touch the surrounding region. Go and look for yourself and see there a dip and cleavage of rocks as nowhere else on the planet, geology thus announcing an especial earthquake for the greatest tragedy of all the centuries—the assassination of the Son of God.

But you do not really believe that story of the burning of our world at the last day? Geology digs down and finds that the world is already on fire, and that the center of this globe is incandescent, molten, volcanic, a burning coal, burning out toward the surface, and the internal fires have so far reached the outside rim that I do not see how the world is to keep from complete conflagration until the prophecies concerning it are fulfilled. The lava poured forth from the mouths of Vesuvius, Mt. Etna, and Cotopaxi, and Kilauea, is only the regurgitation from an awful inflammation thousands of miles deep. There are mines in Pennsylvania and in several parts of the world that have been on fire for many years. These coal mines burning down and the internal fires of the earth burning up, after a while these two fires, the descending and the ascending, will meet, and then will occur the universal conflagration of which the Bible speaks when it says, "The elements shall melt with fervent heat; the earth also, and the works that are therein shall be burned up." Instead of disbelieving the Bible story about the final conflagration, since I have looked a little into geology, finding that its explorations are all in the line of confirmation of that prophecy, I wonder how this old craft of a world can keep sailing on much longer. It is like a ship on fire at sea, the fact that the hatches are kept down the only reason that it does not become one complete blaze—masts on fire, rattlins on fire, everything from outwater to taffrail on fire. After geology has told us how near the internal fires have already burned their way toward the surface, it ought not to be a surprise to us at any time to hear the ringing of the fire bells of a universal conflagration. O, I am so glad that geology has been born! Astronomy is grand, because it tells us about other worlds; but I must say that I am more interested in our world than in any other world, and geology tells us all about what it was, its cradle, and what will be its grave. And this glorious Geology is proving itself more and more the friend of Theology. Thank God for the testimony of the rocks, the ten commandments announced among the split rocks of Sinai; the greatest sermon of Christ preached on the basaltic rocks of the Mount of Beatitude; the Saviour dying on the rocks of Golgotha, and buried amid the limestone rocks of Joseph's sepulcher, the last day to be ushered in with a rending of rocks, and our blessed Lord suggestively entitled the "Rock of Ages."

I this day proclaim the banns of a marriage between Geology and Theology, the rugged bridegroom and the fairest of brides. Let them join their hands, and "whom God hath joined together, let no man put asunder."

If anything in the history or condition of the earth seems for the time contradictory of anything in geology, you must remember that geology is all the time correcting itself, and more and more coming to harmonization with the great Book. In the last century the "French Scientific association" printed a list of 80 theories of theology which had been adopted and afterward rejected. Lyell, the scientist, announced 50 theories of geology that had been believed in and afterward thrown overboard. Meanwhile the story of the Bible has not changed at all, and if geology has cast out between one and two hundred theories which it once considered established, we can afford to wait until the last theory of geology antagonizing Divine revelation shall have been given up. Now, in this discourse upon the geology of the Bible, or God among the Rocks, I charge all agitated and affrighted Uzzahs to calm their pulses about the upsetting of the Scriptures. Let me see! For several hundred years the oxen have been jerking the ark in this way and that, and pulling it over rough places and trying to shake it in the mud of derision, and kicking with all the power of their hoofs against the sharp goads, and trying to pull it into the cool shade away from the heats of retribution from a God "Who will by no means clear the guilty." Yet have you not noticed that the Book has never been upset? The only changes made in it were by its learned friends in the revision of the Scriptures." The Book of Genesis has been thundered against by the mightiest batteries, yet you can not to-day find in all the earth a copy of the Bible which has not the 50 chapters of the first copy of the Book of Genesis ever printed, starting with the words, "In the beginning God," and closing with Joseph's coffin. Fierce attack on the Book of Exodus has been made because they said it was cruel to drown Pharaoh and the story of Mt. Sinai was improbable. But the Book of Exodus remains intact, and not one of us, considering the cruelties which he would have continued among the brick kilns of Egypt, would have thrown Pharaoh a plank if we had seen him drowning. And Mt. Sinai is to-day a pile of tossed and cobbled basalt, recalling the Apocalysm of that mountain when the law was given. And, as to those Ten Commandments, all Roman law, all German law, all English law, all American law worth anything are squarely founded on them. So mighty assault for centuries has been made on the Book of Joshua. It was said that the story of the detained sun and moon is an insult to modern astronomy, but that Book of Joshua may be found to-day in the chapel of every university in America, in defiance of every telescope projected from the roof of that university. The Book of Jonah has been the target of ridicule for the small wit of ages: but there it stands with its four chapters inviolate, while Geology puts up in its museums remains of sea monsters capable of doing more than the one which swallowed the freecrant prophet. There stand the 1,089 chapters of the Bible, notwithstanding all the attacks of ages, and there they will stand until they shrivel up in the final fires, which geologists say are already kindled and glow hotter than the furnaces of an ocean steamer as it puts ont from New York narrows or Humburg or Southampton. I should not wonder if from the crypt of ancient cities the inspired manuscripts of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, in their own chirography, would be taken, and the epistles which Paul dictated to his amanuensis, as well as the one in the apostle's own handwriting. At the same ratio of archeological and geological confirmation of the Scriptures, the time will come when the truth of the Bible will no more be doubted than the common almanne, which tells you the days and the months of the year, and the unbelievers will be accounted harmless lunatics. Forward the telescope and the spectroscope and the chemical batteries, and critically examine the ostracods of the ocean depths and the bones of the great mammals on the gravelly hilltops! And the mightier, and the grander, and the deeper and the higher the explorations, the better for our cause. As sure as the thunderbolts of the Almighty are stronger than the steel pens of agnostics, the ark of God will ride on unhurt, and Uzzah need not fear any disasters upsetting. The apocalyptic angel flying through the midst of heaven, proclaiming to all nations, and kindred, and people, and tongues, the unsearchable riches of Jesus Christ are mightier than the shying off of a yoke of oxen.

The geology of the Bible shows that our religion is not a namby-pamby, nerveless, dilettantish religion. It was projected and has been protected by the God of the rocks—Religion a balm? Oh, yes. Religion a soothing power? Oh, yes. Religion a beautiful sentiment? Oh, yes. But we must have a God of the rocks a mighty God to defend, an omnipotent God to achieve, a force able to overcome all other forces in the universe. Rose of the Sharon and Lily of the Valley is the, combination of all gentleness and tenderness and sweetness? Oh, yes. But if the mighty force now arrayed for the dedestruction of the nations are to be met and conquered, we must have a God of the Rocks. The "Lion of Judah's Tribe," as well as the "Lamb who was slain."

And now, for your solace and your safety, I ask you to come under the shelter, and into the deep clefts and the almighty defense of a rock that is higher than you, higher than any tribultar, higher than the Himalayas—the "Rock of Ages"—that will shelter you from the storm, that will hide you from your enemies, that will stand when the earthquakes of the last day get their pry under the mountains and hurl them into seas boiling with the fires which are already burning their way out from red-hot centers toward the surfaces which are already here and there spouting with fire amid the quaking of the mountains, under the look and touch of Him of Whom it is said in the subliniest sentence ever written: "He looketh upon the mountains and they tremble: He toucheth the hills and they smoke!"

He you one and all to the Rock of Ages! And, now, as before this sermon on the Rocks I gave out the significant and appropriate hymn, "How firm a foundation, ye saints of the Lord," I will give out after this sermon on the Rocks, the significant and appropriate hymn

Rock of ages cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in thee.

REV. O. P. CHRISTIAN, of Milwaukee, who married Jessie Lincoln, the granddaughter of the martyr president, to Warren Rockwith, when the young couple eloped, now finds him self famous and is doing a thriving business in the matrimonial line.

Didn't Look It.

"These are very fine suspenders," said the peddler to the lady at the door. "I have all kinds—striped, plain, dark, light. Now here is a very fine pair of plain ones. Did you ever embroider any suspenders for your husband, lady?"

"No," said she.

"Now don't you think you'd like to embroider a pair for his Christmas present?"

"I guess not."

"Well, has he a real nice pair of suspenders for his Sunday clothes?" persisted the peddler.

"Really, I don't know," said she.

"Well, madam, is your husband in?"

"No; he's not here yet."

"Do you expect him in before supper?"

"No—surely not by that time."

"Well, haven't you any idea when he will be here?"

"Not the least idea."

"Humph—that's queer," mused the disappointed peddler.

"Oh, not so very," said the young lady. "I have any husband."—Detroit Free Press.

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

The Difficulty.

Miss Billiondot—None but the brave deserve the fair.

Percy Hardrupee—True, and none but the wealthy get 'em.—Texas Date.

All About Alaska.

Descriptive folder containing five maps of Alaska and routes to the gold fields, the most complete publication of the kind ever print. Send 4 cents in stamps to F. I. Whitney, G. P. & T. A. Great Northern railway, 2d and Broadway, St. Paul, Minn. "Alaska, Land of Gold and Glacier," a beautifully illustrated booklet, sent for fifteen cents in stamps. The Great Northern is over 100 miles the shortest line from St. Paul and Minneapolis to Seattle and Portland, the outfitting points whence steamers sail for Alaska.

Passport to Greatness.

No physician can be considered great until he has discovered a new germ and a way of transmitting it.—Washington Post.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomachs receive it without distress. 1-4 the price of coffee. 15c and 25 cts. per package. Sold by all grocers.

It is pretty safe to bet that a boy whose environment doesn't include freckles will never amount to anything.—Atchison Globe.

Tourist Sleeping Cars.

Commencing with the excursion of Dec. 7th, the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Ry. has inaugurated a system of Tourist Sleepers on their excursion dates from St. Louis or Kansas City and South Texas points. For information address H. F. Bowsher, 435 Walnut St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

He who knows the weakness of his own wings is sure of successful flight.—N. Y. Independent.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

He—"Don't you think it rather risky to come so far alone on your wheel?" She—"Hadn't thought of it—but if you feel timid I'll see you home."—Yellow Book.

Fits stopped free and permanently cured 2 to fits after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Free $2 trial bottle & treatise. Dr. Kline, 931 Arch st., Phila., Pa.

A divorce suit should be included in the wardrobe of the actress who hopes to be well advertised.—Chicago News.

Crippled for years? Pshaw! Why St. Jacobs Oil will cure sprains right off. Sure.

A woman doesn't object to her naughty children it others are worse.—Atchison Globe.

No mistake. Thousands have been cured Promptly of neuralgia by St. Jacobs Oil.

We presume there are many women with pretty necks unexposed.—Washington Democrat.

Surely. Often after 10, 15, 20 years' suffering, St. Jacobs Oil cures rheumatism.

Some people think that when a man is bald-headed he ought to quit going with the girls.—Washington Democrat.

THE MARKETS.

		CINCINNATI, Dec. 30.
LIVE STOCK—Cattle, common	$ 2 50	@	$ 3 75
Select butchers	4 00	@	4 35
CALVES—Extra	6 00	@	6 75
HOGS—Common	3 00	@	3 40
Mixed packers	3 40	@	3 50
Light shippers	3 40	@	3 50
SHEEP—Choice	3 75	@	4 15
LAMBS—Good to choice	4 85	@	5 35
FLOUR—Winter family	3 55	@	3 80
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		66	@ 67½
No. 3 red		66	@ 67
Corn—No. 2 mixed		66	@ 67½
Oats—No. 2		66	@ 24½
Rye—No. 2		66	@ 91
HAY—Prime to choice	9 25	@	9 50
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		66	@ 9 00
Lard—Prime Steam		66	@ 4 40
BUTTER—Choice Dairy		12	@ 13
Prime to choice creamery		66	@ 21
APPLES—Per bbl	3 00	@	3 50
POTATOES—Per bbl	2 10	@	2 25
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—Winter patent	4 70	@	4 80
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		66	@ 66½
No. 2 Chicago spring		87½	@ 88
CORN—No. 2		66	@ 34
OATS—No. 2		66	@ 22½
PORK—Mess	7 05	@	7 70
LARD—Steam	4 35	@	4 37½
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—Winter patent	4 80	@	5 10
No. 2 red		66	@ 69½
CORN—No. 2 mixed		66	@ 34½
RYE		66	@ 46½
OATS—Mixed		66	@ 27½
PORK—New mess	8 25	@	9 00
LARD—Western		66	@ 4 75
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	4 40	@	4 65
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	67½	@	67½
Southern—Wheat	91	@	97½
Corn—Mixed	33½	@	33½
Oats—No. 2 white	29½	@	30
Rye—No. 2 western	66	@	52
CATTLE—Fair to good	4 70	@	5 10
HOGS—Western	4 15	@	4 30
INDIANAPOLIS.
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		66	@ 93½
Corn—No. 2 mixed		66	@ 32
Oats—No. 2 mixed		66	@ 22½
LOUISVILLE.
FLOUR—Winter patent	3 75	@	4 10
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		66	@ 64
Corn—Mixed		66	@ 28½
Oats—Mixed		66	@ 25
PORK—Mess		66	@ 8 50
LARD—Steam		66	@ 4 37½

"MY WIFE'S LIFE."

How I was the means of saving it.

When the lungs are attacked and the symptoms of consumption appear, then begins the struggle between affection and that destroying disease which slays its thousands annually. It is a happy issue to the struggle when disease is conquered and health restored. Such an issue does not always cad the struggle, but it did in the case of Mr. K. Morris, Memphis, Tenn., who saw his wife wasting and weakening and physicians helpless, and then suggested the simple remedy that wrought the cure. He tells the story thus:

"Seven years ago, my wife had a severe attack of lung trouble which the P[illegible] sicians pronounced consumption. The cough was extremely distressing, especially at night, and was frequently attended with the spitting of blood. The doctors being unable to help her, I induced her to try Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and was surprised at the great relief it gave. Before using one whole bottle she was cured, so that now she is strong and quite healthy. That this medicine saved my wife's life I have not the least doubt. I always keep Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in the house. Whenever any of my family have a cold or cough we use it, and are promptly cured."—K. MORRIS, Memphis, Tenn.

The question: "Is consumption curable?" is still debated, and still debatable. It is easy to say that this was not a case of con[illegible]. Yet the physicians said it was. They should know. As a matter of fact, Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has wrought so many similar cures that it seems to argue the curableness of consumption in its earlier stages, by the use of this remedy. There is no better medicine for pulmonary troubles than Dr. [illegible] Cherry Pectoral. It gives relief in cases of Asthma, and Bronchitis, where relief has been heretofore unattainable. It promptly cures Coughs and Colds, La Grippe, and all affections of the throat and lungs. Heretofore, Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has been put up in full size bottles only, at $1.00 per bottle. To meet a world-wide demand for a smaller package, the remedy is now put up in half size bottles, at half price—50 cents. Write for Dr. Ayer's Curebook (free) and learn more of the cures effected by Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Address J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

PAINT YOUR OWN WALLS & CEILINGS.

MURALO WATER COLOR PAINTS

FOR DECORATING WALLS AND CEILINGS Purchase a package of CALCIMO from your grocer or paint dealer and do your own kalsomining. This material is made on scientific principles by machinery and milled in twenty-four tints and is superior to any concoction of Glue and Whiting that can possibly be made by hand. TO BE MIXED WITH COLD WATER.

If you want something extra, buy some MURALO from the same dealer. This material is a HARD FINISH to be applied with a brush and becomes as hard as Cement. Milled in twenty-four tints and works equally as well with cold or hot water. Send for sample cards and if you cannot purchase this material from your local dealers let us know and we will put you in the way of obtaining it.

THE MURALO CO., NEW BRIGHTON, S. I., NEW YORK.

N. B.—The attention of the trade is called to the fact that a man by the name of Church goes through the country trying to intimidate purchasers of our material by telling them that our paints are an infringement on his material, which he calls "Alabastine." We are advised by our patent counsel that his material when used with cold water is an infringement upon ours. We have invited Mr. Church to support his contention by suit against us and have tendered to accept service of any papers he wishes to serve so as to save him trouble, that his pretended rights may be tested in the courts. This he refuses to do, but continues his malevolent statements, which course, under the circumstances, we believe will be condemned by all reputable dealers.

GET THE GENUINE ARTICLE!

Walter Baker & Co.'s Breakfast COCOA

Trade-Mark.

Pure, Delicious, Nutritious.

Costs Less than ONE CENT a cup.

Be sure that the package bears our Trade-Mark.

Walter Baker & Co. Limited,

(Established 1780.) Dorchester, Mass.

Extinguishers.

One of the greatest and heaviest of them is that drudgery of washing and cleaning in the old way with soap. What is a woman good for, after a day over the washboard, or cleaning house? She's too tired even to rest, usually.

Why is it that any woman is willing to live such a life when Pearline stands ready to do all her hard work and save her money besides? There's no answer to this—at least, no sensible, satisfactory answer. 653

NOW USE Pearline

CANDY CATHARTIC

Cascarets

CURE CONSTIPATION

REGULATE THE LIVER

10c 25c 50c ALL DRUGGISTS

"THE CLEANER 'TIS, THE COSIER 'TIS." WHAT IS HOME WITHOUT

SAPOLIO

DON'T RENT A FARM, BUY ONE. "The Corn Belt" is an illustrated monthly paper, thoroughly reliable, and full of information about western farm lands. It will guide you in securing a cheap home in a prosperous and healthy community. Send 25 cents for a year's subscription to "The Corn Belt," 209 Adams St., Chicago.

Seattle Klondike Alaska FREE INFORMATION BY SEATTLE, WASH., CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BUREAU. Seattle, Klondike, Alaska. Washington State. Seattle, 63,000 population! Railroad, Commercial, Mining and Agricultural Centre. BEST OUTFITS. LOWEST PRICES. Longest Experience; Largest City; Safest Routes. Address SECRETARY.

DROPSY NEW DISCOVERY; gives quick relief and cures worst cases. Send for book of testimonials and 10 days' treatment Free. Dr. H. H. GREEN'S SONS, Atlanta, Ga.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

WINCHESTER GUN CATALOGUE FREE

SEND YOUR NAME ON A POSTAL CARD AND WE WILL SEND YOU OUR 156 PAGE ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE — WINCHESTER REPEATING ARMS CO. 150 WINCHESTER AVE., NEW HAVEN, CONN.

HARTSHORNS SELF-ACTING SHADE ROLLERS

NOTICE

TAKE THIS LABEL

Stewart Hartshorn

THE GENUINE HARTSHORN

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please state that you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BOONE : COUNTY : RECORDER

Wednesday, Dec., 22, 1897.

Rates of Subscription:

One year..... $1 50.
Six months..... 75.
Three months..... 40.

☞ Payable invariably in advance.

THE RECORDER

SOLICITS YOUR

Job Work,

NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HOSE BILLS,

Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.

Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

STATE NEWS.

Glasgow is to have a military company.

Robbers are at work in Muhlenberg county.

The coal miners of Spotsville are out on a strike.

Thirteen prisoners are confined in the Marshall county jail.

An old maid's convention is to be held at Danville the 20th.

Franklin burglars are in danger of being lynched if caught.

Hiram Shaw, President of the Kentucky Chautauqua Assembly, is dead.

One hundred miles of toll roads in Mercer county deeded to county free of cost.

Ed Phelps, of Albany Landing, swears he has the best bloodhounds in the State.

Seems probable that 'Kentucky distillers will be able to agree upon a limited production.

A four year-old son of W. R. Hopkins, Whitesburg was killed by a log rolling over him.

John H. Rose, of Bardwell, has invented and made a bolt cutter that is a complete tool.

John Duncan, of Evansville Ind., drummer, was bunkoed twice within an hour at Louisville.

Kentucky State Guards will present the commander of the battleship Kentucky with a sword.

John Keeling, of Christian county, lost his tobacco barn and 10,000 pounds of tobacco by fire.

There are five murder cases on the docket for the January term of Henderson Circuit Court.

Lewis, the Republican contestant for School Superintendent of Allen county was declared elected.

There are 817 patients in the Lexington Lunatic Asylum, seventeen of whom are from Clark county.

Adair county's courthouse narrowly escaped destruction by the burning of a sawdust filled cuspidor.

The Hancock County Deposit Bank has this early in the season paid out $5,000 for tobacco already delivered.

A Danville man has invented a non-refillable bottle. It will have to seek sale elsewhere than in Kentucky.

The Paducah News has learned that a check for 1 cent was drawn in one of the Paducah banks. It's the smallest yet.

The child of James Fulkerson was found smothered to death under a lap robe after a fifteen-mile drive, near Owensboro.

Over 5000 rabbits have been shipped from Oldham county, this winter. The string, apple and sappling did the most of the work.

A fifteen-year-old white boy was sentenced at Lexington to five years in the penitentiary for assaulting an eleven year-old colored girl.

A case pending in the Kenton Circuit Court, if tried will require Judge Perkins to decide whether or not McKinley carried Kentucky.

John Bright, of Lincoln county, has a piece of locust wood used in an old fort eighty-eight years and exposed to the weather since 1779.

In Madison county George Lay and Van Privitt fell out over their children and Lay filled Privitt's face full of shot, and then left the country.

People living in Priceville and Cop Run neighborhoods, Hart county, have been greatly annoyed by cattle thieves during the past few months.

The alleged bribery cases against Hon. J. T. Hinton and others at Paris fell to the ground. Judge Cantrill declaring they were based on idle rumor.

Allen Wood, aged seventeen years, was sentenced to eight years in the penitentiary by the Webster Circuit Court for killing his brother-in-law, Lipp Nicholls.

If heaven were full of windows every one on the side away from the Lord would be jam full of women watching to see what their husbands were up to on earth.—N. Y. Press.

The Kentucky Congressmen want all the pensions they can secure for their constituents, and they are presenting bills to enroll those that the present easy law does not cover.

In the last three weeks no less than ten thousand rabbits have been shipped from Morgan station and other points in Pendleton county to this and adjacent cities.—Commonwealth.

George Rice, of this place, says the Hazel Green Herald, says that tea made of the inner bark of the sugar tree will cure the worst case of neuralgia. It should be drunk as often as the pain appears.

Wm. H. Thompson, of Logan county, was killed at a sawmill near Drakesboro by a slab striking him in the breast. He had worked at the mill for over 40 years, never before receiving a scratch.

At Owensboro, R. Monarch, a whisky dealer, and three distilleries in which he is interested, failed for three-quarters of a million dollars, with assets estimated at the same figure. Monarch was the largest distiller in the State, and had a home that cost $100,000.

At Beatrice, Pike county, the steam mill boiler of Mullins & Son blew up, fatally injuring two of the Mullinses and killing Geo. Honycout, the engineer. Parts of the debris were carried nearly 200 yards into a schoolhouse, which created a panic among the students and teachers.

A Lexington girl after entertaining her lover until the proper hour to depart bid him adieu. She found shortly after he had called in to see another girl up the street. So she got a gun and marched him back to her own parlor where she gave him a scorching lecture and escorted him home.

Mrs. W. M. Robinson, of Crofton, has a frog in her flower pit that has to her certain knowledge made his home there for seven years. She has seen the frog at frequent intervals and is confident it is the same frog. He use to be a greenish color, but as he grows older is turning to be a light grayish color.—Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

It seems that horses have taken a rise in the market. Last week, Hamburg, a colt only a little over 2 years old, was sold at Louisville for something over $50,000. His owner had paid $1,200 for him a few months before, However, this is not the usual price for horses. There are lots of them that can be bought for a good deal less money. —The Hustler.

Oregon has hit a new experiment to keep her citizens sober. Every man who drinks is obliged to take out a license, costing five dollars a year, and unless armed with the document he cannot be served with liquor at any saloon or hotel. Every six months the names of the persons who take out the licenses are to be published in the papers so the public may know those who are not authorized to drink.

Major Jonathan T. Estill, who is proud to be known as the grandson of the Indian fighter and Kentucky pioneer, James Estill, who lost his life in a conflict with the savages at Mt. Sterling on March 22, 1672, showed us yesterday a rifle which the old pioneer carried at that memorable battle. It has a barrel 36 inches in length and a 52-calibre bore. Another relic is a powder horn marked W. E., for its owner, Wm. Estill. father of Major Estill.—Richmond Climax.

The unusual sight of a thirty-five-year-old man going to school can be seen any day at the public school here. It is Ed. Hubbard, who a year or so ago decided to make a preacher of himself, and having no education he is taking every opportunity to secure it. He is a good scholar, Prof. Grubbs tells us, but it occasionally becomes necessary to "keep him in" to make him work a little harder. He plays with the boys at recess and seems to relish foot-ball and other games as much as his playmates, the majority of whom are a score or more years younger.—Standford Interior Journal.

The Court of Appeals rendered an opinion directing that a divorce be granted to Mrs. Allie Davis from her husband, Dr. Davis, who is serving a life term in the penitentiary for aiding and abetting his mother-in law, Mrs. Munday, to poison her husband. The poisoning occurred in Woodford county about 12 years ago. Mr. Munday, the victim, had a $10,000 policy on his life which was the incentive for the murder. It is said that Mrs. Davis is affianced to a well-known citizen of Harrodsburg, where she now lives, and will wed as soon as the final decree granting her a divorce is recorded in the lower Court.

At Vanceburg, "Shorty" Heater, a section-hand on the Chesapeake & Ohio, although professing not to be hungry nor in good health, ate four pig's feet, ten eggs, three onions, one quarter pound of cheese, one-half pint of cranberries, two apples, one-quarter pound of dried peaches, one bunch of celery, one pound of candy, six bunches of grapes, and at the close drank a half-pint of old bourbon.

Kentucky's Singing Cave.

"While sojourning in the mountains last summer," said a young man who is attending school in Louisville. "I paid a visit to the famous singing cave, of which I had so often heard. The Evening Post's story about this great natural wonder, printed about eighteen months ago, did not exaggerate the facts about the curiosity in the slightest. It is just an ordinary looking mountain and entrance to the cavern, but when the wind is blowing one can stand just inside the first chamber and hear the most weird sounds imaginable. The sounds at first seem shrill, but as they become more distinct they seem more like a moan pitched in the treble clef. This is kept up all day and all night if there is a high wind, and to the passerby at night it is frightful to listen to. Many persons have tried to learn where the wind enters the the subterranean recess to cause the sounds, but nobody has been successful. The cave itself is full of beautiful stalactites, stalagmites and other strange mineral formations, but that funeral song one hears so constantly is too much like the wail of the lost for visitors to want to stay under ground any longer than is necessary."

A Miracle of Miracles.

(New York World.)

What is the meaning of this pension appropriation of one hundred and forty one millions of the hard-earned dollars of the people?

The greatest of figurers, Dingley, showed one aspect of it—total cost of running the government, $5 per capita; all the running expenses of the government, $2.50; interest on the public debt, 50c; pensions, $2.

As there are 975,000 pensioners, one family in every fourteen in the country is largely supported by a collection of $2 from each member of the other thirteen families.

But a better way of realizing the grab is by means of the tables of the probability of human life used by our insurance companies.

Double the chances of life as shown by these tables.

Assume that everybody who took part in the war was alive and well at the end of it.

Assume that everybody in the army was married in 1865.

Still you get this result:

There ought to be now alive less than 100,000 soldiers and widows of soldiers who were wives at the end of the war.

The pensioners outnumber the probable survivors, nine to one.

A miracle! A miracle!

FROM GRANT COUNTY.

[Courier]

Uncle Harris Mussulman was in to see the Courier last week. Uncle Harris is the largest land owner in Grant county by many hundreds of acres. His landed estate amounts almost to a royal domain. He lists for taxation a little over 3,000 acres every foot of which lies within the confines of Grant county and all of which is virgin soil. He is the owner of more than 1,500 acres of land that has never yet heard the ring of a woodsman's ax and is as virgin forest to-day as it was when Kentucky was first settled. Uncle Harris is growing old in years and is not far from his four score but is strong in body and mind and bids fair to live many more years to enjoy the wealth that his life of industry and economy has accumulated. He lives quietly at his farm near Keefer with his wife and one single daughter.

FROM OWEN COUNTY.

[Herald.]

Twin bananas and a two-story turnip are among the latest additions to our curio department.

J. W. Bridges is buying corn near Stamping Ground, for which he pays $1.40.

Our farmers are talking of raising a large tobacco crop next year. Some of them have already burned tobacco beds.

Wade Whitton, under indictment by the grand jury for cutting and wounding with intent to kill, without killing, William Jelly, near Lusby's Mill, on the 30th of last September, was arrested in Cincinnati, last Sunday night. Sheriff J. W. Gayle brought him here without a requisition and lodged him in jail Monday night.

Elisha Cobb, a farmer near here, swore out a warrant, last Monday, against Mrs. Miranda Wilson, her husband, John Wilson, and two sons, Rolla and Arthur, charging her with stealing a hog and the others with stealing farming tools. The warrant was served by Deputy Sheriff Alexander, but Mr. Cobb relented and declined to prosecute.

FROM CARROLL COUNTY.

[News]

Jas. G. Jett received the poles Saturday morning for the electric light wires, 280 in number.

County Judge-elect Orr and the magistrates received their commissions from the Governor Monday.

The store of Mitchell & Son, at Worthville, was burglarized Saturday night. An entrance was effected by an upper-story window.

Leon Hardin became violently insane last week and early Saturday morning deputy sheriffs Edmonson and Darrah went to his home on Locust to bring him to town, but he met them with a pistol, and being an extremely strong man, neighbors had to be called in before he could be dispossessed of it. He was tried Saturday morning and that evening sent to Lakeland asylum.

At the railroad meeting at the court house, last Thursday night, F. S. Sandy, one of Ghent's most prosperous and progressive business men, presided, and speeches were made by Hon. Perce Carter and Dr. A. G. Craig, of Vevay; and Col. Tutt, of Knoxville, Tenn., all of whom showed the advantage to Ghent and Carroll county of securing the Black Diamond road. Ghent has been on the line and the route has been surveyed, but within the last week the surveying corps has been removed to Gallatin and there is now talk of bridging the Ohio at Ethridge instead of Ghent—or it may be possible that the route will be moved further up the river. It behooves the citizens of Carroll to encourage the building of the road through the county, as the taxation of the road would greatly increase the revenues of the county.

The Tobacco market has shown very little change in the past week and sales have been very small. They will probably be very light next week, on account of the closeness of the holiday season, and will then close until the new year commences. The demand for Old Tobacco has shown no advance, except on the low grades, which we consider some stronger. There appears to be a desire amongst the buyers to wait until after the new year before making many more purchases, as the factories wish to take stock and get into position for the new year. There is no doubt the manufacturers are well supplied and somewhat careless in purchasing at the present time The speculators are waiting to see how the market starts after the holidays before being active on the breaks. A good many of them have sold out and are in a good position to be active bidders on the market if the outlook is favorable.

Considerable new tobacco has been offered and prices obtained are highest for years while in winter case, and there is a desire upon the part of manufacturers to purchase the same, 1 hhd selling at $20 25 this week. The shipments so far have shown and excellent quality, a tough oily leaf with sufficient color, and there is no doubt it will fill all the requirements of the manufacturers and be a very desirable crop, and the growers will receive good, round prices.

There is some tobacco being bought in the country, and as soon as the new year price become established we think there will be a tendency to make country purchases, although the prices in the market may be such as to induce direct shipments.

The publication in the papers in regard to some misunderstanding about the Inspectors and reclamations on sample was premature, as everything has been settled amicably, and nothing can be done to interfere with the high standard of the Cincinnati market.

Richard Owens, of Hopkins county, while hunting near Richland shot and killed a pure white partridge.

Tom Stevens, of Hanson, who is a good deal over fifty years of age, never found it necessary to call in a physician to see him until a few weeks since.—Madisonville Hustler.

On last Thursday afternoon at sundown a man by the name of Samantha Cobb, who lived near Salineburg, this county, while at work felling timber in the forest, was accidently killed by failing to run the right way in order to escape from the falling tree which he had chopped almost in two at the stump.—Cadiz Telephone.

AYLOR'S AYLOR'S AYLOR'S AYLOR'S

YOU WILL FIND US

Very much alive in all that means business—and business that will be your business is what we are going to talk right along. Our business is to sell good, pure and fresh GROCERIES and PROVISIONS, and to point out to people the wisdom of patronizing our establishment.

IRA AYLOR, - - Erlanger, Ky.

AYLOR'S AYLOR'S AYLOR'S AYLOR'S

C. W. ROBINSON,
—DEALER IN—
Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots and Shoes,
ALL KIND OF FEED AND FLOUR IN STOCK,
Agent for Weidler's Germ Food; Also agent for the Jones Fertilizers.
GOOD STABLE IN CONNECTION WITH STORE.
Constance, Ky.

METROPOLITAN COUPE & LIVERY COMPANY.
62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,
E. H. BAKER, Proprietor
Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.
Horses and Second Hand Buggies for Sale.
Horses Sold on Commission.
Telephone 580.

CHAS C FRY. JACOB REIB.
FRY & REIB,
Manufacturers of and Dealers in all kinds of
Marble & Granite Monuments
HEADSTONES, CORNER POSTS, ETC.,
109 Pike Sreet, - - - COVINGTON, K.
Near C. & O. R. R. Crossing. Designs Furnished Upon Application.

Some Plain Facts.

Grave errors, injustice, wrongs of greater or less degree, arise from lack of knowledge of the truth, and more frequently from deception.

The most infamous case on record of deception and injustice is the attempt to demonetize silver as a money of final redemption in the United States.

There is no learned judge, skilled lawyer, or court of justice that is capable of reconciling the effort with the constitutional laws that govern the issue of money in this country.

The people have been deceived, officials in power, chosen to administer justice under the laws, have ignored their sworn duty, and given aid to the scheme that has paralyzed industry, reduced property values one-half, and beggared millions.

There is no authority of law, either specific or by inference, by which gold alone is made the only money with which to discharge debts, either public or private. The effort to make it so is unconstitutional and a national calamity.

Plain and ample information, facts, and truth, concerning this almost successful scheme to corner the wealth of the people, is now being printed in the Cincinnati Enquirer, a newspaper which the combined power of money has failed to muzzle or buy.

The Weekly Enquirer is only 75c. a year. The address is

Enquirer Company, Cincinnati, O.

What it Will Do.

FALMOUTH, KY. July 7, 1896.

Dr. J. T. Boulton, Cincinnati, O.

Dear Sir—I was taken with a severe cough the first of May; for two weeks I could not lie on my left side nor breathe through my left lung. I also had hemorrhage and my friends said I had consumption. I began taking Boulton's Cough Remedy and began to improve with the first dose, and within three weeks was entirely well. I can not say enough in favor of Boulton's Cough Remedy. Respectfully,

Mrs. R. J. MARSHALL.

For sale by all druggists. Price, 25c. and $1 per bottle.

Frankfort & Cincinnati Railway.

Ask for tickets via this line. Schedule of trains in effect March 1, 1897.

East Bound.
Lve. Frankfort..... 6:30 a. m. 3:00 p. m
Arr. Georgetown...7:20 a. m. 4:15 p. m
West Bound.
Lve. Georgetown...10:40 a m 6:30 p. m
Arr. Frankfort.....11:55 a. m 7:20 p. m
G. D. BERGAW, G. P. A.
Geo. B. Harper, Gen. Supt.
Frankfort, Ky.

H. S. STEVENSON.
Satisfaction Guaranteed.
DENTIST.
Prices Consistent with Good Services Only.
OFFICE:— Rising Sun, Indiana.

R. A. STEELE,
RISING SUN, IND.,
UNDERTAKING.
My Stock and accouterments are unsurpassed, having adult's black hearses and child's white hearse.
Independent of Undertakers' Union.
My prices are reasonable and my friends will tell you I give satisfaction.
FURNITURE
Large Stock of Latest Styles at Lowest Prices.
GIVE ME A CALL.

BOOTS & SHOES
MADE TO ORDER.
Work Strictly First-Class.
Prices to Suit the Times.
Harness, Boots and Shoes Neatly Repaired. Give me a trial.
CHRISTIAN BECKER,
20spt2m Union, Ky.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U.S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U.S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C.A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXIII. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1897. NO. 10.

THE Kentucky legislature which convenes on the fourth day of January is overwhelmingly Democratic—probably so much so as to put in jeopardy the party's success in the future. If legislation is shaped with a view to benefiting the entire State the result is not to be feared, but,on the other hand, if the good of the State is ignored for the purpose of legislating for perpetuating the Democratic party in power by means of jerrymanders and like schemes known to politicians,trouble will at once appear on the political horizon now so bright. The wellfare of the entire State should receive the attention of the general assembly to the exclusion of everything else, and if that receives the attention it demands, a session of sixty days will afford no time for anything more. A close and business like session is demanded by the people, regardless of party affiliation, and the Democrats are in position to take advantage of a great opportunity—such as is seldom offered. Now, gentlemen, you can install the Democratic party in power in Kentucky for generations yet unborn if you attend to State affairs as statesmen and not as politicians. You have no election of a United States Senator to come before you to divert your minds from business—you can have no excuse for a failure to enact good and wholesome laws, and if your session does not result in great good to the Commonwealth, you will be charged with incapacity.

WHEN Hawaii is annexed, should this country be overtaken by such ill luck, a very large block of undesirable population will become citizens of Uncle Sam's domain—just such people as Congress has been endeavoring to protect this country against for years. What in the name of common sense does this country want with Hawaii, in mid-ocean, three thousand miles from her shore? It is too small and too far away to be of any value to this country, while with the mixed population there is, at any time, liable to have an insurrection. If at any time after Hawaii is annexed this country become involved in war with a foreign power, these islands would have to be guarded, while the United States being a fourth-class naval power might need all her battle ships to protect the coast now belonging to her, and be compelled to forfeit her far-off possessions. This country now owns all the territory that can be properly looked after, and the annexation of Hawaii would result, only, in providing more fat places for those who are willing to serve their country in an official capacity.

SECRETARY GAGE'S scheme for reforming the currency has less friends now than it had the day it was promulgated, and they are growing fewer day by day. He hoped that by virtue of the exalted position he holds in the government to wield an influence with Congress that would enable him to put the Wall Street bankers in full control of the financial arm of this government. The Secretary's proposition is so badly out of joint that President McKinley has given it the cold shoulder, although his endorsement was expected as an acknowledgement to Wall Street of his obligation for the almost unlimited financial assistance rendered him in his contest for the Presidency. Will Gage resign ?

COL. CLAY's young wife has been returning to White Hall in a few days for a month or more, but she has not made her appearance at the portals yet. It begins to look very much like the old man's child wife has abandoned him.

THE race for the Speakership of the next Kentucky House of Representatives is growing interesting, and the winner cannot be spotted.

THE RECORDER wishes each and all its patrons a happy New New.

THERE is a desire on the part of some of the Representatives-elect to do some ballot tinkering during the next session of the legislature. There are many suggestions as to what changes ought to be made, but all that is necessary is to have a square placed with the device for the use of the desiring to vote straight. The following from the Williamstown Courier is to the point:

"One of the schemes proposed by which the ballot is to be purified and an educational qualification is to be imposed on the voter is to abolish the party emblems at the head of the ballot and print the names of all the candidates on the same slip of paper and make the voter pick out the individual names of his party candidates. The Courier is unalterably opposed to the abandonment of the party emblems and the time has not yet come in Kentucky when it is necessary to adopt an educational qualification for the voters of the State. The negro vote in Kentucky is the great incubus which the Democratic party has to carry and fight all the time. The negro has sixty-five thousand votes in the State and they are cast with becoming regularity and practically enmasse as a unit for the Republican party. This vote the Democratic party has ever been able to cope with and we think that the domination of the party in the State in the years to come is assured. Let the negro vote. Let him have his party emblem to guide his voting. Let the Democratic party win on its intrinsic merits and not by disfranchising any part of the voters of the State. In fact we would be in favor of making it easier to vote and not more difficult. This might be done by dropping the square that is placed around the party emblem and put below the emblem a circlea bout an inch in diameter with the words over it, "For a straight ticket, vote here." The secret ballot is all right and has come to stay. The thing to do is to make it as easily voted as can be done and so simple that every voter, however ignorant, can vote his party ticket or the ticket of his choice. To maintain the strictest secrecy over the voter's ballot but to make the voting as easy as possible should be the object of the legislature."

It is hoped that the next legislature will not become cranky on the ballot question, and foolishly undertake a revision of the present form of the ballot so as to make it practically a new arrangement for voting, as the people do not like too frequent changes in matters of as much importance to them as the ballot.

It is said Kenton county will probably gain 5,000 acres of land by the survey of the Boone county boundary line.

The above having been taken from a Covington paper, it was presumed, at first, that it knew whereof it was speaking, until the figures of County Surveyor Vest were consulted. They show that Kenton's net gain is less than 1,000 acres. The taxpayers in this county are more interested in the cost of the proceedings locating the county line, than what has been gained of lost.

CONGRESSMAN BERRY is at his old tricks again in Washington, to wit: Trying to land everything he possibly can for Kentucky. He is now working for a liberal appropriation to be expended in the improvement of the Big Sandy river. Col. Berry plays a full hand in the Congressional game of grab, for appropriations are largely of that order, and each member gets all he has the ingenuity to swipe for his constiuents.

THE toll-gate raiders in Boyle county are getting desperate. They attempted to dynamite a toll house and several soldiers who were guarding the gate. The raiders are certainly a determined lot of fellows, but some of them will come to grief yet.

WHEN Congress reconvenes the attack will be made on the civil service all along the line, and the Cuban war will not be a circumstance.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, December 24th, 1897.

"Wobbling Willie" is again being applied to Mr. McKinley as a nickname by members of his own party. The Republicans who still call themselves bimetallists have about decided that Mr. McKinley must either declare himself to be a gold monometallist or a bimetallist; they are tired of having him coddle them by talking bimetallism and then allowing Secretary Gage to publicly announce, without remonstrance, that the administration was for any and everything that was regarded as likely to help perpetuate the single gold standard. These men have quieted their constituents by assuring them of Mr. McKinley's sincere friendship for bimetallism, and his desire to aidin its restoration when the opportunity offered, and it was from Mr. McKinley himself that they got the impressions upon which those assurances were founded. Now they have doubts, and will demand that Mr. McKinley settle them once for all.

†‡†

Mr. McKinley has been wobbling on the civil service rules quite as badly as upon finance, and he is likely to find himself brought to book on this subject soon after Congress resumes business. Just before Congress adjourned for the holidays, Mr. McKinley indicated, if he did not actually make the promise. to some of the Republicans who had been taking an active part in the movement to secure anti-civil service legislation, that he intended to issue an executive order that would remove from the protection of the civil service rules many of the offices that were included in Mr. Cleveland's extensions of the rules. This week, with Congress away, Mr. McKinley told his Cabinet that he was inclined to stand pat on civil service and that while he might make some changes did not expect to make any extensive modification of existing rules.

†‡†

The joint sessions of the House and Senate Indian Committee, the object of which is to agree upon a single bill covering all the legislation for the Indian Territory and the five tribes of civilized Indians that this Congress will be asked to pass, have so far merely served to show how many divergent interests there are in this matter and how difficult it will be to draw a bill that will not be unjust to some of these interests.

†‡†

The nomination of Mr. Charles Page Bryan to be minister to China, if persisted in by Mr. McKinley. may be the cause of a big fuss in the Senate. It has been represented to Mr. McKinley that the European grab game which is now being played in China makes it imperative that the U. S. minister to that country should be a man of wide diplomatic experince, and that Mr. Bryan lacks that qualification. Such Senators as Teller, Wollcott and Frye have announced their intention to fight the confirmation of Bryan, if Mr. McKinley sends it to the Senate in spite of the protests which have been made to him.

†‡†

The Republican policy of cutting the appropriations regardless of what is needed, in order to try to help the Dingley tariff lesson that deficit nightmare, has been shown in a striking manner by the way in which the House committee on Appropriations treated the recommendations of the Secretary of the Interior, who had himself, under orders from the White House, cut the estimates of all his bureau chiefs. Everybody knows that the work of the Patent Office has steadily increased with the growth of the country, and perhaps everybody doesn't know, but it is true all the same, that the U. S. Goverment makes a profit out of the Patent Office, the amount to its credit at this time in the U. S. Treasnry being in excess of $5,000,000. The Secretary of theInterior askedCongress toprovide half of the additional help that the Commissioner of Patents says is needed to get the business of the office up to date, and the House Appropriations Committee declined to provide any additional help at all, although the business of the office is now from two to six months behind. If a private business establishment refused to employ help enough to promptly handle its business, it would soon find that rivals were getting it away from it, but as the government has no rivals in this business those who have dealings with the Patent Office will have to grin and bear the delay until better business sense prevails in the House, unless the Senate comes to the rescue by properly amending the Legislatieve, Eeecutive and Judicial appropriation bill.

†‡†

Every Republican office holder from Ohio, in Washington, who is supposed to have the slightest influence with the Republican members of the Ohio legislature has been ordered—not requested—to report at the Hanna headquarters in Columbus, for the purpose of helping the boss to land that Senatorial plum. Another proof that this is a civil service reform administration.

Pith of the Press.

Those Indian foot-ball players probably travel on scalpers tickets. —Atchison Globe.

Louisville seems envious of Chicago. Its record is one man held up twice in the same block.—Terre Haute Express.

McKinley prosperity has collided with the State Treasury, and the usual disastrous results have followed.—Nashville Sun.

Does Senator Chandler mean to say that his party has not nerve enough to face a national issue?—Philadelphia Ledger.

Mr. Bynum is going to practice law in Brooklyn. It would seem that the work of national honor preserving has suspended payment. —Washington Post

Secretary Gage says that his bill would not make silver subsidiary coin, only subordinate. What a beautiful illustration of a distinction without a difference.—Salt Lake Herald.

The latest wage reduction occurred at Manchester, N. H. Mr. Dingley's section is responding promptly to his desire for the practical operation of his tariff law.—N. Y. Journal.

The Chinese Emperor is known as the son of heaven. When the son of heaven and the German archangel Michael meet everybody knows what they may be expected to raise.—Washington Times.

Secretary Gage proposes to make the Treasury Department clerks put in more time at their work. As "time is money," Mr. Gage may thus help to make up the Treasury deficit.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

What is particularly needed in Kentucky is more tools and fewer pistols, more work and less loafing, more justice and less "humanitarianism," more hanging and fewer murders, more "git up and git" and less sit down and wait.—Campton Banner,

Sixteen thousand dollars is the record price paid for a cablegram, that price having been paid for a message sent by Mr. Henniker Heaton to Australia in behalf of the British Parliament. Reuter's account of the Murdcrer Deeming's trial, 4,000 words, cost $8,000. An 1,800-word dispatch from London to Argentina cost $2,500. The most expensive private message so far is that sent by the King of Italy to the Duke of Abruzzi at Rio Janeiro, informing him of the death of his father, the late Duke of Aosta, which cost $2,670.—N. Y. Sun.

COUNTY DIRECTORY.

County Judge—Benjamin Stephens.
County Clerk—R. W. Adams.
County Attorney—J. M. Lassing.
Sheriff—C. C. Roberts.
Jailer—C. L. Crisler.
Assessor—R. A. Brady.
Coroner—A. A. Murat.
Superintendent Schools—L. H. Voshell.
Surveyor—W. E. Vest.

Fiscal Court meets Tuesday after first Monday in January, April, July and October.

RAILROAD COMMISSION:

John C. Wood, Chairman; I. F. Dempsey, H. S. Irwin. Secretary-Samuel Brown.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Judge—John W. Green.
Clerk—J. W. Duncan.
Commonwealth's Attorney—M. D. Gray.
Master Commissioner—J. R. Berkshire.

JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.

Courts are held in the months of March, June, September and December, as follows:

District No 1.—O. W. Gaines, fourth Saturday; J. B. Crigler, Constable.
District No. 2.—M. B. Green, first Saturday; Jake Cook, Constable.
District No. 3.—R. L. Roberts, wednesday after third Monday; T. M. Rich, Constable.
District No. 4.—H. Bannister, Thursday after second Monday; Add Ridcoll, Constable.
District No. 5.—T. E. Roberts, fourth Monday; J. H. watson, Constable.
District No. 6.—Joseph Wagstaff, third Saturday; Simeon Tanner, Constable.

STATE DIRECTORY.

Governor—W. O. Bradley.
Lieutenant Governor—W. J. Worthington.
Secretary of State—Charles Finley.
Assistant Secretary of State—E. D. Guffy.
Attorney General—W. S. Taylor.
Auditor—Samuel H. Stone.
Assistant Auditor—Frank Johnson.
Treasurer—George W. Long.
Sup't of Public Instruction—Geo. M. Davidson.
Register Land Office—Charles O. Reynolds.
Deputies—Stanley B. Brown, Sam S. Shepherd.
Insurance Commissioner—P. M. Comingore.
Adjutant General—D. H. Collier.
Assistant—Walter Forrester.
Supt. Arsenal—Capt. David O'Connell.
State Inspector—C. W. Lester
Commissioner Agriculture—Lucas Moore.

COURT OF APPEALS.

Chief Justice—Joseph Lewis. Judges—Geo. Durelle, J. R. Grace, T. H. Payster, B. L. D. Guffy, J. H. Hazelrigg, J. H. Lewis.
Reporter—E. W. Hines. Clerk—A. Addams.
Sergeant—W. S. B. Hill. Tipstaff—C. C. Turner.
Librarian—Mrs. Mary Brown Day.
Inspector of Mines—C. J. Norwood.

STATE PRISON OFFICIALS:

Frankfort Prison—Warden, Henry George; Deputy Warden, M. A. Rooney.
Eddyville Prison—Warden, L. C. Curry; Deputy Warden, Ward Linn.

J. P. LINDSAY & CO.,
—DEALERS IN—
HARD AND SOFT
:COAL,:
Erlanger, - - Ky.
—o—
Coal Sold on Cars at the Lowest Possible Prices.
—o—
J. O. HUEY, MANAGER.

B. F. BUCHANAN,
— DRUGGIST, —
Rising Sun, - Indiana.
—o—
Thanks his Kentucky friends for their renewed patronage and invites them to continue to call at the Corner Drug Store.

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF BOONE COUNTY,
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company and gives the farmers of Boone County
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY should take a policy at once.
E H. BLANKENBECKER, - President, Florence, Ky.
D. E. LAWELL, - Vice-President.
OSCAR GAINES, Secretary, Burlington.
J. E. DUNCAN, Treasurer.
EXECUTIVE BOARD—Legrand Gaines, J. W. Conner, John Stephens.
J. E. SMITH, Assessor, - Burlington, Ky.
W. M. ROGERS, Agt. - Walton, Ky.

FOR SALE--This Fall.
—o—
STRAWBERRY PLANTS.
Bubach No. 5. P. Greenville P.
Parker Earl. Haverlau,
And other Varieties.
LIGHT BRAHMA FOWLS.
Blackberry & Raspberry Sprouts.
For further information write to
WM. C. ROUSE, Limaburg, Ky.

D. E. CASTLEMAN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in the Courts of Boone Kenton, Grant and Gallatin. Collections pushed energetically.

G. G. HUGHES,
ATTORNEY AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, Ky.
Will practice in all the courts. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to me.

P. E. CASON,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY,
Practice in all Courts. Promptness guaranteed.

J. G. TOMLIN,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
WALTON, KENTUCKY.
—o—
Will practice in the Courts of Boone, Kenton Grant and Gallatin. Prompt attention given t Collections entrusted to him. mch22-93.

W. E. VEST,
County Surveyor,
BURLINGTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of Surveying. All orders by maill promptly attended to.

J. M. LASSING. N. E. RIDDELL
LASSING & RIDDELL,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Prompt Attention Given to Collections

S. GAINES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Will practice in all the courts, and prompt attention given collections. Office—In residence near post-office.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,
DENTIST.
—o—
Will be in Lawrenceburg, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.
At Aurora, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Practiced for 30 years.
No Poisonous Gasses Used.

S. W. ADAMS,
ATTORNEY - AT - LAW,
ERLANGER, KENTUCKY.
Will practice in the courts of Boone and Kenton counties. Collections and general law practice.

W. E. VEST. B. L. RICE.
VEST & RICE,
Real Estate Agents.
Farms Bought, Sold or Exchanged, Money to Loan on Real Estate, Notes bought, sold & Negotiated, All communications addressed to W. E. VEST, Burlington, Ky.

BOONE CO. DEPOSIT BANK.
(Incorporated 1886.)
CAPITAL, ... $30,000
Surplus and undivided profits, 19,000
—)o(—
Our facilities enable us to receive on favorable terms accounts of individuals and corporations. Collections promptly remitted for at lowest rates

ERLANGER DEPOSIT BANK.
(INCORPORATED 1893.)
ERLANGER, - - KENTUCKY
CAPITAL PAID IN..... $50,000
SURPLUS..... $ 3:000
Careful attention given collections and remittances promptly made. Deposit accounts solicited.

Dr. J. L. Adams,
DENTIST,
Walton, Kentucky.
All work executed according to the latest methods of the profession.
Satisfaction - Guaranteed.

W. N. HIND & CO.,
—DEALERS IN—
Furniture, Carpets, Stoves,
And all Kinds of
Household Goods.
213 W. Fifth St. 4 Doors W. of Elm, Cincinnati, O.
Telephone No. 1284.

JOHN L. VEST,
SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of work south of Burlington, Ky. Prompt attention given to all mail orders.

THE RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL, Publisher.

BURLINGTON, : : KENTUCKY.

THE pecan crop of Texas is over three million bushels and the trees are not bare yet. Texas is the only state which yields a bushel of pecans to every inhabitant and furnishes an abundance for the hogs.

THE oldest university in the world is at Pekin. It is called the "School For the Sons of the Empire." Its antiquity is very great and a granite register consisting of stone columns, 320 in number, contains the names of 60,000 graduates.

FOR the first time in five or six years the membership of the house is complete, and when Sergeant-at-Arms Russell draws his requisition for money it includes pay at the rate of $5,000 a year for every congressional district in the country. It rarely happens that the membership of the house is not broken somewhere by death or resignations.

ANOTHER instance of the destructive powers of the English sparrow was exemplified at Hagerstown, Md. A large chimney toppled and fell to the ground without apparent cause. It was discovered upon investigating that sparrows had carried away all the mortar between the bricks, thus leaving the stack of bricks unecmented, and a gust of wind overturned it.

IT is reported that the collection of Oriental porcelains and pottery and also of pictures made by Charles A. Dana will be sold at auction the middle of February next. Mr. Dana owned at the time of his death probably the largest and most valuable collection of Oriental pottery and porcelains in America, with the single exception of that formed by W. T. Walters, of Baltimore. The most important of his pictures is Millet's "Turkey Herder."

A REPRESENTATIVE of the Paris Figaro, having interviewed Alphonse Daudet as to the candidacy of his brother Ernest for the academy, reports the author of "Lhommette" as saying that he did not in the least ensure his brother for standing for election, and he would not object to seeing him win. Had he himself not many friends in the institution? Their number might increase, but he would never consent to become a member himself.

SINCE Judge E. B. Ptost, of Kansas City, Kas., personally led a raid of officers on a gambling house down on the state line a few days ago and made a rich haul, he has been freely criticized for taking so active a part in cases that were to come before him for hearing, and it was claimed that he had acted entirely without precedent in the matter. He has been carrying on a quiet investigation, however, and has found ample precedent for his action and says he will do so again when ever the occasion may warrant.

LADY MILLAIS, the widow of the well known painter, is dangerously ill with cancer of the throat, the disease of which her husband died. She was at one time the wife of John Ruskin, who when he found that she was in love with his friend Millais, whom he had brought to his house to paint her portrait, secured a divorce, without reflection upon Mrs. Ruskin. He apparently bore neither his wife nor his friend any ill will, for he attended their wedding. Some say that he acted as best man, others that he gave the bride away.

MANY persons in the United States will be sorry to hear of the death of Baron Raphael Slidell Erlanger, the accomplished son of the well-known Franco-German financier and of his American wife. The young man was an exceedingly clever composer, one of his best known successes being his opera "Johan de Xaintrailles." His mother is that Miss Slidell who signalized herself by slapping the face of the Union officer who arrested her father and Mr. Mason, the two confederate emissaries to Europe on board the British mail steamer Trent.

THE secretary of the treasury has ordered heads of bureaus and divisions to cease the practice of making and keeping long-hand copies of letters. These officials are instructed to make carbon copies of all type-written letters, as well as letter-press copies. These will be kept in the treasury and made into books. The secretary says that it is no longer business-like to follow the old and honored process of making copies of letters by hand for keeping on file. It is out of date, he says, as the modern typewriter does the work quicker and better.

QUINCY, Ill., boasts of having the smallest baby that has been born in the world for many years. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Slusher, and weighs a trifle less than a pound without her clothing. It was found necessary to use the dresses and underwear of a doll for her raiment. Her face is not much larger around than a silver half-dollar, the fingers are no thicker than a darning needle, her feet are 1¼ inches in length and her legs are about as large as the ordinary little finger of an adult. Her body could be placed in a quart cup.

PERHAPS the largest and most valuable shipment of cats which was ever made from Maine has been sent out from the American Express Co. office of Bristol to the well-known merchant of Philadelphia, John Wanamaker. The sale was made by F. D. Budd, of Waterville, and it is stated that it amounted to $900 in clean cash, as there were 100 tabbies. There were black and whites, tiger stripes yellow and whites, the Angora white, which had the pink eyes, the jet black, and, in fact, the blue and white, for thus alone can the maltese of brilliant color be described.

GREAT BRITAIN,

It is Reported, Will Oppose the Proposed Division of China.

Without Consulting the Chinese Emperor—It is Reported That England and Japan Are Acting in Unison to Prevent the Dismemberment of the Empire.

BERLIN, Dec. 22.—The Cologne Gazette maintains the accuracy of the statement that the Russian occupation of Port Arthur was connected with the visit there of the British war ship Daphine about a week ago. As a proof it points out that there were neither Russian ships nor a Russian consul at Port Arthur at the time the Daphine visited the harbor and it argues that Russia could only have learned of the visit through Chinese complaint. According to a special dispatch from Shanghai the British squadron will make a demonstration at Che Foo, on the north coast of the Shan-Tung promontory, as a warning, it is supposed, that Great Britain intends to oppose the division of China without consulting her. It is reported there that Russia has offered China a loan to pay off the indemnity of the war with Japan; and it is believed, says the dispatch, that Japan and England are acting in concert to preserve China from disintegration, favoring the idea of a protectorate over central China, with a capitol at Nanking.

A German-Chinese commission has been arranged, according to a dispatch from Shanghai to the Daily Mail, to settle the boundaries of the occupied district at Kiao-Chau; and it is evident, therefore, that the occupation will be permanent. The same dispatch says it is rumored in Shanghai that the British intend to occupy Talien Wan, south of Port Arthur, in order to guard the Gulf of Po-Chi-Li. The Daily Mail's correspondent at Tokio says there is no excitement there over the news from Port Arthur. The press is calm and the public is indifferent. It is rumored also, the dispatch alleges, that a large Russian military force is coming overland from Siberia.

The Cologne Gazette embarrassed the government Tuesday by declaring that the other powers would soon follow the example of Germany and Russia, now that the partition of China has actually commenced. Other papers have expressed opinions in a similar vein.

It has been hinted that Prince Henry's destination is another point than Kiao-Chau, and that he will receive the supreme command in the China seas.

The Norddeutsche Alegemeine Zeitung hastened to issue a denial of these assumptions, declaring that they were not warranted by the facts.

THEY ADJOURN.

The American Federation of Labor Convention Ended by Singing "Auld Lang Syne."

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 22.—The American Federation of Labor convention was called to order at nine a. m. Tuesday, and almost immediately went in to executive session on the report of the grievance committee.

The executive session was concluded at 11:45.

United Garment-workers were given jurisdiction over all shops except those where clothes are cut to measure exclusively.

In the Jefferson Borden case, the executive council was ordered to urge the release of E. W. Clark, now in jail at Thomaston, Me.

Ludwig, of Louisville, was seated permanently.

The paper-hangers were refused a charter and were referred to the painters and decorators.

The meatcutters were given jurisdiction over all persons cutting and selling meat.

President Gompers was instructed to see that the Cincinnati Brewing Co. lives up to its agreement.

Thomas I. Kidd was elected fraternal delegate to Canada.

After a vote of thanks to organized labor and to the people and press of Nashville the convention adjourned sine die at 12 m. and joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne."

Dynamite Explosion.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—An eight-pound dynamite cartridge exploded Monday night in the rear of the Arbuckle coffee building in Brooklyn. Nearly 5,000 panes of glass in the neighborhood were shattered, and that the explosion was not attended by loss of life is remarkable. The explosion was heard 20 blocks away. The dynamite cartridge was to have been used Wednesday in blasting in a huge rock that had obstructed an artesian well drilling.

St. Louis Business Man Suicides.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 22.—Geo. J. Fritch, president of the Fritch Furniture Co. and one of the leading business men of St. Louis, committed suicide Tuesday by hanging himself in an elevator shaft, where his body was found by a porter. He leaves six small children. Despondency over business troubles is said to have been the cause of Fritch's self-destruction.

Valuable Package Stolen.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec. 22.—A package containing $10,000 in cash was stolen from the Southern Express office in this city some time between Sunday morning and Monday morning of this week and the city is now full of the best secret service men on the pay rolls of the express company and of the Pinkertons.

Consul to Winnipeg, Man.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 22.—W. H. H. Graham, of Irvington, who was an applicant for the position of United States consul to Winnipeg, Man., has received word from Washington that he would be appointed to the position. Mr. Graham's appointment will, it is expected, be officially announced after the holidays.

A Deed Fifty Years Old.

WASHINGTON, C. H., O., Dec. 22.—An old deed made in 1848 by George Henry and wife, conveying two lots to this city for a consideration of $300, has just been filed for record.

THE DEMOCRATS

Will Vote Against the Voluntary Bankruptcy Bill, But There is a Fair Outlook for Its Passage in Both Houses.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—There is a very favorable outlook for the passage of the bankruptcy bill, and even the opponents of the measure concede their conviction that it will pass both houses. The majority of the democrats in the house in all probability will vote against it. They feel that its involuntary feature will allow the creditor class of the east to press the, poor in the west when the latter are least able to be borne down, while the voluntary phase of the proposed legislation will encourage dishonesty. The opposition however, has felt it useless to organize to defeat the measure and they will simply put themselves on record. The bill has been reported to the house and will be taken up very soon.

Chairman Loud, of the house committee on post offices, has been working during the recess on the report of the committee on the Loud bill and has practically completed it. He believes that the measure will effect a saving of at least $10,000,000 annually and will wipe out the enormous deficit that confronts the post office department every year. Mr. Loud believes that the bill is much stronger this session than last, and while not absolutely confident, believes it will finally carry. The opposition probably will be directed in the main to obstructive tactics, delaying consideration of the measure. This is what killed it in the senate at the last session, it having passed the house but died on the senate calendar. The report will be submitted to the house the first or second day after congress reconvenes. The bill is a sweeping one and eliminates several volumes and sample copies from the second class of mail matter.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—Postmaster General Gary has decided to order a special issue of stamps commemorative of the holding of the trans-Mississippi exposition at Omaha the coming year. This is done at the request of persons prominent in the management of the exposition. They will be of the denominations of 1 cent, 2 cent, 5 cent, 10 cent, and one dollar. Suggestions for designs for the new issues will be received by the post office department from any persons who desire to submit them. There will be no attempt to withdraw from sale the regular issues with a view to the exclusive use of the new stamps, as was the case during the World's fair, when almost all postal business was transacted with the Columbian stamps, but they will be freely supplied whenever there is a request therefor from postmasters. The new issues will be different in color from the existing ones so that they may be readily distinguished apart.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—Funeral services over the remains of Miss Leila Herbert, who committed suicide Tuesday, were held late Wednesday afternoon at St. Andrews Episcopal church. The honorary pallbearers were Senators Pettus and Morgan, Dr. G. L. M. Curry, Secretary Long, Paymaster Gen. Stewart, Chief Constructor Hichborn, Mr. Charles J. Bell, Col. Winthrop, Adm. Ramsay and Capt. Chas. O'Neill, of the navy. The remains were taken to Montgomery, Ala., Wednesday night.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—A handsome granite monument erected in Arlington National cemetery at the grave of Maj. Gen. Wm. Belknap, who was secretary of war during the administration of President Grant, was Wednesday turned over to the government. The monument was erected by Gen. Belknap's comrades of Crocker's Iowa brigade, the Eleventh, Thirteenth, Fifteenth and Sixteenth Iowa Volunteer infantry, and of the Army of the Tennessee, companions of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States and other friends.

Commissioner Evans, of the pension bureau, is a strong advocate of the policy of publishing the entire list of persons who draw pensions from the government. He expects that a bill for this purpose will be introduced in congress when it reassembles in January. A recommendation that a list be published was made by the commissioner in his annual report, as he expressed the belief that it would be particularly valuable for the use of the special examiners in the field. In 1883 the bureau published a list of pensioners, but since that time there have been many additions and eliminations from it, besides additions granted, etc., so that it is not of practical use at this time.

Eddie Bald Sick in Bed.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Eddie Bald, the bike rider, is sick in bed as a result of injuries received when he fell in Madison Square garden during the six day race. His back and groin are severely strained and the chances are that his match with Jimmy Michael, which was to have been one of the features of the winter's cycling season, will have to be called off. Bald's physicians tell him he will be all right after a period of absolute rest.

Twenty Persons Hurt on a Grade Crossing.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Twenty persons were injured, three perhaps fatally, at a grade crossing on the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad between Passaic and Delaware, N. J., Wednesday night. They were in a stage which was struck by a train. That any of them escaped is regarded as marvelous.

Transferred to the G. A. R. Fund.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 23.—The Ohio commissioners to the Tennessee centennial met Wednesday at Col. Brent Arnold's office, and wound up their affairs. A surplus of $400 to the fund raised was on motion of Col. Arnold transferred to the G. A. R. encampment fund. The Ohio building has been sold to Gen. W. H. Jackson, and will be removed to the Belle Meade farm.

A Mammoth Baby.

CELEGEH, Wis., Dec. 23.—A 19-pound baby was born to Mr. and Mrs. August Radke. Local physicians say this weight is unparalleled.

LOSS, ONE MILLION.

Powers Block, Cleveland, O., Badly Damaged by a Fire.

The Rear of the Wilshire Block Was Also Burned—The Flames Started by an Explosion of Benzine—About 75 Per Cent. of the Loss Was Insured.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 24.—Fire broke out in the business center of the city at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and fanned by a high northwest wind, destroyed property worth more than half a million dollars. The Power block on Frankfort street, owned by J. B. Perkins, six stories high and made of brick, was consumed above the second story and the rear of the brick Wilshire block, six stories high, owned also by Mr. Perkins, and fronting on Superior street was burned. The fire started by the explosion of a large can of benzine in the lithographing establishment of Johns and Co., in the Power block. Windows were blown out and several employes escaped with difficulty by the fire escapes and a bridge leading to the Wilshire block. The loss of Johns & Co., is $30,000, covered by insurance. The other occupants of the building were small manufacturing concerns. The block was worth about $200,000. The roof of the power house of the new Century building was demolished by a falling wall. The J. L. Hudson clothing store and the offices in the Wilshire building were damaged somewhat by fire and to a greater extent by water. The Wilshire is damaged to the extent of about $20,000. A large part of the stock of J. L. Hudson, valued at $250,000, is damaged, but amply insured.

The losses will be much heavier than at first estimated, and it is believed they will come close to a million dollars. The principal losers are Johns & Co., lithographers, Power block, $225,000; J. L. Hudson, clothier, on stock by fire and water, $100,000; R. B. Perkins, on Power block, $100,000; J. R. Perkins, on Blackstone building, $40,000; J. B. Perkins, on Wilshire building, $20,000; H. C. Rouse, on Century building, $3,000. The losses of scores of tenants, especially in the Power and Blackstone buildings, the latter of which was occupied mainly by lawyers with costly libraries, will be very heavy. About 75 per cent. of the losses are covered by insurance. Lieut. McFeeters, of the fire department, fell through the floor in one of the buildings and was badly, though not fatally, hurt.

NO IMPROVEMENT

In the Condition of Mrs. Ballington Booth —Her Illness Due to Mental Trouble.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—At the Presbyterian hospital late Thursday night a bulletin on Mrs. Booth's condition showed that there had been no improvement whatever. Regarding the statement that Mrs. Ballington Booth's illness was in any way due to mental troubles, produced by the separation from the Salvation army, Commander Booth preferred not to speak, but referred the matter to Secretary Hallimand, of the volunteers, who said:

MRS. BALLINGTON BOOTH.

"From the commander to the youngest member of the volunteers, we all believe that Mrs. Booth's illness is due to a great extent to the cruel treatment she has received at the hands of various persons since the separation from the Salvation army."

Commander Booth-Tucker, of the Salvation army, has issued the following statement in reference to the attitude of the army regarding Mrs. Booth's illness: "While realizing that this is not the moment to enter into any argument, controversy or defense, yet, in case our position should be misunderstood and in view of the statements made by the press, I am constrained on behalf of our people all over the world to say that there is but one feeling in our hearts regarding the illness of Mrs. Booth, and the consequent sorrow and anxiety through which Commander Ballington Booth is passing. That feeling is love which would find expression in unceasing prayer.

"Consul Mrs. Booth-Tucker has been in constant communication both with the hospital and with Commander Ballington Booth expressing her sympathy and proffering any assistance within her power, while Gen. Booth has cabled from London the assurances of his prayers."

Laid His Head on the Rail.

MANCHESTER, N. Y., Dec. 24.—Steven Zoni, 30 years old, an Italian, committed suicide in the Lehigh Valley yards here Thursday morning by deliberately laying his neck over a rail and allowing a freight train to cut off his head. It is thought he was insane, but it is also said that an unfortunate love affair was the cause of his act.

Challenges the World.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 24.—Henry Kaunska, a professional cyclist of this city, Friday issued a challenge to the world to race any distance from one to three miles on an indoor track for a purse of $500 to $1,000.

Kidnapers' Long Sentence.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 24.—Albert S. Warner, the kidnaper, was sentenced Thursday to Clinton prison for a term of 15 years at hard labor. Rinke and Hardy, his fellow conspirators, are serving terms of fourteen years and six months at the same place for the same crime.

Kiel Canal Too Shallow.

BERLIN, Dec. 24.—The reichstag will shortly be asked to grant an appropriation for the improvement of navigation on the Kiel canal. Almost every large warship that has passed through it of late has run aground.

CIVIL SERVICE.

The Constitutionality of the Illinois Law Upheld—Decision Designates What Constitutes Heads of Departments.

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—The supreme court of Illinois, sitting at Springfield, handed down a decision Wednesday upholding the constitutionality of the civil service law of the state. The decison was rendered in a mandamus proceeding brought by the attorney general of the state to compel Chief Kipley, of the Chicago police force, to make appointments from the classified list furnished by the civil service commission. The decision is sweeping in it nature and upholds the attorney general in all the claims he makes in behalf of the law.

The fight between the chief of police and the civil service commission arose over the fact that when the present municipal administration came into power the chief of police made his appointments without consulting the commission, and claimed he had a right to do so. The attorney general at once brought an action to compel Chief Kipley to abide by the list of the civil service commission, and this he must now do.

The decision also settles the question of what constitutes "heads of departments" by stating that the head of any department is the man in charge of that department. He is declared to be exempt from the operation of the law, but this exemption does not extend to his subordinates. Hereafter the mayor is privileged to appoint the head of each city department, and the civil service commission will control the remainder of the offices.

All the appointments which Mayor Harrison and Chief of Police Kipley have made since they entered their present positions are, with the exception of the heads of departments appointed by the mayor, now under this decision, rendered illegal, and the chances are that the commission will in a short time, inaugurate a grand housecleaning that will take his position from every man not appointed by the commission. In the police department a hurricane will sweep through the upper ranks and but a few of the commanding officers will be allowed to remain unless they pass their examinations.

Among the positions heretofore filled by the mayor and affected by the decision and brought under civil service are:

Assistant chief of police, four inspectors of police, 16 police captains, secretary of police, private secretary to the chief of police, assistant commissioner of health, secretary of health department, city electrician, superintendent of water office, chief clerk of water office, water assessor, deputy city clerk, chief clerk in the city clerk's office, deputy city collector, 12 street sweeping inspectors, 16 street forcmen, secretary department of public works, superintendent of streets, superintendent of special assessments, superintendent of maps, superintendent of sewers, chief engineer of street department, and numerous other positions of less importance.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT

Awarded $464,000 for the Seizure of Canadian Sealing Vessels by This Government.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 23.—The Canadian government received Wednesday night a communication from the arbitrators appointed to deal with the claims of Bering sea sealers against the United States government for losses caused by the seizure of their vessels, submitting the award. The arbitrators were Judge King, of the supreme court of Canada, and Judge Putnam, of the United States.

The award is $464,000, with two reserved cases, that of the "Black Diamond," for $5,000, and the "Ada," for $1,000.

It will be remembered that in 1894 the United States government offered $400,000 and that Canada claimed $450,000. Afterwards a compromise was reached and the amount placed it at $250,000, but congress refused to vote that sum. The present award is virtually what Canada formerly agreed to accept, with interest.

CARLIST PLOT

To Seize Havana and Overthrow the Liberal Regime—Gen. Blanco Alarmed and Cables to Sagasta.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—A dispatch to the Journal from Havana says Capt. Gen. Blanco has officially cabled to Minister Sagasta that a widespread Carlist plot has been uncurthed here to overthrow the liberal regime in Cuba and seize Havana, with its forts and garrisons. Several officials of the army and navy, with the editors of certain newspaper organs, who championed Weyler's illiberal measures, are implicated.

A number of arrests have been made and several commandants have been changed as a precaution.

Kidnaper Warner Locked Up.

ALBANY, N.Y., Dec. 23.—Albert Warner, the chief conspirator in the plot that resulted in the kidnaping of little Johnny Conway, and who was recently arrested in Kansas, arrivtd here Wednesday in charge of detectives and was locked in the county jail. Warner had been indicted already, and as a trial term of the supreme court is in session, he will be arraigned for trial Thursday. It is expected that he will plead guilty. The extreme penalty for his crime is 15 years' imprisonment.

Invasion of Ohio Miners a Failure.

POMEROY, O., Dec. 23.—The expected invasion of Ohio miners into West Virginia Wednesday to stop the non-union miners from working at New Haven, was a failure. The hundred who did get there were served with injunctions by United States deputy marshals, restraining them from going on to the premises of the consumers and coal mining company. Fifty non-union men worked in the mines Wednesday undisturbed. The sheriff and his deputies left the scene Wednesday night. Two United States officers are still there, but no trouble is anticipated.

Rush to the Klondike.

The railroads are confidently expecting a big rush of travel to the Klondike in the spring. It is estimated that fully 100,000 people will attempt to reach the gold fields as soon as the winter is over, and with a desire to turn a nimble penny at every opportunity trunk lines are beginning to prepare for the expected rush. One of the first in the field is the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, which has already begun the running of the through tourist car from New York City to San Francisco without change by way of Philadelphia, Washington, Parkersburg and Cincinnati, reaching St. Louis Wednesday evening, Texarkana Thursday afternoon, El Paso, Texas, Friday evening and San Francisco Sunday morning. This service is in addition to the one provided by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad from Pittsburgh by way of Cincinnati and the Illinois Central to New Orleans and the Southern Pacific through to the coast, the Pittsburgh car leaving every Wednesday. The New York car on its return leaves San Francisco Monday evening, and the Pittsburgh car leaves on Thursday.

Categorical.

"But what do you mean by saying that the man was more or less intoxicated?" asked the lawyer. "Lemme see," said the witness, as he scratched his chin, "I guess I mean that if he had been more intoxicated he would have been drunk, and if he had been less he would have been sober. How'll that do?"—Indianapolis Journal.

Tremendous Exodus to the Klondike.

Despite the warnings of those who have been on the spot, and predict suffering in the Klondike region, thousands of adventurous Americans are wending their way thitherward. All of whom should be provided with that medicinal safeguard, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which warns and nourishes the system, and prevents malaria, rheumatism, kidney trouble, besides remedying liver complaint, dyspepsia and constipation.

The Poker Variety.

Depew—See any shanks coming over?
Depond—Yes; played with a couple.—Up-to-Date.

Holiday Reduction.

For the Christmas and New Year holidays, the Cleveland, Akron & Columbus R'y will sell low rate excursion tickets to all points on its line and to prominent points on connecting railroads. Tickets on sale December 24th, 25th and 31st, 1897, and January 1st, 1898, good returning until January 4th, 1898. Ask Agents for particulars. C. F. Daly, Gen. Pass. Agt., Cleveland.

We wish somebody would invent suspenders that never wear out.—Washington Democrat.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

A girl stands before a mirror while dressing so she can see what is going on.—Chicago News.

For Homeseeker's Excursion dates via the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Ry. and information of their tourist sleeper arrangement, address H. F. Bowsher, 435 Walnut St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

If women were as trifling as some men there would be more divorces.—Washington Democrat.

Fits stopped free and permanently cured. No fits after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Free $2 trial bottle & treatise. Dr. Kline, 933 Arch st., Phila., Pa.

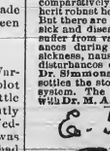
Very few people read a new book until it appears at the public library.—Atchison Globe.

Gentle treatment. St. Jacobs Oil soothes Neuralgia and cures it. It fades away.

A writing teacher is no account for anything else.—Washington Democrat.

How to cure Rheumatism? Use St. Jacobs Oil. It subdues. It cures.

He that hath a faithful wife should take good care of her.—Farm Journal.



Don't sing in two. Limber up. St. Jacobs Oil will cure lumbago sure.

An egg in the cup is worth two in the nest.—Chicago News.

Scrofula and
All other blood
Diseases are promptly
And Permanently Cured
By Hood's Sarsaparilla.
If you suffer from
Any form of Blood
Disorder, you should Take Hood's and Only Hood's.

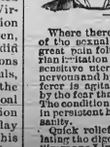
ALABAMA TO THE FRONT.

Mrs. J. B. Gilmore.



Anniston, Ala., writes: Have been using Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine in my family 19 years. It has cured me and many others of Indigestion and Dyspepsia. I did it here is quite a difference in the strength of it, and "Willing Mind," and "Black Draught." Dr. M. A. S. L. M. being much stronger.

Pregnancy.

During the period of pregnancy the vital state and physical condition of the mother chiefly determine the important faculties and essential qualities of her offspring. If she is physically well-developed and healthy, pregnancy will not be a burden or suffering; childbirth will be easy and comparatively painless, and her offspring inherit robust health and a happy disposition. But there are very few women who are not sick and diseased in some way, and who suffer from various sympathetic disturbances during pregnancy. The morning sickness, nausea and vomiting and other disturbance can be suppressed by using Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine, which settles the stomach and gives tone to the system. The bowels should be regulated with Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine.

E. T. Powell

Jenifer, Ala., writes: For Indigestion and Biliousness have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 25 years. It cured M. J. Clark of Cramps in Stomach, and did more for Mrs. M. L. Clark in Change of Life than the doctors had done in four years. I think it is far Superior to "Black Draught" or "Zeilin's Regulator."

Melancholy.

Where there exists nervous disturbance of the sexual organs, there is frequently great pain felt during menstruation; confirmed cases are called "hysterical" or sensitive uterus, giving rise to manifold nervous and hysterical symptoms. The sufferer is agitated about trifles and worried by the fear that everything will go wrong. The condition is a serious one as it may end in persistent hypochondria, followed by insanity.

Quick relief may be obtained by stimulating the digestive organs with Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine, and by Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine will regulate the menstrual function by toning up the tissues of the uterus.

FOUNDED UPON CORAL.

A Picturesque Discourse by Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, D.D.

The Eloquent Preacher Talks of the Wonderous Work of God in Building Gardens Beneath the Water — Wonderful Plan of Creation That is Ever Going On.

Dr. Talmage's text Sunday was Job xxviii., 15: "No mention shall be made of coral."

Why do you say that, inspired dramatist? When you wanted to set forth the superior value of our religion you tossed aside the onyx, which is used for making exquisite cameos, and the sapphire, sky-blue, and the topaz of pale prism, and the ruby of frozen blood, and here you say that the coral, which is a miracle of shape and transport of color to those who have studied it, is not worthy of mention in comparison with our holy religion. "No mention shall be made of coral." At St. Jonesbury, Vt., in a museum built by the chief citizen, as I examined a specimen on the shelf, I first realized what a holy of holies God can build and has built in the temple of one piece of coral. I do not wonder that Ernst Heckel, the great scientist, while in Ceylon, was so entranced with the specimens which some Cingalese divers had brought up for his inspection that he himself plunged into the sea, and went clear under the waves at the risk of his life, again and again, that he might know more of the coral, the beauty of which he indicates can not even be guessed by those who have only seen it above water, and after the polyps, which are its sculptors and architects, have died and chief glories of these sublime flowers have expire. Job in my text, did not mean to depreciate this divine sculpture in the coral reefs along the sea coast. No one can afford to depreciate these white palaces of the deep, built under God's direction. He never changes His plans for the building of the islands and shores; and for uncounted thousands of years the coral gardens, and the coral castles, and the coral battlements go on and up. I charge you that you will please God and please yourself if you will go into the minute examination of the corals—their foundations, their pinnacles, their aisles, their pillars, their curves, their reticulation, their grouping—families of them, towns of them, cities of them, and continents of them.

Indeed, you can not appreciate the meaning of my text unless you know something of the coral. Labyrinthian, stellar, columnar, floral, dented like shields from battle, spotted like leopards, embroidered like lace, hung like upholstery—twilight and auroras and sunbursts of beauty! From deep crimson to milk-white are its colors. You may find this world of God through the animalcules 80 fathoms down, or amid the breakers, where the sea dashes the wildest, and beats the mightiest, and bellows the loudest. These sea creatures are very busy. Now they build islands in the center of the Pacific ocean. Now they lift barriers around the continent. Indian ocean, Red sea and coast of Zanzibar have specimens of their infinitesimal but sublime masonry. At the recession of the tides you may in some places see the top of their Alpine elevations, while elsewhere nothing but the deep-sea soundings from the decks of the Challenger, the Porcupine and the lightning of the British expedition can announce them. The ancient Gauls employed the coral to adorn their helmets and the hilts of swords. In many lands it has been used as amulets. The Algerian reefs in one year (1879) had at work amid the coral 311 vessels with 3,150 sailors, yielding in profit $565,000. But the secular and worldly value of the coral is nothing as compared with the moral and religious, as when, in my text, God employs it in comparison. I do not know how any one can examine a coral the size of the thumb nail without bethinking himself of God and worshiping Him, and feeling the opposite of the great infidel surgeon, lecturing to the medical students in the dissecting room upon a human eye which he held in his hand, showing the wonders of architecture and adaptation; when the iden of God flashed upon him so powerfully he cried out to the students: "Gentlemen, there is a God; but I hate him." Picking up a coral, I feel like crying out: "There is a God, and I adore Him."

Nothing so impresses me with the fact that our God loves the beautiful. The most beautiful coral of the world never comes to human observation. Sunrises and sunsets He hangs up for nations to look at; He may green the grass, and round the dew into pearl, and set on fire autumnal foliage to please mortal sight, but those thousands of miles of coral achievement I think He has built for His own delight. In those galleries He alone can walk. The music of those keys, played on by the fingers of the waves, He alone can hear. The snow of that white and the bloom of that crimson He alone can see. Having garnitured this world to please the human race, and lifted a glorious Heaven to please the angelic intelligences, I am glad that He has planted these gardens of the deep to please Himself. But here and there God allows specimens of submarine glory to be brought up and set before us for sublime contemplation. While I speak, these great nations of zoophytes, meandrinas, and madrapores with tentacles for trowel, are building just such coral as we find in our text. The diamond may be more rare, the crystal may be more sparkling, the chrysoprase may be more ablaze, but the coral is the long, deep, everlasting blush of the sea. Yet Job, who understood all kinds of precious stones, declares that the beauty and value of the coral are nothing compared with our holy religion, and he picks up this coralline formation and looks at it, and flings it aside with all the other beautiful things he has ever heard of, and cries out in ecstasy of admiration for the superior qualities of our religion: "No mention shall be made of coral."

Take my hand, and we will walk through this bower of the sea, while I show you that even exquisite coral is not worthy of being compared with the richer jewels of a Christian soul. The first thing that strikes me in looking at the coral is its long-continued accumulation. It is not turned up like Cotopaxi, but it is an outbutting and an outbranching of ages. In Polynesia there are reefs hundreds of feet deeps and 1,000 miles long. Who built these reefs, these islands? The zoophytes, the corallines. They were not such workers who built the pyramids as were these masons, these creatures of the sea. What small creations amounting to what vast aggregation? Who can estimate the ages between the time when the madrepores laid the foundation for the islands and the time when the waterspores put on the capstone of a completed work? It puzzles all the scientists to guess through how many years the corallines were building the Sandwich and Society islands and the Marshall and Gilbert groups. But more slowly and wonderfully accumulative is grace in the heart. You sometimes get discouraged because the upbuilding by the soul does not go on more rapidly. Why, you have all eternity to build in! The little annoyances of life are zoophyte builders, and there will be small layer on top of small layer, and fossilized grief on the top of fossilized grief. Grace does not go up rapidly in your soul, but blessed be God, it goes up. Ten thousand million ages will not finish you. You will never be finished. On forever! Up forever! Out of the sea of earthly disquietude will gradually rise the reefs, the islands, the continents, the hemispheres of grandeur and glory. Men talk as though in this life we only had time to build; but what we build in this life, as compared with what we shall build in the next life, is as a striped shell to Australia. You go into an architect's study and there you see the sketch of a temple, the cornerstone of which has not yet been laid.

O, that I could have an architectural sketch of what you will be after eternity has wrought upon you! What pillars of strength! What altars of supernal worship! What pinnacles thrusting their glittering spikes into the sun that never sets! You do not build the soul's temple because they can not build an island in a day. Why should you scold yourself because you can not complete a temple of holiness for the heart in this short lifetime? You tell me we do not amount to much now, but try us after a thousand million ages of hallelujah. Let us hear the angels chant for a million centuries. Give us an eternity with God, and then see if we do not amount to something. More slowly and marvelously accumulative is the grace in your soul than anything I can think of. "No mention shall be made of coral."

Lord, help to learn that which most of us are deficient in—patience. If thou canst take, through the sea anemones, millions of years to build one bank of coral, ought we not be willing to do work through 10 years or 50 years without complaint, without restlessness, without chafing of spirit? Patience with the erring; patience that we can not have the millennium in a few weeks; patience with assault of antagonists; patience at what seems slow fulfilment of the life promises; patience with physical ailments; patience under delays of Providence. Grand, glorious, all-enduring, all-conquering patience! Patience like that which my lately ascending friend, Dr. Abel Stevens, describes when writing of one of Wesley's preachers, John Nelson, who, when a man had him put in prison by false charges, and being for a big time tormented by his enemy, said: "The Lord lifted up a standard when the angel was coming on like God, else I should have wrung his neck to the ground and set my foot upon it." Patience like that of Pericles, the Athenian statesman, who, when a man pursued him to his own door, hurling at him epithets, and arriving there when it had become dark, sent his servant with a torch to light his enemy back to his home. Patience like that eulogized by the Spanish proverb when it says: "I have lost the rings, but here are the fingers still." Patience! The sweetest sugar for the sourest cup; the balance-wheel for all mental and moral machinery; the foot that treads in the placidity stormiest lake; the bridle for otherwise rash tongues; the sublime silence that conquers the boisterous and blatant. Patience like that of the most illustrious example of all the ages—Jesus Christ; patient under betrayal; patient under the treatment of Pilate's oyer and terminer; patient under the expectoration of his assailants; patient under flagellation; patient under the charging spears of the Roman cavalry; patient unto death. Under all exasperations employ it. Whatever comes, stand it; hold on, wait, bear up.

Take my hand again, and we will go a little further into this garden of the sea, and we shall find that in proportion as the climate is hot the coral is wealthy. Draw two isothermal lines at 60 degrees north and south of the equator and you find the favorite home of the coral. Go to the hottest part of the Pacific seas and you find the finest specimens of coral. Coral is the child of the fire. But more wonderfully do the heats and fires of trouble bring out the jewels of the Christian soul. Those are not the stalwart men who are asleep on the shaded lawn, but those who are pounding amid the furnaces. I do not know of any other way of getting a thorough Christian character. I will show you a picture. Here are a father and a mother 30 or 35 years of age, their family around them. It is Sabbath morning. They have prayers. They hear the children's catechism. They have prayers every day of the week. They are in humble circumstances. But after a while the wheel of fortune turns up, and the man gets his $20,000. Now he has prayers on Sabbath and every day of the week, but he has dropped the catechism. The wheel of fortune turns up again, and he gets his $80,000. Now he has prayers on Sabbath morning alone. The wheel of fortune keeps turning up and he has $300,000, and now he has prayers on Sabbath morning when he feels like it and there is no company. The wheel of fortune keeps on turning up and he has $600,000 and no prayers at all. Four-leaf clover in a pasture field is not so rare as family prayers in the houses of people who have more than $300,000. But now the wheel of fortune turns down and the man loses $200,000 out of the $300,000. Now on Sabbath morning he is on a step-ladder looking for a Bible under the old newspapers on the bookcase. He is going to have prayers. His affairs are more and more complicated, and after a while crash goes his last dollar. Now he has prayers every morning, and he hears his grandchildren say the catechism. Prosperity took him away from God; adversity drove him back to God. Hot climate to make the coral; hot and scalding trouble to make the jewels of grace in the soul. We all hate trouble, and yet it does a great deal for us. You have heard, perhaps, of that painter who wished to get an expression of great distress for his canvas, and who had his servant lash a man fast and put him to great torture, and then the artist caught the look on the victim's face and immediately transferred it to the canvas. Then he said to the servant, "More torture," and under more torture there was a more thorough expression of pain, and the artist said: "Stop there; wait till I catch that expression. There! now I have it upon the canvas. Let loose the victim. I have a work that will last forever." "O," you say, "he was an inhuman painter." No doubt about it. Trouble is cruel and inhuman; but he is a great painter, and out of our tears and blood on his palette he makes colors that never die. O, that it might be a picture of Christian fortitude, of shining hope!

On the day I was licensed to preach the Gospel an old Christian man took my hand and said: "My son, when you get in a tight corner on Saturday night without any sermon, send for me and I will preach for you." Well, it was a great encouragement to be backed up by such a good old minister, and it was not long before I got into a tight corner on Saturday night, without any sermon, and I sent for the old minister, and he came and preached, and it was the last sermon he ever preached. All the tears I cried at his funeral could not express my affection for that man, who was willing to help me out of a tight corner. Ah! my friends, that is what we all want—somebody to help us out of a tight corner. You are in one now. How do I know it? I am used to judging of human countenances, and I see beyond the smile and beyond the courageous look with which you hide your feelings from others. I know you are in a tight corner. What to do? Do as I did when I sent for old Dr. Scott. Do better than I did—send for the Lord God of Daniel, and of Joshua, and of every other man who got into a tight corner. "O," says some one, "why can not God develop me through prosperity instead of through adversity?" I will answer your question by asking another. Why does not God dye our northern and temperate seas with coral? You answer, "The water is not hot enough." There! In answering my question you have answered your own. Hot climate for richest specimens of coral, hot trouble for the jewels of the soul. The coral fishers going out from Torre del Greco never brought ashore such fine specimens as are brought out of the scalding surges of misfortune. I look down into the tropical sea, and there is something that looks like blood, and I say: "Has there been a great battle down there?" Seeming blood scattered all up and down the reefs. It is the bloods of the coral, and it makes me think of those who come out of great tribulation and have their robes washed white in the blood of the lamb. But these gems of earth are nothing to the gems of Heaven. "No mention shall be made of coral."

Again I take your hand and we walk on through this garden of the sea and look more particularly than we did at the beauty of the coral. The poets have all been fascinated with it. One of them wrote:

"There, with a broad and easy motion,
The fan coral sweeps through the clear deep sea,
And the yellow and scarlet tufts of the ocean
Are bent like corn or the upland lea."

O, be encouraged! Do not any man say, "My work is so small." Do not any woman say, "My work is so insignificant; I can not do anything for the upbuilding of God's kingdom." You can. Remember the corallines. A Christian mother sat sewing a garment, and her little girl wanted to help her, and so she sewed on another piece of the same garment and brought it to her mother, and the work was corrected. It was imperfect, and had to be all taken out again. But did the mother chide the child? O, no. She said, "She wanted to help me and she did as well as she could." And so the mother blessed the child, and while she blessed the child she thought of herself, and said: "Perhaps it may be so with my poor work at the last. God will look at it. It may be very imperfect and I know it is very crooked. He may have to take it all out; but He knows that I want to serve Him, and He knows it is the best that I can do." Be comforted in your Christian work. Five thousand millions coralline made one coralium. And then they passed away and other millions came, and the work is wonderful. But on the day when the world's redemption shall be consummated, and the names of all the millions of Christians who in all the ages have toiled on this structure shall be read, the work will appear so grand, and the achivement so glorious, and the durability so everlasting, that the "No mention shall be made of coral."

HEAVY FAILURE.

The Chestnut Street National Bank, of Philadelphia, Suspends.

The Last Government Report of the Banking Concern Was Satisfactory and Its Reputation Was of the Highest—State and City Funds in the Bank.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 24.—The doors of the Chestnut Street National bank were closed Thursday morning by direction of National Bank Examiner Hardt. Its affairs are now in the hands of the bank examiner. Wm. M. Singerly is president of the bank. The Chestnut Street Trust Co., which operated in conjunction with the bank, also suspended. Mr. Singerly is also president of the trust company.

The bank's suspension, however, was a great surprise, especially so in view of the high standing of its officers. Wm. M. Singerly is its president and Isaac Cooper vice president. The bank was started in 1887 on a capital of $500,000 with Robert E. Pattison as president. When the latter took his seat as governor of Pennsylvania in 1891, Mr. Singerly succeeded him as president of the bank. No statement of the bank's liabilities could be obtained Thursday morning.

The Chestnut Street Trust and Saving Fund Co., the officers of which are identical with those of the bank, and the offices being located in the same building, was also closed for business Thursday, but to what extent the trust company is involved in the bank's affairs has not yet been announced.

The last report of the condition of the Chestnut Street National bank made on October 5, 1897, was:

Resources—Loans and discounts, $2,790,508.65; overdrafts, secured and unsecured, $1,792.34; United States bonds to secure circulation, $50,000; United States bonds to secure United State deposits, $100,000; premium on United States bonds, $10,500; due from national banks, $226,631.70 due from state banks and bankers, $8,851.46; due from approved reserve agents, 300,732.78; checks and other cash items, $54,387.74; exchanges for clearing house, $174,595.47; notes of other national banks, $3,184; fractional paper currency, nickels and cents, $2,855.94; lawful money reserve in bank, $140,040.50; redemption fund with United States treasurer, $2,250; total, $5,868,070.58.

Liabilities—Capital stock paid in, $500,000; surplus fund, $150,000; undivided profits, less expenses and taxes paid, $24,924.86; national bank notes outstanding, $43,600; due to other national banks, $506,110.41; due to state banks and bankers, $134,771.70; individual deposits subject to checks, $2,035,856; demand certificates of deposit, $11,520; cashiers' checks outstanding, $126,572.51; United States deposits, $94,715.10; bills payable, $250,000; total, $5,868,070.58.

The bank was also a depository of the national government, but the government is fully protected against loss by holding $100,000 United States bonds as security.

It is said that the bank holds the funds of the city police and firemen's pension fund, the school teachers pension and annuity fund and deposits of the Fairmount park commission which latter includes bequests for the park improvement. During the past few weeks President Singerly has made great efforts to enable the bank to meet it's liabilities.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—Mr. Eckels, the controller of the currency, said Thursday in regard to the failure of the Chestnut street national bank of Philadelphia, that the suspension was primarily due to the shrinkage in the value of the bonds and notes of the Singerly pulp and paper mills, located at Elkton, Md. The capital of the bank is $500,000, and at the present time its deposits aggregate about $1,700,000 and its surplus about $150,000. Mr. Eckels has been in Philadelphia several times recently trying to make arrangements by which the pulp and paper mills securities could be taken out of the assets of the bank and preferred stock of the Philadelphia Record Co. substituted. By this and certain other changes Mr. Eckels hoped to put the bank in first-class condition. Mr. Eckels expressed the belief that the bank ultimately would pay every dollar it owes. The Philadelphia Record, which is owned by President Singerly, Mr. Eckels said, is a very valuable property, paying about five per cent. annually on about $3,000,000.

BOSTON, Dec. 24.—At the Third national bank, the correspondent of the Chestnut street national bank of Philadelphia, which failed Thursday, it was said that the Philadelphia institution has sufficient balances here to cover any outstanding liabilities, and that none of the Boston banks will lose anything on account of the failure.

The Charity Rabbit Hunt.

PARIS, Mo., Dec. 24.—The charity rabbit hunt which was held in this county was a great success. All day long farmers have been bringing in the game, which was shipped to St. Louis to the provision association to be distributed among the poor for Christmas dinner. Over 8,000 rabbits were sent from the different stations in Monroe county.

Noted Criminal Dead.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 24.—Lorenze Pelton, the noted old counterfeiter, who, for so long had federal detectives all over the country on the run, died Thursday night at his home, 610 Myrtle street, of consumption. Twenty years ago he was sent to the Columbus prison for burglary. He escaped twice, and both times was found at his home here. He was arrested many other times in Cincinnati, St. Louis and Chicago. The last time he was sent up for counterfeiting he was operating with little Dick Howard, who is now serving a term in the penitentiary at Jackson, Miss.

NO DEMAND

Made on Spain for $8,000,000 for Indemnity to American Traders,

As Cabled From Madrid—Secretary of State Sherman Knows Nothing About It—Recent Tragic Death of Miss Liela Herbert the Cause of Another Suicide.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 32.—Secretary of State Sherman was seen Sunday night regarding a story cabled from Madrid to the effect the United States had demanded of Spain $8,000,000 indemnity to American traders for damages sustained through the rebellion in Cuba. The secretary stated that if any such demand had been made he had not heard of it.

Judge Day, assistant secretary of state, said: "So far as I know there is absolutely nothing in the story. Some one may have attempted to foot up all the individual claims that have been filed, but even on that supposition I should not attempt to say their estimate was correct."

At the Spanish legation it was said that no information had been received of any such action. The legation had heretofore been notified of the filing of all individual claims, but it was thought improbable that any claim in bulk would be made.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—The recent tragic death of Miss Liela Herbert, the daughter of the ex-secretary of the navy, is given as the reason for the suicide, which occurred Sunday, of Miss Annie Virginia Wells, an accomplished young society woman and daughter of Mr. Lewis S. Wells, a well known attorney. The young woman shot herself through the heart with her brother's revolver at the residence of her father, 1311 N. Street, northwest.

Miss Wells had met Miss Herbert a number of times, and was very much attached to her. She herself had been confined to the house for four months by illness, and this, combined with the shock caused by the death of her friend, brought on melancholia which resulted in suicide. The deed was apparently entirely unpremeditated, and coming immediately after Christmas festivities in the house, completely prostrated her aged mother.

Miss Wells was 33 years of age and very beautiful.

BRITISH STEAMER,

Laden With Cattle, Cotton, Grain and a General Cargo, Arrives in Port With Her Cotton on Fire.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Dec. 27.—The British steamer Lamberts Point, Capt. Humphreys, seven days from Norfolk, Va., for Liverpool, with cattle, cotton, grain and a general cargo, has arrived here with her cotton on fire and the ship in a bad state.

On Friday afternoon the fire was discovered in the compartment amidships. It gained headway rapidly. Holes were cut in the cabin flooring, pipes inserted and the compartment flooded with steam and water. The captain headed the vessel for this port; and for 40 hours nobody rested, all hands battling the fire, which steadily gaining, spread to the fore compartment.

It then became necessary to flood this, which gave the ship a list of 17 degrees to the starboard. She met terrible weather in trying to reach here. Her sides and deck were almost unbearable with heat, and the provisions were spoiled by steam and smoke. The paint is now peeling off her sides, while gangs of men are handling the cattle, almost maddened with heat.

Capt. Humphreys admits that he could not have controlled the fire 24 hours longer. Holes are being cut in her sides to admit more steam pipes in the hope of having the fire subdued by Tuesday, when the cotton will be discharged until the seat of the fire is reached. Nearly the entire cargo was damaged.

ELECTRIC CAR

Runs Wild Down a Hill—Three Persons Badly Injured.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 27.—At noon Sunday a Camp street car ran wild and rushed down Olney street hill with the speed of an express train and shot across North Main street and into the corner of a frame building. The impact of the collision was so great that some of the heavy iron work on the car was doubled up and the corner post of the building, which acted as a buffer for the runaway car, was badly splintered. That the occupants of the car escaped with their lives is remarkable. There were about ten passengers in the car at the time, besides the motorman and conductor.

The injured are: Mrs. Sarah Malufsky, crushed and bruised in the abdomen and head cut; Conductor I. F. Mott, shoulder dislocated and bruised about the upper part of the body; Chas. H. Holmes, bruised about right leg and back injured.

One of the most surprising things was the escape of the motorman, Louis E. Morrow, who stuck to his post.

Aged Couple Murdered.

INDIANA, Pa., Dec. 27.—Milton Neal and his aged wife were shot to death by an unknown assassin at their home near Jacksonville, southwest of here, some time during Christmas. Their bodies were found at 9 o'clock that night by their son, Harry, who was passing the house and stopped to pay a Christian call on his parents. Neal was one of the most prominent and prosperous farmers of the vicinity in which he lived.

Kiao-Chau Leased to Germany.

BERLIN, Dec. 27.—An inspired Chinese organ published here says that the Chinese emperor, in order to avoid the reproach of having lost territory, will lease Kiao-Chau to Germany in perpetuity at a low rate, with all the rights of sovereignty that England exercises at Hong Kong.

Banker Dies of Pneumonia.

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 27.—H. W. Allen, of the banking firm of Winslow & Allen, died in this city Sunday of pneumonia, aged 37 years. He was United States consul at Zanzibar from 1893 to 1895.

THE KLONDIKE.

Output of the Mines Will Be Greatly Curtailed by a Scarcity of Food.

Coal Oil Sells for $15 a Gallon and Candles Are as High as $150 Per Hundred—A Gold Watch Offered for a Sack of Flour—Not Accepted.

SKAGWAY, Alaska, Dec. 17, via Seattle, Wash., Dec. 27.—John Lindsay, of Olympia, Wash., who has just arrived from Dawson City, says there will surely be starvation there this winter. He examined into the food situation in a thorough manner, he says, and after satisfying himself that there would be starvation, he sold his outfit and in company with Frank Ballaine, of Olympia, Wash.; Tom Story, of Victoria, B. C., and Bob Glynn, of Seattle, started out on foot, each man drawing a sled carrying about 140 pounds of provisions. Lindsay says the Dawson people believe that there is no great amount of food at Fort Yukon. The river rose sufficiently and remained open long enough to enable food supply to have been brought from Fort Yukon and Yukon, had there been any there.

The people of Dawson, believing that there was not ample food supplies at Fort Yukon, refused to go there, preferring to remain in Dawson. No more than 300 or 400 people took advantage of the transportation companies offer to take the people to Fort Yukon free of charge.

When the miners at Dawson found that no more provisions would reach the town by the river route, they announced that a meeting would be held to take steps for apportioning the provisions in the town. Those that had plenty, they said, must share with those who had none. Capt. Constantine, of the northwest mounted police, interfered and told the miners that no such thing should be permitted. The meeting was not held.

Lindsay says the output of the mines will be greatly curtailed this winter because of the scarcity of food and light. Coal oil sold for $15 a gallon and candles are as high as $150 a box of 100. Even if men were able to work their claims they can not get light to do so.

These statements are borne out by all returning Klondikers, quite a number of whom reached here the past week. Few of them, however, take a gloomy view of the situation as does Mr. Lindsay.

Dr. B. L. Bradley, of Roseburg, Ore., says that food is scarce, but he does not think that there will be actual starvation. Neither do W. H. King, of Merced, Cal., P. J. Holland, of Butte, Mont., Thomas Story, of Victoria, or Robert Glynn, of Seattle, all of whom reached here this week from Dawson, the most of them having left there on November 2. As an instance of the scarcity of food in Dawson, Lindsay relates the case of Dr. Vanzandts, formerly of Spokane, Wash. Vanzandts is an elderly man, and being without provisions or money, he offered a gold watch for a sack of flour. He could not get it, and remarked to Lindsay: "God ——— hold an ;to keep body and soul together."

Lindsay says that two hundred or more miner are prospecting at the mouth of Stewart river, but nothing is known as yet what success they achieved.

Henderson creek, five miles below Stewart river and forty miles from Dawson, is a promising stream and is being developed this winter.

The weather about the Stewart and Big Salmon rivers has been bitterly cold, 70 degrees below being recorded at Maj. Walsh's camp, 12 miles below the Big Salmon on November 30.

The Yukon river between Dawson and Fort Pelly froze completely over on November 18. The river is piled full of ice in great ridges as high as an ordinary house, and a roadway will have to be cut through it before dog or horse teams can operate upon it. The outlook, therefore, for taking supplies down to Dawson in the immediate future is not good.

CONDUCTOR MURDERED.

Four Highwaymen Hold Up a Trolley Car Near Norristown, Pa.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Dec. 27.—A trolley car on the Schuylkill Valley Traction Co. was held up by four highwaymen at Swedeland, near here, about 10 o'clock Sunday. Conductor Charles Calloway, of Norristown, refused to give up his money, and was shot dead. Three shots were fired at Motorman Matthius but none took effect. After rifling the body of the conductor of the money and a gold watch and chain the robbers escaped. There were four women passengers in the car but the highwaymen covered them with their weapons, but made no attempt to rob them. The men looked like tramps and escaped in the direction of Philadelphia.

The Bear Took Possession of the Car.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 27.—A cinnamon bear which was shipped by express from Leavenworth, Kas., to Barboo, Wis., escaped from its crate in the express car at Western Union junction on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, while en route to its destination. The express messenger was driven from the car, the bear taking complete possession, devouring packages of apples and candy and destroying way bills. When the train arrived in Milwaukee it took ten men to secure the vicious animal.

Negro Murders Two White Men.

GLENDORA, Miss., Dec. 27.—It is just learned that on Christmas day at the plantation store of Charles L. Tanner, three miles from Glendora, a Negro named Joe Hopkins, alias "Snowball," murdered John W. Luckie and Sam Eskridge, two prominent white farmers, and robbed the store of a small amount. The negro brained Luckie with a shotgun, then fired two barrels into the body of Eskridge. Searching parties have been organized and the country is being secured and if Hopkins is apprehended he will, to all probability, be lynched.

BOONE CO., RECORDER.

Wednesday, December 29, 1897

Advertising Rates:

One inch, first time.....$1.00
Each additional time.....25
Obituaries, Tributes of Respects or notices of a like nature, per inch .50

W. L. RIDDELL, - Publisher.

Neighborhood News.

Gasburg.

A great deal of corn is ungathered.

There is a great deal of inquiry for tobacco land for next year. If every thing is favorable, the largest crop will be raised that has been for many years.

A rather unusual sight for this time, was seen in this place, last week—one farmer was hauling oats from the stack while another was busy digging potatoes.

Hathaway.

Born, to Julius Bristow and wife, on the 22, a girl.

Christmas day was most lovely—cold, clear and bright.

Cage Stephens, of this place, attended the turkey shoot at Wade Ryle's, near Rabbit Hash, christmas.

Quite a crowd was present, christmas eve, at the Hall school, and was entertained by recitations, dialogues and speeches by the pupils.

Mrs. Emma Presser, Mrs. F. J. Rue and son, H. C. Presser and wife and son, and Claud Ryle and wife, spent a most delightful day with Mr Neal and wife, last Sunday week

Rabbit Hash.

The roads are in a terrible condition now and will be for the holidays.

Mrs. Lou Clements, Z. T. Kelly and Olay Pearson are on the sick list.

John Q. Stephens made his first trip to Cincinnati last Tuesday night.

Lee Hosier has moved to Ohio where he will make his home next year.

We are having some very cold weather now and everybody is rejoicing over it.

Miss Sallie Clore, of Waterloo, was visiting Misses Alice and Lutie Stephens last Saturday night and Sunday.

A party was given by Mr. and Mrs. John Wingate ou Lick creek, last Saturday night, and it was enjoyed by all present.

Miss Helen McKay who was staying with her Uncle, Dr. L. C. Cowen, of this place, returned to her home last Monday night.

Limaburg.

Charles Crigler spent Christmas with his sister, Mrs. Hoffman, of Bellfountain, Ohio.

The first lamb of the season in this neighborhood, appeared in S. J. Rouse's flock a few days since.

If you wish to know why Bert Rouse has been wearing that sour, melancholy look for the past week, ask Eph Utz.

T. A. Crigler, of the Hebron neighborhood, paid John H. Ayler, of Gunpowder, $2.50 for a twenty-five pound turkey gobbler for raising purposes.

A very interesting triangular contest is being waged in this neighborhood, the outcome of which is looked forward to with much interest by our people.

John Eisaer, an old Confederate artilleryman, who was with Stonewall Jackson, is working for Lewis Beemon. He is yet a terrible old Confederate.

Martin Farrell was stooping down to gather up some food he had dropped when feeding his cows, when one of the animals raised her head, her horn catching Mr. Farrell on one side of his nose, cutting an ugly gash across his face.

Richwood.

Mr. Herbert Barnes was visiting friends in Florence, last Sunday.

Master George Scott, of Crescent, was visiting here, Sunday and Monday.

Mr. Owen Bradford, of Florence, will move on the farm of J. A. Huey, near this place.

Rev. W. H. Davis went to Crittendeu, last Saturday night, where he held services Sunday.

Clarence Tanner and Miss Clara Wright, daughter of Henry Wright, were married last Wednesday.

Willie Robinson, son of Frauk Robinson, was struck in the eye by a splinter while cutting wood Friday eveuing.

Miss Sarah Bedinger, who has been attending school at Bellwood College, and her brother, Wade, who has been attending at Richmond, are spending their vacation at home.

A Mr. Dunu, cousin of the late Allen G. Thurman, of Ohio, was the guest of Senator Conner a few weeks ago. Christmas Mr. and Mrs. Conner received a handsome piece of Rook-Pottery sent by this gentleman.

Walton.

Miss Lore Diers is visitiug relatives in Cincinnati.

Miss Mattie Rouse is the guest of relatives in Newport.

Mrs. Lore Rouse is visiting Mrs. Vanleuvan, of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Fannie Johnson has returned from a pleasant visit to Dayton.

Mrs. A. M. Edwards has returned to her home in Wilmington, Delaware.

O. W. Rouse and wife, of Zion Station, were visiting relatives here, Sunday.

Miss Leoua Rouse has gone to Anderson, Ind., to visit her father, Newt Rouse.

Dr. A. N. Jones and wife were the guests of his mother at Independence, last Sunday.

F. E. Curley, of Indianapolis, Ind., is spending the holidays with his father at this place.

Miss Gertrude Curley and sister, Pauline, are visiting friends and relatives in Covington and Milldale.

Misses Julia Adams and Sallie Herndon have returned from a visit to Miss Retta DeJarnett, of Williamstown.

One day last week, Edward Norman, of this place, was taken by some boys to Cincinnati, (kidnapped it is said) where marriage licenses were procured and he was united in marriage to Mrs. Susie Lenihan, of that city. Norman, it is said, was drinking at the time and not responsible for his actions. His brother, Wm. Norman telephoned to Police headquarters to have him arrested, and also not to issue the license, but his message arrived too late as they were already married.

Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Curley entertained a number of their friends, Sunday. An elegant dinner was served and ample justice done to the good things. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Northcutt, of Kenton; Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Rouse, of Zion; Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Northcutt, Mrs. Fannie Johnson, and F. E. Curley, of Indianapolis, Ind. After spending a very pleasant day the guests departed, wishing the host and hostess a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

Verona.

C. A. Roberts is now proprietor of the Drug Store here.

James Tanner, of Florence spent Sunday at Wm. Powers'.

Miss Fannie Roberts, of Georgetown, is speuding the vacation with her parents.

The debate by the young gentlemen of the League Institute, was well attended.

C. L. Craven and wife, of Covington, are spending the holidays with Mr. C.'s mother.

A two inch snow fell here on Christmas night, which made it appear more like Christmas.

We wish the RECORDER and its many readers a merry Christmas and a happy new year.

Dr Daniel Roberts, of Illinois, is the guest of D. B. Roberts and family, during the holidays.

Miss Eva Finnell, of Georgetown, is the pleasant guest of Miss Fanuie Roberts during the holidays.

Mrs. A. C. Roberts had the pleasure of entertaining Misses Lillie Rouse and Anna Wolfe, Christmas day.

Bernard O'Neal, of Chicago, arrived here Sunday, to spend the holidays with his parents and friends.

George Roberts and Scott Myers have been suggested as the jolliest fellows in our towu. Those gentlemen always have on hand some good joke to tell.

Last Saturday evening John O'Neal and Dud Dwyer engaged in a quarrel, which soon ended in a fight. John was considerably bruised in the face. Dwyer escaped uuhurt.

The Christmas exercises at the public school were well attended, and a good success, reflecting credit aud honor on the three teachers, Mr. J. H. Craven, principal, and Miss Lillie Rouse and Miss Anna Wolfe, assistants.

Union.

Leonard Rouse has been quite sick—grippe

Skating was in order among the juveniles Saturday.

Mr and Mrs. Webb, of Erlanger, attended church here, Sunday.

Mrs. Sumner Houston has been quite sick for several weeks, but is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ellis were the guests of Mr. and Mrs George Jack, Christmas.

Rev. Quiseuberry, of Virginia, preached Suuday morniug and evening at the Baptist church.

John W. aud Wm. Kinney, of Covington, were eating turkey at home, near Union, Saturday aud Sunday.

Wm Sutherland was on the sick list until he made a visit to Woodford Co., since then he has improved in health and is getting fat.

Supt. Voshell in company with J. W. Conner, left for Arkansas via Nashville where they'll will joiued by H. C. Lassing, for that well advertised bear hunt.

A treat was given the Sunday School children at the Presbyterian church, Sunday evening. Many bright, happy faces and joyful hearts were the fruits of it.

The following good one is going the round on Uncle Frank Smith, Noah Tanner and Willie Smith; however, the burden of testimony falls on Uncle Frank for he had the leading part:

"Uncle Frauk went to help Noah and Willie kill hogs, taking his rifle and what he supposed was a box of bullets. When he arrivad at the place where the slaughter was to take place he took out of his pocket the box of bullets (or supposed bullets) and loaded the gun, took deliberate aim and fired at a large porker's head The results were not as he expected, for instead of failing dead the porker winked his eyes, opened his mouth and snapped the bullet up in a jiffy and swallowed it down; of course the joke was on Uncle Frauk, and Noah was uot slow to give him the laugh (of course Willie had to be a little cautious how he laughed) and said, 'Why, father, what's the matter with the gun?' Uncle Frank looked the hog over carefully aud decided the gun must be in fault. However, he loaded up again, took deliberate aim at another porker and fired—results were the same for Mr. Porker just gave a cunning wink of his little eyes, opened his big mouth and gulped the bullet down and gave a grunt to signify his relish for such things. Well, by this time Noah and Willie were having four kinds of fits aud two or three kiuds of fuuuy spells at his expense and Uncle Frank was getting mad; so when Noah proposed to try his hand, he said perhaps he could see better, being 25 years younger and had not lost his nerve. So Noah took the gun after Uncle Frauk had loaded it (remember he does the load ing) and taking aim steady fired at a porker's head and the resu ts were the same as before—eyes winked, mouth flew open and down went the bullet in to his throat. Now, what Noah thought and Willie did, were two different things, ie—Noah thought the hog was hoodooed and Willie thought it was Noah. Willie then tried to break the hoodoo by doing the shoot act. He took the loaded gun from his father, (remember Uncle Frank did the loading), and after trying to get good positiou, fired at the only hog that had not been shot at—results were the same as before. All three stood amazed and silent. When silence had run its course reflection like a wet blanket over a decayed cabbage for five minutes, Uncle Frank said, 'Noah, you are a delusion and a snare when it comes to hog shooting, and as for Willie, he has forgotten the ways of uprightness and the traditions of his forefathers for straight shooting, so he can go to Union for more lead.' While this little drama was being enacted between Uncle Frank, Noah and Willie, the hogs fell down into sound sleep and could not be roused. The sequel to this xmas story is that the box contained pills that were prescribed for insomnia by some traveling doctor years ago and had been laying around ever since, as no one would take them, and were mistaken by Uncle Frank for the bullets. The hogs ate them and went sound asleep. The same person who so kindly gave me the above item, also says, when the three men discovered how they had been monkeyed with by the hogs, they rushed on the sleeping porkers, cut their throats and had them scalded directly.

—SS—

Florence

Christmas passed off quietly enough among the ladies, but the gentlemen seemed intent on having all of the good times they could. Jim Carpenter caught and kissed all the pretty girls he could. Honas Oelsner treated every body to candy. Charley Meyers was kept busy standing behind the door yelling xmas gift to all his customers for fear he would have to deplete his candy jars paying Christmas debts. Dr. Corey tried to scare up one gift by yelling at every one, but can't say how he succeeded. Mr. Rice looked quite pleased, suppose Santa must have visited him. A grand display of fire-works was inaugurated by the firing off of three Roman candles at the McKinley residence which was replied to from the other end of town by the firing of a couple of packs of fire crackers.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Tanner, of Burlington pike and Mr. and Mrs John Goodridge, of Richwood, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tauner, Christmas day.

Miss Bess Crigler arrived home from Louisville Sunday, accompanied by her brother, who will spend a few days with his mother.

The exercises at the public school Christmas eve, were very entertaining, reflecting much credit on both pupil and teacher.

Malcolm Dulaney, who has been sojourning in Cincinnati for the last few months, is spending the holidays at home.

Mrs. Wagstaff and Miss Susie left, last Friday morning for Louisville, to spend Christmas with Mr. Wagstaff.

I wonder if the young gentleman who received the beautiful box through the Florence P. O. appreciated it.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Crouch, of Warsaw, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Meyers during the holidays.

The Misses Chambers, of Fairview Place, Lexington Pike, were the guests of Miss Alice Cloud, Sunday.

Mrs. Noah Clore spent Christmas day with her daughter, Mrs. John G Lewis, at Erlanger.

Miss Sopha Rice, of Columbus, Ohio, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Mitchell.

Rev. W. K Denis is expected to return from Alahama about the 31st.

Wanted—a farm—address Box 32, Florence, Ky.

Petersburg.

[This communication was received too late for last week.—ED.]

Ferris & Lassing shipped some nice hogs to the city, last week

There is a greater demand for houses here now than has been for a long time.

David Wharton has moved into town from J. T. McWethy's place about 1½ miles south of this place

The body of Josephine Kinney was brought here from Cincinnati, on the 8th Lizzie Kinney died night last week.

Reuben Hurd will run the cistern-room, and A. J Gance, of Arlington Heights, O., will do the grinding again.

Billy Caseldine shipped his goods and chattles with his family from Rising Sun to this place, last Thursday night.

Good-humored Assessor Brady was here, last week, taking a list of property for the last time, for the present at least.

Tobe Collier is on watch at night for the warehouse heater, and Podge Allo way by day. John Collier is one of the rouse.

Nearly 400 bales of hay and straw were unloaded here, last week, to be used by the Distilliug Company in feeding cattle.

Mrs. Rena Dixie Randall and her sister, Miss Mary Sebree, of Cincinnati, came down, last Sunday, loaded with Christmas presents for their kinfolk's children.

The three bodies in our vault, Mrs. Melward Cave, Mrs. John Klupp and America Walton, colored, are the most natural looking it has ever been the opportuuity of the writer to see.

Died.—December 15th at 3 o'clock p. m., Mrs. Eugene Klupp, aged 26 years. Deceased was a daughter of Robt. Acra, who died several years ago; was mar to John Klupp about three years ago. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Harris at the residence about two miles south of this place, at 1 o'clock p. m., on the 17th inst., after which the remains were placed in the vault.

I hereby express my gratitude to the kind friends of the Methodist church, who made me a present of an overcoat. J. W. HARRIS.

There will be preaching at the Methodist church next Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m.

The Sunday School at the Methodist church gave an enjoyable and successful entertainment at Gordon's Hall on the night of the 24th. At the close Santa Claus Presented each of the scholars of the school with a nice treat. They took in $34.

Many hearts were made the merrier Christmas night by one of the prettiest home weddings that ever took place in Petersburg, the contracting parties being Mr. Robert Cox and Miss Ella Alcorn, two popular and charming young people of the town, and members of two of Petersburg's best families, and loved by all who knew them. All join in wishing that their lives may ever be bright and prosperous, and that their pathway be strewn with flowers as beautiful as those that adorned the bride's head.

It was promptly at 7 o'clock p. m. that Mr. and Mrs. Everett Helms entered the parlor, which was filled with relatives and other guests. They were followed by the groom—the bride entered on the arm of her brother, David E. Alcorn. They were met at the center of the parlor by Rev. Harris, who repeated, in an impressive manner, the ceremony that joined their hearts and hands in the holy bonds of matrimony.

The bride was attired in a gown of lansdown trimmed in white chiffon and satin ribbon. She carried a bunch of bride's roses. The groom wore the conventional black.

After the ceremony and congratulations the bridal party left for the home of the groom two and a half miles below town, where a sumptuous wedding feast awaited them.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Joe Minor, of Addyston, Ohio, the latter a sister of the bride; Miss Motherial, of Lawrenceburg, a niece of the bride; Louis Kinney, of Uzzinger, a cousin of the bride; Hubert, Kirb and Albert Cox, brothers of the groom; D. E. Alcorn, brother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Henry McWethy, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Loder, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Helms, Mr. Edward Kelm, Misses Lou Allen, Mattie Harris and Elizabeth Weindel.

The presents, which were too numerous to mention, were appropriate and useful.

Erlanger.

Good Faith Lodge F. & A. M. elected the following officers for the esuing year. L. Morelli, W. M.; Geo Scohefel, S. W.; Thos. Finnell, J. W.; Jno. Westerman, Secty.; Hy Myers, Treas; Robt. Baker, Tyler. The installation will take place January 8th.

Harry C. Kohl and family are the guests of Mrs. John Westerman, of Elsmere.

The Christmas Festivals of this place have all been

At the K. of P. Festival, after santa claus got through giving presents, his Brizebub started to climb through the chimney, but he seemed to get mad because the children were happy, so he broke the whole chimney down and very nearly smothered poor, old Santa Claus. Spirits should have helped him out, but there was none on hand.

Plenty of ice aud no school this week, consequently the juveniles are having a delightful time.

Those wanting farming implements would do well to call on J S. Clutterbuck, ageut for B F. Avery & Co.

In some neighborhoods there has been a continued round of pleasure since the beginning of the holidays.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c

The Fiscal Court will meet to morrow and close up the county fiscal affairs preparatory to turning them over to the new guardians of the treasury. M. B. Green and J.H Walton Esquires, are the only members of the present court that do not step down and out next Mouday.

The Chicago wheat deal that has been attracting so much attention for several weeks, will close out next Friday, at which time those on the short side will lose heavily. Millions of dollars, it is estimated, will be required to meet the losses.

Burlington Lodge F. and A. M., elected the following officers for the ensuing year: O. W. Gaines, W. M.; C. W. Riley, S. W.; W. J. Rice. J. W.; W. L. Riddell, Secrety.; Dudley Rouse, Treasurer; T. W Finch, S. & T.

Positively Retiring From Business

Great Slaughter Sale

$10.000 Stock of Drygoods.

Clothing, Hats, Caps, Boots. shoes.

Overcoats, and Men, Women and Childrens' Underwear

To be disposed of in the next 20 days.

Auction—

Thursday and Friday Of

Each Week.

J. S. DORMAN & CO.,
Lawrenceburg, Ind.

G. W. LAIRD, Auctioneer.

For Sale--Farm.

—of—

123 Acres of Good Land in Boone County, Ky., on the Union & Beaver Turnpike, 2 miles from Union, three miles from Richwood Station. Good house of seven rooms, hall, vestibule, porches, good cellar; large barn, outbuildings, two cisterns, orchard and never failing water.

Henry Tucker,
UNION, Boone Co., KY.

FOURTH YEAR.

OF WALTON ACADEMY,

—opens—

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 6th, 1897

AT WALTON, KY.

Three Courses of Study to choose from:

English, Scientific or Classical,

Tuition per month,.. $2.50 and $3.00

Vocal and Instrumental Music at moderate rates.

We have a fine, new building with rooms for pupils, connected.—Board only $2.50 per week, or $2.00 for 5 days.

Thorough, Substantial Work

☞Guaranteed.

Teachers { Mrs. S. H. MYERS. CHAS. F. PRIOR. Rev. S. H. MYERS.

Further information gladly given by mail or interview.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

GO TO

HANKINS, DAVIS & CO., General Merchants,

HEBRON AND CONSTANCE,

A Good Supply of Feed always in Stock.

GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS.

Undertaking is given special attention. Funerals under the personal supervision of J. C. HANKINS.

A good supply of Coal on hand at Constance at all times.

Hebron. HANKINS, DAVIS & CO. Constance

S. L. EDWARDS. A. M. EDWARDS.

EDWARDS BROTHERS,

DEALERS IN HARDWARE

—AND—

Agricultural Implements,

Furniture,
Stoves,
Tinware,
Saddlery,
Oils and Paints,
Wall Paper.

UNDERTAKING & EMBALMING A SPECIALTY.

We have added a first class Tin Shop and are prepared to do Tin, Iron and Paper Roofing and guarantee all work done by us.

EDWARDS BROS., Walton, Ky.

JOHN ALLISON,

UNDER-  EMBALTAKER MER,

—Corner Pike & Russell Streets,—

COVINGTON, - - KENTUCKY.

INDEPENDENT OF UNDERTAKERS' UNION.

THEY : MUST : GO.

Desiring to quit that branch of the business I am Closing

OUT MY ENTIRE STOCK OF—

MEN'S & BOYS' Ready-Made CLOTHING

At the greatest bargains ever offered in Covington.

☞MY TAILORING DEPARTMENT☜

Will be continued, and I have on hand the Finest Line of Suitings in the three cities. Give me a call.

H. F. BLASE, 540 Madison Avenue, COVINGTON, KY.

jany 1-98

THEY'LL STAND BRUSHING

And to encourage our patrons to give their Clothing the proper attention, we have arranged

Give Away Free

A GENUINE IMPORTED

BRISTLE ~ CLOTHES ~ BRUSH

WITH EVERY PURCHASE to the amount of $2.50 and upwards.

We don't make absurd claims, but we do think we can do as much for you as anybody, and are going to keep right on with the good work of selling the best clothing in the city for prices usually paid for shoddy garments The most complete line of Men's and Boys' Overcoats. Children's Suits in all the neat and nobby patterns. A stylish Boys' Reefer Suit, with Braided Collar, only $1.50.

Remember, your money back, if you want it, at—

ROLFES & WACHS, RELIABLE CLOTHIERS

S. W. Cor. Pike & Madison Ave. Covington, Ky.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Notice to Trespassers.

We, the undersigned, hereby give notice that we have posted our farms according to law, against trespass of all kinds, and will enforce the law against those who trespass thereon by hunting or otherwise.

Reuben Hager, W. K. Leathers, Filmore Ryle, W. B. Ryle, Charles Craig, Mary Kirtley, P. Hager. Ben R. Stephens, O. H. Craig, Murry Ryle.

ELECTRIC HEADLIGHTS

are but one of the many modern appliances for the safe, rapid and comfortable transit of the traveler which the limited trains of the QUEEN & CRESCENT ROUTE afford.

Fast vestibuled trains to Lexington, Harriman, Chattanooga, Atlanta, Knoxville, Asheville, Columbia, Savannah, Jacksonville, Meridian, Birmingham, New Orleans, daily from Cincinnati, are provided with safety vestibules, heated by steam, lighted with gas, and have all modern improvements.

Write for information to
W. C. Rinearson,
General Passenger Agent,
Cincinnati, O.

Send 10 cents for fine Artcolored Lithograph of Lookout Mountain and Chickamauga.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

Local News.

Next Monday is County Court.

This looks a little more like winter.

Fine weather for holiday festivities.

It was a quiet Christmas in this locality.

The bank did no business on Christmas day.

The ground is in excellent condition for a good snow.

Indigestion is the popular trouble at this time of the year.

The feather cleaners took their departure, last Thursday.

Don't hear that the foxhunters are doing much this winter.

Old boreas sent a holiday message to this part of the country.

The close of the year finds three prisoners in jail at this place.

The weather for the last few days has been rough on the wheat.

You ought to begin the new year as a subscriber to the RECORDER.

Tony B[illegible] was on the market last Friday morning with 110 dressed turkeys.

The local demand for candies and nuts increased rapidly after 12 m., last Friday.

The newly elected county officers will take charge of their trusts next Mquday.

The skaters have been enjoying themselves on W. A. Gaines' poud for several days.

The weather that has prevailed for several days is putting the dirt roads in excellent condition.

John, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson, is recovering from a severe attack of pneumonia.

The little folks were busy several days last week hustling up things for the Christmas Arch.

Oscar Ryle visited the Hathaway potato Klondike, last week, and found operations suspended on account of bad weather.

Some of the country dealers over stocked with turkeys for the Christmas trade, and are carrying some over for the New Year trade.

While many of the country papers will not appear during the holidays the RECORDER sticks to its knitting and visits its patrons as usual.

Mrs. Sacket Meade died at her home in Covington, on the 24th inst. Many of our readers remember Sacket Meade, he being a school teacher here many years ago.

Mansfield Wigglesworth, aged about 90 years, died at the County Infimary, Sunday night. Michael Lange, another aged inmate of that institution, died a few days ago.

The RECORDER will keep open house next Monday, January 3rd, and all those who wish to subscribe or renew their subscription will find the latchstring on the outside.

Viola Lodge, I. O. O. F., elected the following officers last Saturday night: J. S. Clutterbuck, N. G.; J. B. Berkshire, V. G.; D. E. Castleman, Sec'ty: J. G. Furnish, Treas.

James Ryle, son of P. A. Ryle, living at Big Bone, and Miss Mollie Weaver, daughter of Gus Weaver, of Virginia, were married by Elder E. Stephens at his residence near Erlanger, last Thursday afternoon.

Uncle Mike Clore, of Bellevue, was in town Monday. He looks well for one of his age, 78 years. Uncle Mike will get lonesome now, both of his boys having moved some distance from him into the country.

The pictures representing Christmas scenes are very much out of kelter for Christmas scenes of latter years, when the snow feature is considered—snow doth not abound on the occasion of the modern Christmas.

Turkey dinners are the leading feature of the holiday entertainment in the Berkshire-Goodridge neighborhood. The turkeys are all ripe out there, and the crop will soon be exhausted at the rate they are disappearing.

Elmer Beall is proving himself a terror to sneakthieves. It seems to be a great pleasure to him to round them up, and when he gets on the track of one he stays as long as there is any yrobability of landing the rascal.

As a holiday amusement the shooting match has become a thing of the past. It use to be that no person would consider a Christmas worth attending to unless there was a turkey shooting or something of the kind each day.

Griffin and Spicer, two of the feather renovaters, were arrested, last Thursday, for fast driving on a public highway—the Florence 'pike—the day before. They pleaded guilty to the charge and was each fined $5 and trimmings, amounting to about $7 50 each.

Circuit Court.

Crawford and Sawyer were tried for housebreaking, Wednesday morning, and were each given five years in the penitentiary. When the foreman of the jury read the verdict, Crawford said to his companion in crime: "They were d—n liberal with us—they give us all they could." The prisoners were remanded to jail to await sentence. Thursday morning the prisoners were returned into Court for sentence The older of the two, Crawford, was told to stand up, and being asked if he had any legal cause to show why sentence should not be passed upon him, said he thought the jury had been severe on them—the three years would have been about right—that he had no doubt but Mr. [illegible] the lawyer who defended them did the best he could, but the other [illegible]er was too much for him. The judge assured him that his lawyer did all that could have been done for him, and then sentenced him. Sawyer had nothing to say. Had VonGundy, who escaped a trial by forfeiting a $100 bail bond been tried and given a term in the pen in proportion to that given Crawford and Sawyer, he would have gotten about 15 years.

Among the last orders entered was one setting aside the judgment in the O'Kane case, on account of some defect in its drafting.

Court adjourned last Thursday about noon.

Mike Cahill, indicted for selling whisky on Sunday, was fined $10.

The suit of Edwards against Dean terminated Wednesday about 4 p. m., the jury returning a verdict for $5,000 in favor of the plaintiff, after remaining out about twenty minutes. It was a hard fought legal battle, the lawyers on each side reudering unto their client their best efforts. The case was argued at length, there being two long speeches ou each side. It was the first suit for the alienation of wife's affections ever brought in this county, and notwithstauding the promiuence of the parties it created very little interest outside of their neighborhood.

Things Funny to See.

Charlie Roberts looking for Santa Claus.

Harry Blyth hunting a chew of long green.

Jeff Eddins huntiug a Christmas turkey dinner.

P. T. Fall when he has not a record breaker to tell you.

Herbert Kirkpatrick planning for the '98 base ball season.

J. B. Berkshire buying an outfit for a Santa Claus expedition.

Jim Clore delivering a load of ice to a customer in Cincinnati.

That judical look C. C. Roberts has ready to don next Monday.

John Lassing claiming the rabbit the other fellow shot and killed.

W. T German when Joe Revill tells him what he (German) eats.

Watt Brown when one of his livery horses come in off of a road race.

Onnie Rouse going hunting and carrying his young hounds in a basket.

Lewis Beemon when he meets a fast flying double team on the highway.

B. W. Adams trying to keep the strange glassware out of his gardeu.

C. L. Crisler rushing to the jail to carry out a dead man who is not dead.

(Thursday's Ky. Post.)

Sheriff-elect Beall, of Burlington, Boone county, accompanied by William Cropper, proprietor of a store at Utzinger, 17 miles west of Covington, were at the Covington Police Headquarters Thursday. They identified the property found on John Leopold, who was arrested Sunday by Marshal Lambert, of Central Covington. Leopold was engaged in selling pocketknives, gloves and other articles when arrested. The identification of the stuff by Cropper was complete, and a charge of housebreaking and larceny was lodged against Leopold. He was taken to Burlington for trial. Leopold has served one term in the Frankfort peuitentiary. He is well kuown to the police of Northern Kentucky.

Leopold had been breaking stone on the Petersburg 'pike near Utzinger to within a couple of weeks previous to the burglary for which he is now awaiting trial, and his character being known suspicion at once pointed to him, and when Elmer Beali heard of Leopold's arrest on the streets of Covington, peddling goods, he hastened to Florence and telephoued the Covington officials to hold him until he could communicate with Mr. Cropper, and go down and ascertain if the goods Leopold was selling were his. His request was complied with and Leopold is now in jail at this place. It is a pity that the capture was not made a week sooner. Another man was assisting Leopold to sell the goods but he escaped.

A nomad type-heaver rounded in at this office the other day, foot-sore and a financial wreck. He claimed President McKinley's State as his home, and, instead of experiencing the prosperity that is advertised as touring this country, he had but recently lost the job he had held for the last 8 years. He was fed, and a few pieces of silver put in his pocket, and he went forth in the world to tell of his woes.

A shooting scrape in which two shanty boat men figured, is reported from the mouth of Gunpowder. A woman caused the trouble.

W. M. RACHAL & CO.,

PRICE POWER PULLS. PRICE POWER PULLS.

For Your Christmas Cakes

We will sell the following:

2½ Pounds of Granulated Sugar.....10 cents
1 Package of Seedless Raisins.....13 cents
1 Package of Clened Currants.....13 cents
¾ Pound of Citron.....14 cents

Package.....50 cents

We will put up in packages as above and will sell for 50cts.
We do this to save us and our customers trouble.

UNION, KENTUCKY

WE HAVE ALWAYS ON HAND FRESH BULK
OYSTERS,
CELERY,
CRANBERRIES, ETC.

The best place to buy yours.

• • • • Candies for Christmas.

W. M. RACHAL & CO.,

UNION, KENTUCKY.

The county board of supervisors of tax will be in session next week, overhauling the lists as returned by the Assessor. This is Mr. Brady's last assessment, and he has made an efficient officer, and retires, leaving everybody his friend.

The RECORDER is in receipt of a very lengthy write-up of the entertainment at Petersburg, given by the Bullittsville troop. It is so very long that it cannot be given space. Suffice it to say that it contains many nice compliments, especially for the young ladies who took part. Now don't ask who the author is.

The RECORDER wants a regular correspondent at every postoffice in the county next year. All the stationery and a copy of the paper will be furnished anyone who will furnish items of news for it. There are several neighborhoods in the county that are not represeuted in the columns as often as they should be. If you are willing to undertake to furnish us the news from your neighborhood let us hear from you.

While Tony Bentler was selling his turkeys out of one end of his wagon in the city, last Friday, a thief was taking them out at the other end of the vehicle. Five or six of the fowls had been takeu before they were missed. Tony at once planned to capture the thief, and he did not wait long until he was caught "dead to rights" taking another turkey out of the box where it had been placed as a bait. The thief was given over to the police, and Tony went back to the city Monday to prosecute him.

According to the account of the trial of the Edwards-Dean suit contained in the Cincinnati Daily Enquirer of last Thursday, Burlington came very nearly being the scene of a riot last week. The Enquirer's report was greatly exagerated. There was at no time any indication of any trouble between the witnesses. Very little interest in the trial was manifested by others than the parties and the witnesses, and at no time during its progress were there one hundred people in the court room, hence the assertion that the court room was crowded to suffocation was preposterous.

The entertainment giveu by the Eureka Society at the Court House, last Friday night, besides furnishing a great deal of pleasure for the children was enjoyed by the older persons. Considering the disadvantages under which Miss Poland labored in training the children for the occasion, the program was rendered in a very creditable manner. Quite a number of presents were distributed from the small tree, and arch. The children all returned home delighted with the evening's exercises, as did also their parents. Amoug the presents taken from the arch was a gold-headed caue, for each, D. E. Castleman and J. C. Revill, and a set of silver spoons for Miss Katie Huey. These last two were giveu by the Sunday school—Mr. Castleman being Superintendent, and Miss Huey, the organist. Mr. Revill's cane was a present from his Sunday School class.

Otto Crisler made a good Santa Claus, and Chas. Finch, Heury Parsons and Howard Kirkpatrick brought the house down as negro miustrels.

Sheriff Roberts took Crawford and Sawyer to the peniteutiary at Frankfort, Monday, to serve the five years term given them last week for housebreaking.

County Attorney Lassing and Sheriff-elect Beali visited the Rogue's Gallery in Cincinnati, last Saturday, where they identified Crawford's photograph, and by referriug to a short biography of his in possession of the police, they learned that he is au all-around bad man. That he served 11 years of a 17 years sentence in the Joilet, Illinois, penitentiary for killing a Chicago policeman; was arrested in Newport for stealing cows; and had been out of the Newport work-house only a few days when he came to this county on a thieving expedition and was captured. The tinware Crawford and Sawyer had with them when captured belonged to them, and the sheriff sold it at public auction, last Saturday, and the proceeds of sale, $3 or $4, they invested in dellcacies for a holiday feast.

Toney Bentler has a good, fresh Jersey cow for sale.

PERSONAL MENTION.

J. M. Lassing visited Frankfort, last Monday.

W. T. Riddell, of Cincinnati, was in town Saturay.

Elmer Beall and wife were visiting in Hebron, Sunday.

Rankin Revill enjoyed a Christmas diuner with his parents.

H. G. Blanton, of Erlanger, was a guest at Dr. Furnish's, Sunday.

Tommie Hogan came home [illegible]enjoy a few Christmas meals with [illegible]arents.

Hart Presser and wife, of Hathaway, were Christmas guests of O. J. Ryle and family.

Pink Ryle, of Utzinger, was in town Sunday, and reports his brother, P., improving [illegible]

Misses Sheba Roberts and Hettie Riddell are home from Georgetowu, to spend the holidays

Eli Passons, of Rabbit Hash, was Christmasing with his relatives in this part of the couuty.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Rice entertained several of their friends with a turkey dinner, last Sunday.

J. C. Revill was in Cincinnati, Monday. Arthur Rouse attended to the bank in his absence.

Gordon McKim arrived from school at Hanover, about the middle of last week to spend the holidays.

Chinese Inspector Berkshire and Hubert Walton were guests of Master Commissioner Berkshire and wife a few days last week.

Mr. Work, presideut, and J. E. Rouse, secretary, of The Thin Ruid Breeders' Association, called on the RECORDER Monday.

Mrs. Ella Utz and Miss Sallie Willis, of Big Bone, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Ryle, last Sunday, returning home Monday morning.

Arthur Rouse arrived home from the Louisville Law School, last Friday, to spend the holidays. He [illegible] is thriving on the study of the law.

Clarence and Wallace Garvey, of Erlanger, who went to Alaska, have returned to Anderson, Ind. They will start for the Klondike again in the spring.

Mr. Molloy, who had been living on what is known as the Baker place on the Bellevue 'pike, about three quarters of a mile out, moved to Cincinnati last week.

The local legal lights are taking a rest, each claiming to be satisfied with his achievements during the term of court from which they emerged last Thursday at noon.

M. T. Garnett is at home to his friends again at his old quarters in the Boone House. He was routed a few months ago by the carpenters, and was not permitted to return until last week.

Carl Cason, son of Benjamin Cason, liveing out on the East Bend road, is spending the holidays at home with his parents Carl has been at work over in Ohio for nearly a year, and is much pleased with his location. Last summer he had a delightful outiug on the great lakes.

Miss Frances Poland desires to thus publicly thank those who assisted the Eurcka Society in the entertainmeut given last Friday evening.

FOR RENT—FOR SALE.

Oue cottage of three rooms, and a small garden, in Hebron. For sale, 12 barrels pure apple vinegar. Apply to HARRISON CLORE, Hebron, Ky. Dec. 29,

For Sale or Rent.

Good Stock Farm of 170 acres. Money rent iu cash, if rented.
Wm. C. HENSLEY.

What it Will Do.

FALMOUTH, KY. July 7, 1896.
Dr. J. T. Boulton, Cincinnati, O.
Dear Sir—I was taken with a severe cough the first of May; for two weeks I could not lie on my left side nor breathe through my left lung. I also had hemorrhage and my friends said I had consumption. I began taking Boulton's Cough Remedy and began to improve with the first dose, and within three weeks was entirely well. I can not say euough in favor of Boulton's Cough Remedy. Respectfully,
MRS. R. J. MARSHALL.
For sale by all druggists. Price, 25c. and $1 per bottle.

Take the Recorder, $1.50 a year.

W. E. CHAMBERLAIN,
DEALER IN UP TO DATE
FURNITURE
HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS, ETC.,
HIGH STREET,
Lawrenceburg, - Indiana.
—HAUCK BUILDING.—
Stylish and Durable Oak BED ROOM SUITS,
All-Oak SIDE BOARDS, As Handsome as the Finest.
INGRAIN CARPETS,
BRUSSELS CARPETS.
W. E. CHAMBERLAIN,
LAWRENCEBURG, INDIANA.

When in Burlington Call on
J. S. CLUTTERBUCK
DEALER IN
DRY GOODS
Notions, Boots and Shoes,
HAY, CORN AND MILL FEED,
At Prices to Suit the times.
FRESH - MEATS - ALWAYS - ON - HAND.
J. S. CLUTTERBUCK, Burlington, Ky.

Buy COFFEE and TEA of the J. L. BILL COFFEE & TEA CO., a Ticket given with every 25c purchase and handsome presents given away.
The J. L. BILL
Coffee and Tea Co.
THE BEST BRANDS OF FLOUR.
12 W. Seventh & S. E. Cor. Sixth & Bakewell,
COVINGTON, KY.
WM. F. NEAD, Salesman.

ABUNDANCE

Of power wasting right over your heads, grasp the opportunity—Grind and Cut your own Feed and that of your neighbors—feed economically.
THE AERMOTOR
will bear close inspection and is guaranteed to work right. They are Cheap. Come and see it work and be convinced.

Also remember we are still in the ring with a complete line
OF GENERAL MERCHANDISE
and can sell Goods just as cheap as anyone. Highest market Prices paid for COUNTRY PRODUCE or anything salable. Come and see
OUR : STOCK,
It Speaks for Itself.
T. J. HUGHES, - BEAVER LICK, KY.
—PROPRIETOR OF—
"LaBELLE HERD of CHESTER WHITE HOGS."

FARM FOR SALE.

65 acres of nice land in Boone county, Ky., on the road from Florence to the Ohio river, about 2½ miles southwest of Erlanger, Ky., known as the Harriet Wayland farm. This is a very desirable piece of land, with frame house and barn on it, and nicely located. Terms easy. Possession will be given March 1st, 1898. Address me for particulars at Ghent, Ky.
R. O. WILLIAMS,
dec15 Administrator.

Farm for Sale!

(2)

In Boone county, Ky., on the North Bend Road, 1½ miles from Burlington, 1 mile from Hebron and 8 miles from Andersou's Ferry, and contains seventy-eight acres, good cottage of 5 rooms and good barn, orchard of 200 trees select fruit. The farm is all under good state of cultivation. For terms apply to
LASSING & RIDDELL,
Burlington, Ky.

Who Wants To Die This Year?

IT IS so fair, and fresh, and sweet,
This year that may be ours—
Perhaps with happiness replete,
Full play for all our pow'rs.
Success in all we undertake,
The love of one grown dear,
And peace, and rest, for hearts that break;
Who wants to die this year?
Do you? Do I?
Who wants to die
This year?

Its winding paths are all untrod,
And they may often lead
Where perfum'd flowers gayly nod—
Supplies for ev'ry need.
But other paths may lie between.
Our vision is not clear.
Though grief and pain await, unseen,
Who wants to die this year?
Do you? Do I?
Who wants to die
This year?

Each year's a book, with pages white,
That we so blindly fill;
One line within our hands to-night,
To blot and mar at will.
With many secret faults indulged,
Tall stumbling-blocks we rear.
Our hopes and fears are all divulged;
Who wants to die this year?
Do you? Do I?
Who wants to die
This year?

God gave the years that still have come,
And we have called our own.
They held unnumbered joys for some,
Or else all joy had flown.
We use the moments, one by one,
Without much thought or fear.
But oh, we have so little done!
Who wants to die this year?
Do you? Do I?
Who wants to die
This year?

This year! Twelve fleeting months from now,
'Twill be last year as well.
Eternity ope yet endow,
And all life's story tell.
Though short, or long, for us the time,
Our landscape bright, or drear,
The question holds both prose and rhyme,
Who wants to die this year?
Do you? Do I?
Who wants to die
This year?

Ah, death will many millions seek!
Their hour must come in turn.
To-morrow, next day, week by week,
We'll of their goings learn.
We cannot stay, though stay we would,
Our end may be so near!
Oh, are we living as we should?
Who wants to die this year?
Do you? Do I?
Who wants to die
This year?

—Mrs. Findley Braden, in N. Y. Observer.

A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

"HAPPY New Year!" I said, cheerfully, to Susan, my sister, as I entered the library, where she was sitting by the fire.

I had just gotten back to town. To my surprise she looked at me indignantly, and declined to return my greeting.

She is a very pretty young woman, full of graces and caprices, but is less pretty when she adopts her present mode of expression. Her gray eyes I noted when opened with this particular stare—or is it a glower—are not near as lovely and fascinating as when bright, pathetic, merry or sad, which are their usual variations of expression.

And her mouth, which I have always told Susan is her best feature, if compressed as at present to accord with the general severe tone of disgusted depression pervading her face, loses at least one-half its charm. Even the ware of Susan's chestnut brown hair seem to wear a rebellious air, indicative of suppressed indignation at some one or something.

"Happy New —" I began again, after I kissed Sue lightly and starting to unfold the morning paper, which I picked up from the center table, not having had time to read it all day.

"Tom Waring, if you say that again I will pitch this at you," interrupted Susan, holding up a well-bound book which she had evidently just removed from a pasteboard box on the table.

I naturally laughed.

Why do women with a view to inspire fear or trepidation ever threaten to "throw" an object, whether book or ball, knife or scissors? Has it not been recognized and established, down all the ages, that not one of them can hit the side of a house, much less an individual.

"I suppose your desire would be to dislocate the very handsome cover of that book? You might aim at me, but you would probably hit the bookcase," I remarked, drawing up the biggest and most comfortable chair in the room to the hearth, and ensconcing myself for an hour or two of lazy enjoyment before dinner time, for I was rather fagged by my hurried journey to and from Chichester, a small town 60-odd miles away.

"Who sent it?" I inquired. "Did it come with any good wishes attached; or did you impress on the donor your radical objection to any polite adherence to the good and ancient custom of wishing a Happy New Y—"

"Don't you dare to say it," warned Susan, holding up the destructive missile with a gesture so very determined that I abruptly came to a halt, not wishing to see Herbert Cameron's illuminated volume—for I had recognized his handwriting on the cover of the book—land in the fire.

By this time Susan's eyes had lost much of their strong aggressiveness and a glint of puzzled laughter was faintly discernible in their warm depths, albeit a wistful shade was gathering over her bonny face.

In the capacity of elder brother and guardian to a forlorn little mite of an orphan girl, I had watched over Sue with tenderest care and solicitude for 18 years.

According to my calculation, if a man's calculation in such matters be of any account, Susan was 21 on the 5th of the month. But very likely, by a feminine process of reasoning, it was all different. Maybe she was 19, maybe 25 in the eyes of herself and girl companions.

As Susan is a remarkably bright, not to say a very brilliant girl, and one of decided strength of character, it was clear to perceive that something had gone radically wrong with that young woman during the day.

She had ensconced herself amid a lot of cushions on a big divan near by, and was looking at me with so queer an expression, half penitent, half sorrowful, and wholly puzzled, that I felt impelled to come to the reseue, although on prineiple and long-established custom I intermeddled, not having a full confidence in and an admiration for that handsome child's capacity to properly conduct her personal affairs.

"May I inquire, sis, what your objection is to the good wishes of your friends, and why you desire to destroy that gift of Cameron's?" I inquired, poking up the fire.

"Why, how in the world did you find out he sent it?" asked Sue, in wide-eyed surprise.

I silently took the cover of the box, which lay on the table, and turned it toward her. Her name, written in Herbert's big characteristic scrawl, was a sufficient explanation.

"I am," said Sue, in a low and subdued tone, edging close to me on her divan, "I am in an awful quandary! Something positively terrible! I have been half wild over it all day long; and you were so mean as to stay away up to this hour—four o'clock in the afternoon!"

Now, considering that I had gone most reluctantly on an urgent telegraphic summons from an old invalid client (and a wealthy one), who desired, I knew, some alteration in his will; that I had done without breakfast, so as to catch the early train; had driven six miles out from the station, in the teeth of a biting north wind; had worked hard all day, and had hurried back to town, to dine this special evening at home with my unreasonable young sister, it seemed to me I hardly deserved her present keen reproach, one intensified by the look.

But here, as in the matter of age, women have their own special way of looking at things; and if they jumble up "circumstances" with "volitions," "intent" with "necessity," it is doubtless owing to their aloofness with the hard problems of life, those terrible conundrums of bread winning which force us to be more cautious in our appreciations and lucid in our inferences.

"Just so," I remarked, without attempting an explanation of the whys and wherefores of my enforced absence. "As I am here now, suppose you tell me what the trouble is, little one."

"It's awful!" again ejaculated Susan, impressively, and I began to believe it really must be, for there was just the suspicion of a dimness in her big, gray eyes.

I began to feel a dim, stern animosity awake in the bottom of my heart toward Cameron. If that man has caused any grief to my winsome, joyous pet I will neither forgive nor tolerate it, if human intervention is of any avail.

"Awful!" I repeated, lightly, scanning closely Sue's lovely, flushed, perturbed face. "What is the catastrophe which has befallen during my absence? Has a burglar carried off your diamonds! or have your dressmaker and tailor spoiled your new gowns? Say the word and I'll cable to Paris and London."

"Neither, you silly boy," answered Sue. "It's worse. Just read that."

Sue tossed over to me an open envelope containing a note or letter, and fixed on me a look of surprise and despair.

"Well," I said, turning over the missive without reading it. "I can't see how this can interest you so keenly, as it is not addressed to you."

On the envelope was written in Cameron's abominable handwriting "Miss Louise Morrison."

"That's exactly it," said Sue, tearfully. "I opened and read it!"

I looked at Sue in astonishment. I knew her to be that exceptional thing, a strictly and scrupulously honorable young fellow—woman, I meant to say. The idea of Sue deliberately opening her friend's letter, especially when she knew—well, never mind.

I was now fully determined not to tolerate Cameron's early and late visits any longer. I would not have him send hothouse flowers to Susan, and lavish like attentions on Miss Morrison at one and the same time. We would inaugurate a new system with the New Year.

"You opened and read this letter?" I asked, slowly, possibly with some slight severety, "when you knew it was not written to you?"

Sue flushed deeply, and a look of pained indignation swept over her face.

"Why, Tom; who do you take me for? Of course not! I thought it was for me, or I would never have broken the seal of the horrid thing! It's awful!" added Sue, clasping her hands with a gesture of despair.

"What's in it?" I asked, bluntly.

"Read it," responded Sue.

"You must read it, Tom, to understand and help me out. Louise will never, never forgive me! and she will never, never believe that I did not open her hateful letter out of mean curiosity."

"Of that you may be very sure, my dear child," I said.

This was not magnanimous, but I was seriously annoyed at the absurd imbroglio into which four people were being plunged by Cameron's folly.

For it had not escaped me that Sue's large eyes would brighten, and a tender hesitation soften her usual wit and brilliancy of spirits whenever Cameron came up to her.

"YOU OPENED AND READ THIS LETTER."

And where, in all the wide world, could any nature be found more true and lovable, more honest and straightforward or one more fascinating, from her changes and fluctuations of moods and spirits, than Susan Haversham Waring, the idol of my brotherly heart?

For the life of me I could not understand how a man in his senses could fail to appreciate that little girl's immense superiority over Louise Morrison, that unreliable, small-souled young woman, whose vanity was as all-pervading as her astuteness. Two hideous traits.

The letter was—well, a glance suffered to inform me that it contained the usual rhapsodies and idiocies.

"It was in the first pages of the book," explained she, tearfully, "and, so you see, Tom, that was easy to me; so without noticing the address I opened and read the nonsensical thing. Do you know, Tom, dear," continued Sue, and in spite of her mortified distress, two lovely dimples crept in the corners of her mouth, "it was by a mere accident I noticed Louise's name on the envelope. It fell on the floor with the address uppermost."

"Well, child," I said, "all you have to do is to notify Cameron of the accident, and let him try his hand at an effusive epistle to his lady love, or enclose this thing just as it is to Miss Morrison and write her an honest explanation of your error. To my mind, the first would be the safer plan of the two. It would be a little awkward for you both, and will delay the extremely ready acceptance that is waiting for him, which is a pity, as, if I understood his extremely involved sentences, he is hoping. I believe the fellow wrote 'Pining,' or some such word, this very afternoon. Wants to start out on the new year with a cartload of illusions and fantastic anticipations of coming happiness. Happiness with Louise Harrison!" I added sardonically. "Why, I venture to predict on next New Year's he will be looking around for a method of escape."

I poked the fire viciously, for I was sorely grieved to note the pain way down in the depths of Sne's gray eyes, and purposely I spoke roughly of the absurd affair.

The little girl must needs grow accustomed to the situation. The sooner the better.

"I'll send a note to him right off then, Tom," Sue said, hurriedly. "It will be my New Year greeting to him," and she laughed brightly.

But my ear could detect a jangle in the sweet notes.

"What infernal fools men are," I soliloquized, internally, and from the vantage ground of my old bachelorhood I looked with supreme contempt on the blunders and misapprehensions I could note in the matrimonial ventures of my friends and acquaintances, by which they so determinately brought untold sorrows upon themselves.

"Serves 'em right," I added, mentally.

"Harris, take this note around to Mr. Cameron and bring the answer," I directed to the butler, who answered the bell. "You'll be apt to find him in."

Silence fell between us when the door had closed, and I lit a cigar.

Twilight had fallen, filling with its soft shadows the nooks and corners of the library, and outside the bustle and animation of the street were greater than usual, for humanity, with its unusual lack of perspicacity, must needs celebrate with fireworks and jollity the advent of the incoming year, which is also one less in which the present generation can flaunt and display its folly.

"Well, little one," I said, finally, "it's about time to dress for dinner. By the bye, I put a small box from Tiffany on your plate."

"You are a dear old boy," she said, putting her arms around my neck.—

I drew her down by my side and kept smoking, while she leaned her head confidingly and sorrowfully on my shoulder.

A carriage dashed up to the house and I heard a pause and the hall door slam.

"Mr. Cameron," announced Harris.

As Sue had started up and I was sitting in shadow, Herbert Cameron evidently failed to perceive me.

"Did you believe it possible," he said, agitatedly and in a pleading voice, leaning forward with outstretched arms, "that I could write such a letter to anyone but you? To anyone but the dearest and loveliest woman—"

"Ahem!" I interposed, rising and coming forward. "Good-evning, Cameron; glad to see you. Wish you a happy New Year. Hope you understood Susan's slight mistake in opening Miss Morrison's note."

"Hush, man! Stop!" said Cameron, nearly shaking my arm off. "I wrote that to Miss Waring. Of course you know that by an absurd mistake I put it in an envelope addressed to Miss Morrison, instead of the card, I was sending her with a box of candy."

"Oh," I said, endeavoring to extricate my crushed and aching fingers. "Then—"

"Yes," said Cameron, in a low tone, and without releasing me. "Ask her, old fellow, to glorify this New Year for me! Ask her—"

"All right," I hastily interposed, extricating what was left of my hand and hastily retreating toward the door. "Ask her yourself. I have no earthly objection to it."—N. O. Times-Democrat.

PASSING AWAY.

A Few Thoughts at the Close of the Year.

The year is dying in the night. It was but a little while ago that we took a stranger by the hand and gave him hearty welcome at the threshold, as a parting guest left us who should not return our way again. And now the sometime stranger has become a familiar, and he, too, passes out, and we shall see him no more. It carries with it nothing of sentimentality, but of a true and lofty sentiment instead, that we should take account of these years as they pass, and consider where they found us, and where they have left us. Astronomy would not perhaps be thought to hold close relation to the mood or to the religious life; but it is the astronomical feature of the year that gives it its most marked characteristic, and enables us to appropriate a wholesome lesson. For as it is to the position which the Creator has given this whirling world of ours in its orbit that we owe the charms and the changes of the seasons, which serve to mark the movement of the hands on the dial face of the year—now from sunlight to shadow, and again from withered leaves and cold and snow to the bloom, the radiance and warmth of summer—so it is, by these ever-varying changes we mark the progress of the year; and it is by the recurrence of a particular one, as that of the winter solstice, that we note the completion of another cycle. We look out during the day, and we see snow and sleet and hail and torrences on wood and field, which but a few weeks ago were clothed in verdure or decked with the beauty of the lilies. We look up to the heavens at night, and we miss the familiar constellations that greeted our eyes but a little while ago, and instead we see Orion, who comes with the cold and goes with it, puncturing the west with his spear, while Sirius flashes upon the glistening earth the light of a blazing sun a thousandfold brighter than our own. As we note these and other changes we are also to realize, as otherwise we should not, that another year has passed, and that we are brought so much nearer the gates of eternity. It is but natural, too, at this time that tender memories of other days should come before us, and that we should think how one by one our friends have passed away—it seems so long ago!—and left us desolate. But to those of advanced years there is great compensation in the thought that every recurring year brings us nearer to them, brings us nearer the end of our journey. The way has been hard and weary at times, and as the loved ones have fallen by the way it has become lonely traveling. But it will not be long now; some day not distant the gate will swing open for us, and then what a meeting that will be! Nor should we lament the swift flying years. Well has the poet said:

"Has even gives our years of fading strength
Indemnifying fleetness,
And those of youth a seeming length
Proportioned to their sweetness."

The young may well rejoice at the passing away of the old year and the ushering in of the new with all its possibilities; but the Christian of mature years is content, if he does not as spontaneously rejoice, that it brings him out of the storm into the calm, from out the shadows of earth into the radiance of eternity.—Christian Work.

Good-By, Old Year!

Ah, dear old year, I haven't been
So very good to you.
I promised—oh, so many things
That I would surely do,

When you should come, and here you've been
Twelve months—it seems like more;
And I'm no better than I was
Last year or year before!

But kiss me quick—the New Year waits,
How good you are to say,
That if I'll truly be to her,
Good every single day

Last year won't count). Well, take my hand,
I truly mean to try.
She's calling me to come with her—
Good-by, Old Year, good-by!
—Ellen Knight Bradford, in Washington Home Magazine.

A Turned Leaf.

What is written is written. The old year we cannot recall. That leaf in the book of our life is turned; it is closed; we may not change or erase a single mark. Regret over its blots; spots is all in vain. But a new year opens to us a fair, clean page on which we may write what we list. Think you it will look a year hence as this one does we have just closed?—Golden Rule.

Quite in Order.

How natural, if not necessary, to make New Year's resolutions of economy just after the experiences of the Christmas season.

SECRETARY GAGE'S BILL.

Republican Double Dealing with the People.

A press dispatch of December 16 says that Secretary Gage, in explaining the bill he presented to the committee on banking and currency, said:

"The objects I have in mind in the series of provisions offered by me are four in number:

"1. To commit the country more thoroughly to the gold standard; remove, so far as possible, doubts and fears on that point, and thus strengthen the credit of the United States, both at home and abroad.

"2. To strengthen the treasury in relation to its demand liabilities, in which are included greenbacks, treasury notes, and the incidental obligations to maintain on a parity, through interchangeability with gold, so far as may be necessary, the present large volume of silver certificates and silver dollars.

"3. To do this in such a way as not to contract the volume of circulation in the hands of the people.

"4. To take an initial step toward a system of bank note issues without direct or conditional deposit of public bonds as security therefor."

We are further informed that the committee has reported the bill as thus prepared, practically without change. It will be noticed that Mr. Gage says it is the purpose of the bill to "commit the country the more thoroughly to the gold standard."

There is no doubt but that tens of thousands of republicans voted for Mr. McKinley believing that he was at heart opposed to the gold standard and favorable to bimetallism. And now at the first opportunity his secretary of the treasury proposes to "commit the country the more thoroughly to the gold standard;" and a republican committee in accord with the McKinley administration approves of and reports such a bill.

All hypocrisy is thrown off! In power, there is no longer any necessity for practicing further deception, and the country is to be driven harder and harder upon the shoals of adversity. The people, bonded to the money dealers by taxation and other onerous obligations for untold millions of public and private indebtedness, are to be placed "more thoroughly than ever upon the gold standard."

What will the republicans who believe in bimetallism and an American policy think of this administration which they assisted in voting into power? Assisted because they believed Mr. McKinley at heart was a bimetallist? They are men of honor and cannot afford to follow the McKinley administration. They are men of strong convictions, and should be prompt in repudiating the leaders who have sold out their party to the money power.

Each step the republican party has made on the gold standard when before the people has been taken by a flagrant attempt to deceive the people. For years they protested that the gold standard was the farthest from their intention, and Mr. McKinley himself arraigned Mr. Cleveland for unjust prejudice and discrimination against silver. Those who know of the trait of the demagogue in a class of politicians and the designs of the money power knew what was to be expected and pleaded with the patriotic republicans to go with the Chicago convention, that had taken up the cause of Lincoln and Jackson and Jefferson against despots whose purpose, or the natural consequence of whose action is, to enslave the American people.

The time has now arrived when the men of the spirit of Lincoln are banding together to save their country from "white slavery," to save themselves and their children from being sold into bondage; and there is no time to be lost in throwing partisanship to the winds, as their forefathers did in 1856 and in 1860. A nation is in peril! The cause of freedom is at stake!

The collection of taxes under the gold standard to pay interest upon the municipal, county, school, state and national bonds held by the money changers—men of Mr. Gage's class—means the perpetual servitude of the people. It means that they are delivered into bondage! It means, should they approve of Mr. Gage's proposition, that they have placed manacles upon their own limbs!

W. H. HARVEY.

——Secretary Sherman talked so bravely a few weeks ago against the growing power and multiplying evils of trusts that the people were led to hope the subject would receive earnest attention from the nation's chief magistrate in his first exhaustive state paper. The president's failure, therefore, to take any notice of this vitally important matter can be accounted for only on the hypothesis that he did not choose to expose his party to the reproaches and enmity of the beneficiaries of the trusts.—St. Louis Republic.

——It is becoming more and more evident every day that the home cannot economically consume the output of our leading lines of production if worked to their full capacity; we find certain prosperity now in those industries where a hold has been secured in foreign markets to supplement the domestic demand, and when such outlet has not been secured the problem of overproduction is being struggled with.—Manchester (N. H.) Union.

——The appearance of an American firm in foreign competition is disquieting. It is a symptom, and not the first, that our much-protected manufacturers have outgrown the home market and must look to foreign markets to absorb their products. The new foe to Dingleyism is the American manufacturer, who will be forced to run his mills on half time if he cannot have free access to foreign markets.—Chicago Chronicle.

——The cut in wages of New England cotton factory employes is not pretended to be due to foreign competition or tariff. It is a permanent reduction made as a New Year's gift to the workingmen who were simple enough to believe that voting for McKinley would make them more prosperous. The same thing happened in many industries after the passage of the McKinley tariff.—Kansas City Times.

THE COST OF SILVER.

A Puerile Attack by a Goldbug Sophist.

Edward Atkinson declares that the silver issue is dead and then straightway sends out a 20-page pamphlet to 40 newspapers in 40 states for the purpose of helping to kill it again. He imagines that he has dealt it a terrific blow, in demonstrating (to his own satisfaction) that two of the best silver mines in the world have been able to produce silver at a cost of from 25 to 45 cents an ounce. He does not attempt to give the cost of production by the multitude of other and less profitable mines in the world. In fact he says: "There is no method of determining what are the conditions in other mines in this country," and again: "It is impossible for a private person to get the data necessary to the solution of this problem, either in regard to the great mines of Mexico, South America or any other silver producing country, except New South Wales."

He acknowledges that he knows nothing of the thousands of sources of silver production, except of two mines, one in the United States and one in New South Wales. His evident intention is to start the cry of low cost of producing silver bullion. He is more than willing that the sophistry should be used as a bludgeon in the hands of the gold standard men. Not a word does he say about the silver mines that are closed because the price of silver is below the cost of production; not a word about the mines that bankrupted themselves producing silver at a great loss in hopes that the price would improve.

His estimate is worth about as much as would be an estimate on the average cost of raising wheat based on the largest acre yield in a state. The average yield per acre of corn last year was 24.2 bushels. Yet a man in Illinois this last season raised 166 bushels on an acre. Figured on the latter yield, the cost per bushel of raising corn would have been very small, and every farmer could have made a profit on ten cents corn. But the absurdity of both estimates is apparent.

But, after all, the cost of producing a thing has no bearing whatever on its market value. This is regulated entirely by the quantity obtainable and by its use. We call this principle "the law of supply and demand." It really makes no difference whether silver costs 25 cents an ounce or nothing. Its value will depend on its quantity and use.

Mr. Atkinson seems to be figuring out that silver is cheaper than 25 years ago because it can be produced at less cost. Apply the same rule to gold: gold can be produced at a less cost than it could be 25 years ago, and, according to the reasoning of Mr. Atkinson, should be worth less in the products of the world. But gold is more valuable than ever.

That the cost of production does not regulate price is shown by many articles of commerce. Ambergris is a very valuable substance, single lumps of it being sold for fortunes. Yet it is largely a fiud. It is valuable as it is scarce. If it were priced according to its cost, it would sell for about nothing. The writings of some men have a high market value simply because there is a demand for them that exhausts the supply. And that is all there is to the silver question. Allow it its legitimate use and the demand will exhaust the supply. Pass a law prohibiting any certain newspaper from using the mails and see whether you cannot legislate value out of anything. You have not lessened the cost of producing the newspaper, but you have interfered with its use and lessened the value of it as a property.

This latest attack on silver by Mr Atkinson is puerile. It is all based on the assumed lessened cost of producing silver. His argument applies equally as well to gold as to silver.

If the low price of silver were due to the low cost of production, then the value of gold would have fallen in the same proportion, due to low cost of producing gold, and both metals would still be near their old par of sixteen to one. That silver has fallen in value and gold risen proves the fallacy of Mr. Atkinson's argument.

H. F. THURSTON.

PRESS COMMENTS.

——To shut out unworthy immigration would be to cut off the republican party from its base of recruits.—Kansas City Times.

——No wonder Hanna is threatened with heart failure. Who, with his obligations to the country, would not palpitate every time he thought of the Dingley deficit?—St. Louis Republic.

——Mr. Hanna continues to look the Ohio legislature over every now and then with the air of a man who suspects the possibility of finding a few toadstools among the mushrooms.—Washington Star.

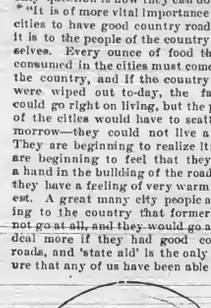
——The republican congress has agreed "not to disturb the Dingley bill." Certainly not! The problem is to find some way of preventing the Dingley bill from disturbing the republican congress.—N. Y. World.

——"We must teach the farmer to think," declares one of the officials of the agricultural department. He will be performing a greater service to the present administration if he will but impart to the farmer the art of forgetting.—N. Y. Journal.

——The president is merely making a cat's paw of Mr. Gage, who, having very little knowledge of public affairs, is asking congress to do what manifestly congress has no intention of doing. The president will repudiate Gage or he will sustain Gage accordingly as McKinley is as a politician to be advantaged or disadvantaged by the performance.—Chicago Chronicle.

——One of the first and most striking features of republican prosperity is the inauguration of pauper wages among American workingmen. We have heard a good deal first and last about the pauper wages of Europe, but before the end of Mr. McKinley's administration we shall see them fastened on the wage-earners of the country in every sphere of labor.—Atlanta Constitution.

AGRICULTURAL HINTS



STATE AID FOR ROADS.

The Important Subject Interestingly Treated by Gen. Stone.

The subject of state aid for road building was touched on by Gen. Stone in his address at the annual convention of the National Road parliament. He said:

"The provision of state aid is the only possible method by which the state and the corporate property of the cities can aid in the building of roads. Throughout the United States the cities and corporations, so far as I know, are quite willing to help, and the only question is how they can do it.

"It is of more vital importance to the cities to have good country roads than it is to the people of the country themselves. Every ounce of food that is consumed in the cities must come from the country, and if the country roads were wiped out to-day, the farmers could go right on living, but the people of the cities would have to scatter to-morrow—they could not live a day. They are beginning to realize it; they are beginning to feel that they want a hand in the building of the roads, and they have a feeling of very warm interest. A great many city people are going to the country that formerly did not go at all, and they would go a great deal more if they had good country roads, and 'state aid' is the only measure that any of us have been able to de-

BAD WISCONSIN ROAD.
(Located Between Winneconne and Ponsippi.)

vise by which city and corporate property can aid in the development of the country roads.

"I was interested in what one gentleman said the other morning, that in his own township, his village and his bank paid three-fourths of the township tax, and that was a fair contribution. That was unquestionably fair so far as his township was concerned, but how about the next township that has no village and no bank? We must look beyond our own immediate neighborhood; we must cultivate a wider citizenship, and that feeling of wider citizenship is growing—a feeling that the favored localities must help those not so favored.

"I am glad to say that the actual possession of good roads, wherever I have known it, has had a great effect in developing that kinder feeling and broader citizenship. It has been a marked fact in New Jersey that the localities which have taxed themselves to get good roads are the first to vote to give state aid to the localities that have not good roads. Many men say: 'We see the benefits of it; we have the benefits of it, and we can afford to help our neighbors enjoy it.' And you will find that the movement for state aid, wherever it goes, will help to develop a broader citizenship.

"I hope that some time federal aid will broaden it still more. I hope that the people of the United States, in the more favored regions, will feel disposed, as they get the benefit of good roads themselves, to help confer those benefits upon the regions that have not the advantages. I believe that every step taken, every judicious step taken towards bringing about the aid of the federal government towards general road improvement will help to develop that feeling all through the United States; that we have got to consider something beyond our own neighborhoods—beyond our own counties and beyond our own states. We have got to look over the whole field of the United States and see what the general government can do to help the people who need this kind of help everywhere."

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

The peach will thrive best grafted on plum stock.

Root pruning is one way of dwarfing fruit trees.

Few kinds of fruit are easier grown than the cherry.

Mulch the strawberries as soon as the ground freezes.

Black knot is a fungus growth. Cut off and burn all affected branches.

Orchard grass and clover are good for seeding down an orchard.

Red raspberries are the sweetest. The plants increase by suckers or sprints.

An orchard should never be plowed deep on account of the injury to the roots of the trees.

There is nothing that will tend to the development of roots as bone and ashes mixed with muck.

That a tree does not bear a good crop of fruit every year is not an indication that it is diseased.

To prevent sheep from gnawing trees apply a wash of whale oil, soap, sheep droppings and lime.

Thoroughly whitewashing the trunks of trees destroys lichens, insects and pests that live on the bark.

One advantage of rolling ground as a location for the orchard is that it gives a better circulation of air.

Set each tree with care, placing it in rich soil, and packing fine, mellow soil thoroughly in around the roots.

The quince is one of the best shipping fruits that can be grown. It is easily propagated by cutting. — St. Louis Republic.

DON'T KILL THE TOADS.

They Are Valuable Friends to the Gardener and Fruit Grower.

Bulletin 46 of the Hatch (Mass.) station says the toad lives ten to forty years, does not begin to raise young till the fourth year, but then lays over 1,000 eggs a year. It has lived two years without food, but cannot live long under water. It never takes dead or motionless food. It takes its food by means of its tongue alone, and it operates this so rapidly that the eye cannot follow its motions. It catches and devours bees, wasps, yellow jackets, ants, beetles, worms, spiders, snails, bugs, grasshoppers, crickets, weevils, caterpillars, moths, etc. The station examined with a microscope the contents of the stomachs of seven toads in April, five in May, 36 in in June, 26 in July, four in August and seven in September, 120 in all. On an average it was found that 80 per cent. of the toad's food consists of harmful insects, and 11 per cent. was of such beneficial insects as bees, spiders, lady bugs, etc. The stomach that doesn't flinch at yellow jackets, wasps, blister beetles and click beetles or pinch bugs, would seem to be prepared for anything in the bug line, and it doubtless is. The quantity of food that a toad's stomach can accommodate is remarkable. In one were found 77 myriapods, in another 55 army worms, in another 15 gypsy moth caterpillars, in another nine ants, six cut worms, five myriapods, six sow bugs, one weevil and one wire worm beetle. In 24 hours the toad consumes enough food to fill its stomach four times. Feeding at the rate above mentioned a single toad will in three months devour over 10,000 insects. If every ten of these would have done one cent damage, the toad would have saved ten dollars. Evidently the toad is a valuable friend of the farmer, gardener and fruit grower, and can be made especially useful in greenhouse, garden and berry patch.

PLANTING FRUIT TREES.

Be Sure to Cut Off All Injured or Defective Roots.

When planting a tree, cut off all injured or defective roots. If unevenly rooted, or roots all on one side, an incision in or through the bark will greatly accelerate root growth, by starting new roots. Avoid top mutilation when planting, and at all other times. The only occasion for cutting a tree is to prevent forks. Thinning the branches will prevent this. Foliage is essential to root development. Good tops are better than good roots. When transplanting I care little whether a tree has roots at all when planting. It must have a top. I will supply the roots. How? By giving it a good top. Nurserymen have long instructed their patrons to conform the top to match the roots. Bah! There never was a greater mistake. More than 20 years ago, in root-grafting apples, I experimented with scions of water sprouts four or five feet long on bits of roots not over an inch in length. They grew readily. The roots of a tree are only necessary to start growth and hold the tree in an upright position until roots are formed. The last apple orchard I planted the trees were the large, overgrown ones that were unsalable. They were four years old and so large that two men were necessary to handle. They were carried from the nursery and roots closely trimmed. Not a branch of the top was touched with saw or knife. This was in 1880. In 1890 these trees bore an immense crop, and being sold on the trees, were guessed by the purchasers at two barrels of marketable fruit per tree.—Western Fruit Grower.

PROTECTION FOR TREES.

An Effective Guard Which Costs But a Few Cents.

There are few farms where some such device as the one portrayed herewith may not be of great value. It is cheap, yet effective in its purpose; can be used for large trees and shrubs, as well as for smaller ones. Where a valuable tree or shrub is in danger from rabbits, this guard will protect it. In many localities it is almost indispensable in the winter, as it serves the tree from being broken by snow and ice and during the summer animals will not molest it. This is also an effective method for covering many half-hardy shrubs or young trees which cannot be bent down to the ground. By surrounding the tree with straw and keeping it in place by such a device, very good results will generally be obtained. No description or instructions as to its construction are necessary, as it speaks for itself. Care should be taken when used in the summer that the air and sun are not excluded.—Farm and Home.

PROTECTION FOR TENDER SHRUBS.

A Practical Road Lesson.

Towns in South Carolina, located near to the state line and not far from Charlotte, N. C., have lost much trade of late, as the farmers prefer to haul over the good roads into another state in preference to using the poor roads of their own state. This experience has been instrumental in inaugurating a movement for good roads in South Carolina

THANK-YOU BARBERS.

A New Style of Tonsorial Torture Turned Out by a Barber's School.

A barber shop is the ugliest big office building south of Canal street has been graduating "tonsorial artists" for the past two years who are equipped to make life miserable for such unfortunates as happen to fall into their clutches. The proprietor of the shop is an Italian who has formulated a code of tonsorial ethics from yellow journalism. It is his pride to do the proper thing, and whenever he is in doubt as to what is the proper thing under given circumstances he writes a letter to his particular yellow journal explaining the case and asking for advice. The paper's expert on demotology has answered several of his letters in the best "in-polite-society-don't-put-your-knife-in-your-mouth style. There is little left for him to learn, and he spends much of his time teaching his barbers. It doesn't matter which one of his "tonsorial artists" falls to the victim's lot, the conversation is always the same:

"Shave, sir?"

"Yes."

"Thank you, sir. Close shave?"

"Yes."

"Thank you, sir. Does the razor suit you?"

"Yes."

"Thank you, sir. Your skin is a little rough."

"Yes."

"Thank you, sir. Wouldn't you like to try a little of our skin tonic?"

"No."

"Thank you, sir. It's only 50 cents a bottle."

"No," wearily.

"Thank you, sir. I notice that you have a few gray hairs."

"Yes."

"Thank you, sir. Wouldn't you like to try a little of our hair dye?"

"No."

"Thank you, sir. It's only 20 cents extra."

"No!" angrily.

"Thank you, sir. Am I shaving you as you wish?"

"No."

"Thank you, sir. Your skin is so tender that it is hard to shave you. Hot towel?"

"No."

"Thank you, sir."

Then comes a pause and the barber begins again:

"Dandruff in your hair, sir."

"Yes."

"Thank you, sir. We have a very good remedy for—"

"No!" emphatically.

"Thank you, sir—for dandruff, and it's only 50 cents a bottle."

"No."

"Thank you, sir. Hair parted at side?"

"No."

"Thank you, sir;" and so it goes until the tortured victim slides out of the chair and rushes for the door without tipping his tormentor, but not before the latter has time to get in a final and reproachful "thank you."

Several of the downtown shops now have graduates from this barber shop, and everyone of them may be distinguished by the thank-you habit. A man who has been badly shaved by one of them and irritated by his constant chatter sat up in the chair and said:

"You confounded, impertinent idiot, stop your chattering, and don't say 'thank you' to me again, for I'm not going to tip you."

"Thank you, sir," replied the barber.

"No, sir."

Then the yellow journal's authority on tonsorial ethics comes to the rescue with a paragraph of advice, some of these thank-you barbers are likely to furnish coroners' cases.—N. Y. Sun.

SEALSKINS.

They Are as Popular as Ever, But Scarcer.

"Sealskins will be worn this year as much as ever. It's the late season that has kept them back," said a prominent fur dealer recently. "It's not that that prices are high. On the contrary they are not, even though the catch this year was not half the usual one. Prices will be higher, though, I think, later in the winter, and as for the style of coat, the blouse, which is the fashion this year, the sealskin can be made to conform with this style as easily as any other. It has to fit closely in the back, but the front can be made full, and for that reason the new fashion of small sleeves and short lengths of coat will make sealskin coats cheaper than last year.

"The fashionable Persian lamb and the broad tail are just now the fashion, the latter preeminently so, but the sealskin will be as popular as ever later."

"The renson," said another dealer, "that you don't see so many sealskins as you did ten and twelve years ago is simply because other skins unknown then have come into use. Twelve years ago the various skins of marten, Persian and broad tail, the skin of unborn lamb, were practically unknown. Seal has since then had to divide the laurels with other skins, but they will never disappear as long as seals are killed. Once every woman had to wear cloth or sealskin; now they can choose between half a dozen, and the seal suffers. That's the whole story."—Philadelphia Times.

High Lights.

Protect us from our friends; we can generally manage to collect from our enemies.

All women are matchmakers; some from sheer happiness, others from a desire for revenge.

If a clergyman marries a wife with large feet the women of his flock quit giving him embroidered slippers.

Girls are always useful or ornamental; the useful ones would like to be ornamental, but the ornamental ones never worry about not being useful.—Chicago Record.

—Everything has its drawbacks. Even watermelons have seeds in them. —Washington Democrat.

ON THE STAGE.

Eleanora Duse will give a series of performances at Monte Carlo during the winter.

"The Cat and the Cherub" will soon be presented in Paris.

Joseph Jefferson sent a fine dog of immaculate pedigree to his friend, Nat Goodwin. It is a dog that Mr. Goodwin had been coveting for weeks.

Herbert Kelcey has purchased a new play by Clyde Fitch upon the lines of "Jim the Penman." It will be produced this season.

Yvette Guilbert has been offered 4,000 francs ($800) a week to appear in Germany, and has accepted. She has refused before for fear of press criticism, but since Rejane has broken the ice the difficulty is removed.

The latest crusade, since big hats have been successfully fought in the theaters of this country, is against late-comers. Minnie Maddern Fiske has sounded the war alarm and has instructed the ushers when she plays to permit no one to come down the aisle after the curtain has risen till the close of the act.

Paris is beginning to grow tired of Cleo de Merode, whose failure in New York is still being commented on. She has been exploited so highly and done so very little that her name is already beginning to wear out. The reviews at the concert halls are beginning to burlesque the young lady, and probably end the whole affair.

Mme. Bernhardt is about to [illegible] experiment. A new social piece entitled "Les Mauvais Bergers," by Mme. Mirbeau, has been read to her and accepted, in which the directress of the Renaissance will not appear until the third act. The actress is anxious, it is said, to disprove the oft-repeated charge that she dwarfs her cast, and also the illusion [illegible] long role is needful for such [illegible]

THOUGHTS ON MARRIAGE.

Married in haste we repent at leisure. —Congreve.

Humble wedlock is far better than proud virginity.—Augustine.

A husband is a plaster that cures all the ills of girlhood.—Moliere.

Men marry to make an end, women to make a beginning.—A. Dupuy.

A man finds himself seven years older the day after his marriage.—Bacon.

No man can either live plously or die righteously without a wife.—Richter.

Take not too short a time to make a world-wide bargain in.—Shakespeare.

Never marry but for love, but see that thou lovest what is lovely.—Penn.

For any man to match above his rank is but to sell his liberty.—Massinger.

A person's character is but half formed till after wedlock.—C. Simmons.

Wedlock's like wine, not properly judged of till the second glass.—Jerrold.

It is in vain that a man is born fortunate if he be unfortunate in his marriage.—Dacier.

Men should keep their eyes wide open before marriage and half shut afterward.—Mme. Seuderi.

Fathers their children and themselves abuse, that wealth a husband for their daughters choose.—Shirley.

Marriage with a good woman is a harbor in the tempests of life; with a bad woman it is a tempest in a harbor.—J. P. Senn.

As the husband is the wife is; if mated with a clown, the grossness of his nature will have weight to drag thee down.—Tennyson.

The kindest and happiest pair will find occasion to forbear, and something every day they live to pity and perhaps forgive.—Cowper.

BOOKS AND WRITERS.

The "New Letters of Napoleon I.," to be published shortly by D. Appleton & Co., will be awaited with much interest. An English critic remarks that "the most authentic likeness is that drawn by Napoleon's own hand."

A book written by a former judge of the imperial court, Herr Otto Mittelstaedt, entitled, "Before the Flood," has created a sensation in Berlin. It criticises in detail the political development of Germany under the present emperor, and uses vigorous language in condemning his majesty's meddling in every sphere of the government.

THE MARKETS.

	CINCINNATI, Dec. 27.
LIVE STOCK—Cattle, common	$ 2 75	@ $ 3 65
Select butchers	3 90	@ 4 25
CALVES—Fair to good light	6 00	@ 7 00
HOGS—Common	2 85	@ 3 35
Mixed packers	3 25	@ 3 35
Light shippers	3 30	@ 3 40
SHEEP—Choice	4 00	@ 4 35
LAMBS—Good to choice	5 00	@ 5 40
FLOUR—Winter family	3 55	@ 3 80
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 94
No. 3 red		@ 91½
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 24½
Oats—No. 2		@ 24½
Rye—No. 2		@ 47
HAY—Prime to choice	9 25	@ 9 50
PROVISIONS—Mess pork		@ 8 75
Lard—Prime Steam		@ 4 50
BUTTER—Choice Dairy	11	@ 13
Prime to choice creamery		@ 22
APPLES—Per bbl	3 25	@ 3 75
POTATOES—Per bbl	2 00	@ 2 25
	CHICAGO.
FLOUR—Winter patents	$ 4 70	@ $ 4 80
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 99½
No. 2 Chicago spring	88½	@ 89¾
CORN—No. 2		@ 37
OATS—No. 2		@ 24
PORK—Mess	7 70	@ 7 75
LARD—Steam	$ 57½	@ $ 4 00
	NEW YORK.
FLOUR—Winter patent	$ 4 80	@ $ 5 10
No. 2 red		@ 1 01¾
CORN—No. 2 mixed		@ 34½
RYE		@ 49½
OATS—Mixed	27½	@ 28
PORK—New mess	$ 25	@ $ 0 00
LARD—Western		@ $ 82½
	BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	$ 40	@ $ 4 65
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	97¾	@ 98
Southern—Wheat	93	@ 98¾
Corn—Mixed	34½	@ 35¾
Oats—No. 2 white	29	@ 29¾
Rye—No. 2 western	52¾	@ 53½
CATTLE—Fair quality	$ 50	@ $ 4 70
HOGS—Western		@ $ 4 00
	INDIANAPOLIS.
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@ 92½
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 25
Oats—No. 2 mixed		@ 22
	LOUISVILLE.
FLOUR—Winter patent	$ 3 75	@ $ 4 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 94
Corn—Mixed		@ 29½
Oats—Mixed		@ 25
PORK—Mess		@ $ 8 50
LARD—Steam		@ $ 3 75½

There Is a Class of People.

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over ¼ as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

Power of Portrayal.

"Why, man, I've had whole audiences fall to their knees in terror at my description of the day of judgment." The other examiner smiled pityingly. "Ah, yes," he replied. "But the other night I portrayed the destruction of the world with such power that a man came up after the services and asked me whom he should see about the kinetoscope rights."—Detroit Journal.

Notice to the Public.

All Central Passenger Association 1,000-mile tickets, without restrictions as to date of sale, and also regardless of the fact as to whether the Cleveland, Akron & Columbus Railway Company's name appears on the same or not, are accepted at present for tickets to points on and via the Cleveland, Akron & Columbus Railway Company. The traveling public will please note. C. F. Daly, General Passenger Agent.

The utility of life is not in its extent; it is in the employment of it. A man may live long and live little.—Montaigne.

Tourist Sleeping Cars.

Commencing with the excursion of Dec. 7th, the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Ry. has inaugurated a system of Tourist Sleepers on their excursion dates between St. Louis or Kansas City and South Texas points. For information address H. F. Bowsher, 435 Walnut St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A good thing gets a little better every day; a poor thing, a little worse.—Atchison Globe.

Crutches and cruel pain from Sciatica. From St. Jacobs Oil the cure of it.

The only thing you own after you die is what you have given away.—Farm Journal.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the city of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of One Hundred Dollars for each and every case of catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. A. W. GLEASON,
(Seal) Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Speaks with Authority.

"Depend upon it, where there's smoke there's fire."

"Why do you say that?"

"I've proved it. It was against the rules to smoke in our office. I smoked, and was fired."—Philadelphia North American.

Check Colds and Bronchitis with Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar.
Pike's Toothache Drops Cure in one minute.

The under dog in the fight may be right, but the upper dog doesn't care a snap if he is.—Chicago News.

Piso's Cure is a wonderful Cough medicine.—Mrs. W. Pickert, Van Sicien and Blake Aves., Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 26, '94.

Nothing makes a worthless husband object to divorce as quickly as a decree for alimony.—Washington Democrat.

Better times come to all cured of aches And pains by St. Jacobs Oil.

The absence of soft water is some men's excuse for drinking hard.—Chicago News.

Time counts, health gains. A quick, sure Cure—St. Jacobs Oil for sprains.

When a man begins to move others, he is generally called a "crank."—Ram's Horn.

For Croup,

asthma, bronchitis, or whooping cough, there is no remedy so sure and safe as Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. From the first dose its healing influence is manifest. The sufferer who has been kept awake by the cough falls into a refreshing sleep, and awakes strong and refreshed. Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is acknowledged to be a specific for all pulmonary complaints. Physicians praise and prescribe it. This standard remedy for coughs, colds, and all diseases of the throat and lungs, is now put up in half size bottles at half price, 50c.

"One of my children had croup. One night I was startled by the child's hard breathing, and on going to it found it strangling. It had nearly ceased to breath. Having a part of a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in the house, I gave the child three doses at short intervals, and anxiously waited results. From the moment the Pectoral was given the child's breathing grew easier, and in a short time it was sleeping quietly and breathing naturally. The child is alive and well to-day, and I do not hesitate to say that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved its life."
C. J. WOOLDRIGE, Wortham, Tex.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

PAINT YOUR OWN WALLS and CEILINGS.

MURALO WATER COLOR PAINTS

FOR DECORATING WALLS AND CEILINGS Purchase a package of CALCIMO from your grocer or paint dealer and do your own kalsomining. This material is made on scientific principles by machinery and milled in twenty-four tints and is superior to any concoction of lime and whiting that can possibly be made by hand. TO BE MIXED WITH COLD WATER.

If you want something extra, buy some MURALO from the same dealer. This material is a HARD FINISH to be applied with a brush and becomes as hard as Cement. Milled in twenty-four tints and works equally as well with cold or hot water. ☞ Send for sample cards and if you cannot purchase this material from your local dealers let us know and we will put you in the way of obtaining it.

THE MURALO CO., NEW BRIGHTON, S. I., NEW YORK.

N. B.—The attention of the trade is called to the fact that a man by the name of Church goes through the country trying to intimidate purchasers of our material by telling them that our paints are an infringement on his material, which he calls "Alabastine." We are advised by our patent counsel that his material which he sold under the name of "Alabastine" is an infringement upon ours. We have invited Mr. Church to support his contention by suit against us and have volunteered to accept service of any papers he wishes to serve on us to save him trouble, that his pretended rights may be tested in the courts. The Alabastine Co. has not replied to our letter, but has published an advertisement, which covers, under the circumstances, we believe will be condemned by all reputable dealers.

"DON'T HIDE YOUR LIGHT UNDER A BUSHEL," THAT'S JUST WHY WE TALK ABOUT

SAPOLIO

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask you Grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it, like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15 cents and 25 cents per package. Sold by all grocers.

Tastes like Coffee
Looks like Coffee

Insist that your grocer gives you GRAIN-O
Accept no imitation.

READ

during the winter months about the farm lands of Nebraska, Iowa and Missouri. POST YOURSELF how to get a cheap home in a prosperous, healthy community. The "Corn Belt," a monthly paper, handsomely illustrated, is full of information concerning western farm lands. Send 25 cents for a year's subscription to "The Corn Belt," 209 Adams Street, Chicago.

"Tell Mother, I'll Be There,"

(Pres't McKinley's Message to his dying Mother.")
LATEST POPULAR SONG—Agents Wanted. Price per Piece, 30c. Stamps taken. W. W. McCALLIP, Columbus, O., Author and Publisher.

WINCHESTER GUN CATALOGUE FREE

SEND YOUR NAME ON A POSTAL CARD AND WE WILL SEND YOU OUR 156 PAGE ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE

WINCHESTER REPEATING ARMS CO.
150 WINCHESTER AVE., NEW HAVEN, CONN.

Seattle Klondike Alaska

FREE INFORMATION BY SEATTLE, WASH., CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BUREAU.

Seattle, Klondike, Alaska, Washington State. Seattle, 60,000 population. Railroad, Commercial, Mining and Agricultural Centre. BEST OUTFITTING POINT. Nearest to Klondike. Largest City, Safest Routes. Address SECRETARY.

HOME STUDY PAYS. Shorthand, Bookkeeping, Penmanship, etc., taught by mail. Expense low. Positions when competent. Write for catalogue. American Correspondence College, Biddeford, Me.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

A. N. K.—E 1689

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please state that you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BOONE : COUNTY : RECORDER

Wednesday, Dec., 29, 1897.

Rates of Subscription:

One year..... $1 50.
Six months..... 75.
Three months..... 40.

☞Payable invariably in advance.

THE RECORDER

SOLICITS YOUR

Job Work,

NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
SALE BILLS,
AND HOSE BILLS,

Printed at the Lowest Prices consistent with neat work.

Send your order by mail and it will be attended promptly.

STATE NEWS.

A. L. Hall, Jailer of Shelby county has resigned.

Montgomery county's turnpikes will all be free by January 1.

The $5,000 residence of Mrs. P. Megular in Mt. Sterling burned.

Thirty revivals are in progress in five counties in Western Kentucky.

Congressman from Kentucky will fight for two Federal court districts.

Rev. J. H. Spencer, a well-known Baptist minister, died at Eminence.

Green county has shipped more paw paws than any other Kentucky county.

Henry Taylor Palmer, colored, of Cynthiana, died, the other day, worth $75,000.

Anderson Brown, a colored man of Shelbyville, picked three turkeys in 10½ minutes.

Twenty families highly respected people of Harlan county have gone to Texas to locate.

C. T. West, of Nicholas county, has been appointed stamp Deputy Collector at Maysville.

The Fiscal Court at Lancaster has bought the roads running to Kirksville and Buckeye.

Greenberry Lewis, aged ninety-seven, died in Woodford county. He had used tobacco all his life.

A road contractor in Henderson county has been sued for damages for not working alleged bad county roads.

Walter Bronston and Len Cox will represent the Seventh District at the christening of the battle-ship Kentucky.

It is rumored that Chas. Prewitt, of Mt. Sterling, who started for the Klondyke gold region, was drowned in the Yukon.

Members of the Boyle Fiscal Court have been threatened with dynamite if they do not hurry the freeing of the roads.

The County Assessor at Versailles has finished the valuation of property in Woodford County. It shows a decrease of $500,000.

The outgoing Democratic Circuit Clerk, Skillman, of Breckinridge county, will have to refund $200 collected on fees to the State.

Thieves have been getting in their work in Washington county, and farmers are complaining of being robbed of various articles.

It is believed that it will take two trains to haul the visitors over the C. & O. to the launching of the battleship Kentucky, in January.

A special commissioner of the Department of Agriculture has gone to Europe to work up a demand for American horses for cavalry purposes.

Mr. J. M. Berry, a school teacher of Letcher county, and Miss Lillie Swindall rode horseback forty miles over the mountains to Pineville, where they were married.

In sending out commissions to newly elected Justices of the Peace it has been discovered at Frankfort that there are fourteen magistrates, in as many counties, named Alexander Whittaker.

Frazier Waterfield, of Calloway county, is the owner of some books which he prizes very highly. A Methodist discipline bears date of 1740, and an English reader something like the same date.

An old church in Hopkinsville has been transformed into a skating rink and religious people may see some significance in the fact that on the opening night one of the skaters fell and broke his arm.

Josiah Pence, of Nicholasville, has obtained a patent upon a seed gatherer. It is intended to gather seed on the stalks. It is drawn by horses and can at the will of the driver be instantly adjusted so as to gather high or low grasses or grain.

Ex-Senator Ed Parker, of London, who has just been awarded star route mail contracts aggregating $400,000, is preparing to go to the Klondyke in June. He was a bidder for the Klondyke route, but was defeated by the Pacific Navigation Company.

Near Powers postoffice, in Casey county, John Alstott shot and instantly killed his brother. Claud. The men are sons of J. F. Alstott, the well known old merchant at "Alstott Store," where he has been in business many years. The boys had been almost sworn enemies for two years.

Dan Haydes, of Breckinridge county, buried $2,930 in gold and some thief watched him and dug it up. Notwithstanding he is more than seventy years old, he is yet growing some wiser, and he, like many others, would do well to dismiss some of his prejudice against banks.—Hawesville Clarion.

There is a man living in this town who is seventy-two years old and never saw a railroad train or locomotive; never saw a city and never saw a steamboat in his life, and yet he lives close enough to the Cumberland river to hear the boats whistle. He never was farther from home than Columbia.—Tompkinsville News.

Ex-Senator Blackburn and Congressman John S. Rhea will be active elements of opposition at the opening of the Legislature here in January. Blackburn will probably remain throughout the session, Neither has formally announced his candidacy for Senator Lindsay's seat, but there seems no doubt that a fight along this line will be inaugurated early in the legislative session.

Mr. Pleas Chaudoin, living on Russel creek, in Green county, last week received the money on a check which had been given him nearly fifteen years ago. The check was given Mr. Chaudoin by the farmers' Tobacco Warehouse, of Louisville, in payment of his crop of tobacco and called for $170. In some manner the check was misplaced, and "Uncle Pleas" forgot all about it. Besides, he was a long ways from a bank, and no one in his neighborhood had enough money to cash the check, and "Uncle Pleas" thought he would not worry about the loss of the check until he got ready to go to town, when he would have the missing paper supplied by the firm. Time went on, and the check was forgotten, until about six months ago, in looking over some papers, he found the long-lost check and at once took it to the bank for collection. Some time was consumed in looking over the books of the Farmers' Warehouse, and in checking up their bank account, but it was found that the check had never been paid, and last week another check was sent Mr. Chaudoin by the big combine of which the Farmers' House is now a member, and the old check taken up. It goes without saying that "Uncle Pleas" got the last check cashed immediately.—Glasgow News.

A project has been advanced that is very good in some features. It is nothing more nor less than the holding of a National Corn Exposition in 1899 devoted to the cereal in all its manifold forms, including the new uses for the stalk. Of course a cooking school or "corn kitchen" is to be maintained in connection with this exposition. Then it is to be moved over to the Paris International Exposition in 1900 and afterward put on wheels and wheeled through the capitals of the World, so that the beuaties of cornbread can be taught and a better market secured for our crop.

CROP AND STOCK.

Cattle thieves are giving trouble to farmers in Hart county.

J. N. Camden, Jr., of Woodford, has refused thirteen cents for his crop of 30 acres of tobacco.

Over 100 horses died in Bates county, Mo., in the last month from eating dusty and wormy corn.

W. D. Watts, of Fayette county, sold 92 head of export cattle, averaging 1,420 pounds, at 4½ cents.

The agricultural experiment station will make a test to learn if Kentucky soil is suited to the cultivation of sugar beets.

Ben. H. Marshall, of Mason county, had a field of twenty-three acres that yielded 2,300 bushels of corn. It was of the yellow variety.

M. L. Rouse, of Fayette, sold 76 Poland China hogs, nine months old, that averaged 310 pounds. They were so much alike that it was difficult to tell one from another.

The tobacco growers in Fayette county are holding their tobacco for 20 cents. Leslie Combs, one of the largest tobacco producers of the world, is expecting to get 18 cents for this 100 acre crop.

Albert Futrell has more hogs and fatter hogs than any man in this county. He has a hog on his farm that weighs 80[illegible] gross; two taken together [illegible]; four pull down the scale at 2[illegible] and a number of others of nearly equal weight.

Pointed Paragraphs.

It is the torpid liver that usually have torpid liver.

The best way to make a slow horse fast is not to feed him.

It is the want of health that makes wealth—for the physician.

The presence of a neighbor's hog in your garden is the root of evil.

A stag party is known by the number of horns made to disappear from the board.

Some people use a jackass to draw a conveyance and others employ a lawyer.

Most people would be content with their lot if it was only a lot of money.

The funny man who falls from a high-grade wheel gets off a good thing.

The road to ruin is kept in good repair at the expense of the travelers thereon.

When a telephone girl breaks her engagement it is another case of "ring off."

When the right woman comes along she finds a man's heart-strings as easy to play on as a hand organ.

The world is full of men who are anxious to preserve the honor of their country at the polls—for a consideration.

Some men tell their wives everything that happens and there are some others who tell a great many things that never did happen.

Chairman Johnson, of the Democratic State Central Committee, has issued a call for separate caucuses of the Democratic members of the two Houses of the Legislature on the night of January 3. The Speakership will be the most interesting fight, with Beckham of Nelson, Trimble of Franklin and McQuot of McCracken entered and well bunched. Trimble is the first to open headquarters here, his rooms being presided over by Congressman Thomas J. Fitzpatrick, of Floyd County, who will manage Trimble's campaign. Mr. Fitzpatrick says Trimble will be backed by nearly the solid vote of Eastern Kentucky. It develops here tonight that a hot fight is to be made in the Senate against confirmation of Governor Bradley's Gold Democratic appointee, Dr. E, M. Wiley, who succeeded Dr. Scott as Superintendent of the Lexington asylum. Dr. Scott who was removed prior to the appointment of Wiley, is Governor Bradley's brother-in-law, and it is said that his Republican friends who are hot at the Governor will join with the Democrats in besting Wiley.—Frankfort special, December 25th.

THE retirement of South Trimble from the contest for the Speakship simplifies the situation at the capital somewhat.

FROM OWEN COUNTY.

[Herald.]

G. W. Whitlock, representing the North Western Life Insurance Co., has sued John Wood, prop. of the St. Nicholas hotel, this place, for $2,500 damages.

Mr. Whitlock, wife and child have been boarding at the St. Nicholas for several weeks, and the trouble between them occurred Sunday morning, at which time Whitlock and family were ordered to leave the hotel, which they did, taking rooms at the DuVal House.

The petition of the plaintiff, which was filed Monday in the Owen Circuit Court recites that the plaintiff's wife and child were guests at the hotel, and that he had always paid defendant the sum agreed upon and charged to him for board, and that the defendant without cause or excuse whatsoever willfully caused him, wife and child to leave the hotel, and that he prays damages in the sum of $2,500.

Mr. Wood, who is the defendant, claims that Whitlock and other boarders had signified their preference to have breakfast at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, than an earlier hour. Sunday morning Whitlock and wife came down at about 8:30 o'clock and called for breakfast. He told them that it was impossible as the cooks had been notified to have breakfast at 10 o'clock and they were not present. Whitlock and wife then went out and got breakfast at the Duval House. He spoke to Whitlock about it, saying he was the first man to leave his house in that way, and that he would like to have the room. Whitlock said he would like to keep the room and would get his meals elsewhere. This Mr. Wood says he didn't like, and he at once demanded his rooms, and will in answer, claim he is damaged.

[Boston Travler.]

The Chinese do everything backwards. They exactly reverse the usual order of civilization.

Note first that the Chinese compass points to the south instead of the north. The men carry on dressmaking and the women carry burdens.

The spoken language of China is not written, and the written language is not spoken.

Books are read backward, and what we call foot notes are inserted at the top of the page.

The Chinese surname comes first instead of last.

The Chinese shake their own hands instead of the hands of those they meet.

The Chinese dress in white at funerals, and in mourning at weddings, while old women always serve as bridesmaids.

The Chinese launch their vessels side-ways, and mount their horses from the offside.

The Chinese begin dinner with dessert and end with soup and fish.

AND Mr. Graziana, of Covington, will accept the Master Commissionership of the Kenton Circuit Court, with the understanding, however, that it is not to interfere with his being a candidate for Congress when the time comes. It is wonderful what a sacrifice Mr. Graziana is willing to make that the Democrats of this district may send him to Congress. He will surrender an office worth $3,000 per annum and leave a law practice worth as much or more and accept an office, the salary of which is $5,000 a year, if the people will only permit him to represent them at the national capital. The Democrats of the district could not be induced to knock down a young man before whom fortune is unfolding itself in such a lavish style. The Democrats will remind him that a bird really in the hand is far preferable to one supposed to be in the bush.

PLANTS for SALE.

In order to cultivate my Berry patches more thoroughly next year and not distroy a vast number of fine plants, I will offer at the mere cost of digging and packing

100 Cuthbert Raspberry.
100 Lovett Raspberry.
100 Lovett Blackberry.
100 Erie Blackberry.

Delivered free on board cars at any station in Kentucky or Ohio on receipt of $5.10, or I will send 12 of each kind for $1.00. Direct all orders to

A. H. CLARK, Delhi, Ohio.

C. W. ROBINSON,

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots and Shoes,

ALL KIND OF FEED AND FLOUR IN STOCK,

Agent for Weidler's Germ Food; Also agent for the Jones Fertilizers.

GOOD STABLE IN CONNECTION WITH STORE.

Constance, Ky.

METROPOLITAN COUPE & LIVERY COMPANY.

62 & 64 West Sixth St., Cincinnati, Ohio,

E. H. BAKER, Proprietor

Horses and Vehicles for Hire at Reasonable Rates.
Horses and Second-Hand Buggies for Sale.
Horses Sold on Commission.

Telephone 580.

CHAS. C. FRY. JACOB REIB.

FRY & REIB,

Manufacturers of and Dealers in all kinds of

Marble & Granite Monuments,

HEADSTONES, CORNER POSTS, ETC.,

109 Pike Sreet, - - - COVINGTON, K.

Near C. & O. R. R. Crossing. } Designs Furnished Upon Application.

Some Plain Facts.

Grave errors, injustice, wrongs of greater or less degree, arise from lack of knowledge of the truth, and more frequently from deception.

The most infamous case on record of deception and injustice is the attempt to demonetize silver as a money of final redemption in the United States.

There is no learned judge, skilled lawyer, or court of justice that is capable of reconciling the effort with the constitutional laws that govern the issue of money in this country.

The people have been deceived, officials in power, chosen to administer justice under the laws, have ignored their sworn duty, and given aid to the scheme that has paralyzed industry, reduced property values one-half, and beggared millions.

There is no authority of law, either specific or by inference, by which gold alone is made the only money with which to discharge debts, either public or private. The effort to make it so is unconstitutional and a national calamity.

Plain and ample information, facts, and truth, concerning this almost successful scheme to corner the wealth of the people, is now being printed in the Cincinnati Enquirer, a newspaper which the combined power of money has failed to muzzle or buy.

The Weekly Enquirer is only 75c. a year. The address is Enquirer Company, Cincinnati, O.

Notice.

Having attained an age, and condition of health, that I am no longer able to attend to my business, I appoint Geo. W. Roberts to take charge of it, and enforce settlement and reinvest the money to the best advantage.

NAT HIND, Verona, Ky.

Administrator's Notice.

All persons indebted to the estate of Evan Acra, deceased, must come forward and settle, and all those having claims against said estate must present them to the undersigned, proven according to law.

ASA CASON, Adm'r.

Frankfort & Cincinnati Railway.

Ask for tickets via this line. Schedule of trains in effect March 1, 1897.

East Bound.
Lve. Frankfort..... 6:30 a. m. 3:00 p. m
Arr. Georgetown... 7:20 a. m. 4:15 p. m
West Bound.
Lve. Georgetown... 10:40 a. m 6:30 p. m
Arr. Frankfort..... 11:55 a. m 7:20 p. m

C. D. BERCAW, G. P. A.
Geo. B. Harper, Gen. Supt.
Frankfort, Ky.

H. S. STEVENSON,

Satisfaction Guaranteed!

DENTIST.

Prices Consistent with Good Services Only.

OFFICE:— Rising Sun, Indiana.

R. A. STEELE,

RISING SUN, IND.,

UNDERTAKING.

My Stock and accouterments are unsurpassed, having adult's black hearses and child's white hearse.

Independent of Undertakers' Union.

My prices are reasonable and my friends will tell you I give satisfaction.

FURNITURE

Large Stock of Latest Styles at Lowest Prices.

GIVE ME A CALL.

BOOTS & SHOES

MADE TO ORDER.

Work Strictly First-Class.
Prices to Suit the Times.

Harness, Boots and Shoes Neatly Repaired. Give me a trial.

CHRISTIAN BECKER,
29apt2m Union, Ky.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.

OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.

OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

All The NEWS Worth Reading

Local, State and National

—WILL BE FOUND IN THE—

BOONE CO. RECORDER

Do You Take It? If Not Try it!

$1.50 WILL PAY FOR IT ONE YEAR.

—Now Is The Time to SUBSCRIBE.—